New Deal For Russ Consumer

MOSCOW (UPI) —Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said today the Soviet economy would produce a new deal for the neglected consumer and still bury the West in economic competition.

He said the nation could have more butter, more guns and a bigger basket of nuts and bolts all at once because Soviet communism is a greater economic powerhouse than capitalism.

"We do not regard war as inevitable and therefore stand for economic competition between the two systems," he said, offering vague prospects of more trade with both the United States and Communist China.

The 67-year-old premier delivered a four-hour, 30,000 word report on the economic plan for 1971-75 to the 24th Party Congress, stepping into the spotlight vacated by party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

While Brezhnev's six-hour state-of-the-union speech last Tuesday was televised live, Kosygin spoke only to the 5,000 delegates and visitors in the Kremlin Palace of Congresses. Diplomats said they saw this as another hint of Brezhnev's slight gain in stature as "first among equals" at the Kremlin.

"The main task of the five-year plan is to ensure a considerable rise in the peoples material and cultural level," Kosygin said. "...Never in the history of agriculture and consumer goods production has so much been spent as will now be done."

That was only half of his message. The other half was:

"Heavy industry has been and remains the foundation of the country's economic might ... Our plans of economic development are subordinated to one great goal—the creation of a Communist Society."

The basic figures told the story. Out of 500 billion rubles ($555 billion) to be invested in production over the next five years, heavy industry will get 70 per cnet and consumer-foodstuffs industries 30 per cent.

Still, the promise of the sweet life was emphasized more than it ever has been before.

The plan calls for a slightly fatter rate of growth in consumer industries than in heavy industries, a first for the Soviets.

It promises a 30 per cent boost of income in the pocket by 1975, vast increases in one family apartments, 64 refrigerators per 100 families where there are only 32 now, and 72 television sets and washing machines per 100 families against 52 now in each category.

"When the U.S. imperialists ... are waging a disgraceful, dirty bandit war in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos and helping the aggressors in the Middle East, when tension and the threat of war still exist in the world, we have no right to forget about the need to strengthen our armed forces," Kosygin said.

He announced 80 billion rubles ($88.8 billion) were spent on tanks, guns, missiles and the like since 1966.

Housewives were promised an increase of 60 per cent of the market supply of meat, fish, vegetables, oil and eggs. The sale of garments will rise by 35 per cent and knitted goods 56 per cent.

The housing conditions of 60 million people are to be improved and the houses will be "based on new designs which will provide for a more convenient layout, better amenities and finish."

Kosygin reported targets for

Rep. Boggs Seeks Removal Of Hoover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic leader Hale Boggs charged today the FBI has had him under personal surveillance.

The FBI said the claim was "absolutely, utterly false." Attorney General John N. Mitchell said charges by Boggs against the FBI were "slanderous falsehoods."

Those were among repercussions of a demand by Boggs Monday that Mitchell ask FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to resign. Boggs accused Hoover of "gestapo" police tactics, including tapping of the telephones of some members of Congress.

Boggs was interviewed today on CBS radio.

The Louisiana Democrat said: "I charge categorically that the FBI has had me under surveillance, my personal life. I know it because of reports that have come back to me."

Boggs said today that in a day or two he would expand on his House speech attacking activities by FBI and Hoover.

Besides Mitchell, some congressmen came to Hoover's and the FBI's defense, and some others inserted further comments in today's Congressional Record.

Rep. John R. Rarick, D-La., said, "few around our nation will behold this overreaction from the leftwing without understanding that the latest move against J. Edgar Hoover is a well-organized and coordinated program. " ... If more Americans were as dedicated to the cause of individual liberty under God and a peaceful America as Mr. Hoover, who has dedicated his life to our country, such criticism of J. Edgar Hoover would be branded for what it is—a threat against constitutionally secured freedom."

Rep. John G. Schmitz, R-Calif., said "Mr. Hoover's record ... is unsurpassed. Before we go making unsupportable accusations which impugn the integrity of men whose long and dedicated service to our nation deserve only our admiration and gratitude, let us check the facts."

Boggs made his original charges in a brief, midday speech Monday.

"When the time comes, such as exists now, that the FBI taps the telephones of members of this body and of members of the Senate, when the FBI stations agents on college campuses to infiltrate college fraternities, when the FBI adopts the tactics of the Soviet Union and Hitler's Gestapo, then it is time ... that the present director thereof no longer be the director," Boggs said.

Mitchell issued a statement from Key Biscayne, Fla., where he was vacationing, saying Boggs' should "recant" and "apologize" for his "reckless speech." He denied that the FBI had tapped the telephones of congressmen at any time.

"Mr. Boggs' attack on J. Edgar Hoover consists of slanderous falsehoods and the most vicious kind of namecalling," Mitchell said.

"In comparing the FBI to Hitler's Gestapo, Mr. Boggs has reached a new low in political dialogue."

Boggs said he believed the FBI had been acting in violation of the Bill of Rights.

Ex-Army Boss Backs Calley Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Army's chief of staff at the time of the My Lai slayings suggested today that some critics of the murder conviction of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. seemed to forget that basic treatment of human beings was involved.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, who retired in mid-1968 after four years as chief of staff, said the Army had no alternative to trying Calley. It was clear "something happened" at My Lai and Calley's responsibility was at issue, he said.

Questioned about the possible illegality of any order that could lead to killing unresisting civilians, Johnson said "how to treat human beings" was basic to the issue.

He said each officer in Vietnam is provided a card for his wallet on the subject. "Instructions on how to treat human beings is very specific," he said. " ... This particular point is being ignored."

He was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show, along with a number of other persons in connection with the conviction and life sentence given Calley.

The Calley case —including President Nixon's decision to make a final judgment — continued to be a source of debate inside and outside Congress. These were among developments:

—Col. Oran K. Henderson, commander of the brigade of which Calley's platoon was a part, said "I cannot believe there were evil motives behind what he did." Henderson is accused of attempting to coverup My Lai and the first phase of court-martial proceedings against him resumed this morning at Ft. Meade, Md.

—Seymour M. Hersh, who won a Pulitzer Prize for disclosing the extent of My Lai, said a much deeper inquiry is needed of the incident. "I think Calley may be perfectly guilty of murder, but the premeditation may have been in the White House," Hersh said.

Viets Hit Red Base In Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Black Panther commandos raided a North Vietnamese supply area inside Laos today and a Saigon communique said the troops destroyed a Communist command post in sharp fighting. It was the second such foray since the big offensive into Laos in February.

Elsewhere in the Indochina theater, South Vietnamese defenders fought off an attack by 1,000 North Vietnamese at Tan Canh on the Central Highlands and field reports said 53 Communists were slain in a three-hour battle. Officers at the scene said three South Vietnamese were slain by enemy forces who broke through barbed wire barricades and charged within hand grenade range of the central command post.

Nearby on the highlands, Communist forces early today attacked Fire Base 6 near the Laos border in the 10th such raid in five days. Eleven Communists were reported slain.

The new South Vietnamese foray into Laos came as American and South Vietnamese forces abandoned Khe Sanh, the base in South Vietnam's northwest corner which had served as the forward support base for the big push into Laos which ended late last month.

Saigon reports claimed great success for the 45-day drive against the Communist military supply line known as the Ho Chi Minh Trail but commanders had warned that smaller scale forays would be made to keep the North Vietnamese off balance and prevent new stockpiles of war material from building.

U.S. Army helicopters carried the elite Hac Bao (Black Panther) commandos of South Vietnam's 1st Infantry Division into Laos today, landing them at a North Vietnamese supply base area known as "611." A communique said the South Vietnamese raiders killed 15 North Vietnamese as they raced from the helicopters to the command post in the middle of supply dumps. South Vietnamese casualties were described as "light."

U.S. headquarters in Saigon said there were no reports of any American helicopters lost in the operation. No U.S. casualties were announced.

The size of the Saigon raiding party was not disclosed but military sources said 24 helicopters were involved in flights from the U.S. base at Quang Tri in the northern part of South Vietnam. Normally, a helicopter carries about 10 men.

The operation into Laos today followed a 24-hour commando strike last Wednesday and Thursday which President Nguyen Van Thieu personally announced. It came a week after the last of the 24,000-man South Vietnamese task force which participated in the main campaign withdrew from Laos.

The communique on the raid today said the commandos destroyed nine tons of rice and foodstuffs, 21 assorted weapons and the regimental command post. It was not disclosed whether there were any North Vietnamese in the post at the time.

Base area 611 was the target of the commando strike last week but the South Vietnamese were prevented from landing by heavy Communist antiaircraft fire. It extends about 15 miles along the South Vietnamese Laos border astride the A Shau Valley and as deep as 15 miles inside Laos. The area is south of the operational zone for the major South Vietnamese offensive in February.

The Viet Cong radio said Communist units had been ordered to take the offensive in five coastal provinces of South Vietnam and "rush forward" to attack cities, towns and communications lines.

Two Communist battalions including a newly committed bomb squad attacked Tan Canh, the South Vietnamese headquarters for countering the North Vietnamese "limited" offensive against Fire Support Base No. 6.

Possible Prosecution Of Petitioners Seen

Reed Recall Opponents Probe Fraud Suspicion

Opponents of the recall in the Reed School District today said they may seek prosecution of recall petition circulators for perjury or fraud.

They said that the Committee for Quality Education to Retain Gordon C. Wright yesterday hired a handwriting expert to look into their suspicions that several signatures on the petitions were the work of a single person.

Committee cochairmen Robert D. Hayes and Mrs. Irving Halpren told the Independent-Journal that no decision had been made yet on whether to seek prosecution. Their next step will depend on the findings today of the handwriting expert, they said.

Prosecution sought by the committee also could involve its objections that some persons signing the petitions had failed to write their addresses, as required by the state election code. They also have objected that circulators of these petitions had invalidated all signatures on them by signing affidavits that each signator wrote his own address.

Their challenge on these two points, however, was rejected yesterday by Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino. He cited court decisions backing his conclusion that "all problems involving election laws are to be interpreted so as to give the widest opportunity for the expression of the public will."

His opinion said provision of addresses was "simply a mechanical aid" to the county to verify signatures.

However, a member of the committee backing Wright, Mrs. Chester C. Vargas Jr., told the I-J today that she would not be bound by Godino's opinion. "An infraction of the law is an infraction of the law, and there's too many liberal interpretations of it."

She said that "we have no idea in the world of stopping any recall action, because we feel that now that this thing is out, it should come before the public. However, if in the opinion of our attorney, there have been irregularities, we intend to see that the law is enforced."

Mrs. Vargas has discussed the matter with Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry Herman, but no formal action has been taken by the district attorney's office. Herman could not be reached to comment on the matter.

Mrs. Vargas said she had not discussed the complaints with any other officials "inside the county." Asked to confirm reports she had taken the complaints to the state attorney general's office, she said, "I wouldn't have any statement to make on that."

Mrs. Vargas suggested that the prosecution may be for perjury, but Mrs. Halpern said " 'fraud' may be a better legal term."

Hayes said that legal action was not "as important at this time as other priorities. Right now we've got to beat the recall. It's a matter of assigning priorities."

Prosecution of recall petition circulators, he said, "hasn't necessarily become a policy of the committee."

Proponents of recalling Wright filed 1,629 signatures verified by the county elections office, well over the 1,140 required to get the recall on the ballot.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Igor Fedorovich Stravinsky, the Russian-born composer who fathered modern classical music, died early today in his Manhattan apartment. He was 88.

Stravinsky had been ill with a heart ailment for about a year and was released from Lenox Hill Hospital only a week ago following 13 days of treatment.

Despite circulatory and digestive problems, Stravinsky was active into his mid-80s. At 80, he was still working four to five hours a day and it was not until he was 84 that it became necessary for him to sit down to conduct an orchestra.

Stravinsky suffered a stroke when he was 85. Last April, at the age of 87, he entered Lenox Hill for treatment of his heart ailment. He was released shortly thereafter but was readmitted this past March 18. He was released from the hospital March 30.

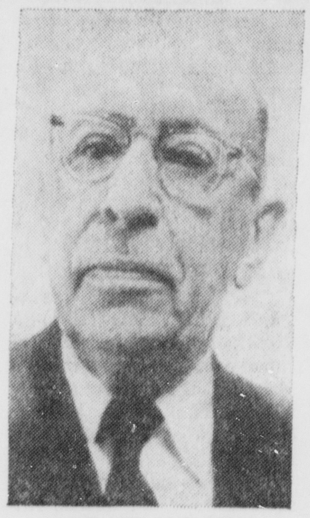
"The Firebird" and "Le Sacre du Printemps" (Rite of Spring) were among the best known of his 35 major works although both were written before the 1920s when he was credited with inventing the neoclassic style.

Stravinsky died at 5:20 a.m. of heart failure. His wife Vera, his longtime associate Robert Craft, his manager of many years, Lillian Libman, and a nurse were with him at the time of death.

Miss Libman said Stravinsky took a 2 1-2 month vacation to France last summer after being released from the hospital and returned very refreshed.

"Two and a half or three months ago he was playing (the piano) and composing very strongly," Miss Libman said.

She said he was in "very good condition" when he was released from the hospital the second time last Tuesday and moved to his new 10-room Fifth Avenue apartment, which was still being decorated at the time of his death. Although he had been feeling well, Stravinsky took a turn for the worse Monday, she said.



IGOR STRAVINSKY
Neo-classic composer

Russian Orthodox services were pending with burial to be at the Russian corner of the San Michael Cemetery in Venice, Italy.

Stravinsky's music was avante-garde but adhered to basic principles of structure. His style did not change radically during his career but it made its mark on younger composers whose work was more radical and less controlled. In a sense, the Stravinsky personality is reflected in the character of all modern classical music.

"Old age is a time of humiliations, the most disagreeable of which, for me, is that I cannot work long at sustained high pressure with no leaks in concentration," Stravinsky told an interviewer when he was 85. He had just completed a concert tour which included Miami, Beverly Hills, Seattle and Honolulu and garnered him rave reviews.

Stravinsky was born June 17, 1882, in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad. His father was the leading bass singer at the Imperial Opera but he wanted his son to study law.

Stravinsky was sent to the University of St. Petersburg with that end in mind but he continued to study music on the side and showed some of his early compositions to composer Nikolai Rimsky-Korsakov who encouraged him to continue.

When Stravinsky graduated, he decided to devote himself entirely to music and became Rimsky-Korsakov's pupil. After writing a sonata, a symphony and two more orchestral works, Stravinsky came to the attention of Sergei Diaghilev who commissioned him to do a ballet.

"The Firebird" was the result and it premiered in Paris in 1910 to be followed by "Petrouchka" in 1911 and "Rite of Spring" in 1913, the latter gaining fame as Stravinsky's most original work.

"Stravinsky in that work realizes in sound a world of feeling with which it is possible to identify oneself," a critic wrote in 1965.

Walt Disney chose "Le Sacre du Printemps" as the music to use to describe the reign and fall of the dinosaurs in the celebrated cartoon feature, "Fantasia," in the early 1940s.

In 1913, critics who attended the composition's premiere in Paris sounded a different note, however, one dubbing the piece the "Massacre of Spring."

The work opens with a bassoon note played in a high register. Composer Camille St. Saens was reported to have shouted: "There is no such instrument," and stormed from the concert hall. Boos and cat calls filled the hall and Stravinsky fled through a back door when police arrived to quell the disturbance.

New Deal For Russ Consumer

MOSCOW (UPI) —Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said today the Soviet economy would produce a new deal for the neglected consumer and still bury the West in economic competition.

He said the nation could have more butter, more guns and a bigger basket of nuts and bolts all at once because Soviet communism is a greater economic powerhouse than capitalism.

"We do not regard war as inevitable and therefore stand for economic competition between the two systems," he said, offering vague prospects of more trade with both the United States and Communist China.

The 67-year-old premier delivered a four-hour, 30,000 word report on the economic plan for 1971-75 to the 24th Party Congress, stepping into the spotlight vacated by party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

While Brezhnev's six-hour state-of-the-union speech last Tuesday was televised live, Kosygin spoke only to the 5,000 delegates and visitors in the Kremlin Palace of Congresses. Diplomats said they saw this as another hint of Brezhnev's slight gain in stature as "first among equals" at the Kremlin.

"The main task of the five-year plan is to ensure a considerable rise in the peoples material and cultural level," Kosygin said. "...Never in the history of agriculture and consumer goods production has so much been spent as will now be done."

That was only half of his message. The other half was:

"Heavy industry has been and remains the foundation of the country's economic might ... Our plans of economic development are subordinated to one great goal—the creation of a Communist Society."

The basic figures told the story. Out of 500 billion rubles ($555 billion) to be invested in production over the next five years, heavy industry will get 70 per cnet and consumer-foodstuffs industries 30 per cent.

Still, the promise of the sweet life was emphasized more than it ever has been before.

The plan calls for a slightly fatter rate of growth in consumer industries than in heavy industries, a first for the Soviets.

It promises a 30 per cent boost of income in the pocket by 1975, vast increases in one family apartments, 64 refrigerators per 100 families where there are only 32 now, and 72 television sets and washing machines per 100 families against 52 now in each category.

"When the U.S. imperialists ... are waging a disgraceful, dirty bandit war in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos and helping the aggressors in the Middle East, when tension and the threat of war still exist in the world, we have no right to forget about the need to strengthen our armed forces," Kosygin said.

He announced 80 billion rubles ($88.8 billion) were spent on tanks, guns, missiles and the like since 1966.

Housewives were promised an increase of 60 per cent of the market supply of meat, fish, vegetables, oil and eggs. The sale of garments will rise by 35 per cent and knitted goods 56 per cent.

The housing conditions of 60 million people are to be improved and the houses will be "based on new designs which will provide for a more convenient layout, better amenities and finish."

Rep. Boggs Seeks Removal Of Hoover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic leader Hale Boggs charged today the FBI has had him under personal surveillance.

The FBI said the claim was "absolutely, utterly false." Attorney General John N. Mitchell said charges by Boggs against the FBI were "slanderous falsehoods."

Those were among repercussions of a demand by Boggs Monday that Mitchell ask FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to resign. Boggs accused Hoover of "gestapo" police tactics, including tapping of the telephones of some members of Congress.

Boggs was interviewed today on CBS radio.

The Louisiana Democrat said: "I charge categorically that the FBI has had me under surveillance, my personal life. I know it because of reports that have come back to me."

Boggs said today that in a day or two he would expand on his House speech attacking activities by FBI and Hoover.

Besides Mitchell, some congressmen came to Hoover's and the FBI's defense, and some others inserted further comments in today's Congressional Record.

Rep. John R. Rarick, D-La., said, "few around our nation will behold this overreaction from the leftwing without understanding that the latest move against J. If more Americans were as dedicated to the cause of individual liberty under God and a peaceful America as Mr. Hoover, who has dedicated his life to our country, such criticism of J. Rep. John G. Schmitz, R-Calif., said "Mr. Hoover's record ... is unsurpassed. Before we go making unsupportable accusations which impugn the integrity of men whose long and dedicated service to our nation deserve only our admiration and gratitude, let us check the facts."

"When the time comes, such as exists now, that the FBI taps the telephones of members of this body and of members of the Senate, when the FBI stations agents on college campuses to infiltrate college fraternities, when the FBI adopts the tactics of the Soviet Union and Hitler's Gestapo, then it is time ... that the present director thereof no longer be the director," Boggs said.

Mitchell issued a statement from Key Biscayne, Fla., where he was vacationing, saying Boggs' should "recant" and "apologize" for his "reckless speech." He denied that the FBI had tapped the telephones of congressmen at any time.

"Mr. Boggs' attack on J. Edgar Hoover consists of slanderous falsehoods and the most vicious kind of namecalling," Mitchell said.

"In comparing the FBI to Hitler's Gestapo, Mr. Boggs has reached a new low in political dialogue."

Boggs said he believed the FBI had been acting in violation of the Bill of Rights.

Ex-Army Boss Backs Calley Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Army's chief of staff at the time of the My Lai slayings suggested today that some critics of the murder conviction of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. seemed to forget that basic treatment of human beings was involved.

Viets Hit Red Base In Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Black Panther commandos raided a North Vietnamese supply area inside Laos today and a Saigon communique said the troops destroyed a Communist command post in sharp fighting. It was the second such foray since the big offensive into Laos in February.

Elsewhere in the Indochina theater, South Vietnamese defenders fought off an attack by 1,000 North Vietnamese at Tan Canh on the Central Highlands and field reports said 53 Communists were slain in a three-hour battle. Officers at the scene said three South Vietnamese were slain by enemy forces who broke through barbed wire barricades and charged within hand grenade range of the central command post.

Nearby on the highlands, Communist forces early today attacked Fire Base 6 near the Laos border in the 10th such raid in five days. Eleven Communists were reported slain.

The new South Vietnamese foray into Laos came as American and South Vietnamese forces abandoned Khe Sanh, the base in South Vietnam's northwest corner which had served as the forward support base for the big push into Laos which ended late last month.

Saigon reports claimed great success for the 45-day drive against the Communist military supply line known as the Ho Chi Minh Trail but commanders had warned that smaller scale forays would be made to keep the North Vietnamese off balance and prevent new stockpiles of war material from building.

U.S. Army helicopters carried the elite Hac Bao (Black Panther) commandos of South Vietnam's 1st Infantry Division into Laos today, landing them at a North Vietnamese supply base area known as "611." A communique said the South Vietnamese raiders killed 15 North Vietnamese as they raced from the helicopters to the command post in the middle of supply dumps. South Vietnamese casualties were described as "light."

U.S. headquarters in Saigon said there were no reports of any American helicopters lost in the operation. No U.S. casualties were announced.

The size of the Saigon raiding party was not disclosed but military sources said 24 helicopters were involved in flights from the U.S. base at Quang Tri in the northern part of South Vietnam. Normally, a helicopter carries about 10 men.

The operation into Laos today followed a 24-hour commando strike last Wednesday and Thursday which President Nguyen Van Thieu personally announced. It came a week after the last of the 24,000-man South Vietnamese task force which participated in the main campaign withdrew from Laos.

The communique on the raid today said the commandos destroyed nine tons of rice and foodstuffs, 21 assorted weapons and the regimental command post. It was not disclosed whether there were any North Vietnamese in the post at the time.

Base area 611 was the target of the commando strike last week but the South Vietnamese were prevented from landing by heavy Communist antiaircraft fire. It extends about 15 miles along the South Vietnamese Laos border astride the A Shau Valley and as deep as 15 miles inside Laos. The area is south of the operational zone for the major South Vietnamese offensive in February.

The Viet Cong radio said Communist units had been ordered to take the offensive in five coastal provinces of South Vietnam and "rush forward" to attack cities, towns and communications lines.

Two Communist battalions including a newly committed bomb squad attacked Tan Canh, the South Vietnamese headquarters for countering the North Vietnamese "limited" offensive against Fire Support Base No. 6.

Possible Prosecution Of Petitioners Seen

Reed Recall Opponents Probe Fraud Suspicion

Opponents of the recall in the Reed School District today said they may seek prosecution of recall petition circulators for perjury or fraud.

They said that the Committee for Quality Education to Retain Gordon C. Wright yesterday hired a handwriting expert to look into their suspicions that several signatures on the petitions were the work of a single person.

Committee cochairmen Robert D. Hayes and Mrs. Irving Halpren told the Independent-Journal that no decision had been made yet on whether to seek prosecution. Their next step will depend on the findings today of the handwriting expert, they said.

Prosecution sought by the committee also could involve its objections that some persons signing the petitions had failed to write their addresses, as required by the state election code. They also have objected that circulators of these petitions had invalidated all signatures on them by signing affidavits that each signator wrote his own address.

Their challenge on these two points, however, was rejected yesterday by Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino. He cited court decisions backing his conclusion that "all problems involving election laws are to be interpreted so as to give the widest opportunity for the expression of the public will."

His opinion said provision of addresses was "simply a mechanical aid" to the county to verify signatures.

However, a member of the committee backing Wright, Mrs. Chester C. Vargas Jr., told the I-J today that she would not be bound by Godino's opinion. "An infraction of the law is an infraction of the law, and there's too many liberal interpretations of it."

She said that "we have no idea in the world of stopping any recall action, because we feel that now that this thing is out, it should come before the public. However, if in the opinion of our attorney, there have been irregularities, we intend to see that the law is enforced."

Mrs. Vargas has discussed the matter with Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry Herman, but no formal action has been taken by the district attorney's office. Herman could not be reached to comment on the matter.

Mrs. Vargas said she had not discussed the complaints with any other officials "inside the county." Asked to confirm reports she had taken the complaints to the state attorney general's office, she said, "I wouldn't have any statement to make on that."

Mrs. Vargas suggested that the prosecution may be for perjury, but Mrs. Halpern said " 'fraud' may be a better legal term."

Hayes said that legal action was not "as important at this time as other priorities. Right now we've got to beat the recall. It's a matter of assigning priorities."

Prosecution of recall petition circulators, he said, "hasn't necessarily become a policy of the committee."

Proponents of recalling Wright filed 1,629 signatures verified by the county elections office, well over the 1,140 required to get the recall on the ballot.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Igor Fedorovich Stravinsky, the Russian-born composer who fathered modern classical music, died early today in his Manhattan apartment. He was 88.

Stravinsky had been ill with a heart ailment for about a year and was released from Lenox Hill Hospital only a week ago following 13 days of treatment.

Despite circulatory and digestive problems, Stravinsky was active into his mid-80s. At 80, he was still working four to five hours a day and it was not until he was 84 that it became necessary for him to sit down to conduct an orchestra.

Stravinsky suffered a stroke when he was 85. Last April, at the age of 87, he entered Lenox Hill for treatment of his heart ailment. He was released shortly thereafter but was readmitted this past March 18. He was released from the hospital March 30.

"The Firebird" and "Le Sacre du Printemps" (Rite of Spring) were among the best known of his 35 major works although both were written before the 1920s when he was credited with inventing the neo-classic style.

Stravinsky died at 5:20 a.m. of heart failure. His wife Vera, his longtime associate Robert Craft, his manager of many years, Lillian Libman, and a nurse were with him at the time of death.

Miss Libman said Stravinsky took a 2 1-2 month vacation to France last summer after being released from the hospital and returned very refreshed.

"Two and a half or three months ago he was playing (the piano) and composing very strongly," Miss Libman said.

She said he was in "very good condition" when he was released from the hospital the second time last Tuesday and moved to his new 10-room Fifth Avenue apartment, which was still being decorated at the time of his death. Although he had been feeling well, Stravinsky took a turn for the worse Monday, she said.

Russian Orthodox services were pending with burial to be at the Russian corner of the San Michael Cemetery in Venice, Italy.

Stravinsky's music was avante-garde but adhered to basic principles of structure. His style did not change radically during his career but it made its mark on younger composers whose work was more radical and less controlled. In a sense, the Stravinsky personality is reflected in the character of all modern classical music.

"Old age is a time of humiliations, the most disagreeable of which, for me, is that I cannot work long at sustained high pressure with no leaks in concentration," Stravinsky told an interviewer when he was 85. He had just completed a concert tour which included Miami, Beverly Hills, Seattle and Honolulu and garnered him rave reviews.

Stravinsky was born June 17, 1882, in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad. His father was the leading bass singer at the Imperial Opera but he wanted his son to study law.

Stravinsky was sent to the University of St. Petersburg with that end in mind but he continued to study music on the side and showed some of his early compositions to composer Nikolai Rimsky-Korsakov who encouraged him to continue.

When Stravinsky graduated, he decided to devote himself entirely to music and became Rimsky-Korsakov's pupil. After writing a sonata, a symphony and two more orchestral works, Stravinsky came to the attention of Sergei Diaghilev who commissioned him to do a ballet.

"The Firebird" was the result and it premiered in Paris in 1910 to be followed by "Petrouchka" in 1911 and "Rite of Spring" in 1913, the latter gaining fame as Stravinsky's most original work.

"Stravinsky in that work realizes in sound a world of feeling with which it is possible to identify oneself," a critic wrote in 1965.

Walt Disney chose "Le Sacre du Printemps" as the music to use to describe the reign and fall of the dinosaurs in the celebrated cartoon feature, "Fantasia," in the early 1940s.

In 1913, critics who attended the composition's premiere in Paris sounded a different note, however, one dubbing the piece the "Massacre of Spring."

The work opens with a bassoon note played in a high register. Composer Camille St. Saens was reported to have shouted: "There is no such instrument," and stormed from the concert hall. Boos and cat calls filled the hall and Stravinsky fled through a back door when police arrived to quell the disturbance.

A-Ban Veto

GENEVA (UPI)—The Soviet Union today followed the United States in rejecting proposals for a preliminary ban on large, underground, nuclear tests.

Britain and Canada suggested such a ban when the Geneva Disarmament Conference began its 1971 session in February. They said it would be one way of helping resolve the deadlock between the United States and the Soviet Union over what underground tests can and cannot be detected at long range by seismological instruments.

The United States, which argues that such instruments are unable to detect low-yield explosions, insists on on-site inspections to police an underground test ban.

Soviet disarmament negotiator Alexei A. Roshchin rejected the idea today on the ground that, while large tests would be prohibited, the smaller explosions "would in fact be legalized."

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—One of deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk's sons, Norodom Naradipho, 25, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment with hard labor by a military tribunal in Phnom Penh today after he was found guilty of high treason.

Regime's Timetable

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — President Alejandro Lanusse and his ruling military junta ordered the Interior Ministry Monday to begin preparations to return Argentina to constitutional civilian government by summer or autumn of 1973.

The military has been in power since June, 1966. Lanusse, himself, took over as president only two weeks ago.

Edgardo Sajon, Lanusse's press secretary, said the President intends to turn over control of the government to elected representatives no later than Oct. 12, 1973.

Lanusse's government had announced late last week that it was legalizing political parties, which had been banned for the past five years. Monday, Interior Minister Arturo Mor Roig met with representatives of Argentina's largest two political parties, Ricard Balbin, president of the Radical party, and Jorge Daniel Paladino, representative of former dictator Juan D. Peron.

London Traffic Jam

LONDON (UPI) —Thousands of commuters, skirting a railroad work-to-rule called in support of wage demands, abandoned train travel today and drove to London in a traffic swarm that threatened to swamp the British capital.

"At this rate there will be no space left in the central (London) area," a spokesman for the Royal Automobile Club (RAC) said as traffic piled up at road intersections leading to the city.

The southern region of British Railways which normally carries the bulk of London's commuter traffic canceled 19 morning rush hour trains.

But "things look more encouraging than yesterday," a railway spokesman said, adding that main line and suburban services were running about 10 minutes late.

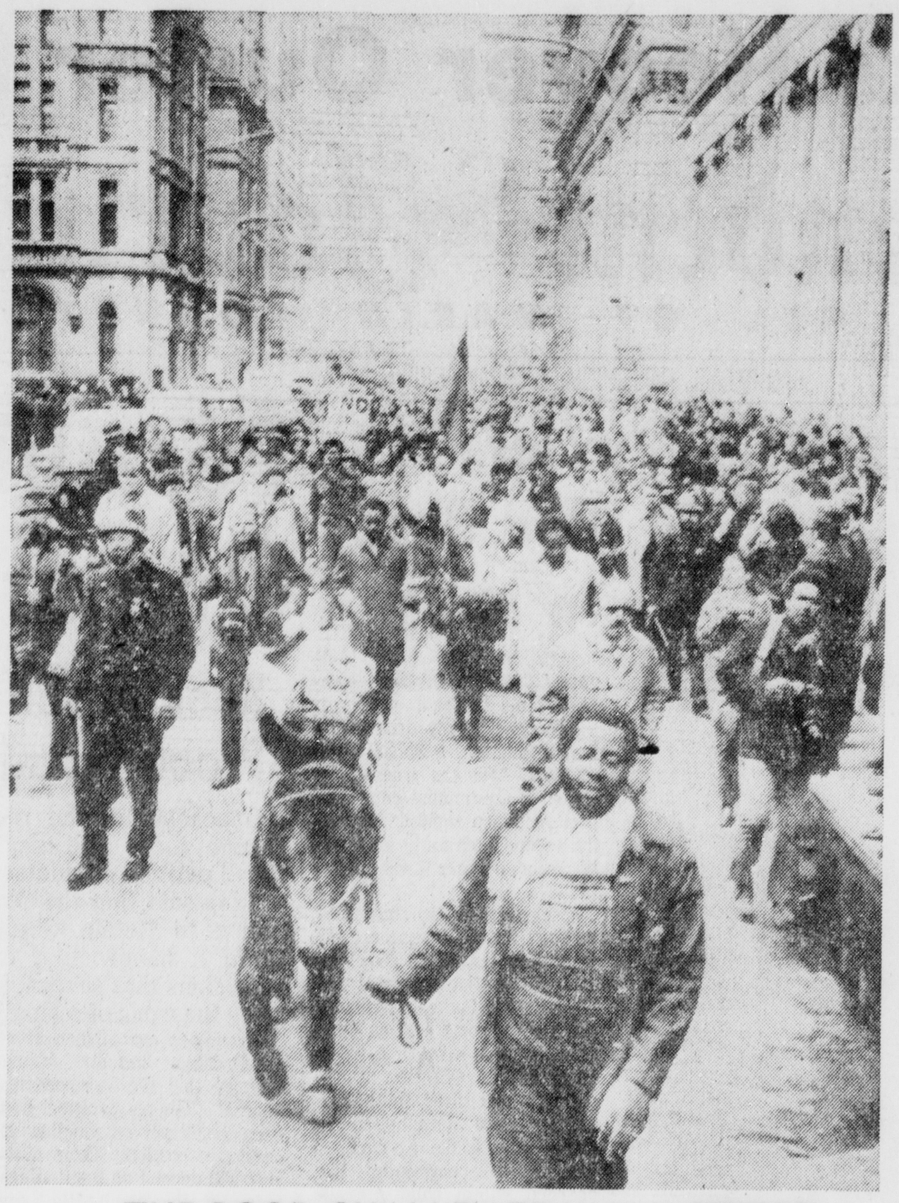
Klein's Confidence

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —President Nixon will be a candidate for re-election in 1972 and he will win, White House Communications Director Herbert G. Klein says.

Klein, a long-time Nixon aide, told a news conference Monday all indications were the economy is strengthened and unemployment has stabilized. "We believe the economy is getting stronger," he said.

He said public opinion polls have shown President Nixon running ahead of the three leading possibilities for the Democratic nomination, Sens. Edmund Muskie, George McGovern and Ted Kennedy.

Here to address a meeting of the World Affairs Council, Klein said the American people have been receiving nebulous news reports of the Laos invasion. Klein said President Nixon will answer questions about the Laos operation Wednesday night in a nationally televised speech.



THE POOR CHALLENGE WALL STREET

About 4,000 persons marching down Wall Street behind a mule train in a poor people's demonstration for guaranteed annual income yesterday heard George Wiley, head of the National Welfare Rights Organization, declare "We are here today to serve notice on the barons, the brokers and the bankers of Wall Street that poor people are on the march." David Dellinger, a radical member of the "Chicago Seven" group, said the march was a "preview" of a "spring offensive" against war and racism.

Police Seize Arsenal In Radical Den

RICHMOND (UPI) — Police have seized an arsenal of weapons in a raid on a "headquarters for revolutionary activity" in this San Francisco Bay Area suburb.

Police Chief Robert Murphy said Monday an electric typewriter believed to be stolen from the Washington office of Defense Secretary Melvin Laird was also recovered in the raid which resulted in 10 arrests.

In nearby Berkeley, where a bitterly contested election involving radical candidates is being held today, police were puzzled over the discovery of a cache of dynamite in a garage.

Berkeley police were directed to the 100 sticks of dynamite by a letter mailed to the Associated Press in San Francisco stating that the dynamite was to be used "to destroy the Berkeley pig station."

Richmond police raided the house where the weapons and Defense Department typewriter were found as a result of a tip that a quantity of dynamite had been sold to the residents.

Police raided the house last week but found no dynamite.

Pakistan's Warning On India Movements

NEW DELHI (UPI)—President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan of Pakistan today accused India of moving troops up to the frontier in what he termed a direct threat to Pakistan's security. Yahya warned he will not permit any foreign power to interfere in the revolt by the east wing of the divided nation.

The government-controlled Radio Pakistan, in a news broadcast monitored in neighboring India today, quoted Yahya as having said India sent the equivalent of six army divisions, or about 60,000 men, into West Bengal state on the border with East Pakistan.

The radio said the charges were contained in Yahya's reply to a message from Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny who had urged an end to the bloodshed in East Pakistan. There have been reports, unsubstantiated because the foreign press has been expelled, of thousands of casualties in East Pakistan in the civil war.

At latest report, Indian diplomatic sources said the East Pakistani rebel army was believed to be in control of most of the rural areas in the country's northern section, while federal troops still held most of the towns and cities.

Foreign governments have been evacuating their nationals from East Pakistan. The latest planeload, 157 evacuees including 110 Americans, arrived Monday in Karachi, West Pakistan. An American embassy spokesman said it was expected that about 650 of the remaining 750 Americans would be brought out of East Pakistan in the next few days.

Pakistan repeatedly has charged interference by India in the revolt by East Pakistan, which is separated from the western part of the nation by 1,000 miles of Indian territory. The Indian government has denied the charges.

Petition On High Rises Filed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Alvin Duskin, the crusading San Francisco dressmaker, yesterday filed 50,000 signatures on a petition calling for a special election in June to limit all new construction in the city to a maximum height of six stories.

"We want the special election as soon as possible," said Duskin on the City Hall steps, "as soon as possible after Memorial Day."

Duskin said opposition to his proposal would come from developers and realtors. "One fifth of San Francisco citizens want the high rise issue to go on a ballot," he said.

The number of signatures required to put an issue on the ballot for a special election is 10 per cent of the vote in the last mayoral election. Signatures on the petition filed by Duskin represent more than one-fifth of that vote, he said.

"It was easy and we can get more signatures," Duskin said. "We got all these signatures in five weekends and had fun doing it. We got 5,000 every Saturday. They are now being studied, but we can go out and get more at any time. The people want this vote."

Duskin spoke before newsmen and TV cameramen on steps of the City Hall following registration of his petition. Supporters carried placards carrying the legend, "Stop them from burying our city under a skyline of tombstones."

Trio Held In Fatal Shooting Of Young Star

VALLEJO (UPI) —Three Martinez youths are being held in Solano County Jail on murder charges in the fatal shooting of a 17-year-old Benicia High School star football linebacker.

Held in the shooting were Jimmy Edward Silva, 20; William Collen King, 18; and Peter Vega, 17.

Deputy District Attorney Charles Mayerherm said Martinez had argued earlier with the three, who returned in a car. The fatal shot at Martinez ensued. What caused the argument was not known.

Angela's Escape Plan: Testimony

Robert Loman, a prosecution witness at the opening of Poindexter's trial for allegedly harboring Miss Davis, claimed the defendant had given him money to buy a Cadillac that would be used to drive the California fugitive from Chicago to Detroit, and then to Canada.

Loman testified Poindexter gave him money for the downpayment and the monthly payments on the luxury car, but said he later decided he didn't want to become entangled in the alleged scheme. "It was registered in my name," Loman said, "and I didn't want to become involved."

The witness, a carting company employe who lives in the same luxury apartment building in Chicago where Poindexter maintains a $310-a-month 20th floor apartment, said he was introduced to Miss Davis, a Communist, last Aug. 15.

The alleged meeting took place eight days after a courthouse shooting in San Rafael, in which Judge Harold J. Haley died. Miss Davis disappeared shortly after the shooting and has been charged with buying the guns used by convicts in an attempt to shoot their way out of the building.

Miss Davis and Poindexter were arrested together in New York City last October following a nationwide search for the California woman.

Californian Asks New Prison Reforms

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A California Congressman, citing a Death Row inmate at San Quentin who charges the state's prisons are "the most monstrous system ever designed," has called for new efforts in prison reform.

Rep. Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif., placed into the Congressional record Monday a letter he received from Robert Massie, condemned to death six years ago.

The Congressman said he talked to Massie recently during a visit to San Quentin and feels the condemned man wrote the letter "to make known what he feels are a few of the more glaring abuses of the sorely neglected and cruelly dehumanizing penal system."

"It is one more item of evidence to substantiate the conclusion of the President's Violence Commission that the present criminal justice system 'does not deter, does not detect, does not convict, does not correct'," Bell told the House of Representatives.

Massie, who has served 15 years in prisons, was convicted May 5, 1965, of the first degree murder of a woman during an armed robbery in San Gabriel.

In his letter to Bell, Massie said he had given up efforts to have his sentence reduced and hopes he will be "one of the first to be executed when the U.S. Supreme Court terminates the en masse delay of executions."

Because of this, Bell said he feels Massie's suggestions are "not self-serving but an earnest effort to serve any fellow men."

In his letter, Massie said "Contrary to the myth circulated by propaganda that California has the most advanced penal system, this is the most monstrous system ever devised.

"Systematized dehumanization is clearly manifested by the repugnant behavior of multitudes of ex-prisoners that are daily spewed back into free society."

Among the condemned man's suggestions for reform were:

—Acknowledgment that prisoners have "constitutional and human rights."

—Segregation of psychopaths and psychotics from other prisoners.

—Elimination of incompetent and sadistic prison guards.

Deadline Near On Exemption

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — April 15 is the deadline for homeowners to file for their $750 assessed property valuation exemption, state Board of Equalization member William M. Bennett of Kentfield warned today.

Homeowners who have not already received an exemption claim form by mail from the county assessor's office should contact the assessor immediately to obtain the form, Bennett advised.

Southern Span Veto To State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A majority of the Board of Supervisors wrote state officials Monday that they favor a delay in construction of another bridge across San Francisco Bay.

A letter, signed by seven supervisors, also informed officials that a board majority disagreed with a suggestion that a vote be taken on whether to build the so-called Southern Crossing between San Francisco and Alameda County.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has vetoed a bill from the Legislature which would have delayed construction on the span.

Loman testified Poindexter gave him money for the downpayment and the monthly payments on the luxury car, but said he later decided he didn't want to become entangled in the alleged scheme. "It was registered in my name," Loman said, "and I didn't want to become involved."

The witness, a carting company employe who lives in the same luxury apartment building in Chicago where Poindexter maintains a $310-a-month 20th floor apartment, said he was introduced to Miss Davis, a Communist, last Aug. 15.

The alleged meeting took place eight days after a courthouse shooting in San Rafael, in which Judge Harold J. Haley died. Miss Davis disappeared shortly after the shooting and has been charged with buying the guns used by convicts in an attempt to shoot their way out of the building.

Miss Davis and Poindexter were arrested together in New York City last October following a nationwide search for the California woman.

Californian Asks New Prison Reforms

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A California Congressman, citing a Death Row inmate at San Quentin who charges the state's prisons are "the most monstrous system ever designed," has called for new efforts in prison reform.

Rep. Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif., placed into the Congressional record Monday a letter he received from Robert Massie, condemned to death six years ago.

The Congressman said he talked to Massie recently during a visit to San Quentin and feels the condemned man wrote the letter "to make known what he feels are a few of the more glaring abuses of the sorely neglected and cruelly dehumanizing penal system."

"It is one more item of evidence to substantiate the conclusion of the President's Violence Commission that the present criminal justice system 'does not deter, does not detect, does not convict, does not correct'," Bell told the House of Representatives.

Massie, who has served 15 years in prisons, was convicted May 5, 1965, of the first degree murder of a woman during an armed robbery in San Gabriel.

In his letter to Bell, Massie said he had given up efforts to have his sentence reduced and hopes he will be "one of the first to be executed when the U.S. Supreme Court terminates the en masse delay of executions."

Because of this, Bell said he feels Massie's suggestions are "not self-serving but an earnest effort to serve any fellow men."

In his letter, Massie said "Contrary to the myth circulated by propaganda that California has the most advanced penal system, this is the most monstrous system ever devised.

"Systematized dehumanization is clearly manifested by the repugnant behavior of multitudes of ex-prisoners that are daily spewed back into free society."

Among the condemned man's suggestions for reform were:

—Acknowledgment that prisoners have "constitutional and human rights."

—Segregation of psychopaths and psychotics from other prisoners.

—Elimination of incompetent and sadistic prison guards.

Strokes Seen As The Major Problem

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dr. A.B. Baker, president mf the American Neurological Association, predicts strokes will become the world's biggest health problem unless new types of research and greatly expanded treatment programs are instituted.

According to Baker, about 200,000 persons die in the United States annually from strokes—more fatalities than from any other source except heart disease and cancer. Another 600,000 are disabled by strokes.

Mountain Search For Missing Man

Sheriff's deputies and park rangers were searching today for a 69-year-old man who disappeared Sunday afternoon after attending a wedding ceremony for his stepson on Mt. Tamalpais.

Authorities were trying to locate Eugene K. West of Salt Lake City. West was last seen at about 4 p.m. Sunday following an outdoor wedding at an amphitheater on the mountain.

West's wife, Mona, told authorities he had said he was going to a lavatory. Another relative reported West said he was going home to Utah when chatting minutes later in a nearby parking lot.

West had come to the ceremony with relatives and could not drive. According to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Keith West of Hayward, he had suffered several strokes which caused brain damage and he was often forgetful.

The sister-in-law was critical today of the Marin sheriff's investigation and said she and her husband, Dr. Keith West, will fly a family plane over the dense mountain region again today. Yesterday they flew over the area for three hours. "It was really hopeless," Mrs. West said. "The brush is so thick."

The missing man was described as about five feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, with white hair and glasses. When last seen he was wearing a tan and brown sports jacket, pale tan slacks, a blue shirt and brown shoes and socks.

His wife is staying with a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowman of Castro Valley while the search continues.

Nixon Asks New Education Funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon asked Congress today to consolidate more than 30 federal aid to education programs into a $3 billion revenue sharing package.

He said that would allow local authorities to "make the hard decisions about the best ways to educate their children."

The proposal, last of six special presidential revenue sharing measures forming what he calls a "new American federalism," would combine $2.8 billion worth of existing federal programs and $200 million in new money.

Nixon said more than half of the total $3 billion proposed for the first year would go to providing compensatory education for disadvantaged children.

States would have the authority to transfer up to 30 per cent of the funds from one of five broad categories to another except funds directed to the disadvantaged.

Nixon said his proposal would preserve all existing safeguards against racial discrimination. He proposed a specific requirement for states to certify that services provided in all schools within a single district be fully comparable.

Nixon renewed his proposal of last year for a national institute to develop research and experimentation in education similar to the federal government's efforts in agriculture and medicine.

He said the institute, coupled with the $1.5 billion emergency school aid act proposed last May to help meet special problems of desegregating schools, would "represent a bold new approach to fulfilling the federal role in education and in meeting the educational needs of the 1970s."

Nixon's message to the House and Senate said the new system, to take effect in July, 1972, would eliminate a maze of red tape that now requires a vast effort by local school boards. It would eliminate 97 applications required under the current system of federal education grants.

"The time, energy and imagination needed to bring educational reform is frequently drained off into what is an essentially nonproductive effort to qualify for government grants," the President said.

The new plan would provide greater accountability and more rigidly define the lines of responsibility in local educational programs, which now take more than 40 per cent of the revenues of state and local governments.

The federal funds would be distributed on the basis of a statutory formula taking into account the total school age population in each state, the number of students from low income families and the number of students whose parents work or live on federal property.

Under Nixon's proposal, only two states, California and Ohio, would receive more money in fiscal 1972 than they receive now. The proposal would assure that each state received at least the same amount of education funds it received this fiscal year.

California's apportionment would increase from $261,451,000 to $263,136,000 and Ohio's from $100,794,000 to $101,819,000.

Training Complaint Is Probed

Overzealous and harsh Army reserve training at Two Rock Ranch Army Station west of Petaluma is under investigation by Army commanders.

A company of 25 to 39 men from the 353rd Batallion complained to officers that they had been subjected to unusually harsh treatment Saturday night, including being dumped in stagnant water while chained to logs. They said they were also required to sit outdoors naked and were subjected to rope and electrical burns.

Col. Lawrence Doyle, information officer for the 351st Civil Affairs General Officers Command said he was not sure what the training was supposed to cover, but said an intensive investigation into the alleged mistreatment was being conducted and should be completed within a week.

He said unit personnel involved in the alleged misdeeds have been relieved of their assigned duties pending completion of the investigation. He said names of those involved were not being released.

Reservists complained that they had been divided into two forces — aggressors and defenders — and were told they were being trained on how to survive if they should fall into enemy hands.

Contract For Prison Teachers

The Marin County Board of Education last night accepted a $263,605 contract from the state department of corrections to provide teachers for San Quentin Prison.

The county schools office provides the prison with 13 full time instructors and about 20 part-time teachers for night classes according to Byron W. Mauzy, assistant superintendent.

The contract is about $11,000 less than that accepted last year for fiscal 1970-71, Mauzy said.

Pilot Plan On Waste Treatment

A pilot waste treatment program which ultimately could result in Marin's first tertiary sewage treatment plant will be installed during the next two weeks at the Tiburon Sanitary District's Paradise Drive plant.

Bertram J. Talbot, secretary of the sanitary district, said the experimental plant is being installed without cost by Zimpro, Inc., a Wisconsin-based designer and manufacturer of treatment plants.

The pilot model, which uses an activated carbon filter process, will treat only part of the district's flow of 750,000 gallons of effluent a day. If it proves successful, Talbot said, the district hopes to convert its entire plant to the process. Such conversion would cost in excess of $1 million.

Effluent treated by the process, it is hoped, will be free of impurities, said Talbot, and well able to meet new discharge requirements which may be imposed by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Plant Supt. John McFarlane said Zimpro has about six such plants across the country. Members of the regional board have been invited to inspect the plant when it is finished in about two weeks.

McFarlane also said a study just completed by Corollo Engineers of Oakland shows that virtually all of the district's effluent, which is discharged into Raccoon Strait, goes out the Golden Gate and not into Richardson Bay.

Dye tests proved that only minute quantities of the outfall find their way to the lower part of Richardson Bay and none penetrates to the Richardson Bay Bridge or to the Strawberry Peninsula, McFarlane said.

The test results confirm the district's contention that it should not be covered by the same strict discharge requirements applied to Mill Valley and the Richardson Bay and Sausalito-Marin City sanitary districts, all of which discharge into Richardson Bay.

A cease and desist order against Richardson Bay and Mill Valley is being contemplated by the regional board, and the Tiburon district hopes to use the dispersion test results to convince the regional board not to set the same requirements for Tiburon.

in this nation is the Bill of Rights," Boggs said. "We are a great country because we are a free country. The way Mr. Hoover is running the country today is no longer a free country."

Boggs said he was "astonished" to read Mitchell said Hoover should stay on because he is a law and order man.

"If law and order means the suppression of the Bill of Rights, infiltration of college campuses, the tapping of the telephones of members of Congress of the United States, then I say 'God, help us,'" Boggs said.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., also criticized Boggs' remarks, saying the Louisiana congressman's statement about Gestapo tactics was "not a fair allegation."

Madman Ends Threat To Kill His Children

CO USANCES-LESFORGES, France (UPI) — Denis Job, a mentally deranged father of 12, surrendered to authorities today four days after he killed his wife and then kept police at bay with threats to massacre his children.

Five of the 12 children were still with Job when he left the former railroad station that was his home and surrendered to authorities. Police said they were all safe.

Job was taken to a psychiatric institution for an examination and the children were taken to their grandmothers.

the past five-year plan had been largely met, with a 50 per cent increase of the total industrial output.

There were substantial increases in the national and per capita incomes, in agricultural production and the manufacture of consumer articles. But the production of consumer goods fell short of the planned quotas and Kosygin said "we still have some difficulty meeting the demands of people for some lines of goods, meat and meat production."

He reported the construction of 11,350,000 apartments in five years" but said "the housing problem will remain a serious one in the years ahead."

There also were major shortcomings, he announced, in capital construction.

Neighbors' Boundary Set In Fuss

A portion of the dispute between two Tiburon neighbors was settled yesterday when a Marin Superior Court judge established a boundary line between their properties.

Judge Thomas F. Keating ruled in favor of Nathaniel Marans of 2312 Spanish Trail Road, agreeing that the property line was one set by San Rafael Surveyor Eugene Lockton in 1961.

Still to be settled by Keating are damage suits filed against each other by Marans and Green. Keating yesterday ordered attorneys for both to submit briefs and took the matter under submission.

Marans is suing Green for $5,660 and Green is suing Marans for $5,100 — reduced Friday from $75,000.

The two men and their wives have carried on a feud for the last several years, which has been marked by ripped out fence posts, vines and a tree, lights shining at each other's homes and water fights.

The two couples do not agree on what started the feud or when it began.

The Greens maintain the dispute arose in 1965 when he wanted to put up a fence between the properties.

Marans says the disagreements started in 1967 after Mrs. Marans was a witness in a misdemeanor case against Green.

Mountain Search For Missing Man

Sheriff's deputies and park rangers were searching today for a 69-year-old man who disappeared Sunday afternoon after attending a wedding ceremony for his stepson on Mt. Tamalpais.

Authorities were trying to locate Eugene K. West of Salt Lake City. West was last seen at about 4 p.m. Sunday following an outdoor wedding at an amphitheater on the mountain.

West's wife, Mona, told authorities he had said he was going to a lavatory. Another relative reported West said he was going home to Utah when chatting minutes later in a nearby parking lot.

West had come to the ceremony with relatives and could not drive. According to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Keith West of Hayward, he had suffered several strokes which caused brain damage and he was often forgetful.

The sister-in-law was critical today of the Marin sheriff's investigation and said she and her husband, Dr. Keith West, will fly a family plane over the dense mountain region again today. Yesterday they flew over the area for three hours. "It was really hopeless," Mrs. West said. "The brush is so thick."

The missing man was described as about five feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, with white hair and glasses. When last seen he was wearing a tan and brown sports jacket, pale tan slacks, a blue shirt and brown shoes and socks.

His wife is staying with a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowman of Castro Valley while the search continues.

Nixon Asks New Education Funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon asked Congress today to consolidate more than 30 federal aid to education programs into a $3 billion revenue sharing package.

He said that would allow local authorities to "make the hard decisions about the best ways to educate their children."

The proposal, last of six special presidential revenue sharing measures forming what he calls a "new American federalism," would combine $2.8 billion worth of existing federal programs and $200 million in new money.

Nixon said more than half of the total $3 billion proposed for the first year would go to providing compensatory education for disadvantaged children.

States would have the authority to transfer up to 30 per cent of the funds from one of five broad categories to another except funds directed to the disadvantaged.

Nixon said his proposal would preserve all existing safeguards against racial discrimination. He proposed a specific requirement for states to certify that services provided in all schools within a single district be fully comparable.

Nixon renewed his proposal of last year for a national institute to develop research and experimentation in education similar to the federal government's efforts in agriculture and medicine.

He said the institute, coupled with the $1.5 billion emergency school aid act proposed last May to help meet special problems of desegregating schools, would "represent a bold new approach to fulfilling the federal role in education and in meeting the educational needs of the 1970s."

Nixon's message to the House and Senate said the new system, to take effect in July, 1972, would eliminate a maze of red tape that now requires a vast effort by local school boards. It would eliminate 97 applications required under the current system of federal education grants.

"The time, energy and imagination needed to bring educational reform is frequently drained off into what is an essentially nonproductive effort to qualify for government grants," the President said.

The new plan would provide greater accountability and more rigidly define the lines of responsibility in local educational programs, which now take more than 40 per cent of the revenues of state and local governments.

The federal funds would be distributed on the basis of a statutory formula taking into account the total school age population in each state, the number of students from low income families and the number of students whose parents work or live on federal property.

Under Nixon's proposal, only two states, California and Ohio, would receive more money in fiscal 1972 than they receive now. The proposal would assure that each state received at least the same amount of education funds it received this fiscal year.

California's apportionment would increase from $261,451,000 to $263,136,000 and Ohio's from $100,794,000 to $101,819,000.

Training Complaint Is Probed

Overzealous and harsh Army reserve training at Two Rock Ranch Army Station west of Petaluma is under investigation by Army commanders.

A company of 25 to 39 men from the 353rd Batallion complained to officers that they had been subjected to unusually harsh treatment Saturday night, including being dumped in stagnant water while chained to logs. They said they were also required to sit outdoors naked and were subjected to rope and electrical burns.

Col. Lawrence Doyle, information officer for the 351st Civil Affairs General Officers Command said he was not sure what the training was supposed to cover, but said an intensive investigation into the alleged mistreatment was being conducted and should be completed within a week.

He said unit personnel involved in the alleged misdeeds have been relieved of their assigned duties pending completion of the investigation. He said names of those involved were not being released.

Reservists complained that they had been divided into two forces — aggressors and defenders — and were told they were being trained on how to survive if they should fall into enemy hands.

Contract For Prison Teachers

The Marin County Board of Education last night accepted a $263,605 contract from the state department of corrections to provide teachers for San Quentin Prison.

The county schools office provides the prison with 13 full time instructors and about 20 part-time teachers for night classes according to Byron W. Mauzy, assistant superintendent.

The contract is about $11,000 less than that accepted last year for fiscal 1970-71, Mauzy said.

Pilot Plan On Waste Treatment

A pilot waste treatment program which ultimately could result in Marin's first tertiary sewage treatment plant will be installed during the next two weeks at the Tiburon Sanitary District's Paradise Drive plant.

Bertram J. Talbot, secretary of the sanitary district, said the experimental plant is being installed without cost by Zimpro, Inc., a Wisconsin-based designer and manufacturer of treatment plants.

The pilot model, which uses an activated carbon filter process, will treat only part of the district's flow of 750,000 gallons of effluent a day. If it proves successful, Talbot said, the district hopes to convert its entire plant to the process. Such conversion would cost in excess of $1 million.

Effluent treated by the process, it is hoped, will be free of impurities, said Talbot, and well able to meet new discharge requirements which may be imposed by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Plant Supt. John McFarlane said Zimpro has about six such plants across the country. Members of the regional board have been invited to inspect the plant when it is finished in about two weeks.

McFarlane also said a study just completed by Corollo Engineers of Oakland shows that virtually all of the district's effluent, which is discharged into Raccoon Strait, goes out the Golden Gate and not into Richardson Bay.

Dye tests proved that only minute quantities of the outfall find their way to the lower part of Richardson Bay and none penetrates to the Richardson Bay Bridge or to the Strawberry Peninsula, McFarlane said.

The test results confirm the district's contention that it should not be covered by the same strict discharge requirements applied to Mill Valley and the Richardson Bay and Sausalito-Marin City sanitary districts, all of which discharge into Richardson Bay.

A cease and desist order against Richardson Bay and Mill Valley is being contemplated by the regional board, and the Tiburon district hopes to use the dispersion test results to convince the regional board not to set the same requirements for Tiburon.

BOGGS

in this nation is the Bill of Rights," Boggs said. "We are a great country because we are a free country. The way Mr. Hoover is running the country today is no longer a free country."

Boggs said he was "astonished" to read Mitchell said Hoover should stay on because he is a law and order man.

"If law and order means the suppression of the Bill of Rights, infiltration of college campuses, the tapping of the telephones of members of Congress of the United States, then I say 'God, help us,'" Boggs said.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., also criticized Boggs' remarks, saying the Louisiana congressman's statement about Gestapo tactics was "not a fair allegation."

Madman Ends Threat To Kill His Children

CO USANCES-LESFORGES, France (UPI) — Denis Job, a mentally deranged father of 12, surrendered to authorities today four days after he killed his wife and then kept police at bay with threats to massacre his children.

Five of the 12 children were still with Job when he left the former railroad station that was his home and surrendered to authorities. Police said they were all safe.

Job was taken to a psychiatric institution for an examination and the children were taken to their grandmothers.

the past five-year plan had been largely met, with a 50 per cent increase of the total industrial output.

There were substantial increases in the national and per capita incomes, in agricultural production and the manufacture of consumer articles. But the production of consumer goods fell short of the planned quotas and Kosygin said "we still have some difficulty meeting the demands of people for some lines of goods, meat and meat production."

He reported the construction of 11,350,000 apartments in five years" but said "the housing problem will remain a serious one in the years ahead."

Neighbors' Boundary Set In Fuss

A portion of the dispute between two Tiburon neighbors was settled yesterday when a Marin Superior Court judge established a boundary line between their properties.

Judge Thomas F. Keating ruled in favor of Nathaniel Marans of 2312 Spanish Trail Road, agreeing that the property line was one set by San Rafael Surveyor Eugene Lockton in 1961.

Keating ordered Lockton to stake out the line and enjoined Marans and his neighbor, James L. Green of 2300 Vista Del Mar Lane, from interfering with the line.

Still to be settled by Keating are damage suits filed against each other by Marans and Green. Keating yesterday ordered attorneys for both to submit briefs and took the matter under submission.

Marans is suing Green for $5,660 and Green is suing Marans for $5,100 — reduced Friday from $75,000.

The two men and their wives have carried on a feud for the last several years, which has been marked by ripped out fence posts, vines and a tree, lights shining at each other's homes and water fights.

The two couples do not agree on what started the feud or when it began.

The Greens maintain the dispute arose in 1965 when he wanted to put up a fence between the properties.

Marans says the disagreements started in 1967 after Mrs. Marans was a witness in a misdemeanor case against Green.

Project's Delay Eyed By Council

With three of its members up for reelection, the San Rafael City Council made clear last night that delays in completion of a South San Pedro Road improvement project were no fault of San Rafael's.

At the council's request, Donald R. Frost, county public works director, was on hand to explain the timetable which will see completion of the fourth of five phases of the project in the summer of 1973 — four years behind schedule.

Frost presented a timetable for the fourth phase — between Lochinvar Road and Riviera Drive — which calls for right-of-way acquisition to begin this May 1 and bids awarded April 1, 1972.

But Councilman Fred E. Jensen, a candidate for reelection April 20, wanted to know "why has this been stalled."

Frost blamed the delay on "unexpected burdens" in his department, mainly disastrous winters two of the last three years and the fact that the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project began a year after the city and county agreed on the South San Pedro Road project.

In addition, Frost cited a need to study the road project "very carefully to keep costs down."

He later informed the council that the project will require $120,000 more than previously anticipated, bringing the total cost of the project to about $1.5 million. San Rafael and the county are sharing the cost equally.

Councilman John A. Miskimen, also a candidate for reelection, offered a translation of Frost's explanation, indicating to Frost that "full responsibility for the delay is because your department is behind schedule in denying the project."

Frost said that translation was not exactly correct but did agree with Miskimen that the "delay is because the design is not done."

Frost was a termed a "front man speaking for the board of supervisors," by Ronald A. MacMillan, president of the Glenwood Homeowners Association.

MacMillan said it didn't do much good to ask Frost questions because it had no "political whammy."

At MacMillan's request, the council passed a resolution urging the board of supervisors to expedite work on the project.

Revision Of Plans Asked

Larkspur's Architectural Review Committee last night asked the architect to revise plans for a one-unit addition to an apartment building at 27 Locust Street. The property is owned by Leo Cantayre, according to John W. Appleton, city building and planning superintendent.

The committee asked for changes in the planned roof line and other aesthetic considerations, Appleton reported.

Tentative plot plans for 11 townhouses in the Larkspur Plaza area also were given preliminary review, and suggestions were made for rearranging the units. The proposed project is near the Shareholders Capitol Programs development which last week was turned down by the planning commission and appealed to the city council.

Wagnerian Opera Star Is Buried

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)— Gertrude Kappel, 86 who sang Wagnerian roles in several world capitals between the two World Wars, was buried today in Munich.

A city official said Miss Kappel, who was married to an engineer, Simon Vukas, died Saturday.

Miss Kappel was born in Halle, now East Germany, and started her career in 1907 in Hannover as a contralto.

She was almost 40 years old when she began to build an international reputation as a Wagnerian soprano.

Youth Treated For Eye Injury

An 18-year-old San Rafael teen-ager was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital yesterday for a sliver of glass driven into her eye in an auto accident.

Janice M. Weber of 420 Hickory Lane was injured about 9:40 p.m. when a car driven by Kurt W. Farrington, 18, of Incline Village, Nev., collided with a parked car on Devon Drive near Malone Lane, according to San Rafael police.

Miss Weber was a passenger in Farrington's car, police said.

Fate Of Fire Zone One Studied By San Rafael

A proposal to reduce the size of San Rafael's most restrictive fire zone may lead to the elimination of the zone altogether.

The proposal to reduce the size of the zone was made to the San Rafael City Council last night by building inspector Jack Coates.

Coates said "fire zone 1" required higher construction standards than in the rest of San Rafael, and made almost economically impossible upgrading of older buildings in the zone — generally bordered by Lincoln Avenue and Second, E and Fourth streets.

Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan said it had been the policy of the council to encourage the maintenance and use of "some of these old buildings."

The council appeared near agreement on doing away with fire zone 1, when Councilman Fred E. Jensen wondered if the action might influence fire insurance rates throughout the city.

The council directed Coates to study what effect elimination of the zone would have on insurance rates, and continued discussion of the matter until April 19.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

APPEAL — Upheld half and overruled half of a planning commission denial of architectural approval for a proposed sign at 807 Francisco Boulevard for A-1 Equipment Rentals. The council agreed with the commission that the sign must be reduced from a proposed 56 square feet to 36 square feet, but overruled the commission in ruling that the sign may have changeable copy.

AWARD — Presented a civic award certificate to Eleanor G. Murray, retiring chairman of the San Rafael Library Board after 37 years service.

BIDS — Approved plans and specifications and called for bids to be opened April 19 on resurfacing tennis courts at Boyd and Gerstle parks and grading at Boyd Park, and called for bids to be opened May 3 on Freitas Park road improvements and construction of tennis courts near Montecillo Road, adjacent to Freitas Park.

SUBDIVISION — Set a public hearing for April 19 on an appeal of planning commission disapproval of plans for Toyon Terraces, a proposed five-lot subdivision off Makin Grade.

EMPLOYEES — Adopted a resolution establishing guidelines, timetables and procedures or negotiating with city employees.

CODES — Adopted the 1970 state uniform building code, and passed to print ordinances adopting the 1970 uniform plumbing and mechanical codes, with public hearings on the ordinances set for May 3.

MERGER — Paased a resolution stating its belief that the Terra Linda Recreation-Park and Community Services districts are in the "natural boundaries" of San Rafael, but notifying the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission that the city takes no position regarding proposed merger of the two districts.

Another Bombing At Branch Of Bank Of America

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A small bomb blew out a window and damaged masonry early today at a Bank of America branch in the second attack in four days at the same location.

A spokesman for the bank said the latest incident caused "several hundred dollars" damage. The Pico Boulevard branch suffered $5,000 damage when it was hit by a Molotov cocktail Saturday.

The spokesman said the motive for the attack was not known. Today's bombing was the 11th at a branch of the world's largest bank since February 1970. During the same period there were 11 firebombings.

The series of attacks followed the burning of a branch in the student community of Isla Vista near UC Santa Barbara.

Policeman's Dismissal Is Overruled

The San Rafael City Council last night overruled Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori's dismissal of a policeman, and recommended a 30-day suspension instead.

The council's action followed a 45-minute closed session, to which Brusatori, the policeman, Leland J. Ahern, and his attorney, William O. Weissich, were called in the last 15 minutes.

In addition to the suspension, which was completed March 26, the council recommended a three-step pay reduction for 90 days; a two-step reduction for 9 months more, and one year's probation.

Ahern was fired Feb. 26 by Brusatori for undisclosed reasons. He appealed the firing to the city's board of review, and its basic recommendations were accepted by the council last night.

The art of knitting by engines, or still looms, was invented about 1589 by William Lee of Cambridge, England.

Help On Bike Path Assured

Belvedere City Council, with a host of reservations, last night assured Tiburon that Belvedere was "morally committed" to help meet the cost of the Peninsula's bicycle path on the old rail line.

But the council limited its action to naming Mayor pro tem Thomas S. Price and Jack Himmelwright to negotiate details with the Tiburon City Council.

Tiburon Mayor Denis T. Rice suggested unsuccessfully that the Belvedere Council indicate more positively how much help it had in mind and when it could be expected. He said that the longer it took for the two councils to agree on the joint project, the more likely it was that there will be no improvement of the path this summer.

Tiburon originally asked Belvedere to share 25 per cent of the $100,000 purchase cost and a like percentage of the development cost. Belvedere Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel, however, suggested raising his city's share of development costs to 31 per cent because Tiburon subsequently found out Belvedere legally could not share the purchase cost.

Drechsel figured that Belvedere's share of development cost would range from $14,400 to $23,080, depending on the width of the path and various alternative improvements.

Instructing its two-man negotiating committee, the council agreed that the entire length of the right-of-way should be improved at one time. Tiburon had suggested temporary use of Belvedere streets south of San Rafael Avenue, but Drechsel said residents would object.

Tiburon also plans an eight-foot-wide path, but the Belvedere council urged a six-foot path. Drechsel said that "some of us may feel that five feet would be even better."

The council also voiced fears that it would have too little voice in regulating use of the path.

But Councilman Alan Steinau assured Rice that "we're morally committed to help you." Price, however, said "we don't have our checkbook ready." Drechsel later explained that he suggested Belvedere pay 31 per cent of the development cost because 31 per cent of the path's length was contiguous to Belvedere.

Tiburon City Engineer Ray W. Foreaker Jr. cautioned that building a path now that may have to be widened later would make its total cost far greater.

Belvedere City Council Also:

LANES — Urged the Division of Highways to take "immediate" action to add stacking and turning lanes on Tiburon Boulevard at Avenida Miraflores, Rock Hill Road and San Rafael Avenue.

PLAN — Referred to the finance committee the planning commission's proposal for a $15,000 study to fix a long-range philosophy "to give direction to control of future development."

LANDSCAPE — Endorsed new plans by the San Francisco landscape architectural firm of Berridge, Becker and Julin to refurbish San Rafael Avenue, and asked for final plans. Neighbors had objected to initial plans for mounds over three and a half feet high that they said would block views, so the mounds were eliminated.

POLICE — Deferred to Tiburon's initiative further action on the proposed merger of the two cities' police forces. A joint citizens committee suggested that a consultant be hired to work out details of the possible merger.

TRAINING — Gave first reading to an ordinance authorizing police officers to participate in a state training program, with the state paying half the cost.

OFFICER — Referred to the finance committee a request from Police Chief John W. Jaeger that an additional officer be hired.

DEBRIS — Voted unanimously to abandon the city's weekly debris box service after next weekend, replacing it with quarterly curbside rubbish pick-up by Mill Valley Refuse Service at an annual cost to the city of $1,900. The debris box service costs $2,060, but has been unsuccessful because of use by commercial gardeners and persons residing outside the city, the council agreed.

DOGS — Tabled action to seek better enforcement of the animal control ordinance, despite a complaint that Samuel J. Mann that 11 dog bite cases had been reported in the city in January.

LITTLE LEAGUE — Rejected a plea for a $400 subsidy of the Tiburon Peninsula Little Laague, which they gave $100 last month. The council agreed instead to sponsor a team, which they said would cost $125, and added $25 to last month's payment.

PROJECTS — Postponed to May 3 discussion of a proposal by City Mgr. William L. Cavalli that a committee be formed to prepare a capital improvement program, possibly financed by general obligation bonds.

DEMOCRACY — Took no action on a plea by the People Speak, an Oakland foundation, that they help "revitalize" the democratic process by creating an "office of civic communications" to aid communication with citizens.

BID — Accepted a $3,600 bid from Ghilotti Brothers to install a reinforced concrete curb railing along the top of the retaining walls at Bay View Avenue and Bella Vista Road.

FOUNDATION — Appointed Dr. Robert P. Watkins, a former mayor, to replace Mrs. Benton Mathews on the Tiburon Peninsula Foundation. Mrs. Mathews resigned, citing other commitments and family obligations.

TV — Granted a revocable license to Cable TV of Marin for an antenna on city property on the tip of Corinthian Island. Cavalli said it would provide a message channel "for the benefit of Belvedere residents only." Installation will require digging up 130 feet of Belvedere Avenue.

Bomb Threat At Tulare County Courthouse

VISALIA (UPI) —The Tulare County courthouse was emptied twice Monday because of bomb threats and officials think the phony threats may have been called in from inside the courthouse.

The building was evacuated at 2 p. m. and again at 4 p. m. after a female caller warned of bombs going off.

The caller first placed a call through the courthouse switchboard about 10:30 a.m. saying the "entire place is going to go up at 2 p.m."

About the same time a woman called the Tulare County sheriff's office and warned a bomb would explode at the courthouse about 4 p. m.

Deputies and courthouse maintenance men searched the building at both times but no explosives were found.

Mine Disaster

LLANELLI, Wales (UPI)— Poison gas burst from the earth into a Welsh mine today suffocating six miners and overcoming 25 others.

CHILD HELPED — A weeping child is helped from an underground bunker following an attack on a Gaza refugee camp at Jarash, Jordan. Palestinian guerrilla leaders and government official held a meeting yesterday in Jordan to plan evacuation of armed guerrillas from the capital of Amman.

Dayan Vows His Army Will Win

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has vowed his army "will not be defeated" in case new fighting with Egypt breaks out in the Middle East. Dayan also expressed hope the Soviets would counsel restraint in Cairo.

As Israeli officials talked of the possibility of new warfare, Palestinian guerrillas reported "ditch to ditch" fighting with King Hussein's forces in Jordan. The commandos called for Arab intervention to end the bloodshed.

"Egypt prepared intensively to renew the war," Dayan told nearly 4,000 persons at the Labor Party convention in Tel Aviv Monday night.

Both Dayan and Foreign Minister Abba S. Eban took the podium amid the red flags of Socialism and blue and white Star of David banners to implore the Egyptians to come to direct peace talks with Israel.

"We hope the threats from Moscow are not expressing the policy of the Soviet representatives in Egypt and that they will put their influence against the renewal of the war," Dayan said.

Dayan said the situation might eventually boil down to an Egyptian ultimatum—withdrawal completely from territory captured in the 1967 war or face another war.

"If we shall not have any escape, we shall not return to the June 4, 1967, lines even if it brings war," Dayan said.

"If the Egyptians decide to renew the war, Zahal (the Israeli army) will not be defeated. We all want that the ceasefire will turn into a permanent agreement but Zahal is ready, equipped and prepared for a possible war.

Belvedere Resident Charges Police With 'Racist Attitude'

Belvedere police last night were charged by a woman resident of the normally peaceful city with a "racist attitude."

Jean Born sat patiently during much of the meeting, then unloaded her charge as the council was about to adjourn at 10:45 p.m.

She said that a black colleague from the University of California had been on his way to visit her three weeks ago Saturday when he was stopped by Sgt. William Brust "on the pretext of speeding."

Her friend was released with a warning, but Brust then followed him as he drove to the home of her former husband, George Born, she said.

From there, her colleague, a cousin of his and her former husband drove off in her colleague's car — which had been stolen the week before, but recovered.

San Francisco police, however, had not cleared the theft report from their radio records, and Brust halted them moments later at gunpoint when he got word that the car still was listed as stolen.

The sergeant, according to Mrs. Born, ordered the men out of the car, "Bellied them up against the car, and kept them that way for a half hour until the Tiburon police came to help."

She said that her colleague tried to explain to Brust what had happened, and that he had the San Francisco Police Department's release for the recovered car in his pocket, but Brust "would not listen."

Mrs. Born, who said the incident occurred at 3:30 p.m., criticized "the outrageous way it was handled."

She said she and her former husband had met the following week with Police Chief John W. Jaeger, who at first was "very beligerent." Their talk, however, "ended in a very friendly manner," she said.

"I'm not making any accusation, and I don't want anyone fired," she said, "but I want to bring this to the attention of the council. If I can't have a black friend to my house without fear of being apprehended, then we ought to look at the attitudes of our police."

Councilman Merritt K. Ruddock, reddening as she related the incident, objected, "Just a moment, just a moment, just a moment. The implication that there is racism in our police force I take keen exception to."

But Mrs. Born insisted that the incident was racist.

Her former husband kept jumping to his feet to argue for some immediate action by the council, but she kept quieting him.

Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel assured the Borns that the "council will talk to the chief, and you'll hear from the chief through the city manager."

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli commented that "you don't approach a stolen car without being armed if you're alone."

Drechsel said that the council could not act on Mrs. Born's complaint until it had a chance to hear both sides.

Attorney Fined In Driving Case

Attorney Jasper Charles De Dobbeleer, 63, of San Anselmo, was fined $302 yesterday in Marin Municipal Court after he pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor charge of drunken driving.

Judge Peter Allen Smith also placed de Dobbeleer on probation for one year.

The San Rafael Attorney was arrested on suspicion of felony drunken driving March 27 after his auto slammed into a parked taxi cab on Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, injuring a passenger in the cab, according to police. Only the misdemeanor charge was filed against him.

Six Burglaries During Last Month

Belvedere police, whose reports to the press traditionally have suggested the city is virtually free of crime, last night informed the city council there were six burglaries last month.

Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel, going over the report distributed by Police Chief John W. Jaeger, noted that "Belvedere was somewhat noteworthy in the past for not having burglaries — as far as the reports in the Independent-Journal were concerned."

Jaeger, new to the job, responded that he did not know whether it had been the practice in the past to report burglaries to the press.

But he added that two of the six, which he termed "traditional burglaries," had been reported to the I-J. These involved burglaries of homes, while the others involved burglaries from cars and boats.

The chief said that several of the burglaries apparently were committed by persons working in the community such as carpenters or roofers. Neighbors noticed nothing suspicious in any of the cases, he said.

Jaeger also reported that 12 bicycles were stolen in March, half of them locked, and that almost $200 in potted plants had been carried away.

He said he planned to initiate a "light at night" program and to encourage citizens to report any suspicious actions in their neighborhoods.

Clausen To Head Bay Area Council

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Bay Area Council, a civic and business organization, today announced the election of A. W. Clausen as its chairman.

Clausen, president of the Bank of America, was named to succeed John E. Countryman, former chairman of the board of Del Monte Corp.

Convalescent Home Hit By 2-Alarm Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A two-alarm fire Monday caused the evacuation of elderly patients from one wing of a new convalescent home.

The blaze broke out in the fourth-floor television room of the five-story Pine Tower Hospital, which has been in operation about a year.

One male patient was hospitalized and treated for smoke inhalation and then returned to the convalescent home.

Three floors of the building's west wing were damaged by water and smoke and 28 patients were being transferred to another convalescent home in the city.

$2 Million Sewer Bond Date Is Set

The Petaluma City Council last night approved plans for a $2 million sewer bond election on June 8 despite continued warnings that voters would soundly defeat it.

In the 5-2 vote, Vice Mayor John W. Cavanagh Jr. and councilman Robert E. Daly dissented, saying the vote should be delayed until planning studies are complete and the general plan is updated.

Cavanagh said he thought the bonds to enlarge the sewer plant would have a better chance of passing in September or October when voters know exactly what the plant enlargement will mean in terms of city growth.

The majority of the council felt that construction must begin as soon as possible on the plant so that total building will not come to a complete halt because of a lack in sewer facilities.

City Engineer David A. Young said the plant capacity would be increased to seven million gallons per day and would accomodate a population estimated at 70,000. He said the present three-million gallon capacity should be exhausted within two years.

After questioning by Cavanagh, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said that preliminary figures received from questionnaires completed by 2,000 residents on March 31 showed an overwhelming portion want Petaluma to remain below 40,000 in population.

"If we're to give credence to those figures, then why plan for a city of 70,000?" Cavanagh asked rhetorically.

Councilman Fred V. Matte said citizens should have the opportunity to vote on the measure and said that even if it passed he believed construction would come to a standstill for a year until the plant is completed.

Several citizens urged the council to abandon plans for the election until planning studies are complete. Sue Langhans told the council, "We don't trust you right now to meet our needs."

"I know you don't," Mayor Helen Putnam replied.

The Mayor closed discussion and called for the vote over strong objections by citizens who had had no chance to speak on the issue.

The Petaluma City Council also:

ABAG — Rejected by a 4-3 vote a resolution supporting the withdrawal of Sonoma County from the Association of Bay Area Governments. Supporting the withdrawal were councilmen Robert A. Brunner, Daly and Cavanagh.

TWO ROCK — Approved a resolution supporting the plans of the Coast Guard to acquire the Two Rock Ranch Army Station for a training school. The Army will abandon the post on June 31 in a Department of Defense economy move.

OVERCROSSING — Approved an agreement with the state to share half the costs in construction of a pedestrian overcrossing of Highway 101 at East Washington Street. Young said the original estimated city cost of $88,000 had risen to $125,300 because of increased construction and engineering costs. He said federal funds would probably supply $117,907 with the city paying $7,393 from state gas tax funds.

COMMITTEE — Received a joint letter from the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association, Petaluma Gardens Homeowners Association and East Petaluma Civic Association asking that representation from East Petaluma be included on the citizens committee to update the 1962 general plan.

MEETING — Adjourned to Monday at 7:30 p.m. to hear a report from representatives of Third Way House on a drug program for teen-agers.

Pair Plead To Selling Grass

Help On Bike Path Assured

Belvedere City Council, with a host of reservations, last night assured Tiburon that Belvedere was "morally committed" to help meet the cost of the Peninsula's bicycle path on the old rail line.

But the council limited its action to naming Mayor pro tem Thomas S. Price and Jack Himmelwright to negotiate details with the Tiburon City Council.

Tiburon Mayor Denis T. Rice suggested unsuccessfully that the Belvedere Council indicate more positively how much help it had in mind and when it could be expected. He said that the longer it took for the two councils to agree on the joint project, the more likely it was that there will be no improvement of the path this summer.

Tiburon originally asked Belvedere to share 25 per cent of the $100,000 purchase cost and a like percentage of the development cost. Belvedere Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel, however, suggested raising his city's share of development costs to 31 per cent because Tiburon subsequently found out Belvedere legally could not share the purchase cost.

Drechsel figured that Belvedere's share of development cost would range from $14,400 to $23,080, depending on the width of the path and various alternative improvements.

Instructing its two-man negotiating committee, the council agreed that the entire length of the right-of-way should be improved at one time. Tiburon had suggested temporary use of Belvedere streets south of San Rafael Avenue, but Drechsel said residents would object.

Tiburon also plans an eight-foot-wide path, but the Belvedere council urged a six-foot path. Drechsel said that "some of us may feel that five feet would be even better."

The council also voiced fears that it would have too little voice in regulating use of the path.

But Councilman Alan Steinau assured Rice that "we're morally committed to help you." Price, however, said "we don't have our checkbook ready." Drechsel later explained that he suggested Belvedere pay 31 per cent of the development cost because 31 per cent of the path's length was contiguous to Belvedere.

Tiburon City Engineer Ray W. Foreaker Jr. cautioned that building a path now that may have to be widened later would make its total cost far greater.

Belvedere City Council Also:

LANES — Urged the Division of Highways to take "immediate" action to add stacking and turning lanes on Tiburon Boulevard at Avenida Miraflores, Rock Hill Road and San Rafael Avenue.

PLAN — Referred to the finance committee the planning commission's proposal for a $15,000 study to fix a long-range philosophy "to give direction to control of future development."

LANDSCAPE — Endorsed new plans by the San Francisco landscape architectural firm of Berridge, Becker and Julin to refurbish San Rafael Avenue, and asked for final plans. Neighbors had objected to initial plans for mounds over three and a half feet high that they said would block views, so the mounds were eliminated.

POLICE — Deferred to Tiburon's initiative further action on the proposed merger of the two cities' police forces. A joint citizens committee suggested that a consultant be hired to work out details of the possible merger.

TRAINING — Gave first reading to an ordinance authorizing police officers to participate in a state training program, with the state paying half the cost.

OFFICER — Referred to the finance committee a request from Police Chief John W. Jaeger that an additional officer be hired.

DEBRIS — Voted unanimously to abandon the city's weekly debris box service after next weekend, replacing it with quarterly curbside rubbish pick-up by Mill Valley Refuse Service at an annual cost to the city of $1,900. The debris box service costs $2,060, but has been unsuccessful because of use by commercial gardeners and persons residing outside the city, the council agreed.

DOGS — Tabled action to seek better enforcement of the animal control ordinance, despite a complaint that Samuel J. Mann that 11 dog bite cases had been reported in the city in January.

LITTLE LEAGUE — Rejected a plea for a $400 subsidy of the Tiburon Peninsula Little Laague, which they gave $100 last month. The council agreed instead to sponsor a team, which they said would cost $125, and added $25 to last month's payment.

PROJECTS — Postponed to May 3 discussion of a proposal by City Mgr. William L. Cavalli that a committee be formed to prepare a capital improvement program, possibly financed by general obligation bonds.

DEMOCRACY — Took no action on a plea by the People Speak, an Oakland foundation, that they help "revitalize" the democratic process by creating an "office of civic communications" to aid communication with citizens.

BID — Accepted a $3,600 bid from Ghilotti Brothers to install a reinforced concrete curb railing along the top of the retaining walls at Bay View Avenue and Bella Vista Road.

FOUNDATION — Appointed Dr. Robert P. Watkins, a former mayor, to replace Mrs. Benton Mathews on the Tiburon Peninsula Foundation. Mrs. Mathews resigned, citing other commitments and family obligations.

TV — Granted a revocable license to Cable TV of Marin for an antenna on city property on the tip of Corinthian Island. Cavalli said it would provide a message channel "for the benefit of Belvedere residents only." Installation will require digging up 130 feet of Belvedere Avenue.

Bomb Threat At Tulare County Courthouse

VISALIA (UPI) —The Tulare County courthouse was emptied twice Monday because of bomb threats and officials think the phony threats may have been called in from inside the courthouse.

The building was evacuated at 2 p. m. and again at 4 p. m. after a female caller warned of bombs going off.

The caller first placed a call through the courthouse switchboard about 10:30 a.m. saying the "entire place is going to go up at 2 p.m."

About the same time a woman called the Tulare County sheriff's office and warned a bomb would explode at the courthouse about 4 p. m.

Deputies and courthouse maintenance men searched the building at both times but no explosives were found.

Dayan Vows His Army Will Win

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has vowed his army "will not be defeated" in case new fighting with Egypt breaks out in the Middle East. Dayan also expressed hope the Soviets would counsel restraint in Cairo.

As Israeli officials talked of the possibility of new warfare, Palestinian guerrillas reported "ditch to ditch" fighting with King Hussein's forces in Jordan. The commandos called for Arab intervention to end the bloodshed.

"Egypt prepared intensively to renew the war," Dayan told nearly 4,000 persons at the Labor Party convention in Tel Aviv Monday night.

Both Dayan and Foreign Minister Abba S. Eban took the podium amid the red flags of Socialism and blue and white Star of David banners to implore the Egyptians to come to direct peace talks with Israel.

"We hope the threats from Moscow are not expressing the policy of the Soviet representatives in Egypt and that they will put their influence against the renewal of the war," Dayan said.

Dayan said the situation might eventually boil down to an Egyptian ultimatum—withdrawal completely from territory captured in the 1967 war or face another war.

"If we shall not have any escape, we shall not return to the June 4, 1967, lines even if it brings war," Dayan said.

"If the Egyptians decide to renew the war, Zahal (the Israeli army) will not be defeated. We all want that the ceasefire will turn into a permanent agreement but Zahal is ready, equipped and prepared for a possible war.

Belvedere Resident Charges Police With 'Racist Attitude'

Belvedere police last night were charged by a woman resident of the normally peaceful city with a "racist attitude."

Jean Born sat patiently during much of the meeting, then unloaded her charge as the council was about to adjourn at 10:45 p.m.

She said that a black colleague from the University of California had been on his way to visit her three weeks ago Saturday when he was stopped by Sgt. William Brust "on the pretext of speeding."

Her friend was released with a warning, but Brust then followed him as he drove to the home of her former husband, George Born, she said.

From there, her colleague, a cousin of his and her former husband drove off in her colleague's car — which had been stolen the week before, but recovered.

San Francisco police, however, had not cleared the theft report from their radio records, and Brust halted them moments later at gunpoint when he got word that the car still was listed as stolen.

The sergeant, according to Mrs. Born, ordered the men out of the car, "Bellied them up against the car, and kept them that way for a half hour until the Tiburon police came to help."

She said that her colleague tried to explain to Brust what had happened, and that he had the San Francisco Police Department's release for the recovered car in his pocket, but Brust "would not listen."

Mrs. Born, who said the incident occurred at 3:30 p.m., criticized "the outrageous way it was handled."

She said she and her former husband had met the following week with Police Chief John W. Jaeger, who at first was "very beligerent." Their talk, however, "ended in a very friendly manner," she said.

"I'm not making any accusation, and I don't want anyone fired," she said, "but I want to bring this to the attention of the council. If I can't have a black friend to my house without fear of being apprehended, then we ought to look at the attitudes of our police."

Councilman Merritt K. Ruddock, reddening as she related the incident, objected, "Just a moment, just a moment, just a moment. The implication that there is racism in our police force I take keen exception to."

But Mrs. Born insisted that the incident was racist.

Her former husband kept jumping to his feet to argue for some immediate action by the council, but she kept quieting him.

Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel assured the Borns that the "council will talk to the chief, and you'll hear from the chief through the city manager."

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli commented that "you don't approach a stolen car without being armed if you're alone."

Drechsel said that the council could not act on Mrs. Born's complaint until it had a chance to hear both sides.

Attorney Fined In Driving Case

Attorney Jasper Charles De Dobbeleer, 63, of San Anselmo, was fined $302 yesterday in Marin Municipal Court after he pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor charge of drunken driving.

Judge Peter Allen Smith also placed de Dobbeleer on probation for one year.

The San Rafael Attorney was arrested on suspicion of felony drunken driving March 27 after his auto slammed into a parked taxi cab on Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, injuring a passenger in the cab, according to police. Only the misdemeanor charge was filed against him.

Six Burglaries During Last Month

Belvedere police, whose reports to the press traditionally have suggested the city is virtually free of crime, last night informed the city council there were six burglaries last month.

Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel, going over the report distributed by Police Chief John W. Jaeger, noted that "Belvedere was somewhat noteworthy in the past for not having burglaries — as far as the reports in the Independent-Journal were concerned."

Jaeger, new to the job, responded that he did not know whether it had been the practice in the past to report burglaries to the press.

But he added that two of the six, which he termed "traditional burglaries," had been reported to the I-J. These involved burglaries of homes, while the others involved burglaries from cars and boats.

The chief said that several of the burglaries apparently were committed by persons working in the community such as carpenters or roofers. Neighbors noticed nothing suspicious in any of the cases, he said.

Jaeger also reported that 12 bicycles were stolen in March, half of them locked, and that almost $200 in potted plants had been carried away.

He said he planned to initiate a "light at night" program and to encourage citizens to report any suspicious actions in their neighborhoods.

Clausen To Head Bay Area Council

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Bay Area Council, a civic and business organization, today announced the election of A. W. Clausen as its chairman.

Clausen, president of the Bank of America, was named to succeed John E. Countryman, former chairman of the board of Del Monte Corp.

Convalescent Home Hit By 2-Alarm Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A two-alarm fire Monday caused the evacuation of elderly patients from one wing of a new convalescent home.

The blaze broke out in the fourth-floor television room of the five-story Pine Tower Hospital, which has been in operation about a year.

One male patient was hospitalized and treated for smoke inhalation and then returned to the convalescent home.

Three floors of the building's west wing were damaged by water and smoke and 28 patients were being transferred to another convalescent home in the city.

Another Clash On New Union

The encounter began when Mayor George E. Wickham and Victor C. Thuesen, representing the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, clashed over whether the Mill Valley Employees Association, a union affiliate, was the employer's official bargaining agent.

12 REQUESTS

It ended when Wickham told Thuesen to comply with a list of 12 requests by City Atty. Leland H. Jordan in order for the employees association to be recognized as the bargaining agent.

In between, Thuesen objected to the city applying a 1969 resolution to his employees organization. The resolution specifies how an employee organization is to be recognized. Thuesen said the cumbersome recognition procedure was not applied until his union was chosen to represent the city employees.

He also complained that City Mgr. William H. Cunningham refused to accept his telephone calls and to meet with him to begin contract negotiations, but Cunningham said he had returned Thuesen's calls only to find him out and that meetings were not appropriate until formal recognition took place.

AGENDA ITEM

The labor organizer also tangled with Wickham over whether a topic he wanted to discuss would be placed on the agenda. He then accused the city of refusing to act in good faith.

"I doubt that you're acting in good faith," Wickham replied. The council only learned that the employees organization had affiliated with the union when notified by special delivery letter three weeks ago, he said.

Thuesen countered by saying that internal affairs of the employees association — such as deciding whether to affiliate with a labor union — did not concern the council.

Thuesen later called the recognition resolution "a stupid law" but said the employee group would go along with it. Steps required by the resolution could be completed in three days, he said, and contract discussions with Cunningham could start immediately.

Thuesen, whose union represents 41 of the city's 83 employees (police and firemen are excepted), spent much of yesterday at the Marin County Civic Center attempting to organize the 750-member Marin County Employees Association.

Children's Pantomime Scheduled

Pantomime, songs and recitations by Korean children will be presented at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the San Rafael Improvement Club, Fifth Avenue and H Street.

The "Children of Compassion" choir will be accompanied by Miriam Swanson, wife of Compassion's founder.

The five children will present Bible readings, hymns in English and a prayer in Korean. Songs include "Jesus Loves Children," "My Jesus I Love Thee," "Jesus Loves Me," "Heaven Come Down," "Mansion over the Hilltop," and "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Rev. Everett F. Swanson founded Compassion Inc., a Christian Missionary organization which cares for more than 23,000 children in Korea, India, Indonesia and other areas of the world.

The audience will hear a report on the world mission fields and how "Compassion" works in its ministry.

Park Plans On Novato Agenda

The Novato Plan Review Committee will consider plans for development at Pioneer Memorial Park at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Novato Community House.

The plan calls for four tennis courts in the northwest sector of the park, a children's play area in the southwest, restrooms and equipment storage sheds, as well as landscaping.

$2 Million Sewer Bond Date Is Set

The Petaluma City Council last night approved plans for a $2 million sewer bond election on June 8 despite continued warnings that voters would soundly defeat it.

In the 5-2 vote, Vice Mayor John W. Cavanagh Jr. and councilman Robert E. Daly dissented, saying the vote should be delayed until planning studies are complete and the general plan is updated.

Cavanagh said he thought the bonds to enlarge the sewer plant would have a better chance of passing in September or October when voters know exactly what the plant enlargement will mean in terms of city growth.

The majority of the council felt that construction must begin as soon as possible on the plant so that total building will not come to a complete halt because of a lack in sewer facilities.

City Engineer David A. Young said the plant capacity would be increased to seven million gallons per day and would accomodate a population estimated at 70,000. He said the present three-million gallon capacity should be exhausted within two years.

After questioning by Cavanagh, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said that preliminary figures received from questionnaires completed by 2,000 residents on March 31 showed an overwhelming portion want Petaluma to remain below 40,000 in population.

"If we're to give credence to those figures, then why plan for a city of 70,000?" Cavanagh asked rhetorically.

Councilman Fred V. Matte said citizens should have the opportunity to vote on the measure and said that even if it passed he believed construction would come to a standstill for a year until the plant is completed.

Several citizens urged the council to abandon plans for the election until planning studies are complete. Sue Langhans told the council, "We don't trust you right now to meet our needs."

"I know you don't," Mayor Helen Putnam replied.

The Mayor closed discussion and called for the vote over strong objections by citizens who had had no chance to speak on the issue.

The Petaluma City Council also:

ABAG — Rejected by a 4-3 vote a resolution supporting the withdrawal of Sonoma County from the Association of Bay Area Governments. Supporting the withdrawal were councilmen Robert A. Brunner, Daly and Cavanagh.

TWO ROCK — Approved a resolution supporting the plans of the Coast Guard to acquire the Two Rock Ranch Army Station for a training school. The Army will abandon the post on June 31 in a Department of Defense economy move.

OVERCROSSING — Approved an agreement with the state to share half the costs in construction of a pedestrian overcrossing of Highway 101 at East Washington Street. Young said the original estimated city cost of $88,000 had risen to $125,300 because of increased construction and engineering costs. He said federal funds would probably supply $117,907 with the city paying $7,393 from state gas tax funds.

COMMITTEE — Received a joint letter from the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association, Petaluma Gardens Homeowners Association and East Petaluma Civic Association asking that representation from East Petaluma be included on the citizens committee to update the 1962 general plan.

MEETING — Adjourned to Monday at 7:30 p.m. to hear a report from representatives of Third Way House on a drug program for teen-agers.

Recycling Appeal To Mill Valley

Roger Bockrath, representing Survival, Inc., which operates recycling depots at Marin's seven high schools each weekend, said his group needs trucks and adult volunteers to continue the operation.

Survival Inc. spends $300 a week to rent trucks to haul materials to collection facilities in the Bay Area, said Bockrath, the Independent-Journal photographer whose photos of the Aug. 7 Civic Center shoot-out have won several prizes.

Volunteers older than 21 are needed at each depot to oversee high school workers, said Bockrath.

"When we started, one-fourth of one per cent of Marin's garbage was recycled," Bockrath said. "Now we handle between 3 and 4 per cent of the waste."

Garbage that isn't recycled ends up as Bay fill at the San Quentin dump site, he said.

"Even though only 4 per cent of the county's refuse is recycled, Bockrath said Survival Inc. collected enough newspaper last weekend to save 225 trees from the pulp mills.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

SLIDE — Awarded a $3,415 contract to W. K. McLellan of San Anselmo to remove a slide at 341 Linda Vista Drive.

EXCEPTIONS — Granted exceptions to minor requirements of the subdivision ordinance for a 68-unit condominium project proposed by Trans-Marin Properties Inc. at Sycamore Avenue and La Goma Street.

LANE — Agreed to abandon a lane between Oakdale and Buena Vista avenues.

VIBRATIONS — Agreed to have extra carpet padding installed at the public library to reduce floor vibrations.

ACCESS — Agreed to prohibit motor vehicle access on a 10-foot lane between West Blithedale Avenue and Winwood Place.

LEASE — Referred a lease on the city-owned bus depot to City Atty. Leland H. Jordan and the attorney for Janice Aronoff for negotiation. The lease, for $250 a month, would extend to Dec. 31.

APPEAL — Was told by Jordan that a cease and desist order, which may be initiated by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board may be appealed to the state Water Resources Control Board and then to superior court.

MEETING — Set a meeting with the Mill Valley School District board for 8 p.m. April 13 at the city hall to discuss a swimming pool for the middle school.

SEWER — Accepted into the city sewer system 96 feet of six-inch sewer from 30 to 43 Elaine Avenue.

ENTERTAINMENT — Decided that all places with live entertainment must secure a use permit, instead of only those establishments within 200 feet of a residential zone.

BONDS — Set June 29 for a special election on a $1.8 million capital improvements bond issue.

LIBRARY — Authorized the city attorney to inform the Marin County Board of Supervisors that the city intends to sue the county to recover money spent providing library service to out-of-town residents under the North Bay Cooperative Library System. The city feels nonresidents have used the city library more than city residents have used other libraries.

CAMINO ALTO — Appropriated $22,000 from gasoline tax funds for engineering studies of Camino Alto.

BRIDGE — Approved plans and specifications and called for bids for the reconstruction of the Camino Alto bridge over Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio.

MEETING — Set May 5 at 8 p.m. at city hall for a meeting with the city planning commission to resolve differences between the two bodies.

NEXT SESSION — Adjourned to April 19 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

A Guilty Driver Pays For Damage

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)— Three bent garbage cans and a cardboard box caused a minor panic in a residential neighborhood at 7 p.m. until police took care of the situation.

The garbage cans were in the middle of the street with the box tied to them. Fearing a bomb booby-trap, residents called police, who cautiously approached the cans and opened the box. Inside was $6 and a note saying it was to pay for the damage a motorist had caused to the cans.

Another Clash On New Union

The encounter began when Mayor George E. Wickham and Victor C. Thuesen, representing the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, clashed over whether the Mill Valley Employees Association, a union affiliate, was the employer's official bargaining agent.

12 REQUESTS

It ended when Wickham told Thuesen to comply with a list of 12 requests by City Atty. Leland H. Jordan in order for the employees association to be recognized as the bargaining agent.

In between, Thuesen objected to the city applying a 1969 resolution to his employees organization. The resolution specifies how an employee organization is to be recognized. Thuesen said the cumbersome recognition procedure was not applied until his union was chosen to represent the city employees.

He also complained that City Mgr. William H. Cunningham refused to accept his telephone calls and to meet with him to begin contract negotiations, but Cunningham said he had returned Thuesen's calls only to find him out and that meetings were not appropriate until formal recognition took place.

AGENDA ITEM

The labor organizer also tangled with Wickham over whether a topic he wanted to discuss would be placed on the agenda. He then accused the city of refusing to act in good faith.

"I doubt that you're acting in good faith," Wickham replied. The council only learned that the employees organization had affiliated with the union when notified by special delivery letter three weeks ago, he said.

Thuesen countered by saying that internal affairs of the employees association — such as deciding whether to affiliate with a labor union — did not concern the council.

Thuesen later called the recognition resolution "a stupid law" but said the employee group would go along with it. Steps required by the resolution could be completed in three days, he said, and contract discussions with Cunningham could start immediately.

Thuesen, whose union represents 41 of the city's 83 employees (police and firemen are excepted), spent much of yesterday at the Marin County Civic Center attempting to organize the 750-member Marin County Employees Association.

Children's Pantomime Scheduled

Park Plan Wins Corte Madera Nod

The Corte Madera Town Council voted last night to apply for about $37,000 in federal matching funds to create a small park near Granada School in east Corte Madera.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels told the council it had to apply to the Department of Housing and Urban Development before April 30 to be considered for funds in fiscal 1971-72.

The application, he said, does not bind the town to accept the money for the $75,000 park.

As envisioned by the town's park and recreation commission the park on Reed School District land would include tennis courts, picnic areas, a spray pool and parking.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

NOISE — Put over to March 19 a proposed ordinance regulating sound transmission in apartment units.

PARKING — Amended the parking standards for apartments to require two off-street spaces, for each new apartment of three or more bedrooms instead of one and a half spaces.

COUNTY FUNDS — Decided to apply for $1,000 matching funds from the Marin County Youth Commission and $2,000 matching funds from the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

HOME BUSINESS — Granted a request by Ursula Silversides of 126 Endeavor Drive to set up a part-time business making bookends, plaques and other decorations at her home.

RACKS — Referred to the chamber of commerce and business association a request by Mrs. Bruce P. Thompson of 545 Chapman Drive to install bicycle racks in the business sections of town.

ASSESSMENT DISTRICT — Accepted a petition from six residents of Hawthorne Lane Seeking to form a special assessment district and authorized staff to draw up a resolution of intention to form such a district for hearing at the April 19 meeting. Work estimated to cost the city $3,300 and the residents $13,000 would include paving, culverts and a fireline.

TAMALPAIS DRIVE — Introduced a resolution to form an underground utility district along Tamalpais Drive from the Highway 101 to the town center and set a public hearing for May 3.

TANKER TRUCK — Authorized the sale of a 1942 tanker truck used to water along Paradise Drive.

TRAFFIC SIGNAL — Approved improving the intersection of Tamalpais Drive and Madera Boulevard with $21,000 in new traffic signals that would include a left turn signal and pedestrian signals.

ECOLOGY WEEK — Proclaimed April 18-24 the Semi-annual Corte Madera Ecology and Cleanup Week, following, after a fashion, a request by the Encino (Los Angeles County) Jaycees to label it California Ecology Week.

BILLS — Supported an assembly bill to reform the California City Annexation Act and opposed an assembly bill that would end city representation on water quality control boards.

BUDGET — Approved, as the board of the Corte Madera Sanitary District, a capital outlay budget of $49,600.

SEWAGE — Decided to ask the Ross Valley Sanitary District to begin plans for expanding its sewage treatment facility which also handles the waste of the Corte Madera Sanitary District.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to April 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

Innocent Plea In Forgery

Another Account Of JFK Rescue

A former PT-boat commander who helped rescue John F. Kennedy and his crew during World War II yesterday added his account to the saga of PT-109 and called for a return to the values he attributed to the assassinated president.

"He felt the word 'courage' and the word 'honor' are the two most important words in the English language," said Theodore M. Robinson of Sacramento.

Robinson, who manned the radar on a nearby vessel the night Kennedy's boat was rammed by a Japanese destroyer, participated in the rescue of Kennedy and later lived with him during three months of recuperation.

Speaking to the San Rafael Rotary Club, Robinson gave his version of the now-famous events of Aug. 1, 1943, in the Solomon Sea.

He said the book "PT-109" was inaccurate in two places. He said that the captains of the high-speed plywood boats were aware they were dealing with destroyers. The book said they thought barges were chugging towards them.

The book also said Kennedy did not get the message that the destroyers were near, but Robinson said word was sent out over Army walkie talkies to each boat.

Kennedy survived the sinking, wangled another command "and he went back up the line for four more months of heavy, heavy combat and he lived through this only to lose his life to some knucklehead in this country," Robinson said.

Combining the speaking styles of a salesman and standup comedian with what he called his republican views, he criticized "baby doctors" and those under 18 who think they are military experts and said leaders, like Kennedy, must have a sense of humor.

"Hitler didn't have one and you saw what happened to him. Some of those on the left are in that same category," he said.

Robinson served four and a half years in the Navy during the war and is now a lieutenant commander in the Navy Reserve.

While Kennedy rose through the political ranks, Robinson worked for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. At 51 he is a regional supervisor for public relations, director of the management speakers bureau and executive speech writer for the company.

He threw in a few plugs for his company, but said his purpose in speaking about Kennedy was to elevate the concept of honor in the American value system.

"I am very much concerned that this word has lost its place on the front page of our papers," he said.

Park Plan Wins Corte Madera Nod

The Corte Madera Town Council voted last night to apply for about $37,000 in federal matching funds to create a small park near Granada School in east Corte Madera.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels told the council it had to apply to the Department of Housing and Urban Development before April 30 to be considered for funds in fiscal 1971-72.

The application, he said, does not bind the town to accept the money for the $75,000 park.

As envisioned by the town's park and recreation commission the park on Reed School District land would include tennis courts, picnic areas, a spray pool and parking.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

PARKING — Amended the parking standards for apartments to require two off-street spaces, for each new apartment of three or more bedrooms instead of one and a half spaces.

COUNTY FUNDS — Decided to apply for $1,000 matching funds from the Marin County Youth Commission and $2,000 matching funds from the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

HOME BUSINESS — Granted a request by Ursula Silversides of 126 Endeavor Drive to set up a part-time business making bookends, plaques and other decorations at her home.

RACKS — Referred to the chamber of commerce and business association a request by Mrs. Bruce P. Thompson of 545 Chapman Drive to install bicycle racks in the business sections of town.

ASSESSMENT DISTRICT — Accepted a petition from six residents of Hawthorne Lane Seeking to form a special assessment district and authorized staff to draw up a resolution of intention to form such a district for hearing at the April 19 meeting. Work estimated to cost the city $3,300 and the residents $13,000 would include paving, culverts and a fireline.

TAMALPAIS DRIVE — Introduced a resolution to form an underground utility district along Tamalpais Drive from the Highway 101 to the town center and set a public hearing for May 3.

TANKER TRUCK — Authorized the sale of a 1942 tanker truck used to water along Paradise Drive.

TRAFFIC SIGNAL — Approved improving the intersection of Tamalpais Drive and Madera Boulevard with $21,000 in new traffic signals that would include a left turn signal and pedestrian signals.

ECOLOGY WEEK — Proclaimed April 18-24 the Semi-annual Corte Madera Ecology and Cleanup Week, following, after a fashion, a request by the Encino (Los Angeles County) Jaycees to label it California Ecology Week.

BILLS — Supported an assembly bill to reform the California City Annexation Act and opposed an assembly bill that would end city representation on water quality control boards.

BUDGET — Approved, as the board of the Corte Madera Sanitary District, a capital outlay budget of $49,600.

SEWAGE — Decided to ask the Ross Valley Sanitary District to begin plans for expanding its sewage treatment facility which also handles the waste of the Corte Madera Sanitary District.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to April 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

WHEELRIGHT RANCH

60 Choice Acres Offered To Tamalpais School District

Rancher-conservationist George W. Wheelright III, rancher-conservationist, has offered the Tamalpais High School District his Southern Marin ranch house and adjoining 60 acres for $250,000.

The offer is good until June 1, according to Trustee Frank L. Miller, who estimated the actual value of the property at about $1 million.

As with his gift of 535 Upland acres to the Nature Conservancy in February, Wheelright has placed strings on his offer to insure the property remains in its present state.

Miller said the rancher wants the district to develop an ecological laboratory on the property. Deed restrictions would limit the property to noncommercial use, would limit building size to under three stories and would limit lot coverage to 10 per cent.

Besides the ranch house, the property also has a smaller home, a pool, barn, livestock pens, underground reservoir and utilities.

The ranch was known as the Green Gulch Ranch until recently when when it was renamed the Hope Wheelright Preserve in memory of his late wife as a condition to giving it to the conservation group.

It stretches across brush-covered hills and canyons to the ocean near Muir Beach. That portion offered to the high school district is located on the floor of a lush, irrigated valley.

Miller said the proposal, now being studied by District Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, his staff and faculty, offers many possibilities as an outdoor laboratory.

"It's not available short of that ($1 million) price," Miller said, adding the district has several alternatives available for funding.

Miller, who sees the ranch as the first environmental high school in the nation, said if the project is deamed feasible by the faculty and administration then funding might come from private foundations and industry.

The facility itself could be an extension of the district's three schools, he said, or it could be a completely separate school for students to pursue science interests.

"It's worth investigating further," he concluded. "Young people don't have a place to go to do research on the environment. This could be a prototype."

More Violence In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) —Army and police "saturation patrols" fanned through the upper Springfield Road area of Belfast today when crowds stoning vehicles threatened to touch off more serious street violence.

Police said they had received 141 rifles, 16 pistols and 96 revolvers, 43, shotguns, 46 air guns in addition to bayonets and signal pistols.

The amnesty expires at midnight Thursday.

IRS Makes A Giant Mistake

NEENAH, Wis. (UPI)—Mrs. Jeanne Basler opened her income tax return expecting the $148 she had claimed on her Form 1040.

Inside was a check for $69,874.04.

A call to the Internal Revenue Service confirmed Mrs. Basler's suspicion that it was the IRS and not she who had made the mistake.

"I wouldn't have kept it anyway," she said. "It made me nervous."

Dog Kennel Proposal Wins Novato Permit

A private kennel for up to 15 sled dogs will be permitted at 1763 Indian Valley Road near Gate Lane in Southwest Novato.

Ralph D. Cairns, deputy county zoning administrator, granted the Kennel permit yesterday to Robert Levorsen, who now lives at 332 San Rafael Avenue in Belvedere. His present neighbors in Belvedere testified that Levorsen's sled dogs are the quietest dogs they have ever seen.

Levorsen said he plans to keep about a dozen dogs on the four-acre property on Indian Valley Road and will use the dogs strictly for sport racing.

Cairns approved the permit on condition that Levorsen keep the dogs in the house at night and under contral at all times so that they will not bother neighbors.

Charles P. Davies of 1709 Indian Valley Road said he does not know how noisy sled dogs are, but "I'm getting tired of not sleeping at night." He said Romar Kennels located to the rear of his property, and this kennel will be in front.

The zoning administrator warned Levorsen that the permit is renewable each year and can be revoked if the animals become a nuisance.

Cairns approved a use permit for an arts and crafts store for Joseph Albright at Olema. The store will occupy an old realty office at 9975 Shoreline Highway, at the intersection with Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Albright said he plans to sell candles, looms, carvings and other handicrafts.

Slight Traffic Tie-Ups During Bridge Repairs

Only minor traffic tie-ups were reported yesterday during the first day of repairs to Larkspur's Bon Air Bridge, damaged during the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Signs have been erected along Magnolia Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to advise motorists of travel conditions on the bridge.

Traffic schedules provided by the city show:

Today and tomorrow — One-way traffic allowed at times. Thursday through May 20 — Bridge will be closed to traffic between 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. Whenever possible, the bridge will be open for night and weekend travel.

May 21 to June 14 — No traffic will be allowed at any time.

June 15 to June 21 — Bridge will be closed to traffic between 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. but open nights and weekend.

The bridge was weakened during the Army Corps of Engineer's dredging of the creek which exposed bridge pilings.

The cost of repairs is expected to run about $140,000 of which the Army will pay half, the state about 30 per cent and the city and county about 10 per cent each.

Guilty Plea To Two Theft Charges

William Bradford Cleveland, 27, of no known address, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on a charge of stealing three guitars from a San Rafael man Dec. 9.

He is to enter a plea to the charge April 19.

Policies on Tap

Board policies and procedures will be discussed at a special workshop meeting of directors of the Marin City Services District at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Manzanita Center, Marin City. District Secretary Lillian Lee said the board will review all its policies, since many have remained unchanged since the district was formed.

Economy has been serving at the base as personnel sergeant major for the Western Air Force Reserve Region.

Jail Time For 1969 Burglary

Daniel John Johnston, 21, of San Rafael, was sentenced to 30 days in Marin County Jail and fined $250 yesterday for the burglary of the Citadel Nightclub in San Rafael Dec. 11, 1969.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court also placed Johnston on probation for two years.

Johnston was found guilty of the burglary by a jury last November. A codefendant who pleaded guilty was sentenced to 90 days in jail last year.

Fact-Finders Hear Novel Idea For Solving Fuss

Why not detach Marin's human rights commission and department from county government and form a nonprofit corporation, which would then provide human relations work under contract with the county?

This novel idea was proposed yesterday by Parnel Finn, member of the five-man fact-finding committee which is probing the troubles that have plagued the Human Rights Department.

One of the main complaints of the present structure is that the human rights director feels harrassed and oppressed by the county administrator. Mrs. Finn said the nonprofit corporation idea would eliminate that feeling of harrassment.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said the nonprofit corporation is legally possible but explained that the county administrator would still retain some budget control because he would make recommendations each year on the amount and type of contract to be drawn up between the county and the nonprofit corporation.

The fact-finding committee members, headed by Chairman Milen C. Dempster, said they like the private corporation idea because it would take the human rights agency from under the thumb of the county administrator and make it directly responsible to the county board of supervisors.

Before formally endorsing the idea, the fact-finders decided to ask the human rights commissioners for their reactions.

Three-fourths of 14,500 motorists when questioned as to their opinions as to whether their automobiles were considered safe reported "very safe." Yet inspection reports showed over half of the cars needed some repairs.

A Safe Landing Just Too Much

TOKYO (UPI)—Michiji Iso, 21, fell off the roof of a nine-story building Monday night, creashed through the roof of another structure and ended up in bed with two women.

Iso escaped with slight head and leg injuries but police said the women passed out from shock after officers arrived.

Another Account Of JFK Rescue

A former PT-boat commander who helped rescue John F. Kennedy and his crew during World War II yesterday added his account to the saga of PT-109 and called for a return to the values he attributed to the assassinated president.

"He felt the word 'courage' and the word 'honor' are the two most important words in the English language," said Theodore M. Robinson of Sacramento.

Robinson, who manned the radar on a nearby vessel the night Kennedy's boat was rammed by a Japanese destroyer, participated in the rescue of Kennedy and later lived with him during three months of recuperation.

A Woman Welder Named Desire

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

HONOLULU (UPI)—Beneath the face shield, helmet, heavy denim shirt and pants is a blonde welder named Desire.

For the last 18 years, Desire Brooks has welded everything from the booster rockets in the initial Apollo space flights to torpedo tubes and luxury yachts.

The only female member of the Hawaii Chapter of the American Welding Society advises women planning to join the ranks that the occupation and femininity do mix but only with a lot of work at both.

"WELDING TAKES strength and fortitude," Mrs. Brooks said. "These qualities plus the heavy clothing make it easy to forget you're a woman." Strength is particularly important in states such as Hawaii which have no law regulating the maximum weights women may handle.

"I've found myself at one end of a 500-pound rail with a man at the other, both of us lifting it," Mrs. Brooks said.

Mrs. Brooks, married recently, said, "It takes a real effort not to become brazen and hard. You have to keep reminding yourself you're a woman and behave like one."

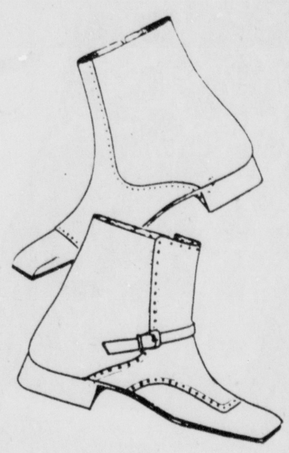
There's a trim figure under the leather jacket she often wears to keep the sparks off when welding. She pulled off her helmet, face mask and gloves and revealed flattering blonde hair, green eyes and nails manicured and polished.

"I have to shampoo about every three days or wear a wig," she said.

MRS. BROOKS, who now makes railings for Island Steel and Welding Ltd., came to Honolulu in 1965 after extensive experience in California, including the work on the booster rockets of Rocketdyne at Canoga Park where she worked in the research and development division.

"I've always been mechanically inclined," she said, "but I didn't plan on becoming a welder. When I couldn't find a clerical job 18 years ago, an employer asked me if I could learn to weld. I figured I could do anything anyone else could do, and I've been at it ever since."

To the girl who's looking to be a welder, Mrs. Brooks warned that male colleagues aren't always enthusiastic about a woman on the job.



"On a construction job one of the guys almost fell off his tractor into a quarry when he saw me," she said. "I know I have to work harder and do a better job. When I apply for a job, I stress my qualifications and experience, not the fact I'm female."

"I'm always catching on to things that break down," she said. But she added, "The trouble is I'm often too tired from work to fix them."

DESIRE BROOKS, the only female member of the Hawaii Chapter of the American Welding Society, is beneath the face shield, helmet, heavy denim shirt and pants. Eighteen years ago, when she could not find a clerical job, an employer asked her if she could learn to weld, and since then she has welded everything from booster rockets to torpedo tubes to luxury yachts. More Wives Work Now

As any working woman knows, in grandmother's day Heaven protected the working girl. All the working wife had going for her was the 19th Amendment—which gave women the right to vote. This is not too surprising, when you consider that during 1920, only one out of 10 married women were in the country's labor force.

In fact, in grandma's time, a woman who combined a job with keeping house, and maybe childcaring, was often looked upon with the interest usually reserved for a novelty act on the vaudeville circuit. What was surprising was not to see it done well, but that it was done at all.

Things have certainly picked up since then. In 1970 working women made up no less than 41 per cent of the married female population. The figure just 10 years earlier was 31 per cent.

THE MAIN reasons married women work, reports the Institute of Life Insurance, are the same as for their earlier day counterparts: to contribute toward rent or to help buy a home; to help pay for children's education; or to resume an interrupted career. Often all three.

For one thing, she is more apt to be a high school graduate and to have gone beyond that to college. She is also more likely to be a clerical worker. A half-century ago, she would probably have worked in a factory.

She has a great many more opportunities in choosing a career — from astronomy to space-selling — than the working wife of 50 years ago had. Also, if asked how she manages to combine marriage and a job, she is more apt to bristle, and wonder how come nobody ever asks a man that.

IF SHE sometimes feels that her job situation is still less than perfect she is frequently right. According to the government's own figures, women tend to make at least $3,500 on the average less than men — and sometimes at the same jobs.

One point most everyone agrees on: a working wife can be a decided financial asset to her family.

WHEELRIGHT RANCH

Rancher-conservationist George W. Wheelright III, rancher-conservationist, has offered the Tamalpais High School District his Southern Marin ranch house and adjoining 60 acres for $250,000.

The offer is good until June 1, according to Trustee Frank L. Miller, who estimated the actual value of the property at about $1 million.

As with his gift of 535 Upland acres to the Nature Conservancy in February, Wheelright has placed strings on his offer to insure the property remains in its present state.

Miller said the rancher wants the district to develop an ecological laboratory on the property. Deed restrictions would limit the property to noncommercial use, would limit building size to under three stories and would limit lot coverage to 10 per cent.

Besides the ranch house, the property also has a smaller home, a pool, barn, livestock pens, underground reservoir and utilities.

The ranch was known as the Green Gulch Ranch until recently when when it was renamed the Hope Wheelright Preserve in memory of his late wife as a condition to giving it to the conservation group.

It stretches across brush-covered hills and canyons to the ocean near Muir Beach. That portion offered to the high school district is located on the floor of a lush, irrigated valley.

Miller said the proposal, now being studied by District Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, his staff and faculty, offers many possibilities as an outdoor laboratory.

"It's not available short of that ($1 million) price," Miller said, adding the district has several alternatives available for funding.

Miller, who sees the ranch as the first environmental high school in the nation, said if the project is deamed feasible by the faculty and administration then funding might come from private foundations and industry.

The facility itself could be an extension of the district's three schools, he said, or it could be a completely separate school for students to pursue science interests.

"It's worth investigating further," he concluded. "Young people don't have a place to go to do research on the environment. This could be a prototype."

Dog Kennel Proposal Wins Novato Permit

A private kennel for up to 15 sled dogs will be permitted at 1763 Indian Valley Road near Gate Lane in Southwest Novato.

Ralph D. Cairns, deputy county zoning administrator, granted the Kennel permit yesterday to Robert Levorsen, who now lives at 332 San Rafael Avenue in Belvedere. His present neighbors in Belvedere testified that Levorsen's sled dogs are the quietest dogs they have ever seen.

Levorsen said he plans to keep about a dozen dogs on the four-acre property on Indian Valley Road and will use the dogs strictly for sport racing.

Cairns approved the permit on condition that Levorsen keep the dogs in the house at night and under contral at all times so that they will not bother neighbors.

Charles P. Davies of 1709 Indian Valley Road said he does not know how noisy sled dogs are, but "I'm getting tired of not sleeping at night." He said Romar Kennels located to the rear of his property, and this kennel will be in front.

The zoning administrator warned Levorsen that the permit is renewable each year and can be revoked if the animals become a nuisance.

Cairns approved a use permit for an arts and crafts store for Joseph Albright at Olema. The store will occupy an old realty office at 9975 Shoreline Highway, at the intersection with Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Albright said he plans to sell candles, looms, carvings and other handicrafts.

Slight Traffic Tie-Ups During Bridge Repairs

Only minor traffic tie-ups were reported yesterday during the first day of repairs to Larkspur's Bon Air Bridge, damaged during the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Signs have been erected along Magnolia Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to advise motorists of travel conditions on the bridge.

Traffic schedules provided by the city show:

Today and tomorrow — One-way traffic allowed at times. Thursday through May 20 — Bridge will be closed to traffic between 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. Whenever possible, the bridge will be open for night and weekend travel.

May 21 to June 14 — No traffic will be allowed at any time.

June 15 to June 21 — Bridge will be closed to traffic between 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. but open nights and weekend.

The bridge was weakened during the Army Corps of Engineer's dredging of the creek which exposed bridge pilings.

The cost of repairs is expected to run about $140,000 of which the Army will pay half, the state about 30 per cent and the city and county about 10 per cent each.

More Violence In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) —Army and police "saturation patrols" fanned through the upper Springfield Road area of Belfast today when crowds stoning vehicles threatened to touch off more serious street violence.

Police said they had received 141 rifles, 16 pistols and 96 revolvers, 43, shotguns, 46 air guns in addition to bayonets and signal pistols.

The amnesty expires at midnight Thursday.

IRS Makes A Giant Mistake

NEENAH, Wis. (UPI)—Mrs. Jeanne Basler opened her income tax return expecting the $148 she had claimed on her Form 1040.

Inside was a check for $69,874.04.

A call to the Internal Revenue Service confirmed Mrs. Basler's suspicion that it was the IRS and not she who had made the mistake.

"I wouldn't have kept it anyway," she said. "It made me nervous."

Guilty Plea To Two Theft Charges

William Bradford Cleveland, 27, of no known address, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on a charge of stealing three guitars from a San Rafael man Dec. 9.

He is to enter a plea to the charge April 19.

Policies on Tap

Board policies and procedures will be discussed at a special workshop meeting of directors of the Marin City Services District at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Manzanita Center, Marin City. District Secretary Lillian Lee said the board will review all its policies, since many have remained unchanged since the district was formed.

Chief Master/Sgt. James Economy has been named base sergeant major at Hamilton Air Force Base, effective April 19.

Economy has been serving at the base as personnel sergeant major for the Western Air Force Reserve Region.

Jail Time For 1969 Burglary

Daniel John Johnston, 21, of San Rafael, was sentenced to 30 days in Marin County Jail and fined $250 yesterday for the burglary of the Citadel Nightclub in San Rafael Dec. 11, 1969.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court also placed Johnston on probation for two years.

Johnston was found guilty of the burglary by a jury last November. A codefendant who pleaded guilty was sentenced to 90 days in jail last year.

Fact-Finders Hear Novel Idea For Solving Fuss

Why not detach Marin's human rights commission and department from county government and form a nonprofit corporation, which would then provide human relations work under contract with the county?

This novel idea was proposed yesterday by Parnel Finn, member of the five-man fact-finding committee which is probing the troubles that have plagued the Human Rights Department.

One of the main complaints of the present structure is that the human rights director feels harrassed and oppressed by the county administrator. Mrs. Finn said the nonprofit corporation idea would eliminate that feeling of harrassment.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said the nonprofit corporation is legally possible but explained that the county administrator would still retain some budget control because he would make recommendations each year on the amount and type of contract to be drawn up between the county and the nonprofit corporation.

The fact-finding committee members, headed by Chairman Milen C. Dempster, said they like the private corporation idea because it would take the human rights agency from under the thumb of the county administrator and make it directly responsible to the county board of supervisors.

Before formally endorsing the idea, the fact-finders decided to ask the human rights commissioners for their reactions.

Three-fourths of 14,500 motorists when questioned as to their opinions as to whether their automobiles were considered safe reported "very safe." Yet inspection reports showed over half of the cars needed some repairs.

A Safe Landing Just Too Much

TOKYO (UPI)—Michiji Iso, 21, fell off the roof of a nine-story building Monday night, creashed through the roof of another structure and ended up in bed with two women.

Iso escaped with slight head and leg injuries but police said the women passed out from shock after officers arrived.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Can She Collect Unemployment Because Her Boss Harrassed Her?

DEAR HELEN:

I quit my job because my boss was a wolf. When I wouldn't play that way, he tried to "educate" me, so I turned in my notice.

Because I had quit, I found I couldn't collect unemployment benefits. You have to be laid off. I didn't go into details, figuring "refusal" would not count.

After four months I got another job.

Just recently I heard of a case where a girl collected unemployment pay when she proved she was harrassed into quitting because of an amorous employer.

Could I apply for back benefits, using this as an example? I need to settle old bills. — PURELY BROKE

DEAR PURE:

Could you prove the charge? I'm afraid experienced wolves cover their tracks well, and his word against yours might make you look pretty silly.

But don't take my word. Inquire at the unemployment agency.

DEAR HELEN:

I have a long beard and hair to match. Why not? It's a free country. But the lawmakers around here have ruled that we can't get aid unless we make ourselves "employable," which means shorter hair and a partial shave. I am enclosing a picture of me at the commune. Is this fair? — BIG ISRAEL

DEAR BIG IS:

It's their marbles. So they can call the rules. If you won't trim up the brush, maybe you can live off the land. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Mrs. J. B. sure had it right when she said "teen-ager" today seems to be a bad word.

I have two teen-age sisters and many teen friends. Recently one of our friends got into an accident and, although it was the other person's fault, he was blamed. He was "one of those wild kid drivers," they said.

When we go into stores, the sales clerks follow us around, watching to see if we lift something.

Recently a bunch of us went into a pizza place after a game. The manager said, "Get out, you're teen-agers, and we don't want trouble."

Sure, a few kids cause trouble, but why do so many adults see us all as one big glob of bad news? — PAT

DEAR PAT:

"So many" or so few? Think back, Pat. Out of perhaps 25 stores and restaurants you've visited in the last week, in how many can you honestly say you were "put down bad?" For no reason?

"Sure, a few adults cause trouble, but why do so many teens see us all as one big glob of bad news?"

It works both ways. — H.

A Chemist Warns On Enzymes

A chemist in Santa Barbara warns housewives against using laundry soaps containing bacterial enzymes, advises organic food buffs they might be risking malnutrition, and seeks to introduce our future diet—algae.

Dr. Bernard R. Baker, chemist at the University of California at Santa Barbara, explains at since ths soap additives are 'foreign' enzymes, the body sometimes reacts to them defensively, setting up an allergic reaction. He particularly warns housewives not to breathe such soap powder and to rinse clothes thoroughly after using it.

'The dirt spots are much safer than the enzymes,' says Dr. Baker, recipient of Denmark's Alfred Benzon Prize for 1970 in recognition of his research in enzyme inhibitors of DNA synthesis.

Excessive reliance on organic diets can lead to malnutrition, he says, because plants by themselves do not provide enough nutrients. Some of the amino acids we need to live must be manufactured or derived from animals.

Algae as a daily diet? Ultimately, says Dr. Baker. Its potential as a food source is almost unlimited. In several hundred years it will be our most efficient food source. First, however, peoples' attitudes will need to change.

Heart Motif Is Big In Spring Jewelry

It would seem so, for all women are young in the spring, and this year they're wearing their hearts not only on their sleeves but on dog collars, on belts, on long chains of leather, on wide plastic cuff bracelets.

It's all part of the heart motif in fashion jewelry, which finds colored hearts, golden hearts, silver hearts and pewter hearts taking the pulse of spring.

Butterflies as well as hearts are aflutter, leaving their imprint on belts, pendants, highup chokers.

Both butterflies and hearts hark back to the past, and so does the Victorian influence in jewelry, expressing another kind of nostalgia.

Victorian reminiscing lingers over bar pins, cameo lockets and earrings, rings of opal, ivory and agate, of enamel and gold wire, with velvet ribbon and colorful miniatures, dog collars of jet with matching earrings.

Not only designs but materials mark a fresh approach to spring's jewelry, from the elegance of jet and velvet, pearls and textured gold to beads, wood, rope, sea shells and braided, woven looks.

Metals mold many looks. Copper, silver (real or imagined, shined up or dull, darkened for pattern or depth), steel and brass are mined for all their fashion worth.

These same metals appear in symbolic jewelry for luck, peace, love, ecology, the Zodiac.

Jewelry for the hair curtsies to the past, in many materials. It's classically tailored or blazingly jeweled, in filigree and beaten gold, silver, copper.

Joy Bavuso Is Bride Of Clifford L. Juillerat

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Juillerat of Honolulu are Clifford's parents. He is a graduate of the University of California. He is the brother of Lee Juillerat of Fremont and Russell Juillerat.

More Wives Work Now

As any working woman knows, in grandmother's day Heaven protected the working girl. All the working wife had going for her was the 19th Amendment — which gave women the right to vote. This is not too surprising, when you consider that during 1920, only one out of 10 married women were in the country's labor force.

In fact, in grandma's time, a woman who combined a job with keeping house, and maybe childcaring, was often looked upon with the interest usually reserved for a novelty act on the vaudeville circuit. What was surprising was not to see it done well, but that it was done at all.

Things have certainly picked up since then. In 1970 working women made up no less than 41 per cent of the married female population. The figure just 10 years earlier was 31 per cent.

THE MAIN reasons married women work, reports the Institute of Life Insurance, are the same as for their earlier day counterparts: to contribute toward rent or to help buy a home; to help pay for children's education; or to resume an interrupted career. Often all three.

For one thing, she is more apt to be a high school graduate and to have gone beyond that to college. She is also more likely to be a clerical worker. A half-century ago, she would probably have worked in a factory.

She has a great many more opportunities in choosing a career — from astronomy to space-selling — than the working wife of 50 years ago had. Also, if asked how she manages to combine marriage and a job, she is more apt to bristle, and wonder how come nobody ever asks a man that.

IF SHE sometimes feels that her job situation is still less than perfect she is frequently right. According to the government's own figures, women tend to make at least $3,500 on the average less than men — and sometimes at the same jobs.

One point most everyone agrees on: a working wife can be a decided financial asset to her family.

A Woman Welder Named Desire

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

For the last 18 years, Desire Brooks has welded everything from the booster rockets in the initial Apollo space flights to torpedo tubes and luxury yachts.

The only female member of the Hawaii Chapter of the American Welding Society advises women planning to join the ranks that the occupation and femininity do mix but only with a lot of work at both.

"WELDING TAKES strength and fortitude," Mrs. Brooks said. "These qualities plus the heavy clothing make it easy to forget you're a woman." Strength is particularly important in states such as Hawaii which have no law regulating the maximum weights women may handle.

"I've found myself at one end of a 500-pound rail with a man at the other, both of us lifting it," Mrs. Brooks said.

Mrs. Brooks, married recently, said, "It takes a real effort not to become brazen and hard. You have to keep reminding yourself you're a woman and behave like one."

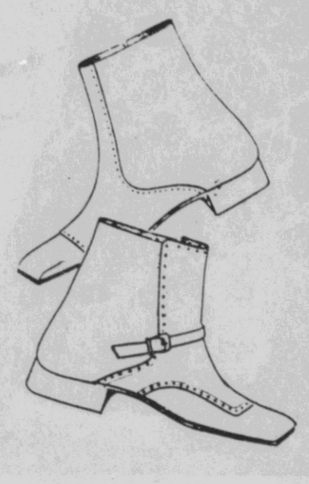
There's a trim figure under the leather jacket she often wears to keep the sparks off when welding. She pulled off her helmet, face mask and gloves and revealed flattering blonde hair, green eyes and nails manicured and polished.

"I have to shampoo about every three days or wear a wig," she said.

MRS. BROOKS, who now makes railings for Island Steel and Welding Ltd., came to Honolulu in 1965 after extensive experience in California, including the work on the booster rockets of Rocketdyne at Canoga Park where she worked in the research and development division.

"I've always been mechanically inclined," she said, "but I didn't plan on becoming a welder. When I couldn't find a clerical job 18 years ago, an employer asked me if I could learn to weld. I figured I could do anything anyone else could do, and I've been at it ever since."

To the girl who's looking to be a welder, Mrs. Brooks warned that male colleagues aren't always enthusiastic about a woman on the job.



"On a construction job one of the guys almost fell off his tractor into a quarry when he saw me," she said. "I know I have to work harder and do a better job. When I apply for a job, I stress my qualifications and experience, not the fact I'm female."

"I'm always catching on to things that break down," she said. But she added, "The trouble is I'm often too tired from work to fix them."

DESIRE BROOKS, the only female member of the Hawaii Chapter of the American Welding Society, is beneath the face shield, helmet, heavy denim shirt and pants. Eighteen years ago, when she could not find a clerical job, an employer asked her if she could learn to weld, and since then she has welded everything from booster rockets to torpedo tubes to luxury yachts. A Solution If You Don't Like Anything About Your Own Hair

Few girls are ever satisfied with their hair. Those who have curly hair want it straight, girls with straight hair want wavy, those who have a coarser texture want silky, and so on.

Fashion also has a hand in who is contented with her hair each season, switching styles with regularity. The past few years young women have been wearing long, swingy, straight-as-sticks hair. About half of these girls have been battling with lotions, potions, straighteners and pressing irons to decurl and de-wave their natural tresses.

The result, unfortunately, often has been too many dried-out lifeless and falling heads of hair.

TO THE RESCUE: — the new and easily affordable synthetic wigs made of natural-looking and natural-feeling Dynel, in a great range of seductive shades. These wigs, which are pre-styled, permanently set and drip-dry get everyone off the bake, stretch and set merry-go-round, and allow lovely-looking hair to be an everyday occurrence. Wigs also are the smartest way to hide the sad results of too much tormenting of your own hair.

Angela P. of Hartford, Conn., for instance, had short blonde hair in natural ringlets. She let it grow and had it straightened. The straightening didn't take too well so she had it redone the very next week. Result of so much chemical on the scalp: stringy, straight blonde hair and a heartbreaking bald spot getting bigger on the top of her head.

A visit to a dermatologist confirmed the hair was not permanently damaged and would grow back. Nothing to do but wait out the long months.

BUT WITH THE help of two wigs her own colors, Angela didn't have to sit it out at home as she might have, tearfully, years ago. While her damaged hair rejuvenated itself, her social life went on normally.

The moral of this true tale is that it is not worth ruining delicate hair when a wig can be bought inexpensively and look so utterly real that it will fool even a wiseacre brother.

Start the spring by giving your own hair a new lease on life. If it is dry and splitting, heat some olive oil to a medium temperature and with a piece of absorbent cotton rub it generously all over the scalp and along the hair to the ends. Wrap your head in a towel and let the oil soak in for half an hour. Then shampoo with a mild soap at least three times or until all the oil is completely out. Repeat the next week if necessary. This should silken and gloss-up drab hair and make it fall more smoothly.

Then invest in a synthetic wig — maybe even two. They will free you from hours of fussing with your hair and allow you to keep your hair away from harsh preparations and in a pretty state of health.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Can She Collect Unemployment Because Her Boss Harrassed Her?

DEAR HELEN:

I quit my job because my boss was a wolf. When I wouldn't play that way, he tried to "educate" me, so I turned in my notice.

Because I had quit, I found I couldn't collect unemployment benefits. You have to be laid off. I didn't go into details, figuring "refusal" would not count.

After four months I got another job.

Just recently I heard of a case where a girl collected unemployment pay when she proved she was harrassed into quitting because of an amorous employer.

Could I apply for back benefits, using this as an example? I need to settle old bills. — PURELY BROKE

DEAR PURE:

Could you prove the charge? I'm afraid experienced wolves cover their tracks well, and his word against yours might make you look pretty silly.

But don't take my word. Inquire at the unemployment agency.

DEAR HELEN:

I have a long beard and hair to match. Why not? It's a free country. But the lawmakers around here have ruled that we can't get aid unless we make ourselves "employable," which means shorter hair and a partial shave. I am enclosing a picture of me at the commune. Is this fair? — BIG ISRAEL

DEAR BIG IS:

It's their marbles. So they can call the rules. If you won't trim up the brush, maybe you can live off the land. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Mrs. J. B. sure had it right when she said "teen-ager" today seems to be a bad word.

I have two teen-age sisters and many teen friends. Recently one of our friends got into an accident and, although it was the other person's fault, he was blamed. He was "one of those wild kid drivers," they said.

When we go into stores, the sales clerks follow us around, watching to see if we lift something.

Recently a bunch of us went into a pizza place after a game. The manager said, "Get out, you're teen-agers, and we don't want trouble."

Sure, a few kids cause trouble, but why do so many adults see us all as one big glob of bad news? — PAT

DEAR PAT:

"So many" or so few? Think back, Pat. Out of perhaps 25 stores and restaurants you've visited in the last week, in how many can you honestly say you were "put down bad?" For no reason?

"Sure, a few adults cause trouble, but why do so many teens see us all as one big glob of bad news?"

It works both ways. — H.

A Chemist Warns On Enzymes

A chemist in Santa Barbara warns housewives against using laundry soaps containing bacterial enzymes, advises organic food buffs they might be risking malnutrition, and seeks to introduce our future diet—algae.

Dr. Bernard R. Baker, chemist at the University of California at Santa Barbara, explains at since ths soap addivives are 'foreign' enzymes, the body sometimes reacts to them defensively, setting up an allergic reaction. He particularly warns housewives not to breathe such soap powder and to rinse clothes thoroughly after using it.

'The dirt spots are much safer than the enzymes,' says Dr. Baker, recipient of Denmark's Alfred Benzon Prize for 1970 in recognition of his research in enzyme inhibitors of DNA synthesis.

Excessive reliance on organic diets can lead to malnutrition, he says, because plants by themselves do not provide enough nutrients. Some of the amino acids we need to live must be manufactured or derived from animals.

Algae as a daily diet? Ultimately, says Dr. Baker. Its potential as a food source is almost unlimited. In several hundred years it will be our most efficient food source. First, however, peoples' attitudes will need to change.

Heart Motif Is Big In Spring Jewelry

It would seem so, for all women are young in the spring, and this year they're wearing their hearts not only on their sleeves but on dog collars, on belts, on long chains of leather, on wide plastic cuff bracelets.

It's all part of the heart motif in fashion jewelry, which finds colored hearts, golden hearts, silver hearts and pewter hearts taking the pulse of spring.

Butterflies as well as hearts are aflutter, leaving their imprint on belts, pendants, highup chokers.

Both butterflies and hearts hark back to the past, and so does the Victorian influence in jewelry, expressing another kind of nostalgia.

Victorian reminiscing lingers over bar pins, cameo lockets and earrings, rings of opal, ivory and agate, of enamel and gold wire, with velvet ribbon and colorful miniatures, dog collars of jet with matching earrings.

Not only designs but materials mark a fresh approach to spring's jewelry, from the elegance of jet and velvet, pearls and textured gold to beads, wood, rope, sea shells and braided, woven looks.

Metals mold many looks. Copper, silver (real or imagined, shined up or dull, darkened for pattern or depth), steel and brass are mined for all their fashion worth.

These same metals appear in symbolic jewelry for luck, peace, love, ecology, the Zodiac.

Jewelry for the hair curtsies to the past, in many materials. It's classically tailored or blazingly jeweled, in filigree and beaten gold, silver, copper.

Joy Bavuso Is Bride Of Clifford L. Juillerat

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Juillerat of Honolulu are Clifford's parents. He is a graduate of the University of California. He is the brother of Lee Juillerat of Fremont and Russell Juillerat.

Non-Prescription Drug Ads Attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Food and Drug Commissioner Charles C. Edwards today called for a crackdown on "atrocious" false advertising of non-prescription drugs instead of any government action to remove many of them from the market.

Edwards said he would meet soon with Chairman Miles W. Kirkpatrick of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), which enforces laws against false advertising, to coordinate action against drug advertising claims which lack scientific documentation.

But the FDA head said he had decided against requiring the same tough proof of effectiveness, or efficacy, for such over-the-counter remedies as FDA now requires for prescription drugs.

"The amount of scientific efficacy information on overthe-counter drugs is practically zero," Edwards said in an informal meeting with newsmen. "If we took a hard line on over-the-counter drugs, we'd have to take practically the whole bunch off the market.

"I don't know if we're a strong enough agency to do that, politically or scientifically," he said. "...The worst thing about over-the-counter drugs is their labeling and advertising. The advertising is the really atrocious thing."

In response to questions, Edwards said advertising claims for non-prescription remedies frequently are false and probably deceive consumers into spending money on medicine they don't need. He cited some familiar television commercials as example.

Tens of thousands of nonprescription drugs are sold in the United States, Edwards said, many of them virtually identical copies of one another. Accoding to published estimates, retail sales of nonprescription drugs total about $1.7 billion a year compared with $4 billion for prescription drugs.

Edwards said most nonprescription medicines have a long history of safety, and by their nature are less hazardous than the more potent presceiption drugs. Hence, he said, the FDA will let them remain on the market while figuring a way to eventually test their effectiveness.

Under a 1962 law, drugs must be both safe and effective to remain on the market. Edwards said he was publicizing FDA's relatively soft line on proof of effectiveness for nonprescription drugs in response to fears voiced by the industry that recent FDA policy statements promising strict enforcement of drug laws might lead to wholesale removal from the market of over-the-counter remedies.

Innocent Plea To Shotgun Charge

Trial Date Set In Sausalito Case

Albert Daniel Torres, 20, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of robbery.

Trial was set for the week of June 7.

Torres is accused of taking $1.15 from a 17-year-old boy in Sausalito Feb. 11.

Innocent Plea To Check Charges

Daryl J. Moran, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to three felony charges of passing and three felony charges of possessing bad checks.

Trial was set for the week of June 1.

Moran was arrested Jan. 28 after an unsuccessful attempt to cash a forged check at a Purity market, according to San Rafael police.

Water District Plans Hearing On Financing

A special meeting of the Marin Municipal Water District has been called for 8 p.m. Thursday at the water district office to discuss future water supply needs and financing of planned system improvements like the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct.

The review comes on the heels of a decision by the board to seek legislation that would allow it to borrow the cost of the aqueduct from the Sonoma Water Agency instead of going to the voters for approval of bond issues.

Crash Kills Six Coast Guardsmen

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Six Coast Guardsmen were killed today when their auto traveling at high speed smashed through a guard rail on the Curtiss Creek Bridge and plunged into the Patapsco River.

None of the victims were identified but police said all of the men were believed Massachusetts residents except the driver of the car who was believed from Pennsylvania.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the men were assigned to the cutter, "Chase," which was docked here, but is based in Boston at the First Coast Guard District.

Police said it took about seven hours to recover the bodies. They said local authorities were joined by Coast Guardsmen in locating the bodies in the river.

A witness to the crash, which occurred about 2 a. m., told police the car was traveling at high speed when the driver apparently lost control and the auto slammed through the bridge guard rail.

The Coast Guard confirmed that six men had been unaccounted for at a morning formation. A spokesman said at the time the six sailors were reported missing.

Javits Defends Calley Sentence

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., says the conviction of Lt. William E. Calley Jr. shows the United States does not approve of "treating orientals as subhuman."

Defending the sentencing of Calley in a floor speech Monday, Javitz said he hoped the sentence might be reduced out of mercy. But he questioned the public outcry against the sentencing.

"If the nation really is encouraged to believe that he did nothing wrong—indeed he is a hero—then we have changed as a people during the course of this tragic war even more disastrously than I had imagined," Javits said.

Air Force Charged With Polluting Sea

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Florida congressman has charged the Air Force is violating presidential orders by continuing to dump huge quantities of deadly chemicals into the sea off Southern California.

The charges Monday by Rep. Paul L. Rogers, D-Fla, came as a surprise to President Nixon's top environmental adviser, Chairman Russell E. Train of the Council on Environmental Quality.

Rogers told Train and the House Merchant Marine Committee that chemicals he described as "most deadly" were being dumped by Norton Air Force Base in San Bernardino into a sewage system that led to sea.

The Florida Democrat, calling the action a "perversion" of the President's ban on such dumping by federal agencies, said the Air Force formerly hauled the chemicals out to sea in barges.

When this practice was halted, he said, the Air Force began putting them into an industrial sewage line serving San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties.

He said that two types of waste are produced by the Air Force's Aerospace Audiovisual Service, which serves the entire world —one that is highly toxic and another which is less toxic.

The spokesman, who declined to be identified, said the less toxic material is treated at the base and then discharged "chemically pure" into the sewage system.

The more toxic material, he said, was collected in 21,000 gallon tanks and taken to an industrial treating plant in nearby Fontana to be treated and discharged "chemically pure" into the sewage system.

The spokesman said the plant has treated 1.8 million gallons of the highly toxic waste in the past 10 months.

Another spokesman, Information Officer Bob Brooks, said later the arrangement with the treatment plant was approved by federal and state water pollution agencies.

He said no pollution in any significant amount has been detected from treatment of the less toxic waste.

Train, testifying before the committee on an administration bill to ban most ocean dumping, told Rogers he did not know of any release of chemicals from the hugh photographic laboratory at Norton. Rogers said it processes more film than the entire Hollywood motion picture industry.

"It's new information to me," Train said, "and I can assure you that I'll be taking it up with the Air Force right after this hearing."

Train said the Air Force action, as descriibed by Rogers, would be in his opinion contrary to the National Environmental Policy Act.

Bumper Stickers Tout Rep. Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Red, white and black bumper stickers reading "Mills for President" have appeared on cars in the nation's capital, although the man they promote, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says he will not be a candidate.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., said the stickers originated in his home state and said he believes Mills should be considered a candidate. Mills has said he would ask that his name be withdrawn if it is entered in the New Hampshire primary next March.

A Solution If You Don't Like Anything About Your Own Hair

Few girls are ever satisfied with their hair. Those who have curly hair want it straight, girls with straight hair want wavy, those who have a coarser texture want silky, and so on.

Fashion also has a hand in who is contented with her hair each season, switching styles with regularity. The past few years young women have been wearing long, swingy, straight-as-sticks hair. About half of these girls have been battling with lotions, potions, straighteners and pressing irons to de-curl and de-wave their natural tresses.

The result, unfortunately, often has been too many dried-out lifeless and falling heads of hair.

TO THE RESCUE: — the new and easily affordable synthetic wigs made of natural-looking and natural-feeling Dynel, in a great range of seductive shades. These wigs, which are pre-styled, permanently set and drip-dry get everyone off the bake, stretch and set merry-go-round, and allow lovely-looking hair to be an everyday occurrence. Wigs also are the smartest way to hide the sad results of too much tormenting of your own hair.

Angela P. of Hartford, Conn., for instance, had short blonde hair in natural ringlets. She let it grow and had it straightened. The straightening didn't take too well so she had it redone the very next week. Result of so much chemical on the scalp: stringy, straight blonde hair and a heartbreaking bald spot getting bigger on the top of her head.

A visit to a dermatologist confirmed the hair was not permanently damaged and would grow back. Nothing to do but wait out the long months.

BUT WITH THE help of two wigs her own colors, Angela didn't have to sit it out at home as she might have, tearfully, years ago. While her damaged hair rejuvenated itself, her social life went on normally.

The moral of this true tale is that it is not worth ruining delicate hair when a wig can be bought inexpensively and look so utterly real that it will fool even a wiseacre brother.

Start the spring by giving your own hair a new lease on life. If it is dry and splitting, heat some olive oil to a medium temperature and with a piece of absorbent cotton rub it generously all over the scalp and along the hair to the ends. Wrap your head in a towel and let the oil soak in for half an hour. Then shampoo with a mild soap at least three times or until all the oil is completely out. Repeat the next week if necessary. This should silken and gloss-up drab hair and make it fall more smoothly.

Then invest in a synthetic wig — maybe even two. They will free you from hours of fussing with your hair and allow you to keep your hair away from harsh preparations and in a pretty state of health.

Tule Elk Plan By Cranston

Cranston also endorsed a plan by Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., to try to increase the size of the tule elk population from about 290 to 2,000.

"The Tule elk has waged a persistent and remarkable struggle for survival during the past century, having in 1855 been reduced to a minimum of 28 animals," Cranston told the Senate.

Non-Prescription Drug Ads Attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Food and Drug Commissioner Charles C. Edwards today called for a crackdown on "atrocious" false advertising of non-prescription drugs instead of any government action to remove many of them from the market.

Edwards said he would meet soon with Chairman Miles W. Kirkpatrick of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), which enforces laws against false advertising, to coordinate action against drug advertising claims which lack scientific documentation.

But the FDA head said he had decided against requiring the same tough proof of effectiveness, or efficacy, for such over-the-counter remedies as FDA now requires for prescription drugs.

"The amount of scientific efficacy information on overthe-counter drugs is practically zero," Edwards said in an informal meeting with newsmen. "If we took a hard line on over-the-counter drugs, we'd have to take practically the whole bunch off the market.

"I don't know if we're a strong enough agency to do that, politically or scientifically," he said. "...The worst thing about over-the-counter drugs is their labeling and advertising. The advertising is the really atrocious thing."

In response to questions, Edwards said advertising claims for non-prescription remedies frequently are false and probably deceive consumers into spending money on medicine they don't need. He cited some familiar television commercials as example.

Tens of thousands of nonprescription drugs are sold in the United States, Edwards said, many of them virtually identical copies of one another. According to published estimates, retail sales of nonprescription drugs total about $1.7 billion a year compared with $4 billion for prescription drugs.

Edwards said most nonprescription medicines have a long history of safety, and by their nature are less hazardous than the more potent presceiption drugs. Hence, he said, the FDA will let them remain on the market while figuring a way to eventually test their effectiveness.

Under a 1962 law, drugs must be both safe and effective to remain on the market. Edwards said he was publicizing FDA's relatively soft line on proof of effectiveness for nonprescription drugs in response to fears voiced by the industry that recent FDA policy statements promising strict enforcement of drug laws might lead to wholesale removal from the market of over-the-counter remedies.

Innocent Plea To Shotgun Charge

He is to return to court Monday for setting of a trial date.

Trial Date Set In Sausalito Case

Albert Daniel Torres, 20, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of robbery.

Trial was set for the week of June 7.

Torres is accused of taking $1.15 from a 17-year-old boy in Sausalito Feb. 11.

Innocent Plea To Check Charges

Daryl J. Moran, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to three felony charges of passing and three felony charges of possessing bad checks.

Trial was set for the week of June 1.

Moran was arrested Jan. 28 after an unsuccessful attempt to cash a forged check at a Purity market, according to San Rafael police.

Water District Plans Hearing On Financing

A special meeting of the Marin Municipal Water District has been called for 8 p.m. Thursday at the water district office to discuss future water supply needs and financing of planned system improvements like the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct.

The review comes on the heels of a decision by the board to seek legislation that would allow it to borrow the cost of the aqueduct from the Sonoma Water Agency instead of going to the voters for approval of bond issues.

Crash Kills Six Coast Guardsmen

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Six Coast Guardsmen were killed today when their auto traveling at high speed smashed through a guard rail on the Curtiss Creek Bridge and plunged into the Patapsco River.

None of the victims were identified but police said all of the men were believed Massachusetts residents except the driver of the car who was believed from Pennsylvania.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the men were assigned to the cutter, "Chase," which was docked here, but is based in Boston at the First Coast Guard District.

Police said it took about seven hours to recover the bodies. They said local authorities were joined by Coast Guardsmen in locating the bodies in the river.

A witness to the crash, which occurred about 2 a. m., told police the car was traveling at high speed when the driver apparently lost control and the auto slammed through the bridge guard rail.

The Coast Guard confirmed that six men had been unaccounted for at a morning formation. A spokesman said at the time the six sailors were reported missing.

Javits Defends Calley Sentence

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., says the conviction of Lt. William E. Calley Jr. shows the United States does not approve of "treating orientals as subhuman."

Defending the sentencing of Calley in a floor speech Monday, Javitz said he hoped the sentence might be reduced out of mercy. But he questioned the public outcry against the sentencing.

"If the nation really is encouraged to believe that he did nothing wrong—indeed he is a hero—then we have changed as a people during the course of this tragic war even more disastrously than I had imagined," Javits said.

Air Force Charged With Polluting Sea

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Florida congressman has charged the Air Force is violating presidential orders by continuing to dump huge quantities of deadly chemicals into the sea off Southern California.

The charges Monday by Rep. Paul L. Rogers, D-Fla, came as a surprise to President Nixon's top environmental adviser, Chairman Russell E. Train of the Council on Environmental Quality.

Rogers told Train and the House Merchant Marine Committee that chemicals he described as "most deadly" were being dumped by Norton Air Force Base in San Bernardino into a sewage system that led to sea.

The Florida Democrat, calling the action a "perversion" of the President's ban on such dumping by federal agencies, said the Air Force formerly hauled the chemicals out to sea in barges.

When this practice was halted, he said, the Air Force began putting them into an industrial sewage line serving San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties.

He said that two types of waste are produced by the Air Force's Aerospace Audiovisual Service, which serves the entire world —one that is highly toxic and another which is less toxic.

The spokesman, who declined to be identified, said the less toxic material is treated at the base and then discharged "chemically pure" into the sewage system.

The more toxic material, he said, was collected in 21,000 gallon tanks and taken to an industrial treating plant in nearby Fontana to be treated and discharged "chemically pure" into the sewage system.

The spokesman said the plant has treated 1.8 million gallons of the highly toxic waste in the past 10 months.

Another spokesman, Information Officer Bob Brooks, said later the arrangement with the treatment plant was approved by federal and state water pollution agencies.

He said no pollution in any significant amount has been detected from treatment of the less toxic waste.

Train, testifying before the committee on an administration bill to ban most ocean dumping, told Rogers he did not know of any release of chemicals from the hugh photographic laboratory at Norton. Rogers said it processes more film than the entire Hollywood motion picture industry.

"It's new information to me," Train said, "and I can assure you that I'll be taking it up with the Air Force right after this hearing."

Train said the Air Force action, as descriibed by Rogers, would be in his opinion contrary to the National Environmental Policy Act.

Bumper Stickers Tout Rep. Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Red, white and black bumper stickers reading "Mills for President" have appeared on cars in the nation's capital, although the man they promote, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says he will not be a candidate.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., said the stickers originated in his home state and said he believes Mills should be considered a candidate. Mills has said he would ask that his name be withdrawn if it is entered in the New Hampshire primary next March.

Tule Elk Plan By Cranston

Cranston also endorsed a plan by Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., to try to increase the size of the tule elk population from about 290 to 2,000.

"The Tule elk has waged a persistent and remarkable struggle for survival during the past century, having in 1855 been reduced to a minimum of 28 animals," Cranston told the Senate.

CENTRALIZED CONTROL

Cadet Nancy Thompson of the Corte Madera Police Department adjusts the department's new Unitrol device which centralizes control of a new patrol car's modern equipment. The $1,200 device controls a unit mounted on top of the vehicle and is the answer to what patrolmen say is the ideal cruise car. Featured on top are high intensity red lights, loud speaker system, variable-pitch siren and stationary "alley lights" which when turned on direct a strong beam of light down dark alleyways. Withdrawing From ABAG Is Supported

The Rohnert Park City Council voted last night to support the withdrawal of Sonoma County from the Association of Bay Area Governments when an alternative association of northern counties is formed.

In approving the resolution by a 4-1 vote, the council supported the withdrawal resolution that will be put to Sonoma County voters on April 20.

Mayor Vernon P. Smith cast the lone dissenting vote and submitted a written statement pointing out the many connections Sonoma County has with the Bay Area including joint work on air and water pollution.

Other councilmen said they believed that Sonoma County would have a stronger voice in a new association that would include less populous counties to the north.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

POOL RATES — Reluctantly approved increased pool rates in an attempt to reduce the annual deficit in operating costs. Family rates will be increased from $40 to $45 per year and general admission will increase by 10 cents except for children under five years, which will increase by five cents.

HOME CARE — Denied the use permit application of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hartley to care for six mentally retarded adults at their home at 7605 Bobbie Way. The council heard protests from the audience as well as receiving a petition signed by 70 persons in opposition and 10 letters.

RECEPTION — Agreed to join with the Rohnert Park chamber in holding a reception for Sonoma State College's new president Thomas H. McGrath. A date has not been set.

POLLUTION — Asked the city attorney to prepare an ordinance that would ban all outside burning in hopes of reducing air pollution.

MEETING — Set a meeting with the Petaluma Board of Education for April 22. A time and place has not been set.

WATER — Heard a report from City Engineer Milton Hudis that water pressure may be low at times during the summer months and that he doubts anything can be done to avoid it this year.

MOSQUITOS — Heard that complaints about mosquitos had been received and asked City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan to study joining the Marin Mosquito Abatement District.

ELECTION — Adjourned to today at 8 p.m. to elect a new mayor and vice mayor.

Grand Jury Candidates Announced

The names of 30 candidates for the 1971-72 Marin County Grand Jury were announced today by County Clerk George H. Gnoss.

The candidates, nominated by the five Marin Superior Court judges, will report to the Hall of Justice Monday, when the 19 who will form the grand jury will be selected by lot and sworn in.

The candidates are:

June Arendell, housewife, 1640 Hill Road, Novato; Alfred C. Bach, manufacturers representative, 1403 Nye Street, San Rafael; Richard W. Beban, writer, 50 Fremont Road, San Rafael; Joan G. No Cause Found In Train Mishap

Mystery continued to surround the circumstances in which two Novato teenagers were critically injured yesterday when their car was struck by a freight train at a crossing in Novato.

Police remained unable today to shed any light on why their car was stopped on the tracks despite a flashing light and alarm bell and the bellowing horn of the approaching freight.

Paul A. Oatis III, 17, of 13 Sunnyhill Road, the driver, suffered severe head injuries and a crushed leg that had to be amputated two-thirds of the way up the thigh.

Debbie Pond, 17, of 1219 Ridgeview Heights, his passenger, suffered a brain concussion, a fractured jaw and internal kidney injuries.

Dr. Theodore D. Hiatt, who examined them, reported that Miss Pond "doesn't even know she was in an accident." Hiatt said neither she nor Oatis, "knows what happened or anything about it."

Miss Pond said her daughter and Oatis had been out with a few other couples "and were going out to get something to eat" when the accident occurred.

Train engineer Stanley Furdom of Sonoma told police he saw the Oatis car drive onto the main track and stop, and as he attempted to stop the train he saw the two teen-agers "lay their heads down in their hands."

The train knocked the car about 30 feet and the two occupants were thrown out into the area between the main and side tracks, near the Novato train station.

Preliminary Plans For School For Deaf Backed

Preliminary plans for a $295,000 school for deaf children — more than three years in the works — were approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

According to Byron W. Mauzy, assistant superintendent, the school could be operational by spring 1972 if planning proceeds on schedule.

To be located adjacent to the Adaline E. Kent School in Kentfield, the school will be designed for about 30 students. Since it is being built on Kentfield School District property, plans must also be approved by that school board as well as by the state, which will pay half the construction costs.

The school was initially proposed about three years ago but has been stalled because of differences between the state and county over plans and financing, Mauzy said.

The Marin County Board Of Education Also:

ENVIRONMENTAL — Tabled discussion on an environmental education study program for Marin which would eventually provide instructors and materials.

SALARY — Referred to the board's negotiating teams a salary proposal from teachers asking a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase and expansion of the salary schedule.

CENTER MEDICAL — Continued discussion to its May 3 meeting on a proposal to enter into a joint powers agreement with neighboring counties to hire an instructor for blind students who would receive training at Center Medical Hospital in Kentfield.

BUDGET — Discussed but took no action on its special education budget. The budget totals about $4 million, of which $1.3 million would be paid through county funds.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to April 19, when the board will consider its fiscal 1971-72 budget at 8 p.m. at the district office.

New Attack On Lights Atop Tam

The Air Force, which has been in residents' crossfire for a year over placement of security lights at its Mount Tamalpais radar station, is under attack again.

A Fairfax man waging a campaign to have the mercury vapor beacons doused says the lights are as annoying as ever, despite recent adjustments.

Robert E. Van Norman, whose home at 52 Crest Road overlooks the mountain, yesterday called adjustments, performed in late January, "a snow job" which accomplished nothing.

Col. Everett C. Brown, public information officer at Hamilton Air Force Base, said the military has "no money available to make any modifications. We feel we've gone as far as we can."

The Air Force last year spent about $3,000 to make five of the mercury vapor lights, which augment sentry patrols, less visible in Mill Valley. Van Norman said this work only made things worse on the other side of the mountain because the adjustment increased brightness on the Fairfax side.

In the latest work, Col. Brown said, a team was dispatched to adjust the lights' shielding and aim them away from Fairfax and San Anselmo.

Without any more money, Brown said, "This is all we can do." He said he has received no complaints about the lights since then.

Van Norman, an industrial engineer with experience in lighting, said sound planning could have avoided the problem in the first place. "No lighting engineer worth his salt would have allowed the light to go into the valley," he said.

If the Air Force continues to turn a deaf ear, he said he will seek relief through California's two senators.

Burglary Wave Hits Nine Stores

There was a rash of commercial burglaries in Novato last night covering nine stores at three shopping centers, Novato police reported today.

The losses were being compiled this morning as police reported the following list of stores that were burglarized:

Correct Sponsor

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that the camping program at Bothin Youth Center near Fairfax was sponsored by the Girl Scouts and the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council. The camp was sponsored solely by Girl Scout Troup 2130 of San Rafael, said Frances McGuire, troop leader.

1,300 Are Still In Their Cells

About half the inmates at San Quentin Prison remained in cells today under a security lockup in effect since Saturday when the latest outbreak of violence occurred.

Only a small number of men, between 100 and 200, were released for work detail in the hospital, laundry or food service, according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The entire prison was under tight security over the weekend because of two beatings at the Saturday afternoon movie. The west and north prison blocks were released Monday.

Park said today he had no idea when the 1,300 men in the east and south blocks would be released. During the month of March, the troublesome east and south blocks were the scene of 13 stabbings, two of them fatal, at the prison. At the time, officials said they believed the stabbings had been caused by racial problems in San Quentin.

Park said prisoners believed Saturday's violence resulted from racial tension but that officials could not prove it. There have been no arrests.

Lion's Share Wins In Review Of Permit

The threat of revocation of a use permit for the Lion's Share restaurant evaporated last night when the San Anselmo Planning Commission found that the restaurant did indeed have more enough parking spaces.

Lion's Share owner Michael Considine was granted the permit in 1969, conditioned on his providing 21 off-street parking spaces. Assist. City Engineer John T. O'Rourke raised the issue before last night's meeting because an ownership change of a neighboring gasoline service station apparently had deprived Considine of the use of at least five required spaces.

The commission learned that Considine had firm arrangements to provide at least 62 parking spaces nightly near his Miracle Mile establishment.

After asking Considine to post the parking areas with signs warning that the spaces are reserved, the commission decided to review the permit again in six months.

Commissioners also recommended that the city council approve planned development rezoning of Unit D of the Sunny Hills property for 70 apartments, with numerous conditions.

One of the conditions was a first for San Anselmo — that the developers contract with the Marin County Housing Authority to make at least 5 per cent of the units available for the authority's low-cost rental program.

Crash On Waldo Grade Ties Up 101 Traffic

Traffic backed up on the Waldo Grade yesterday when a southbound car driven by a San Rafael man spun out, hit the guardrail and overturned, spewing debris into the northbound lanes.

No one was injured in the 3:45 p.m. accident south of Rodeo Avenue, but traffic jams clogged both sides of the freeway for about 45 minutes. Southbound traffic backed up almost to Richardson Bay Bridge.

The California Highway Patrol said a car driven by John N. Lister, 19, of 106 San Marino Drive, San Rafael, changed lanes in front of a vehicle operated by Ramon L. Alferez, 38, of 570 San Jose Avenue, San Rafael.

Alferez swerved his auto, hit the center divider and overturned, officers said. Debris from his car hit northbound vehicles driven by Yok K. Liu, 43, of San Francisco, and Rosa R. Wittenberg, 44, of 329 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley.

Car Stolen In Service Area

A repaired 1966 Volkswagen was stolen from the service department of Leon C. Felton Volkswagen between Thursday and yesterday, according to San Rafael police.

Police said the two-door red sedan, license SPY-515, was parked at the service department, 60 Hoag Avenue, after it was repaired Thursday.

More Talks In Teacher Halt Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nine hours of negotiating on Monday failed to settle a teachers strike in San Francisco, despite a compromise proposal by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

Alioto, who called for more talks today, did not discuss details of his proposal but said it provided what he considered an "equitable settlement" of major issues.

The mayor identified the major areas of dispute as classroom size, teacher preparation periods, staff attrition, para-professional assistance and plans by Superintendent Thomas A. Shaheen for certain new programs.

As negotiations recessed, the mayor asked postponement by Shaheen of the superintendent's plan to make public his 1971-72 budget proposals. Shaheen took the request under study.

Teachers have asserted Shaheen, in an economic decision, plans to lessen advantages they have gained in earlier years.

Schools in the city are closed for Easter vacation and are scheduled to reopen April 12.

The 1,400-member American Federation of Teachers struck March 24 and was joined later by about 1,000 members of the Classroom Teachers Association. The CTA action all but ended classroom instruction.

Shakeup In Fourth Senatorial District?

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Drastic boundary changes in the Fourth Senatorial District, which includes Marin, Napa and Solano counties, appeared certain today in light of new figures released by the Senate Committee on Elections and Reapportionment.

The district's 1970 population, upon which reapportionment of districts for the next decade are being drawn for next year's elections, was 447,339, or under the ideal of 498,828 by 51,489, or by 10.32 per cent.

And rumors that Marin will land in a San Francisco district were strengthened by committee figures showing San Francisco's two senatorial districts needed 281,982 more population to meet the ideal.

Some deviation from the ideal size district has been allowed by courts under the one-man, one-vote edict, but the courts continually have narrowed the allowable deviation to almost nil.

The Fourth District is represented by Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. He was elected last November, but may have to run again next year to retain his seat if his Tiburon residence lands in another district — such as a district extended north from San Francisco.

San Francisco's two at-large districts were found to be the most under-populated in the state.

Recycling Service Backed

Directors of the Alto Sanitary District agreed last night to allow a Sausalito recycling firm to offer its services to district residents for a six-month trial period, director Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported.

He said Whole Systems Recycling Co. will dispose of residents' recyclable items, including bottles, newspapers and cans, for $1.50 a month. The items will be picked up by the Mill Valley Refuse Service, which collects garbage for the district, then turned over to the recycling firm, located at the Richardson Bay Heliport.

The optional service will begin later this month. Persons wishing to dispose of their reusable trash will be asked to place it in separate containers alongside their garbage, he said.

Drydocks Removal To County

Huge drydocks mired in Richardson Bay off Sausalito will have to be removed by the county because the Department of the Army refuses to take responsibility, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney reported today.

The county has been trying to get the Army to move the drydocks on grounds that they are a hazard to navigation.

Maloney told the Marin County Board of Supervisors this morning that the Army notified him that it has no responsibility. "The only remedy left to the county is to sue the Army," said Maloney. But he advised the supervisors that such a suit would take four or five years "so I don't think much will be gained by pursuing the Army."

Supervisors decided they may have to resort to a proposal advanced last December by a specialist, who said he could burn the docks at a cost of about $40,000. Conventional demolition would cost more than $75,000.

Questions Show Whether Candidates Do Homework

Now that school board campaigns are getting into full stride, some patterns begin to appear.

Incumbents seeking re-election start the campaign with considerable advantage. Even if they have not done much homework while on the board, they are able to speak with some familiarity of the complexities of school finance, organization, law, and personnel affairs.

The seekers, on the other hand, usually start with very vague ideas of such matters. Some may have gained some insight into school finance from serving on bond and tax committees. Some may have picked up a little educational jargon from being on citizen "goals committees." But beyond these, it is a rare aspirant for a first term on a school board who has more than a very foggy notion of the job for which he has filed.

BY THE TIME the campaign gets into its final weeks, however, those who are genuinely interested in doing the hard job of a school board member have done some homework. Now the pattern begins to emerge. These candidates begin to speak more specifically. Differences begin to show between those who are willing to do the digging necessary to become effective board members and those who are merely job-seekers or starry-eyed dreamers with simplistic notions of how the complicated educational system is operated.

Not to single out any candidate as "good" or "bad", but merely as an example, let's cite a few things at a San Rafael Board of Education candidates' night last week:

ONLY ONE CANDIDATE — Dr. Charles B. Peek, a first-term aspirant — even showed awareness of a state Department of Education-backed bill which would completely revamp California school financing. He admitted he didn't yet understand it.

Only incumbent Herman L. Childress and aspirants Donald R. Wellington, Marilyn E. Bolinger and Richard E. West showed some familiarity with AB 293 by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, which would remove the superior court hearing from teacher dismissal proceedings and make other significant changes in the tenure law. But all nine agreed that teacher tenure needs some revision.

All had their ideas about the sixth-seventh-eighth grade "middle school" concept, but only Childress and Wellington recognized the financial implications of converting Davidson School to such a form.

WE COULD GO ON. When specific issues were raised, it became evident which candidates had been doing their homework.

The same thing happens at any candidates' forum where such questions come up — as they generally do.

In many school districts, there are large numbers of voters who are dissatisfied with school operations in one way or another. They are inclined to gravitate to those candidates who voice a philosophy that agrees with their own.

But if some of those candidates are not willing to do their homework as candidates, can they be expected to do it as office-holders? And if they don't, can they be effective in bringing their philosophy to bear?

The answers appear obvious.

Aquarius Gunga Din

Occasionally, especially on warm spring days when there is a hint of flower fragrance in the air, the mind wanders down strange paths, following whim and fancy.

For example, we got to musing about the age of Aquarius. Astrology has never intrigued us, but we think we know that Aquarius is the zodiacal sign of the water-carrier. Perhaps the gulf between the generations could be narrowed a bit by pointing out that the older generation had its Aquarius, too. That defender of British imperialism, Rudyard Kipling, immortalized him in his poem, "Gunga Din." He was very big when today's middle-aged were kids. Whenever someone would perform a surprising feat, a witness would be bound to say, "You're a better man than I am, Gunga Din."

The kids might be fascinated to know that we were moved by a poem about a lowly, dusty, dusky water-bearer, who had only a piece of twisty rag and a goat-skin water bag — and lots of heart.

Jobless Benefits Become Ploy For Labor Law Lobbyists

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The annual battle to extend unemployment insurance to presently exempt categories California workers has been renewed in the state legislature, this year by Assemblyman Henry A. Waxman, D-Los Angeles.

The battle has been going on for 32 years, which is ever since the state started paying unemployment insurance benefits during the closing months of the great depression.

The new dealers apparently thought that farm workers, domestic workers, public employees and employees of non-profit organizations wouldn't be susceptible to sudden enemployment, as they neglected to include these groups in the "covered" groups, meaning they were not eligible to draw benefits when out of jobs.

EVER SINCE, labor legislators and labor lobbyists have been attempting, sometimes only in a half-hearted manner, to include the excluded groups in the benefits.

And during the more than three decades, the issue has been used for more wheeling and dealing among legislators, and lobbyists both for labor and industry, than any other item.

Generally, labor has sponsored the inclusion bills and used them for dealing with the lobbyists for industry to gain concessions on a different front.

Few of these groups are duespaying members of the big labor organizations. Domestic workers are not organized, and farm workers are just starting to be organized.

SO WHY NOT, then, use the issue to promote bigger and better benefits for those industrial workers who are covered, and who do get insurance when they become unemployed?

These and many more items contribute to the fact that in 32 years of effort, no legislation has been enacted that would include farm workers, domestic workers, public employees, and employees of non-profit organization in unemployment insurance.

The result is not expected to change this year.

Consumer Board Choices Questioned

I note that Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger has announced the formation of the San Francisco Bay area consumer protection task force. To this task force, he has appointed a representative of the Bank of America, Retail Dry Goods Association and the San Francisco Better Business Bureau, all dependent upon the business community.

This is protection for the consumer?

Resident Defends Petaluma Homes

As a homeowner in Avondale No. 4 subdivision of Young America Homes I find it necessary to write with reference to articles in the Independent-Journal the past week.

It should be made clear that the persons who have been picketing at the sales offices here are not representative of all homeowners here. Also they do not represent all persons who are not completely satisfied with the operation of their dishwashers.

Young America Homes have continued to work to resolve the dishwasher problem with homeowners and should not be expected to have it resolved without much investigation into the problems.

Some persons seem to feel that the only solution is replacement. There are many factors to be considered in unsatisfactory performance of a dishwasher.

Hunter College President Lauded

On behalf of the several hundred Hunter College alumni residing in Northern California, I wish to thank the Independent-Journal for the recent article concerning Jacqueline Wexler ("College President Reacts," March 23). Hunter College alumni are justly proud of a president who has brought a humanizing and openly personal approach to her role as head of a college situated in a city smothering under multi-faceted problems. In the short time that Mrs. Wexler has been president she has sought to bridge the gap between faculty and students and between the office of a president and alumni. She has attempted to listen, to understand, to communicate, and most important, to develop a plan of action. Her background has enriched her life in an immeasurable way, enabling her to deal positively with student confrontations and rioting.

How successful Mrs. Wexler is in the future only time will tell. Perhaps it would be worthwhile to reflect on these words (of hers): ". . .If we can talk or even shout across the gap (between youth and us), the process of orderly change will be served. It's when we start shouting into the crowd that we have failed."

Open Areas Needed For Motorcycles

Just recently I read an article in your column submitted by Ronald Davies entitled, "Different View on Motorcycles," and . . . I must side with Mr. Davies.

For Christmas I received a Honda 70. Now down the street from me is an appropriate place to ride motorcycles and many kids and adults besides me use it. For the last three weeks nobody has been up there because about March 5, the Novato Police Department started making up ID cards on people picked up there because the homeowners below the hill complained of too much noise, forcing the landowner to close the hill for riding . . . Now I don't have any place to ride. . .

So I agree with Mr. Davies, why can't spare acreage in Marin be used for riding, with strict rules of course. Besides motorcycling is fun and it keeps kids off the streets and from breaking windows and going to pot parties. My father and I agree on this and I know many other people do.

Accidents Down In Marin County

Your excellent editorial of March 27 concerning traffic safety was, naturally, of great interest to us of the California Highway Patrol, and hopefully, to all of your readers.

The report highlighted many pertinent items dealing with various phases of accident causes; however, the last paragraph of your editorial summed it all up very concisely and personally. To a great extent, an individual's safety on the highway depends upon the individual himself.

In order to assist and protect the individual from the "other" driver, we have a hard-hitting enforcement program aimed at the primary accident causing violations. We know this to be an effective weapon. For example, in Marin County during the past two years we have increased drunk driving arrests from 471 in 1968 to 1,327 in 1970. During the same period reportable accidents have been reduced each year. Further, 131 fewer persons were killed or injured last year than in 1968. This is in the face of a 13 per cent increase in traffic. To us this is a very real and tangible aspect of traffic safety.

The year 1971 promises to be even safer for Marin's motorists. As of this date, accidents are down 15 per cent from 1970. Coincidentally, drunk driver arrests are up nearly 27 per cent over last year.

Your statement, "accident statistics will continue to climb," has not been true in Marin County for the past two years. We have reversed the trend. Hopefully, it will continue downward.

Satellite's Music Turns Into Chirps

Red China's once-musical satellite launched on March 3 has now turned into a space "cricket."

The first set of batteries was showing signs of weakness on the morning of March 16. On the morning of March 18, entirely different sounding musical notes lasting for about five seconds were heard when the second set of batteries was put into use. This continued for about a week, until the morning of March 23 when a few musical notes were being skipped over. On the next morning there was silence except for a few "beeps" now and then. A weak carrier signal could still be detected on my short wave receiver on each pass over the U.S. when turned to 20.02 megahertz.

This continued for three more days until Saturday morning, March 27, when at the predetermined time I tuned in to the 15-meter band and heard a peculiar sound on a slightly lower krequency of 19.98 megahertz. This was the second of two transmitters, and I finally found it after 11 days of searching for it. (It had been announced by the Pentagon on the morning of March 16 that the satellite was transmitting on two different unmentioned frequencies.)

The sound of a madly chirping cricket can best describe what is now being heard each time the satellite passes over the U.S. during the early morning hours between 2 and 7 a.m. PST.

I will continue to listen to this "creature" each morning. It now remains to be seen how long the source of power will last.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Nixon Finds Moves Stymied By Wide Credibility Gap

SAN CLEMENTE— In the decade that began so promisingly with the inauguration of a young, bouyant president, and that saw such a long succession of horrors, one of the chief casualties has been an almost-total erosion of confidence and trust. This is the balnk wall which President Nixon's principal advisers confront as they put together the facts and figures — the raw material — that will go into the President's speech tomorrow.

Rarely has there been such a thorough, exacting analysis as went into the appraisal of the Laos operation. Under the direction of that demanding taskmaster, Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security affairs, hundreds of hours went into winnowing every scrap of information.

A TEAM WAS SENT to Vietnam for a private inquiry independent of the American military related to the operation. Each intelligence agency was called on for a separate judgment. Then the intelligence chiefs were assembled collectively to confront their respective differences. During a good bit of the past week at the western White House, Kissinger pored our six fat volumes containing estimates, figures, projections related to Laos.

Out of all this has come the following conclusion: The objectives of the Laos operation were 75 to 80 per cent achieved. It means that for 1971 and into 1972 the Communists will be held to the level of warfare of the past year; that is, to the tactics of hit-and-run terror. They will be unable to mount a battalion attack. Both in losses in battlehardened manpower and in disruption of the supply trails, they simply will not have the capacity in the foreseeable future to wage anything like conventional warfare.

If this is true, why should the President not announce a fixed date for the withdrawal of all American forces? This question inevitably arises in discussion of the Indochina balance sheet. Since the situation is so well in hand — 'The War in Vietnam is all but at an end' — there would seem to be no possible harm resulting from announcement of a terminal date. It should take the heat off the rapidly escalating pressures both in Congress and the country to set, as in the resolution adopted by the Democractic caucus of the House, a time certain.

THE ANSWER of the President's closest advisers is that this would shut the door on any possibility of negotiation at Paris. That door, as seen from White House perspective, is still open a crack. Moreover, since the Communists have failed to respond to any of the overtures, such as the promise of phased withdrawal in the Nixon speech of last October, there is no reason to believe advance notice of departure would produce results.

Yet, so the reasoning goes, if they come face to face with the hard facts of their post Cambodia-Laotian dilemma, they may decided to move to the conference table. They surely know that with a peace settlement, or even serious overtures in that direction from hanoi, the homeward bound movement would be irresistible.

But how to convince the public that Laos was a success — a qualified success but nevertheless a success — and that with a little more patience Vietnamization will be carried to a conclusion? The President's advisers have no illusions about the wall of skepticism, doubt, fear, hostility in the path.

RICHARD NIXON, who has reduced the number of ground troops in Vietnam by nearly half, is not credible, whereas Lyndon Johnson, when he was expanding the force to a total of 549,000, seems to have had, if not acceptance, at least a tolerance that was in part ignorance. This is what the Nixon men find so baffling and frustrating.

Stopping short of the luxury of despair, they know the country is being torn apart not only by the war but by all the dire events of the decade of the 60's. Three assassinations, the burning of the cities, the rioting and disorders—This is the heritage of an administration that pleads for belief and yet by both word and act falls short of the rising tide of expectations.

The spring will see more demonstrations, angrier voices raised. The more sensitive and aware men around the President know that this arises only in the smallest degree from ideologies bent on tearing the system down. It comes mainly from men and women, and above all the young, who can endure no more war, no more killing, no more mass bombing. They are as remote from the President's words as though they lived on another planet, as in a sense they do.

Russian Consumer Gets Skeptical Of Promises

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The Russian consumer has had so many promises of better days ahead that a certain amount of skepticism is to be expected concerning current promises by party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and others at the 24th Communist Party Congress.

Such was the case in an interview published by the weekly newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta, put out by the writers union, just after publication of the 1971-75 five-year plan, which takes a sharp turn in favor of the consumer.

Subject of the interview was Nikolai N. Mirotvortsev, deputy chairman of the state planning committee.

"HOW CLOSE are we to satisfying demand?", asked the interviewer.

The reply was that the government expected to satisfy the demand for television sets, washing machines, radios, refrigerators, tape recorders, vacuum cleaners and other normally hard-to-get items.

Further questioning disclosed that automobiles will continue to be hard to get even though Mirotvortsev predicted an offering of 800,000 cars on the market in 1975 as opposed to 124,000 in 1970.

An oddity of the Russian economy has been that while such luxury items as fur coats or television sets may be hard to get, such essentials as tableware and dishes frequently are impossible.

These are among the items promised in the reformation.

INDIRECTLY, BREZHNEV himself indicated some difficulties ahead.

These might come from officials will to "co-exist peacefully" with shortages or shoddy goods as in the past. Such thinking no longer will be acceptable, Brezhnev warned, and management either will deliver or get out.

As he painted a picture of the Russian consumer's future, Brezhnev also felt called upon to explain the fact that 7 per cent of government spending still will go to heavy industry.

Some, he said, was needed to build machinery for manufacture of consumer goods.

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS have been promised salary increases bringing their monthly income up to about $135. But many already are complaining that increases are no help when there is nothing to buy. The combination is a direct threat to the new five-year plan which depends heavily upon an increase in worker productivity.

As in the capitalistic world, inflationary pressures are increasing. The Russian worker may pay less for his razor blades but more for his rent as the government seeks to make both ends meet.

Withdrawing From ABAG Is Supported

The Rohnert Park City Council voted last night to support the withdrawal of Sonoma County from the Association of Bay Area Governments when an alternative association of northern counties is formed.

In approving the resolution by a 4-1 vote, the council supported the withdrawal resolution that will be put to Sonoma County voters on April 20.

Mayor Vernon P. Smith cast the lone dissenting vote and submitted a written statement pointing out the many connections Sonoma County has with the Bay Area including joint work on air and water pollution.

Other councilmen said they believed that Sonoma County would have a stronger voice in a new association that would include less populous counties to the north.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

POOL RATES — Reluctantly approved increased pool rates in an attempt to reduce the annual deficit in operating costs. Family rates will be increased from $40 to $45 per year and general admission will increase by 10 cents except for children under five years, which will increase by five cents.

HOME CARE — Denied the use permit application of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hartley to care for six mentally retarded adults at their home at 7605 Bobbie Way. The council heard protests from the audience as well as receiving a petition signed by 70 persons in opposition and 10 letters.

RECEPTION — Agreed to join with the Rohnert Park chamber in holding a reception for Sonoma State College's new president Thomas H. McGrath. A date has not been set.

POLLUTION — Asked the city attorney to prepare an ordinance that would ban all outside burning in hopes of reducing air pollution.

MEETING — Set a meeting with the Petaluma Board of Education for April 22. A time and place has not been set.

WATER — Heard a report from City Engineer Milton Hudis that water pressure may be low at times during the summer months and that he doubts anything can be done to avoid it this year.

MOSQUITOS — Heard that complaints about mosquitos had been received and asked City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan to study joining the Marin Mosquito Abatement District.

ELECTION — Adjourned to today at 8 p.m. to elect a new mayor and vice mayor.

No Cause Found In Train Mishap

Mystery continued to surround the circumstances in which two Novato teenagers were critically injured yesterday when their car was struck by a freight train at a crossing in Novato.

Police remained unable today to shed any light on why their car was stopped on the tracks despite a flashing light and alarm bell and the bellowing horn of the approaching freight.

Paul A. Oatis III, 17, of 13 Sunnyhill Road, the driver, suffered severe head injuries and a crushed leg that had to be amputated two-thirds of the way up the thigh.

Debbie Pond, 17, of 1219 Ridgeview Heights, his passenger, suffered a brain concussion, a fractured jaw and internal kidney injuries.

Dr. Theodore D. Hiatt, who examined them, reported that Miss Pond "doesn't even know she was in an accident." Hiatt said neither she nor Oatis, "knows what happened or anything about it."

Miss Pond said her daughter and Oatis had been out with a few other couples "and were going out to get something to eat" when the accident occurred.

Train engineer Stanley Furdom of Sonoma told police he saw the Oatis car drive onto the main track and stop, and as he attempted to stop the train he saw the two teen-agers "lay their heads down in their hands."

The train knocked the car about 30 feet and the two occupants were thrown out into the area between the main and side tracks, near the Novato train station.

Preliminary Plans For School For Deaf Backed

Preliminary plans for a $295,000 school for deaf children — more than three years in the works — were approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

According to Byron W. Mauzy, assistant superintendent, the school could be operational by spring 1972 if planning proceeds on schedule.

To be located adjacent to the Adaline E. Kent School in Kentfield, the school will be designed for about 30 students. Since it is being built on Kentfield School District property, plans must also be approved by that school board as well as by the state, which will pay half the construction costs.

The school was initially proposed about three years ago but has been stalled because of differences between the state and county over plans and financing, Mauzy said.

The Marin County Board Of Education Also:

ENVIRONMENTAL — Tabled discussion on an environmental education study program for Marin which would eventually provide instructors and materials.

SALARY — Referred to the board's negotiating teams a salary proposal from teachers asking a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase and expansion of the salary schedule.

CENTER MEDICAL — Continued discussion to its May 3 meeting on a proposal to enter into a joint powers agreement with neighboring counties to hire an instructor for blind students who would receive training at Center Medical Hospital in Kentfield.

BUDGET — Discussed but took no action on its special education budget. The budget totals about $4 million, of which $1.3 million would be paid through county funds.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to April 19, when the board will consider its fiscal 1971-72 budget at 8 p.m. at the district office.

New Attack On Lights Atop Tam

The Air Force, which has been in residents' crossfire for a year over placement of security lights at its Mount Tamalpais radar station, is under attack again.

A Fairfax man waging a campaign to have the mercury vapor beacons doused says the lights are as annoying as ever, despite recent adjustments.

Robert E. Van Norman, whose home at 52 Crest Road overlooks the mountain, yesterday called adjustments, performed in late January, "a snow job" which accomplished nothing.

Col. Everett C. Brown, public information officer at Hamilton Air Force Base, said the military has "no money available to make any modifications. We feel we've gone as far as we can."

The Air Force last year spent about $3,000 to make five of the mercury vapor lights, which augment sentry patrols, less visible in Mill Valley. Van Norman said this work only made things worse on the other side of the mountain because the adjustment increased brightness on the Fairfax side.

In the latest work, Col. Brown said, a team was dispatched to adjust the lights' shielding and aim them away from Fairfax and San Anselmo.

Without any more money, Brown said, "This is all we can do." He said he has received no complaints about the lights since then.

Van Norman, an industrial engineer with experience in lighting, said sound planning could have avoided the problem in the first place. "No lighting engineer worth his salt would have allowed the light to go into the valley," he said.

If the Air Force continues to turn a deaf ear, he said he will seek relief through California's two senators.

Burglary Wave Hits Nine Stores

There was a rash of commercial burglaries in Novato last night covering nine stores at three shopping centers, Novato police reported today.

The losses were being compiled this morning as police reported the following list of stores that were burglarized:

Correct Sponsor

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that the camping program at Bothin Youth Center near Fairfax was sponsored by the Girl Scouts and the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council. The camp was sponsored solely by Girl Scout Troup 2130 of San Rafael, said Frances McGuire, troop leader.

1,300 Are Still In Their Cells

About half the inmates at San Quentin Prison remained in cells today under a security lockup in effect since Saturday when the latest outbreak of violence occurred.

Only a small number of men, between 100 and 200, were released for work detail in the hospital, laundry or food service, according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The entire prison was under tight security over the weekend because of two beatings at the Saturday afternoon movie. The west and north prison blocks were released Monday.

Park said today he had no idea when the 1,300 men in the east and south blocks would be released. During the month of March, the troublesome east and south blocks were the scene of 13 stabbings, two of them fatal, at the prison. At the time, officials said they believed the stabbings had been caused by racial problems in San Quentin.

Park said prisoners believed Saturday's violence resulted from racial tension but that officials could not prove it. There have been no arrests.

Lion's Share Wins In Review Of Permit

The threat of revocation of a use permit for the Lion's Share restaurant evaporated last night when the San Anselmo Planning Commission found that the restaurant did indeed have more enough parking spaces.

Lion's Share owner Michael Considine was granted the permit in 1969, conditioned on his providing 21 off-street parking spaces. Assist. City Engineer John T. O'Rourke raised the issue before last night's meeting because an ownership change of a neighboring gasoline service station apparently had deprived Considine of the use of at least five required spaces.

The commission learned that Considine had firm arrangements to provide at least 62 parking spaces nightly near his Miracle Mile establishment.

After asking Considine to post the parking areas with signs warning that the spaces are reserved, the commission decided to review the permit again in six months.

Commissioners also recommended that the city council approve planned development rezoning of Unit D of the Sunny Hills property for 70 apartments, with numerous conditions.

One of the conditions was a first for San Anselmo — that the developers contract with the Marin County Housing Authority to make at least 5 per cent of the units available for the authority's low-cost rental program.

Crash On Waldo Grade Ties Up 101 Traffic

Traffic backed up on the Waldo Grade yesterday when a southbound car driven by a San Rafael man spun out, hit the guardrail and overturned, spewing debris into the northbound lanes.

No one was injured in the 3:45 p.m. accident south of Rodeo Avenue, but traffic jams clogged both sides of the freeway for about 45 minutes. Southbound traffic backed up almost to Richardson Bay Bridge.

The California Highway Patrol said a car driven by John N. Lister, 19, of 106 San Marino Drive, San Rafael, changed lanes in front of a vehicle operated by Ramon L. Alferez, 38, of 570 San Jose Avenue, San Rafael.

Alferez swerved his auto, hit the center divider and overturned, officers said. Debris from his car hit northbound vehicles driven by Yok K. Liu, 43, of San Francisco, and Rosa R. Wittenberg, 44, of 329 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley.

Car Stolen In Service Area

A repaired 1966 Volkswagen was stolen from the service department of Leon C. Felton Volkswagen between Thursday and yesterday, according to San Rafael police.

Police said the two-door red sedan, license SPY-515, was parked at the service department, 60 Hoag Avenue, after it was repaired Thursday.

Owner of the vehicle is Jack Acetta of 7 Dusel Court,, Novato.

More Talks In Teacher Halt Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nine hours of negotiating on Monday failed to settle a teachers strike in San Francisco, despite a compromise proposal by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

Alioto, who called for more talks today, did not discuss details of his proposal but said it provided what he considered an "equitable settlement" of major issues.

The mayor identified the major areas of dispute as classroom size, teacher preparation periods, staff attrition, para-professional assistance and plans by Superintendent Thomas A. Shaheen for certain new programs.

As negotiations recessed, the mayor asked postponement by Shaheen of the superintendent's plan to make public his 1971-72 budget proposals. Shaheen took the request under study.

Teachers have asserted Shaheen, in an economic decision, plans to lessen advantages they have gained in earlier years.

Schools in the city are closed for Easter vacation and are scheduled to reopen April 12.

The 1,400-member American Federation of Teachers struck March 24 and was joined later by about 1,000 members of the Classroom Teachers Association. The CTA action all but ended classroom instruction.

Shakeup In Fourth Senatorial District?

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Drastic boundary changes in the Fourth Senatorial District, which includes Marin, Napa and Solano counties, appeared certain today in light of new figures released by the Senate Committee on Elections and Reapportionment.

The district's 1970 population, upon which reapportionment of districts for the next decade are being drawn for next year's elections, was 447,339, or under the ideal of 498,828 by 51,489, or by 10.32 per cent.

And rumors that Marin will land in a San Francisco district were strengthened by committee figures showing San Francisco's two senatorial districts needed 281,982 more population to meet the ideal.

Some deviation from the ideal size district has been allowed by courts under the one-man, one-vote edict, but the courts continually have narrowed the allowable deviation to almost nil.

The Fourth District is represented by Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.He was elected last November, but may have to run again next year to retain his seat if his Tiburon residence lands in another district — such as a district extended north from San Francisco.

San Francisco's two at-large districts were found to be the most under-populated in the state.

Drydocks Removal To County

Huge drydocks mired in Richardson Bay off Sausalito will have to be removed by the county because the Department of the Army refuses to take responsibility, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney reported today.

The county has been trying to get the Army to move the drydocks on grounds that they are a hazard to navigation.

Maloney told the Marin County Board of Supervisors this morning that the Army notified him that it has no responsibility. "The only remedy left to the county is to sue the Army," said Maloney. But he advised the supervisors that such a suit would take four or five years "so I don't think much will be gained by pursuing the Army."

Supervisors decided they may have to resort to a proposal advanced last December by a specialist, who said he could burn the docks at a cost of about $40,000. Conventional demolition would cost more than $75,000.

Recycling Service Backed

Directors of the Alto Sanitary District agreed last night to allow a Sausalito recycling firm to offer its services to district residents for a six-month trial period, director Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported.

He said Whole Systems Recycling Co. will dispose of residents' recyclable items, including bottles, newspapers and cans, for $1.50 a month. The items will be picked up by the Mill Valley Refuse Service, which collects garbage for the district, then turned over to the recycling firm, located at the Richardson Bay Heliport.

The optional service will begin later this month. Persons wishing to dispose of their reusable trash will be asked to place it in separate containers alongside their garbage, he said.

Is Sonoma Part Of Bay Area? Voters To Decide April 20

Sonoma County — with its suburban Petaluma commuters in the south and solid agricultural land to the north — is like an animal moving in two directions.

When voters go to the polls April 20, they will decide whether the county is actually part of the San Francisco Bay Area or belongs with its northern cousins and away from the city slickers.

The point in question is the continued membership of Sonoma County in the Association of Bay Area Governments. While there has been little discussion or apparent interest from residents, the balloting may show that Sonoma County is split on the issue.

PETALUMANS NO DOUBT have the closest ties with the Bay Area, since many of them have moved from large cities and still commute daily to their jobs there. Rapid transit plans and discussions by the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District are followed carefully in Petaluma, while the prune rancher in Healdsburg couldn't care less.

Santa Rosa, with an area population of nearly 60,000, is classed as a metropolitan area on its own, but still feels close ties with the Bay Area and hopes to become part of the bridge district's long-range transit plans. The city has also used ABAG as a means of getting large amounts of federal aid.

The county supervisors would not immediately withdraw from ABAG without first establishing a new association that could also process applications for federal and state grants. Supervisor Robert Theiller of Sebastopol, a longtime ABAG foe, has been joined by fellow board member Henry Spomer of Healdsburg in traveling to Mendocino, Del Norte, Napa and Lake Counties drumming up support. Marin County is also on the list to be contacted, but support there is not considered likely.

CRITICS FORESEE the now voluntary ABAG turning into a complete regional government with full taxing powers. With the one-man, one-vote concept, Theiller complains that Sonoma County would end up with only one vote out of 22 and a half.

Although Theiller complains that Sonoma County may not get its fair share of representation, it must be remembered that Sonoma Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella is now president of the association.

Naturally, Vella is a strong ABAG supporter, but he has always said that if another association can be formed that would bring better benefits for Sonoma County, he would vote for withdrawal.

Theiller and his fellow critics have not yet shown that an alternative to ABAG is possible.

Write Your Own Story Of Laos; You Just Fill In The Blanks

WASHINGTON — Everyone seems to have his own opinion as to how successful the Laos operation was. The administration has indicated that it's quite pleased with the incursions and that everything went according to plan. Press reports are less optimistic and some reporters went so far as to describe it as a "rout."

Once again the poor American public doesn't know whom to believe. To make it easier I have decided to let everybody write his own news story and "tell it as it is" according to his own feelings on the war. Just fill in the blanks.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Pentagon spokesmen have announced that the recent incursion into Laos by the South Vietnamese was the greatest . . . . of the Indochinese war. While expressing disappointment that the ARVN did not remain in Laos until . . . . . , the consensus was that the incursion had proved that the ARVN could . . . . . when put to the test.

Pointing out that the operation had gained . . . (A) months, (B) weeks, (C) days, for the South Vietnamese, officials said that the operation would permit President Nixon to step up his withdrawal plans to . . . . . troops a month.

The spokesmen said that not only had the ARVN . . . . . in their objective of taking the key town of . . . . . as well as cutting off route . . . . .,but they had destroyed . . . . . boxes of ammunition, ... bags of rice, ... chickens, ... feet of oil pipe, and . . . . . tea bags.

They also killed . . . . . crack North Vietnamese soldiers. This now brings the total body count of North Vietnamese soldiers killed in action up to . . . . million.

THE OPERATION'S . . . . could be attributed to . . . . . planning, ... intelligence and . . . . . ARVN officers who had fought without American advisers.

Asked about American air losses, the Pentagon spokesman said that the United States had lost . . . . . helicopters at a cost of $. . . . . million, ... fighter planes at a cost of $. . . . . million, and . . . . . bombers at approximately the same cost.

But he said it was worth it because the American planes had dropped . . . . . tons of bombs on Laos, which was more tonnage than was dropped by the allies during all of World War . . . . . .

The Defense Department official said, "We will continue our . . . . . air strikes along the Ho Chi Minh Trail."

ASKED HOW MANY Laotians had been killed or wounded by the incursion, the spokesman denied any more than . . . . . thousand had been involved. He also said that critics of the incursion had exaggerated the number of refugees. "To our knowledge there are no more than . . . . thousand Laotians in refugee camps," he said.

"The important thing to keep in mind," he continued is that the . . . . . season is coming up, and this will make it much . . . . . for Hanoi to . . . . ."

Hearing Set For Novato Man On Burglary Counts

Ronald F. Watkins, 26, of Novato, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on charges he burglarized Major Cleaners in San Rafael Jan. 20 and Feb. 15.

He is to plead to the charges tomorrow.

Watkins earlier had pleaded guilty to the Feb. 15 burglary and the January burglary charge was dismissed.

But when it appeared that Judge Samuel W. Gardiner was going to sentence him to state prison, he asked and was allowed to withdraw his guilty plea.

Both charges were then refiled against him.

Electric Car Seen By 1975

ESSEN, Germany (UPI)— West Germany's largest power company has promised to produce a prototype electric car by 1975, and provide a network of service stations to provide fresh batteries.

The Rheinisch Westfaelische Elektrizitaetswerke (RWE) Monday announced the formation of two subsidiaries to handle the development of electrically-powered vehicles and a supporting network of service stations respectively.

Initially, the first subsidiary will develop prototype buses and city delivery trucks, but it intends to produce a prototype passenger car by 1975, a spokesman said.

Question On Flag Saluting Disrupts Round In Lagunitas

The candidates night turned into a shouting match at one point and it was several minutes before the moderator could restore calm to the meeting.

The outburst came when William McNew of Woodacre asked candidate Richard C. Sloan, 35,a carpenter from Lagunitas, how he felt about saluting the flag.

More than half the crowd of approximately 100 people got on their feet, shouting at McNew and at each other, and some long haired young men shook their fists.

After calm was restored, Sloan answered that nationalism in the world is a tremendous problem and flag waving has gotten more nations into more trouble than anything else.

McNew then asked Sloan what flag he waved.

Sloan did not answer.

Before and after that outburst the four candidates in the April 20 election for two four-year seats on the board were able to give their views uninterrupted.

In addition to Sloan the candidates are incumbent Glen E Twitchell, 40, of 50 Mountain View Avenue, Lagunitas; Wilma M. McVey, 44, a housewife and former nurse of 50 Forest Drive, Forest Knolls, and Ted Van Midde, 42, plant manager of 107 Madrone Avenue, Woodacre.

It was apparent from the applause on questions that the crowd was about evenly divided between two camps, those favoring Twitchell and McVey and those favoring Sloan and Midde. The crowd did not show any favoritism but applauded each candidate after he spoke before and after the questions.

The candidates all were against unification, with Twitchell calling for a moratorium on compulsory unification elections with the Tamalpais High School District.

Twitchell said he believed in making changes in the schools, but doing it gradually.

"I am not ready to embrace the 'do your own thing' program," he said.

Sloan advocated entire community involvement in the school classrooms. He said if a child thought he could learn better under a tree with an adult for supervision, he should do it.

"The country should find ways to stop war and spend the money on education. Something is wrong with a nation that spends 80 per cent on war and 1 per cent of its income on education," Sloan said.

Van Midde said it was time that the adults listened to the young people "tell it like it is". He advocated a summer recreation program and constructive field trips. He said he wanted better relations between San Geronimo and Lagunitas schools.

Mrs. McVey said she believed in giving the children a good foundation in reading, mathematics, language and history. Then if the district could afford it, she would like to see music and art programs added to the curriculum.

She said that she did not approve strict classroom teaching, but felt that a child should be free to enter into discussion with adults or other children. She said she favored new programs when the district could afford them.

When questioned, Sloan said he would put youngsters of all ages in one classroom. Parents who favored this system could have it and those who favored the grade system could have that. Both systems could be worked in the school, he said.

The candidates were asked their opinion on legalizing of marijuana and the drug abuse education program.

Twitchell said he was against legalizing marijuana and favored the drug abuse program.

Mrs. McVey also supported the drug education program, but said she would have to study more before deciding on legalizing marijuana.

Van Midde was against the legalization of marijuana and compared the drug education program to putting a warning on a package of cigarettes and then subsidizing the tobacco growers.

Sloan said that legislatior against marijuana is not going to help in our drug oriented society. He considered the drug abuse program ineffective.

All candidates agreed that students could be helpful if they were given part in the discussions at board meetings, but did not have a vote.

Former trustee Winifred Frederick asked about proposals of state aid in helping relieve property taxes. All candidates agreed that taxes were too high and they would have to wait to see what the state legislature did to aid school districts.

The San Geronimo Valley Association sponsored the candidates night. The parent teacher association furnished the refreshments. Richard D. Poppe, association president, was moderator.

Half Moon Bay Hit On Waste Discharges

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An order prohibiting Half Moon Bay from connecting additional waste discharges to its sewer system has been affirmed by the state Water Resources Control Board.

The state agency rejected a protest by the city in acting Monday to uphold an order by the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board which prohibits new sewer connections.

The regional board ruled— and the state agency concurred —that Half Moon Bay had violated a long list of waste discharge requirements for at least a full year ending last Janury.

Included were violation of requirements for disinfection, "settleable" solids and the discovery at least twice on an ocean beach of "solids of sewage origin."

The city, represented by special attorney Saul M. Weingarten, asked the state board to review and overturn the cease and desist order of the regional board.

If the cease and desist order is ignored, the state can bring a lawsuit against the city which could result in a fine of $6,000 upon conviction.

Weingarten charged that the city was prohibited at hearings from fully presenting its side of the case. He insisted the order was "punitive."

"There really had been no hearing at all," Weingarten told the state agency. "We've had no opportunity to controvert these particular matters. If you're going to make your conclusion based solely on one side, there's no reason to have a hearing at all."

E. F. Dibble, a board member, said the Half Moon Bay case was "an example of where a city has not done anything about enlarging its (treatment) plant in 12 years."

Four Teens Injured In Auto Crash

Four Marin teen-agers were injured, two seriously, in a one-car accident on White's Hill in Fairfax last night when the car they were riding in struck a power pole.

According to Fairfax police, Aurora Morin, 16, of 10 Brentwood Drive, San Rafael, was driving the vehicle, a 1964 Plymouth, at 11:30 p.m. when the brakes failed.

She is reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion, cuts and bruises.

Miss Morin was taken to the hospital by United Ambulance along with Steve Robert, 16, of 300 Sunnyhill, San Anselmo. His condition was reported as fair today by hospital officials. Robert was admitted with a fractured right leg.

Two other passengers received outpatient treatment at the hospital where they were taken by their families. They were Debbie Gee, 16, of 305 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael, treated for facial cuts, and Diance Tannenbaum, 15, of 125 Ross Street, San Rafael, treated for a fractured nose.

Woman Found Dead At Home

Nora DuBose, 54, was discovered by firemen who were alerted when a neighbor reported smoke in the rear of the DuBose apartment.

Police said they found a can of paint thinner and several burnt matches next to the woman's body.

Instructor Suspended In Incident

A Sonoma State College anthropology instructor has been suspended because of a class demonstration of "cultural shock", during which he and seven students partially disrobed.

In the class on cultural change last Wednesday, it was reported that five men and two women partially disrobed, applied paint to their buttocks and then made designs on butcher paper. Cameras filmed the episode including the reactions of students who did not participate.

Under state college procedures, Allison is entitled to a hearing within 30 days if he wishes.

Vandals Smash Two Store Windows

A witness in a neighboring store said three boys pushed a shopping cart through the windows. Damage was set at $700.

Dorm Life Upheld By Highest Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court ruled Monday that there is nothing unconstitutional about state colleges requiring all unmarried undergraduates to live in dormitories.

In a brief order the court affirmed a 2-1 decision to this effect by a special three-judge federal court in Monroe, La., on Sept. 21, 1970. The case was brought to the high court by three students at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston.

Each state educational institution made its own decision as to whether to abide by the practice, based on resolutions of the state board of education.

The students argued the restriction was unreasonable and violated their basic right to live as they see fit.

But the lower court said Louisiana has state-owned facilities where there are no dormitory accommodations and a student who doesn't want to live at college can select one of those.

The policy at Louisiana Tech was announced in a letter of the dean of students on May 23, 1969. Before that, only unmarried freshmen under 21 and all unmarried women under 21 had been required to live at the school.

Romney Sees Inflation As Major Housing Woe

OAKLAND (UPI)—Inflation curbs housing production more than any other single factor in the economy, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney said today.

The secretary said that when the present administration took office in 1969 there were 188,000 low-cost housing units under way across the nation. "Last year that figure was 550,000, and the next fiscal year has money for 695,000 units already budgeted," Romney said.

He said that money spent on housing projects was $205 million in 1960 and will be $2 billion in 1971.

But he said the cost of land has risen 500 per cent since 1950 and the cost of housing itself is up 250 per cent for the same period.

Questions Show Whether Candidates Do Homework

Now that school board campaigns are getting into full stride, some patterns begin to appear.

Incumbents seeking re-election start the campaign with considerable advantage. Even if they have not done much homework while on the board, they are able to speak with some familiarity of the complexities of school finance, organization, law, and personnel affairs.

The seekers, on the other hand, usually start with very vague ideas of such matters. Some may have gained some insight into school finance from serving on bond and tax committees. Some may have picked up a little educational jargon from being on citizen "goals committees." But beyond these, it is a rare aspirant for a first term on a school board who has more than a very foggy notion of the job for which he has filed.

BY THE TIME the campaign gets into its final weeks, however, those who are genuinely interested in doing the hard job of a school board member have done some homework. Now the pattern begins to emerge. These candidates begin to speak more specifically. Differences begin to show between those who are willing to do the digging necessary to become effective board members and those who are merely job-seekers or starry-eyed dreamers with simplistic notions of how the complicated educational system is operated.

Not to single out any candidate as "good" or "bad", but merely as an example, let's cite a few things at a San Rafael Board of Education candidates' night last week:

ONLY ONE CANDIDATE — Dr. Charles B. Peek, a first-term aspirant — even showed awareness of a state Department of Education-backed bill which would completely revamp California school financing. He admitted he didn't yet understand it.

Only incumbent Herman L. Childress and aspirants Donald R. Wellington, Marilyn E. Bolinger and Richard E. West showed some familiarity with AB 293 by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, which would remove the superior court hearing from teacher dismissal proceedings and make other significant changes in the tenure law. But all nine agreed that teacher tenure needs some revision.

All had their ideas about the sixth-seventh-eighth grade "middle school" concept, but only Childress and Wellington recognized the financial implications of converting Davidson School to such a form.

WE COULD GO ON. When specific issues were raised, it became evident which candidates had been doing their homework.

The same thing happens at any candidates' forum where such questions come up — as they generally do.

In many school districts, there are large numbers of voters who are dissatisfied with school operations in one way or another. They are inclined to gravitate to those candidates who voice a philosophy that agrees with their own.

But if some of those candidates are not willing to do their homework as candidates, can they be expected to do it as office-holders? And if they don't, can they be effective in bringing their philosophy to bear?

The answers appear obvious.

Aquarius Gunga Din

Occasionally, especially on warm spring days when there is a hint of flower fragrance in the air, the mind wanders down strange paths, following whim and fancy.

For example, we got to musing about the age of Aquarius. Astrology has never intrigued us, but we think we know that Aquarius is the zodiacal sign of the water-carrier. Perhaps the gulf between the generations could be narrowed a bit by pointing out that the older generation had its Aquarius, too. That defender of British imperialism, Rudyard Kipling, immortalized him in his poem, "Gunga Din." He was very big when today's middle-aged were kids. Whenever someone would perform a surprising feat, a witness would be bound to say, "You're a better man than I am, Gunga Din."

The kids might be fascinated to know that we were moved by a poem about a lowly, dusty, dusky water-bearer, who had only a piece of twisty rag and a goat-skin water bag — and lots of heart.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Jobless Benefits Become Ploy For Labor Law Lobbyists

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The annual battle to extend unemployment insurance to presently exempt categories California workers has been renewed in the state legislature, this year by Assemblyman Henry A. Waxman, D-Los Angeles.

The battle has been going on for 32 years, which is ever since the state started paying unemployment insurance benefits during the closing months of the great depression.

The new dealers apparently thought that farm workers, domestic workers, public employees and employees of non-profit organizations wouldn't be susceptible to sudden enemployment, as they neglected to include these groups in the "covered" groups, meaning they were not eligible to draw benefits when out of jobs.

EVER SINCE, labor legislators and labor lobbyists have been attempting, sometimes only in a half-hearted manner, to include the excluded groups in the benefits.

And during the more than three decades, the issue has been used for more wheeling and dealing among legislators, and lobbyists both for labor and industry, than any other item.

Generally, labor has sponsored the inclusion bills and used them for dealing with the lobbyists for industry to gain concessions on a different front.

Few of these groups are dues-paying members of the big labor organizations. Domestic workers are not organized, and farm workers are just starting to be organized.

SO WHY NOT, then, use the issue to promote bigger and better benefits for those industrial workers who are covered, and who do get insurance when they become unemployed?

These and many more items contribute to the fact that in 32 years of effort, no legislation has been enacted that would include farm workers, domestic workers, public employees, and employees of non-profit organization in unemployment insurance.

The result is not expected to change this year.

Consumer Board Choices Questioned

Resident Defends Petaluma Homes

As a homeowner in Avondale No. 4 subdivision of Young America Homes I find it necessary to write with reference to articles in the Independent-Journal the past week.

It should be made clear that the persons who have been picketing at the sales offices here are not representative of all homeowners here. Also they do not represent all persons who are not completely satisfied with the operation of their dishwashers.

Young America Homes have continued to work to resolve the dishwasher problem with homeowners and should not be expected to have it resolved without much investigation into the problems.

Some persons seem to feel that the only solution is replacement. There are many factors to be considered in unsatisfactory performance of a dishwasher.

Hunter College President Lauded

On behalf of the several hundred Hunter College alumni residing in Northern California, I wish to thank the Independent-Journal for the recent article concerning Jacqueline Wexler ("College President Reacts," March 23). Hunter College alumni are justly proud of a president who has brought a humanizing and openly personal approach to her role as head of a college situated in a city smothering under multi-faceted problems. In the short time that Mrs. Wexler has been president she has sought to bridge the gap between faculty and students and between the office of a president and alumni. She has attempted to listen, to understand, to communicate, and most important, to develop a plan of action. Her background has enriched her life in an immeasurable way, enabling her to deal positively with student confrontations and rioting.

How successful Mrs. Wexler is in the future only time will tell. Perhaps it would be worthwhile to reflect on these words (of hers): "...If we can talk or even shout across the gap (between youth and us), the process of orderly change will be served. It's when we start shouting into the crowd that we have failed."

Open Areas Needed For Motorcycles

Just recently I read an article in your column submitted by Ronald Davies entitled, "Different View on Motorcycles," and . . . I must side with Mr. Davies.

For Christmas I received a Honda 70. Now down the street from me is an appropriate place to ride motorcycles and many kids and adults besides me use it. For the last three weeks nobody has been up there because about March 5, the Novato Police Department started making up ID cards on people picked up there because the homeowners below the hill complained of too much noise, forcing the landowner to close the hill for riding . . . Now I don't have any place to ride. . .

So I agree with Mr. Davies, why can't spare acreage in Marin be used for riding, with strict rules of course. Besides motorcycling is fun and it keeps kids off the streets and from breaking windows and going to pot parties. My father and I agree on this and I know many other people do.

Accidents Down In Marin County

Your excellent editorial of March 27 concerning traffic safety was, naturally, of great interest to us of the California Highway Patrol, and hopefully, to all of your readers.

The report highlighted many pertinent items dealing with various phases of accident causes; however, the last paragraph of your editorial summed it all up very concisely and personally. To a great extent, an individual's safety on the highway depends upon the individual himself.

In order to assist and protect the individual from the "other" driver, we have a hard-hitting enforcement program aimed at the primary accident causing violations. We know this to be an effective weapon. For example, in Marin County during the past two years we have increased drunk driving arrests from 471 in 1968 to 1,327 in 1970. During the same period reportable accidents have been reduced each year. Further, 131 fewer persons were killed or injured last year than in 1968. This is in the face of a 13 per cent increase in traffic. To us this is a very real and tangible aspect of traffic safety.

The year 1971 promises to be even safer for Marin's motorists. As of this date, accidents are down 15 per cent from 1970. Coincidentally, drunk driver arrests are up nearly 27 per cent over last year.

Your statement, "accident statistics will continue to climb," has not been true in Marin County for the past two years. We have reversed the trend. Hopefully, it will continue downward.

Satellite's Music Turns Into Chirps

The first set of batteries was showing signs of weakness on the morning of March 16. On the morning of March 18, entirely different sounding musical notes lasting for about five seconds were heard when the second set of batteries was put into use. This continued for about a week, until the morning of March 23 when a few musical notes were being skipped over. On the next morning there was silence except for a few "beeps" now and then. A weak carrier signal could still be detected on my short wave receiver on each pass over the U.S. when turned to 20.02 megahertz.

This continued for three more days until Saturday morning, March 27, when at the predetermined time I tuned in to the 15-meter band and heard a peculiar sound on a slightly lower krequency of 19.98 megahertz. This was the second of two transmitters, and I finally found it after 11 days of searching for it. (It had been announced by the Pentagon on the morning of March 16 that the satellite was transmitting on two different unmentioned frequencies.)

The sound of a madly chirping cricket can best describe what is now being heard each time the satellite passes over the U.S. during the early morning hours between 2 and 7 a.m. PST.

I will continue to listen to this "creature" each morning. It now remains to be seen how long the source of power will last.

Nixon Finds Moves Stymied By Wide Credibility Gap

SAN CLEMENTE— In the decade that began so promisingly with the inauguration of a young, bouyant president, and that saw such a long succession of horrors, one of the chief casualties has been an almost-total erosion of confidence and trust. This is the balnk wall which President Nixon's principal advisers confront as they put together the facts and figures — the raw material — that will go into the President's speech tomorrow.

Rarely has there been such a thorough, exacting analysis as went into the appraisal of the Laos operation. Under the direction of that demanding taskmaster, Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security affairs, hundreds of hours went into winnowing every scrap of information.

A TEAM WAS SENT to Vietnam for a private inquiry independent of the American military related to the operation. Each intelligence agency was called on for a separate judgment. Then the intelligence chiefs were assembled collectively to confront their respective differences. During a good bit of the past week at the western White House, Kissinger pored our six fat volumes containing estimates, figures, projections related to Laos.

Out of all this has come the following conclusion: The objectives of the Laos operation were 75 to 80 per cent achieved. It means that for 1971 and into 1972 the Communists will be held to the level of warfare of the past year; that is, to the tactics of hit-and-run terror. They will be unable to mount a battalion attack. Both in losses in battlehardened manpower and in disruption of the supply trails, they simply will not have the capacity in the foreseeable future to wage anything like conventional warfare.

If this is true, why should the President not announce a fixed date for the withdrawal of all American forces? This question inevitably arises in discussion of the Indochina balance sheet. Since the situation is so well in hand — 'The War in Vietnam is all but at an end' — there would seem to be no possible harm resulting from announcement of a terminal date. It should take the heat off the rapidly escalating pressures both in Congress and the country to set, as in the resolution adopted by the Democractic caucus of the House, a time certain.

THE ANSWER of the President's closest advisers is that this would shut the door on any possibility of negotiation at Paris. That door, as seen from White House perspective, is still open a crack. Moreover, since the Communists have failed to respond to any of the overtures, such as the promise of phased withdrawal in the Nixon speech of last October, there is no reason to believe advance notice of departure would produce results.

Yet, so the reasoning goes, if they come face to face with the hard facts of their post Cambodia-Laotian dilemma, they may decided to move to the conference table. They surely know that with a peace settlement, or even serious overtures in that direction from hanoi, the homeward bound movement would be irresistible.

But how to convince the public that Laos was a success — a qualified success but nevertheless a success — and that with a little more patience Vietnamization will be carried to a conclusion? The President's advisers have no illusions about the wall of skepticism, doubt, fear, hostility in the path.

RICHARD NIXON, who has reduced the number of ground troops in Vietnam by nearly half, is not credible, whereas Lyndon Johnson, when he was expanding the force to a total of 549,000, seems to have had, if not acceptance, at least a tolerance that was in part ignorance. This is what the Nixon men find so baffling and frustrating.

Stopping short of the luxury of despair, they know the country is being torn apart not only by the war but by all the dire events of the decade of the 60's. Three assassinations, the burning of the cities, the rioting and disorders—This is the heritage of an administration that pleads for belief and yet by both word and act falls short of the rising tide of expectations.

The spring will see more demonstrations, angrier voices raised. The more sensitive and aware men around the President know that this arises only in the smallest degree from ideologies bent on tearing the system down. It comes mainly from men and women, and above all the young, who can endure no more war, no more killing, no more mass bombing. They are as remote from the President's words as though they lived on another planet, as in a sense they do.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Russian Consumer Gets Skeptical Of Promises

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The Russian consumer has had so many promises of better days ahead that a certain amount of skepticism is to be expected concerning current promises by party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and others at the 24th Communist Party Congress.

Such was the case in an interview published by the weekly newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta, put out by the writers union, just after publication of the 1971-75 five-year plan, which takes a sharp turn in favor of the consumer.

Subject of the interview was Nikolai N. Mirotvortsev, deputy chairman of the state planning committee.

"HOW CLOSE are we to satisfying demand?", asked the interviewer.

The reply was that the government expected to satisfy the demand for television sets, washing machines, radios, refrigerators, tape recorders, vacuum cleaners and other normally hard-to-get items.

Further questioning disclosed that automobiles will continue to be hard to get even though Mirotvortsev predicted an offering of 800,000 cars on the market in 1975 as opposed to 124,000 in 1970.

An oddity of the Russian economy has been that while such luxury items as fur coats or television sets may be hard to get, such essentials as tableware and dishes frequently are impossible.

These are among the items promised in the reformation.

INDIRECTLY, BREZHNEV himself indicated some difficulties ahead.

These might come from officials will to "co-exist peacefully" with shortages or shoddy goods as in the past. Such thinking no longer will be acceptable, Brezhnev warned, and management either will deliver or get out.

As he painted a picture of the Russian consumer's future, Brezhnev also felt called upon to explain the fact that 7 per cent of government spending still will go to heavy industry.

Some, he said, was needed to build machinery for manufacture of consumer goods.

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS have been promised salary increases bringing their monthly income up to about $135. But many already are complaining that increases are no help when there is nothing to buy. The combination is a direct threat to the new five-year plan which depends heavily upon an increase in worker productivity.

As in the capitalistic world, inflationary pressures are increasing. The Russian worker may pay less for his razor blades but more for his rent as the government seeks to make both ends meet.

Praise To Leaders Of Mormonism

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Representatives of Mormon congregations from around the world today heard testimonies in support of the presiding authorities and church teachings.

By the raised right hand, some 8,000 members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints reaffirmed support for their 94-year-old prophet, President Joseph Fielding Smith, and his two counselors.

"Thank God for the presidency," said Elder Boyd K. Packer, lead-off speaker on the final day of the annual world conference.

"They need our sustaining vote," he said in remarks prepared for those assembled in the silver-domed tabernacle. "It is sometimes lonely in those lofty callings of leadership—for their calling is not to please man, but to please the Lord."

Elder Packer was first installed as a member of the Council of the Twelve a year ago, and told the conference of his call to the office. All general officers of the church are sustained by the conference each year on April 6, anniversary of Mormonism's formal beginning.

The conference which concludes today began with twice-daily meetings Saturday and continued Sunday. President Smith was keynote speaker at the opening session on Temple Square and will present a final message with which to close the meeting.

Elder Packer told the capacity congregation in the tabernacle, and others observing the proceedings by radio and television, that a witness to the truthfulness of Mormonism's message can come to all who will seek for it through prayer and fasting.

"There is a process by which pure intelligence can flow," he said, "By which we can come to know of a surety, nothing doubting."

The steady growth of membership worldwide was reported to the 141st annual gathering in a brief report preceding the sustaining of full-time general officers.

Membership reached 2,807,456 last Dec. 31, and projected growth patterns led church officials to suggest that it has probably now passed the three-million mark.

The church also reported the organization of five new missions, bringing the total to 93.

Elder Alvin R. Dyer, assistant to the Twelve, remined today's congregation that Joseph Smith had organized the church 141 years ago to prepare a righteous people for the second coming of Christ.

Wars, famine, pestilence, earthquakes, and the preaching of the gospel to the gentiles will procede that long-awaited event," he said.

Elder Dyer said no man would know in advance of the precise day and hour. "There are signs, however, which indicate the nearness of this great event," he added.

She said the figure is in error, and her starting pay is much lower. How much lower she did not say.

Is Sonoma Part Of Bay Area? Voters To Decide April 20

Sonoma County — with its suburban Petaluma commuters in the south and solid agricultural land to the north — is like an animal moving in two directions.

When voters go to the polls April 20, they will decide whether the county is actually part of the San Francisco Bay Area or belongs with its northern cousins and away from the city slickers.

The point in question is the continued membership of Sonoma County in the Association of Bay Area Governments. While there has been little discussion or apparent interest from residents, the balloting may show that Sonoma County is split on the issue.

PETALUMANS NO DOUBT have the closest ties with the Bay Area, since many of them have moved from large cities and still commute daily to their jobs there. Rapid transit plans and discussions by the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District are followed carefully in Petaluma, while the prune rancher in Healdsburg couldn't care less.

Santa Rosa, with an area population of nearly 60,000, is classed as a metropolitan area on its own, but still feels close ties with the Bay Area and hopes to become part of the bridge district's long-range transit plans. The city has also used ABAG as a means of getting large amounts of federal aid.

The county supervisors would not immediately withdraw from ABAG without first establishing a new association that could also process applications for federal and state grants. Supervisor Robert Theiller of Sebastopol, a longtime ABAG foe, has been joined by fellow board member Henry Spomer of Healdsburg in traveling to Mendocino, Del Norte, Napa and Lake Counties drumming up support. Marin County is also on the list to be contacted, but support there is not considered likely.

CRITICS FORESEE the now voluntary ABAG turning into a complete regional government with full taxing powers. With the one-man, one-vote concept, Theiller complains that Sonoma County would end up with only one vote out of 22 and a half.

Although Theiller complains that Sonoma County may not get its fair share of representation, it must be remembered that Sonoma Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella is now president of the association.

Naturally, Vella is a strong ABAG supporter, but he has always said that if another association can be formed that would bring better benefits for Sonoma County, he would vote for withdrawal.

Theiller and his fellow critics have not yet shown that an alternative to ABAG is possible.

Write Your Own Story Of Laos; You Just Fill In The Blanks

WASHINGTON — Everyone seems to have his own opinion as to how successful the Laos operation was. The administration has indicated that it's quite pleased with the incursions and that everything went according to plan. Press reports are less optimistic and some reporters went so far as to describe it as a "rout."

Once again the poor American public doesn't know whom to believe. To make it easier I have decided to let everybody write his own news story and "tell it as it is" according to his own feelings on the war. Just fill in the blanks.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Pentagon spokesmen have announced that the recent incursion into Laos by the South Vietnamese was the greatest . . . . of the Indochinese war. While expressing disappointment that the ARVN did not remain in Laos until . . . . . , the consensus was that the incursion had proved that the ARVN could . . . . . when put to the test.

Pointing out that the operation had gained . . . (A) months, (B) weeks, (C) days, for the South Vietnamese, officials said that the operation would permit President Nixon to step up his withdrawal plans to . . . . . troops a month.

The spokesmen said that not only had the ARVN . . . . . in their objective of taking the key town of . . . . . as well as cutting off route . . . . .,but they had destroyed . . . . . boxes of ammunition, ... bags of rice, ... chickens, ... feet of oil pipe, and . . . . . tea bags.

They also killed . . . . . crack North Vietnamese soldiers. This now brings the total body count of North Vietnamese soldiers killed in action up to . . . . million.

THE OPERATION'S . . . . . could be attributed to . . . . . planning, ... intelligence and . . . . . ARVN officers who had fought without American advisers.

Asked about American air losses, the Pentagon spokesman said that the United States had lost . . . . . helicopters at a cost of $. . . . . million, ... fighter planes at a cost of $. . . . . million, and . . . . . bombers at approximately the same cost.

But he said it was worth it because the American planes had dropped . . . . . tons of bombs on Laos, which was more tonnage than was dropped by the allies during all of World War . . . . .

The Defense Department official said, "We will continue our . . . . . air strikes along the Ho Chi Minh Trail."

ASKED HOW MANY Laotians had been killed or wounded by the incursion, the spokesman denied any more than . . . . . thousand had been involved. He also said that critics of the incursion had exaggerated the number of refugees. "To our knowledge there are no more than . . . . thousand Laotians in refugee camps," he said.

"The important thing to keep in mind," he continued is that the . . . . . season is coming up, and this will make it much . . . . . for Hanoi to . . . . ."

General . . . . . and Ambassador . . . . . in Saigon have reported to President Nixon that they are . . . . . with the results, the spokesman said. President Nixon told them he was very . . . . . also.

Asked why his briefing did not necessarily jell with those press stories coming out of Saigon, the Defense Department official replied, "In regard to press coverage of the war, I would like to refer you to Vice President Agnew's recent fund raising speech in . . . . . when he said the press and television media were . . . . . and so on and so forth."

Hearing Set For Novato Man On Burglary Counts

Ronald F. Watkins, 26, of Novato, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on charges he burglarized Major Cleaners in San Rafael Jan. 20 and Feb. 15.

He is to plead to the charges tomorrow.

Watkins earlier had pleaded guilty to the Feb. 15 burglary and the January burglary charge was dismissed.

But when it appeared that Judge Samuel W. Gardiner was going to sentence him to state prison, he asked and was allowed to withdraw his guilty plea.

Both charges were then refiled against him.

Electric Car Seen By 1975

ESSEN, Germany (UPI)— West Germany's largest power company has promised to produce a prototype electric car by 1975, and provide a network of service stations to provide fresh batteries.

The Rheinisch Westfaelische Elektrizitaetswerke (RWE) Monday announced the formation of two subsidiaries to handle the development of electrically-powered vehicles and a supporting network of service stations respectively.

Initially, the first subsidiary will develop prototype buses and city delivery trucks, but it intends to produce a prototype passenger car by 1975, a spokesman said.

Question On Flag Saluting Disrupts Round In Lagunitas

The candidates night turned into a shouting match at one point and it was several minutes before the moderator could restore calm to the meeting.

The outburst came when William McNew of Woodacre asked candidate Richard C. Sloan, 35,a carpenter from Lagunitas, how he felt about saluting the flag.

More than half the crowd of approximately 100 people got on their feet, shouting at McNew and at each other, and some long haired young men shook their fists.

After calm was restored, Sloan answered that nationalism in the world is a tremendous problem and flag waving has gotten more nations into more trouble than anything else.

McNew then asked Sloan what flag he waved.

Sloan did not answer.

Before and after that outburst the four candidates in the April 20 election for two four-year seats on the board were able to give their views uninterrupted.

In addition to Sloan the candidates are incumbent Glen E Twitchell, 40, of 50 Mountain View Avenue, Lagunitas; Wilma M. McVey, 44, a housewife and former nurse of 50 Forest Drive, Forest Knolls, and Ted Van Midde, 42, plant manager of 107 Madrone Avenue, Woodacre.

It was apparent from the applause on questions that the crowd was about evenly divided between two camps, those favoring Twitchell and McVey and those favoring Sloan and Midde. The crowd did not show any favoritism but applauded each candidate after he spoke before and after the questions.

The candidates all were against unification, with Twitchell calling for a moratorium on compulsory unification elections with the Tamalpais High School District.

Twitchell said he believed in making changes in the schools, but doing it gradually.

"I am not ready to embrace the 'do your own thing' program," he said.

Sloan advocated entire community involvement in the school classrooms. He said if a child thought he could learn better under a tree with an adult for supervision, he should do it.

"The country should find ways to stop war and spend the money on education. Something is wrong with a nation that spends 80 per cent on war and 1 per cent of its income on education," Sloan said.

Van Midde said it was time that the adults listened to the young people "tell it like it is". He advocated a summer recreation program and constructive field trips. He said he wanted better relations between San Geronimo and Lagunitas schools.

Mrs. McVey said she believed in giving the children a good foundation in reading, mathematics, language and history. Then if the district could afford it, she would like to see music and art programs added to the curriculum.

She said that she did not approve strict classroom teaching, but felt that a child should be free to enter into discussion with adults or other children. She said she favored new programs when the district could afford them.

When questioned, Sloan said he would put youngsters of all ages in one classroom. Parents who favored this system could have it and those who favored the grade system could have that. Both systems could be worked in the school, he said.

The candidates were asked their opinion on legalizing of marijuana and the drug abuse education program.

Twitchell said he was against legalizing marijuana and favored the drug abuse program.

Mrs. McVey also supported the drug education program, but said she would have to study more before deciding on legalizing marijuana.

Van Midde was against the legalization of marijuana and compared the drug education program to putting a warning on a package of cigarettes and then subsidizing the tobacco growers.

Sloan said that legislatior against marijuana is not going to help in our drug oriented society. He considered the drug abuse program ineffective.

All candidates agreed that students could be helpful if they were given part in the discussions at board meetings, but did not have a vote.

Former trustee Winifred Frederick asked about proposals of state aid in helping relieve property taxes. All candidates agreed that taxes were too high and they would have to wait to see what the state legislature did to aid school districts.

The San Geronimo Valley Association sponsored the candidates night. The parent teacher association furnished the refreshments. Richard D. Poppe, association president, was moderator.

Half Moon Bay Hit On Waste Discharges

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An order prohibiting Half Moon Bay from connecting additional waste discharges to its sewer system has been affirmed by the state Water Resources Control Board.

The state agency rejected a protest by the city in acting Monday to uphold an order by the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board which prohibits new sewer connections.

The regional board ruled— and the state agency concurred —that Half Moon Bay had violated a long list of waste discharge requirements for at least a full year ending last Janury.

Included were violation of requirements for disinfection, "settleable" solids and the discovery at least twice on an ocean beach of "solids of sewage origin."

The city, represented by special attorney Saul M. Weingarten, asked the state board to review and overturn the cease and desist order of the regional board.

If the cease and desist order is ignored, the state can bring a lawsuit against the city which could result in a fine of $6,000 upon conviction.

Weingarten charged that the city was prohibited at hearings from fully presenting its side of the case. He insisted the order was "punitive."

"There really had been no hearing at all," Weingarten told the state agency. "We've had no opportunity to controvert these particular matters. If you're going to make your conclusion based solely on one side, there's no reason to have a hearing at all."

E. F. Dibble, a board member, said the Half Moon Bay case was "an example of where a city has not done anything about enlarging its (treatment) plant in 12 years."

Four Teens Injured In Auto Crash

Four Marin teen-agers were injured, two seriously, in a one-car accident on White's Hill in Fairfax last night when the car they were riding in struck a power pole.

According to Fairfax police, Aurora Morin, 16, of 10 Brentwood Drive, San Rafael, was driving the vehicle, a 1964 Plymouth, at 11:30 p.m. when the brakes failed.

She is reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion, cuts and bruises.

Miss Morin was taken to the hospital by United Ambulance along with Steve Robert, 16, of 300 Sunnyhill, San Anselmo. His condition was reported as fair today by hospital officials. Robert was admitted with a fractured right leg.

Two other passengers received outpatient treatment at the hospital where they were taken by their families. They were Debbie Gee, 16, of 305 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael, treated for facial cuts, and Diance Tannenbaum, 15, of 125 Ross Street, San Rafael, treated for a fractured nose.

Woman Found Dead At Home

Nora DuBose, 54, was discovered by firemen who were alerted when a neighbor reported smoke in the rear of the DuBose apartment.

Police said they found a can of paint thinner and several burnt matches next to the woman's body.

Instructor Suspended In Incident

A Sonoma State College anthropology instructor has been suspended because of a class demonstration of "cultural shock", during which he and seven students partially disrobed.

In the class on cultural change last Wednesday, it was reported that five men and two women partially disrobed, applied paint to their buttocks and then made designs on butcher paper. Cameras filmed the episode including the reactions of students who did not participate.

Under state college procedures, Allison is entitled to a hearing within 30 days if he wishes.

Vandals Smash Two Store Windows

A witness in a neighboring store said three boys pushed a shopping cart through the windows. Damage was set at $700.

Dorm Life Upheld By Highest Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court ruled Monday that there is nothing unconstitutional about state colleges requiring all unmarried undergraduates to live in dormitories.

In a brief order the court affirmed a 2-1 decision to this effect by a special three-judge federal court in Monroe, La., on Sept. 21, 1970. The case was brought to the high court by three students at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston.

Each state educational institution made its own decision as to whether to abide by the practice, based on resolutions of the state board of education.

The students argued the restriction was unreasonable and violated their basic right to live as they see fit.

But the lower court said Louisiana has state-owned facilities where there are no dormitory accommodations and a student who doesn't want to live at college can select one of those.

The policy at Louisiana Tech was announced in a letter of the dean of students on May 23, 1969. Before that, only unmarried freshmen under 21 and all unmarried women under 21 had been required to live at the school.

Romney Sees Inflation As Major Housing Woe

OAKLAND (UPI)—Inflation curbs housing production more than any other single factor in the economy, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney said today.

The secretary said that when the present administration took office in 1969 there were 188,000 low-cost housing units under way across the nation. "Last year that figure was 550,000, and the next fiscal year has money for 695,000 units already budgeted," Romney said.

He said that money spent on housing projects was $205 million in 1960 and will be $2 billion in 1971.

But he said the cost of land has risen 500 per cent since 1950 and the cost of housing itself is up 250 per cent for the same period.

Second Big Air Crash Suit Filed

A $2.5 million damage suit was filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court on behalf of the widow and three children of an Air Force colonel killed last year in the crash of a plane shortly after take-off from Hamilton Air Force Base.

It was the second large suit to be filed within a week in connection with the crash in which 13 men died.

The suit filed yesterday by San Rafael attorney Frederick T. Graham charges General Dynamics Corp. of Delaware, manufacturer of the plane, with negligence and asks damages for the survivors of Col. Eldridge G. Shelton Jr.

Shelton died May 4, 1970, when the T-29 transport plane crashed near Lakeville, Sonoma County, minutes after leaving Hamilton. One passenger on the plane, Capt. George A. Burk, escaped death but is still hospitalized for burns.

An Air Force investigation of the crash blamed the accident on a weak casting in the cockpit's windshield and rivet holes in a metal frame. The window collapsed and the canopy blew off.

A suit filed last week in San Francisco Superior Court asks $1 million damages for the survivors of Air Force Sgt. Enrique Ferrer, who also died in the crash.

'Cover-Up' Colonel Asks Dismissal

FT. MEADE, MD. (UPI) — Defense counsel for Col. Oran K. Henderson said today court-martial proceedings against him should be dismissed because he was not advised he was a suspect in an alleged My Lai cover-up until 10 months after he was first questioned.

Henderson is facing trial on charges of dereliction of duty for allegedly covering up the My Lai slayings and of making two false statements to a high-level Pentagon panel which interviewed him on Dec. 2, 1969.

Henderson is the highest ranking officer still facing charges and possible trial growing out of the My Lai killings. He was commander of the Americal Division's 11th Brigade, of which Lt. William L. Calley Jr.'s platoon —which raided My Lai —was a part.

Lt. Col. Frank J. Dorsey, chief military counsel for Henderson argued that Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, head of Pentagon's investigating panel, never advised the colonel at the time he was interviewed that he was under suspicion.

Dorsey said it was not until October, 1970, that Peers said Henderson was a "prime suspect."

Henry B. Rothblatt, chief civilian counsel for Henderson, said the delay was like "the fruit of a poisonous tree."

Rothblatt said if the government erred on that point, the entire evidence against Henderson is tainted.

"We are going to test them on every move on that fact," he commented.

"This isn't supposed to be a game where you play the cards close to the chest and don't show the other side what you have."

Dorsey also said in court just before a midday recess that he had been getting a runa round from the government in his attempts to obtain information pertinent to the trial.

"I've been on so many merry-go-round trips I am beginning to get a leper syndrome," Dordey said on the second day of the pre-trial hearing expected to last possibly two months at this army base halfway between Washington and Baltimore.

Praise To Leaders Of Mormonism

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Representatives of Mormon congregations from around the world today heard testimonies in support of the presiding authorities and church teachings.

By the raised right hand, some 8,000 members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints reaffirmed support for their 94-year-old prophet, President Joseph Fielding Smith, and his two counselors.

"Thank God for the presidency," said Elder Boyd K. Packer, lead-off speaker on the final day of the annual world conference.

"They need our sustaining vote," he said in remarks prepared for those assembled in the silver-domed tabernacle. "It is sometimes lonely in those lofty callings of leadership—for their calling is not to please man, but to please the Lord."

Elder Packer was first installed as a member of the Council of the Twelve a year ago, and told the conference of his call to the office. All general officers of the church are sustained by the conference each year on April 6, anniversary of Mormonism's formal beginning.

The conference which concludes today began with twice-daily meetings Saturday and continued Sunday. President Smith was keynote speaker at the opening session on Temple Square and will present a final message with which to close the meeting.

Elder Packer told the capacity congregation in the tabernacle, and others observing the proceedings by radio and television, that a witness to the truthfulness of Mormonism's message can come to all who will seek for it through prayer and fasting.

"There is a process by which pure intelligence can flow," he said, "By which we can come to know of a surety, nothing doubting."

The steady growth of membership worldwide was reported to the 141st annual gathering in a brief report preceding the sustaining of full-time general officers.

Membership reached 2,807,456 last Dec. 31, and projected growth patterns led church officials to suggest that it has probably now passed the three-million mark.

The church also reported the organization of five new missions, bringing the total to 93.

Elder Alvin R. Dyer, assistant to the Twelve, remined today's congregation that Joseph Smith had organized the church 141 years ago to prepare a righteous people for the second coming of Christ.

Wars, famine, pestilence, earthquakes, and the preaching of the gospel to the gentiles will procede that long- awaited event," he said.

Elder Dyer said no man would know in advance of the precise day and hour. "There are signs, however, which indicate the nearness of this great event," he added.

Anne Smith Salary Report Held In Error

Anne Smith, who resigned as secretary in the Marin Human Rights Department to take another job at Broadway Hospital in Vallejo, said her new salary is not $675 as reported last week.

She said the figure is in error, and her starting pay is much lower. How much lower she did not say.

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Donald W. Kathriner, 21, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent to a charge of possession of marijuana yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon said a trial date would be set on April 19 at 1:30 p.m. Kathriner was arrested March 28 when Petaluma police said they found two marijuana cigarettes in his possession.

Second Big Air Crash Suit Filed

A $2.5 million damage suit was filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court on behalf of the widow and three children of an Air Force colonel killed last year in the crash of a plane shortly after take-off from Hamilton Air Force Base.

It was the second large suit to be filed within a week in connection with the crash in which 13 men died.

The suit filed yesterday by San Rafael attorney Frederick T. Graham charges General Dynamics Corp. of Delaware, manufacturer of the plane, with negligence and asks damages for the survivors of Col. Eldridge G. Shelton Jr.

Shelton died May 4, 1970, when the T-29 transport plane crashed near Lakeville, Sonoma County, minutes after leaving Hamilton. One passenger on the plane, Capt. George A. Burk, escaped death but is still hospitalized for burns.

An Air Force investigation of the crash blamed the accident on a weak casting in the cockpit's windshield and rivet holes in a metal frame. The window collapsed and the canopy blew off.

A suit filed last week in San Francisco Superior Court asks $1 million damages for the survivors of Air Force Sgt. Enrique Ferrer, who also died in the crash.

'Cover-Up' Colonel Asks Dismissal

FT. MEADE, MD. (UPI) — Defense counsel for Col. Oran K. Henderson said today court-martial proceedings against him should be dismissed because he was not advised he was a suspect in an alleged My Lai cover-up until 10 months after he was first questioned.

Henderson is facing trial on charges of dereliction of duty for allegedly covering up the My Lai slayings and of making two false statements to a high-level Pentagon panel which interviewed him on Dec. 2, 1969.

Henderson is the highest ranking officer still facing charges and possible trial growing out of the My Lai killings. He was commander of the Americal Division's 11th Brigade, of which Lt. William L. Calley Jr.'s platoon —which raided My Lai —was a part.

Lt. Col. Frank J. Dorsey, chief military counsel for Henderson argued that Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, head of Pentagon's investigating panel, never advised the colonel at the time he was interviewed that he was under suspicion.

Dorsey said it was not until October, 1970, that Peers said Henderson was a "prime suspect."

Henry B. Rothblatt, chief civilian counsel for Henderson, said the delay was like "the fruit of a poisonous tree."

Rothblatt said if the government erred on that point, the entire evidence against Henderson is tainted.

"We are going to test them on every move on that fact," he commented.

"This isn't supposed to be a game where you play the cards close to the chest and don't show the other side what you have."

Dorsey also said in court just before a midday recess that he had been getting a runa round from the government in his attempts to obtain information pertinent to the trial.

"I've been on so many merry-go-round trips I am beginning to get a leper syndrome," Dordey said on the second day of the pre-trial hearing expected to last possibly two months at this army base halfway between Washington and Baltimore.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Eight Cancer Victims In 1 Block But No Proof It Is Contagious

R. N. writes: "Eight people on our block had cancer. Do you think one of them spread the cancer germ?" No. The cause of cancer is not known, and there is no scientific evidence that it is contagious. Physicians are exposed almost daily to patients with cancer, yet the incidence of the disease among the medical profession is no higher than among the general population. We say this despite the fact that some malignant diseases are triggered by viruses.

SEVERAL YEARS ago an epidemic of acute leukemia developed in Niles, Ill. Eight cases occurred within a short period of time and all were from one residential area. This could be interpreted as evidence that some forms of cancer might be passed from one person to another. Another example of possible viral transmission is carcinoma of the cervix. Studies have shown that cancer might be preceded by a herpes vaginal infection or trichomoniasis. In such instances, the individual develops the herpes initially.

In searching for causes of cancer it is important to differentiate between contagiousness and environmental factors. People in a certain community may be exposed to the same air or water pollutants, soil, or climate recognized as possible instigators of tumor growths.

IN NORTHERN IRAN on the shores of the Caspian Sea, three districts differ greatly in climate, geology and life style. One is a desert-like region and its inhabitants have 10 times as much cancer of the esophagus (gullet) as those living in the well-watered, wooded region. Between these two areas lies a community where there is less rain than the latter. Cotton is grown and fishing and tourism abound. The incidence of esophageal cancer is double that seen in the lush area, but only one-third that of the desert region. Saline content of the soil and the low rainfall are blamed.

Personal habits in certain areas also play a role. Betel nut chewing, for example, is a known cause of oral cancer. From 1941 to 1960 Tata Memorial Hospital (India) admitted 48,000 cancer patients. Of these, 48.7 per cent had malignancies of the mouth and throat.

HIGH RISK

A reader writes: A man of 41 has smoked 2 packs of cigarettes a day since he was 16. How long do you think he'll live?

REPLY

I'm not God nor do I have a crystal ball. The answer depends upon his ancestry, health habits and whether he develops a heart attack or lung cancer. Now and then an octogenarian brags that most of his life, he has smoked like a chimney and drank like a fish. He is an exception.

CIGARETTES HARD ON BRONCHI

REPLY

Neither is mine and neither was I at his age. That's life, I guess. Hopefully both our sons will stop before irreversible changes occur in the lungs.

No. The normal shape comes naturally.

Modern Age Calls To Tiny Kingdom

By PETER HESS
Toronto Telegram News Service

The tiny Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan, situated between India and China and still largely cut off from the outside world, has instituted important modernization measures in recent years.

Constitutional reforms promoted by the king himself are to transform the absolutist government into a constitutional monarchy. Foreign aid is helping to restructure the country's agriculture, and a number of small industries are being planned.

The country hopes to become a full member of the United Nations this year. It has no desire to remain little more than a folklore museum or an interesting relic from ancient times, but is looking for a way to open itself to modern influences without the loss of traditional values.

The road which leads from the north of West Bengal in India, over 10,000-foot mountains to Bhutan's capital of Thimpu, has been made into an all-weather highway by India's Office for the Construction of Frontier Roads. There now is also regular air service to this country, which previously was accessible only by a journey of several days along narrow pony tracks. Financing for Bhutan's central economic planning comes primarily from India, which has approved the sum of 350 million rupees for the third five-year plan beginning in 1971.

Some additional support is provided by the Colombo Pact nations, Japan and Switzerland. In Gogona, a large facility for milk and cheese production was established with the aid of a Swiss cheesemaker by the name of Schulthess; he and his wife have been friends of the Bhutanese king for many years and this past autumn they visited the project along with the monarch.

Prior to 1961, only 2,600 of the estimated 800,000 inhabitants of Bhutan had attended primary school. Today, about 15,000 young Bhutanese are attending primary and secondary schools, where instruction is given both in English and in the national language, Dzongkha. The country's first bank, the Bank of Bhutan, was founded in 1968. While agriculture is still almost the country's only source of revenue, it is planned to establish several small industries in the coming years, particularly in the southern part of the country around Phuntsholling, near the Indian frontier.

In contrast to Nepal, which despite its close ties with India manages to play a kind of buffer role between India and China, Bhutan's emancipation policy is emphatically linked to India. In accordance with a treaty of 1949, its foreign policy is largely handled by Delhi and it maintains no direct official contacts with Peking. A group of young officials and military officers occasionally expresses impatience at the slow pace of emancipation from Indian patronage, but aside from some minor incidents this has not yet negatively affected relations between Bhutan and its huge neighbor to the southwest.

When Indian president Giri paid a state visit to Bhutan last spring, King Wangchuk emphasized the "very close religious, cultural and geographic ties" between the two countries, thanked his guest for India's "generous assistance" and declared that Bhutan would always look to India for leadership and inspiration, stating that "our fate is closely tied to that of India."

Bhutan is already a member of the Colombo Pact and the World Postal Union, issues its own stamps and, despite its monetary union with India, mints its own 50-paise coins. Efforts have been going on for some time to make Bhutan a UN member. On the one hand this is in keeping with the country's heightened national self-awareness, and at the same time the Bhutanese hope that membership in the world organization will provide at least a moral guarantee of their country's sovereignty. Bhutan's official request for membership in the UN was handed in on December 21 by India's UN ambassador Samar Sen in New York.

Previously, the foreign ministry in Delhi had declared its willingness to promote at any time Bhutan's application for membership and to provide financial and personnel support for a Bhutanese U.N. delegation. Bhutanese representatives have already participated as observers in sessions at the glass palace on the East River. In addition to its mission in New York, Bhutan is also planning to establish its first embassy in Delhi.

In 1968, the country's 43-year-old ruler, King Jigme Dorji Wangchuk, proposed to the Tsongdu, the indirectly elected legislature, constitutional reforms which would provide a kind of interim solution until the introduction of a genuine constitutional monarchy. The desire for democratization appears still rather slight among the people and legislators, and the newly-decreed measures will hardly change the actual power structure.

But King Wangchuk's intelligent move anticipates developments which may be expected at any rate in the course of modernization, thus laying the groundwork on the governmental level for an orderly transition into the modern age.

The changes, some of them decided upon last year, were set down in a document in the spring of 1970 which was duly signed by the king and all representatives to the parliament. In future, the Tsongdu is to vote by secret ballot every three years on whether the king may remain in office.

A group of at least one-third of the legislators may call for such a vote at any other time as well. A two-thirds majority of the 150 parliamentary members is required to depose the king — a revolutionary right for tradition-minded Bhutanese.

In such a case, the successor to the throne would be the next male or female heir in the Wangchuk royal family. If the new ruler is under 21 in the case of a man or under 23 in that of a woman, parliament is to designate a regency council consisting of one representative from each of the following groups: the royal dynasty, the monks, government officials and the general public.

The desire to strengthen Bhutan is also demonstrated by the present creation of a small domestic army, the training of which is partly the responsibility of an Indian military mission. Lately, Buddhist Bhutan is even training its bureaucrats in the use of firearms.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

House Check Fairly Easy

Inspectors used to go from door to door checking buildings for health, fire, or other violations. Until recently, they could enter buildings without a warrant.

But now, if the occupant refuses entry, our courts require them to get a warrant to look around inside. But to get a warrant is fairly simple. An inspector merely files an affidavit stating why he wants it. He need not show why he believes there are violations inside.

Unless the owner consents, even after a fire, say, in one part of the house, the inspector, who might find evidence of arson, must get a warrant to inspect the place.

Officers inspect some businesses such as pawn shops every day. Their owners keep records open and "consent" to inspection as a condition for staying in business.

An emergency always allows inspection without a warrant. For example, where there is not time for a warrant, an inspector may seize unwholesome food or make a health quarantine where health and safety demand action at once.

Public interest may justify regular inspections for fire, health, and safety, but not entry into one's home to "inspect." Our Constitution forbids "unreasonable" searches and seizures.

The law permits random inspection of cars at roadside to detect safety violations. But the officer may not search the car without a warrant. He cannot look into the glove compartment, under the seat, or elsewhere without permission.

Should he do so and find illegal items like narcotics or a gun, no court could admit such evidence. But an officer can see what is in plain sight or can follow up on suspicious behavior by people in the car and look for illegal items. Thus, suppose the driver stopped at a safety check, and moved furtively to hide something.

The police may ask about the action, and, if in order, can check to find what was hidden. But the police cannot stop cars at random to search them.

For example the police may not legally stop a car to check its registration if its license plates are fine. But if a car has broken lamps, is speeding, or there is other "good cause," the police may stop the car and investigate for these reasons.

Agency Acts To Uphold Sewer Order

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Water Resources Control Board has sustained an order directing the Fairfield-Suisun Sewer District to quit filling the atmosphere with foul odors from its sewage treatment plant.

The state agency acted Monday to uphold a cease and desist directive issued against the district by the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The board said "atmospheric odors" wafting from the plant near Suisun City exceeded tolerably limits and had been the target of complaints from adjacent citizens.

But at the same time, the board refused to sustain a provision of the regional board order which prohibited making any additional connections to the district's sewer system.

The effect of the agency's decision finds the district in violation of Water Quality Control Law but allows the district to make new connections on grounds that additional connections bore no relationship to the escaping of odors.

Driver's Condition Reported Good

A Marine injured in a two-car collision on Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley was reported in good condition today at Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco with a concussion.

Clifford I. Schench, 22, of Daly City, was injured at 5:45 p.m. Saturday when his car collided head-on with an auto driven by Joseph G. Stewart, 42, of Castro Valley, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Two 21-year-old passengers in Schench's car, David A. Ovellett and Jewel C. Brown Jr., both stationed at the Marine base at Treasure Island, also were treated at the hospital. Ovellett suffered scalp cuts and Brown suffered cuts of the forehead.

Tax Rate Increase Before Hub Trustees

Whether the San Anselmo School District should go to the voters for a tax rate increase or slash existing education programs to avoid deficit spending will be thrashed out among district trustees tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the library of Red Hill School.

District Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry has recommended the district ask voters to approve a tax override of between 80 and 90 cents on fiscal 1970-71 tax rate of $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation.

He had proposed consolidating the tax election with the April 20 trustee election. However, disagreement on the board delayed a decision and ended the possibility of consolidating the two.

Should the board agree tomorrow to go to an election it could be held late in June.

The superintendent maintains the override is needed because the district has depleted its reserves at a rate of more than $100,000 per year. He has estimated the district will start the fiscal 1971-72 year with a reserve of only $50,000. Thus, either the revenues must be increased or the district's programs reduced.

The superintendent's "blue sky budget" also will be presented tomorrow and is based on the assumption both the board and voters will approve an 85 cent increase to the tax rate.

An 85 cent increase would raise about $265,000 — $100,000 of which would pay for expenses previously paid out of reserve funds.

Greenbrae Report On Agenda

The Larkspur City Council, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall, will hear a report that upgrading street lighting in Greenbrae would cost about $35,000.

The amount was estimated by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. after several residents requested the city provide more lighting in that section of the city.

The city's staff will recommend that a special assessment district be formed to pay for the work if the residents are still interested.

The council also is expected to consider an ordinance amendment limiting uses in C-2, general commercial zones. The amendment would allow without condition retail shops and stores, offices and public services but would require use permits for such uses as gas stations, and car lots.

—The agenda list other items for consideration as final architectural approval for the SDC shopping center at Doherty Drive and Magnolia Avenue, tape recording procedures and policies and an ordinance amendment extending from 40 to 50 days time the planning commission must act on an architectural review application.

Land Use Before Trustees

The possibility of leasing or selling two unused Reed School Districtuschool sites for commercial use will be discussed tonight when the school board meets at 8 o'clock at Bel Aire School.

Acting Assistant Supt. Lester Dunn said the 12.86-acre north-central site near Hacienda Drive and the 10-acre Ring Point site on Paradise Drive near Taylor Road may be put to short-term commercial use.

Dunn said he will have no specific recommendation to the board but merely will list the options available. No board decision on leasing or selling is expected tonight.

The options include building commercial structures which later could be converted to classrooms and building a combination school-office. Such uses may be allowed under the state education code, Dunn said. Sale of the sites also is possible.

Also on tonight's agenda is a report by Dunn on a possible 1971-72 budget surplus. Dunn said preliminary estimates show a $212,000 reserve fund, all or part of which could be used for tax relief or program expansion.

Hearing Set On Check Charges

David W. Filante, 18, of San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on two counts of fraudent possession of checks.

He is to plead to the charges April 19.

Filante is accused of forging his father's name to checks totaling $710.

Innocent Pleas By Oakland Pair

Earl Sam Bouttie, 23, and Anthony Bouttie, 21, both of Oakland, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of robbery and assault with a deadly weapon.

Trial was set for the week of May 3.

The two brothers were arrested March 23 for allegedly attacking an Ignacio service station attendant.

St. Nick Greeted By Big Bonfires

BATON ROUGE, Oa. (UPI)—Descendants of early French settlers on the banks of the Mississippi River in Louisiana celebrate Christmas Eve by lighting huge bonfires on the levees.

The custom is believed to have originated in the early 1800s by children who believed that St. Nick made his rounds down the Mississippi on a riverboat. The bonfires were to show St. Nick where to make his stops.

The Giant Cost Of Ending SST

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The government will spend just about as much money to terminate the supersonic transport program as it would cost to complete the project, SST Director William M. Magruder said Monday.

By the time the government pays off contracts and obtains rights to the SST, the money spent will nearly equal the $470 million estimated cost to build the plane, he told a news conference.

Magruder, here to woo private financial support to keep the project alive, said there is only a 100-to-1 chance of saving the project through private interests.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Eight Cancer Victims In 1 Block But No Proof It Is Contagious

R. N. writes: "Eight people on our block had cancer. Do you think one of them spread the cancer germ?" No. The cause of cancer is not known, and there is no scientific evidence that it is contagious. Physicians are exposed almost daily to patients with cancer, yet the incidence of the disease among the medical profession is no higher than among the general population. We say this despite the fact that some malignant diseases are triggered by viruses.

SEVERAL YEARS ago an epidemic of acute leukemia developed in Niles, Ill. Eight cases occurred within a short period of time and all were from one residential area. This could be interpreted as evidence that some forms of cancer might be passed from one person to another. Another example of possible viral transmission is carcinoma of the cervix. Studies have shown that cancer might be preceded by a herpes vaginal infection or trichomoniasis. In such instances, the individual develops the herpes initially.

In searching for causes of cancer it is important to differentiate between contagiousness and environmental factors. People in a certain community may be exposed to the same air or water pollutants, soil, or climate recognized as possible instigators of tumor growths.

IN NORTHERN IRAN on the shores of the Caspian Sea, three districts differ greatly in climate, geology and life style. One is a desert-like region and its inhabitants have 10 times as much cancer of the esophagus (gullet) as those living in the well-watered, wooded region. Between these two areas lies a community where there is less rain than the latter. Cotton is grown and fishing and tourism abound. The incidence of esophageal cancer is double that seen in the lush area, but only one-third that of the desert region. Saline content of the soil and the low rainfall are blamed.

Personal habits in certain areas also play a role. Betel nut chewing, for example, is a known cause of oral cancer. From 1941 to 1960 Tata Memorial Hospital (India) admitted 48,000 cancer patients. Of these, 48.7 per cent had malignancies of the mouth and throat.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

HIGH RISK

A reader writes: A man of 41 has smoked 2 packs of cigarettes a day since he was 16. How long do you think he'll live?

REPLY

I'm not God nor do I have a crystal ball. The answer depends upon his ancestry, health habits and whether he develops a heart attack or lung cancer. Now and then an octogenarian brags that most of his life, he has smoked like a chimney and drank like a fish. He is an exception.

CIGARETTES HARD ON BRONCHI

S. I. writes: Doesn't smoking make chronic bronchitis worse? Our son is not convinced that cigarettes are hard on the bronchial tubes.

REPLY

Neither is mine and neither was I at his age. That's life, I guess. Hopefully both our sons will stop before irreversible changes occur in the lungs.

BABY'S HEAD AT BIRTH

R. C. writes: Does the doctor shape the baby's head at birth?

REPLY

No. The normal shape comes naturally.

Modern Age Calls To Tiny Kingdom

By PETER HESS
Toronto Telegram News Service

The tiny Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan, situated between India and China and still largely cut off from the outside world, has instituted important modernization measures in recent years.

Constitutional reforms promoted by the king himself are to transform the absolutist government into a constitutional monarchy. Foreign aid is helping to restructure the country's agriculture, and a number of small industries are being planned.

The country hopes to become a full member of the United Nations this year. It has no desire to remain little more than a folklore museum or an interesting relic from ancient times, but is looking for a way to open itself to modern influences without the loss of traditional values.

The road which leads from the north of West Bengal in India, over 10,000-foot mountains to Bhutan's capital of Thimpu, has been made into an all-weather highway by India's Office for the Construction of Frontier Roads. There now is also regular air service to this country, which previously was accessible only by a journey of several days along narrow pony tracks. Financing for Bhutan's central economic planning comes primarily from India, which has approved the sum of 350 million rupees for the third five-year plan beginning in 1971.

Some additional support is provided by the Colombo Pact nations, Japan and Switzerland. In Gogona, a large facility for milk and cheese production was established with the aid of a Swiss cheesemaker by the name of Schulthess; he and his wife have been friends of the Bhutanese king for many years and this past autumn they visited the project along with the monarch.

Prior to 1961, only 2,600 of the estimated 800,000 inhabitants of Bhutan had attended primary school. Today, about 15,000 young Bhutanese are attending primary and secondary schools, where instruction is given both in English and in the national language, Dzongkha. The country's first bank, the Bank of Bhutan, was founded in 1968. While agriculture is still almost the country's only source of revenue, it is planned to establish several small industries in the coming years, particularly in the southern part of the country around Phuntsholling, near the Indian frontier.

In contrast to Nepal, which despite its close ties with India manages to play a kind of buffer role between India and China, Bhutan's emancipation policy is emphatically linked to India. In accordance with a treaty of 1949, its foreign policy is largely handled by Delhi and it maintains no direct official contacts with Peking. A group of young officials and military officers occasionally expresses impatience at the slow pace of emancipation from Indian patronage, but aside from some minor incidents this has not yet negatively affected relations between Bhutan and its huge neighbor to the southwest.

When Indian president Giri paid a state visit to Bhutan last spring, King Wangchuk emphasized the "very close religious, cultural and geographic ties" between the two countries, thanked his guest for India's "generous assistance" and declared that Bhutan would always look to India for leadership and inspiration, stating that "our fate is closely tied to that of India."

Bhutan is already a member of the Colombo Pact and the World Postal Union, issues its own stamps and, despite its monetary union with India, mints its own 50-paise coins. Efforts have been going on for some time to make Bhutan a UN member. On the one hand this is in keeping with the country's heightened national self-awareness, and at the same time the Bhutanese hope that membership in the world organization will provide at least a moral guarantee of their country's sovereignty. Bhutan's official request for membership in the UN was handed in on December 21 by India's UN ambassador Samar Sen in New York.

Previously, the foreign ministry in Delhi had declared its willingness to promote at any time Bhutan's application for membership and to provide financial and personnel support for a Bhutanese U.N. delegation. Bhutanese representatives have already participated as observers in sessions at the glass palace on the East River. In addition to its mission in New York, Bhutan is also planning to establish its first embassy in Delhi.

In 1968, the country's 43-year-old ruler, King Jigme Dorji Wangchuk, proposed to the Tsongdu, the indirectly elected legislature, constitutional reforms which would provide a kind of interim solution until the introduction of a genuine constitutional monarchy. The desire for democratization appears still rather slight among the people and legislators, and the newly-decreed measures will hardly change the actual power structure.

But King Wangchuk's intelligent move anticipates developments which may be expected at any rate in the course of modernization, thus laying the groundwork on the governmental level for an orderly transition into the modern age.

The changes, some of them decided upon last year, were set down in a document in the spring of 1970 which was duly signed by the king and all representatives to the parliament. In future, the Tsongdu is to vote by secret ballot every three years on whether the king may remain in office.

A group of at least one-third of the legislators may call for such a vote at any other time as well. A two-thirds majority of the 150 parliamentary members is required to depose the king — a revolutionary right for tradition-minded Bhutanese.

In such a case, the successor to the throne would be the next male or female heir in the Wangchuk royal family. If the new ruler is under 21 in the case of a man or under 23 in that of a woman, parliament is to designate a regency council consisting of one representative from each of the following groups: the royal dynasty, the monks, government officials and the general public.

The desire to strengthen Bhutan is also demonstrated by the present creation of a small domestic army, the training of which is partly the responsibility of an Indian military mission. Lately, Buddhist Bhutan is even training its bureaucrats in the use of firearms.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

House Check Fairly Easy

Inspectors used to go from door to door checking buildings for health, fire, or other violations. Until recently, they could enter buildings without a warrant.

But now, if the occupant refuses entry, our courts require them to get a warrant to look around inside. But to get a warrant is fairly simple. An inspector merely files an affidavit stating why he wants it. He need not show why he believes there are violations inside.

Unless the owner consents, even after a fire, say, in one part of the house, the inspector, who might find evidence of arson, must get a warrant to inspect the place.

Officers inspect some businesses such as pawn shops every day. Their owners keep records open and "consent" to inspection as a condition for staying in business.

An emergency always allows inspection without a warrant. For example, where there is not time for a warrant, an inspector may seize unwholesome food or make a health quarantine where health and safety demand action at once.

Public interest may justify regular inspections for fire, health, and safety, but not entry into one's home to "inspect." Our Constitution forbids "unreasonable" searches and seizures.

The law permits random inspection of cars at roadside to detect safety violations. But the officer may not search the car without a warrant. He cannot look into the glove compartment, under the seat, or elsewhere without permission.

Should he do so and find illegal items like narcotics or a gun, no court could admit such evidence. But an officer can see what is in plain sight or can follow up on suspicious behavior by people in the car and look for illegal items. Thus, suppose the driver stopped at a safety check, and moved furtively to hide something.

The police may ask about the action, and, if in order, can check to find what was hidden. But the police cannot stop cars at random to search them.

For example the police may not legally stop a car to check its registration if its license plates are fine. But if a car has broken lamps, is speeding, or there is other "good cause," the police may stop the car and investigate for these reasons.

Agency Acts To Uphold Sewer Order

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Water Resources Control Board has sustained an order directing the Fairfield-Suisun Sewer District to quit filling the atmosphere with foul odors from its sewage treatment plant.

The state agency acted Monday to uphold a cease and desist directive issued against the district by the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The board said "atmospheric odors" wafting from the plant near Suisun City exceeded tolerably limits and had been the target of complaints from adjacent citizens.

But at the same time, the board refused to sustain a provision of the regional board order which prohibited making any additional connections to the district's sewer system.

The effect of the agency's decision finds the district in violation of Water Quality Control Law but allows the district to make new connections on grounds that additional connections bore no relationship to the escaping of odors.

Driver's Condition Reported Good

A Marine injured in a two-car collision on Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley was reported in good condition today at Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco with a concussion.

Clifford I. Schench, 22, of Daly City, was injured at 5:45 p.m. Saturday when his car collided head-on with an auto driven by Joseph G. Stewart, 42, of Castro Valley, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Two 21-year-old passengers in Schench's car, David A. Ovellett and Jewel C. Brown Jr., both stationed at the Marine base at Treasure Island, also were treated at the hospital. Ovellett suffered scalp cuts and Brown suffered cuts of the forehead.

Government Proposes Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon Administration Tuesday proposed settling Alaskan native claims by the state's Indians, Eskimos and Aluets with 40 million acres of land and $1 billion.

Surface rights to the land would go to native villages and to outlying individuals, the money and mineral rights to the land would go to a new Alaska Native Development Corp. for use in benefitting the entire native population of the state.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said the proposed corporation would "invest its funds, make dividend payments, provide loans for home construction and other purposes that would promote native economic development, make other loans for education and health and welfare purposes, provide emergency or charitable grants or loans in time of distress and generally promote the economic interests of the Alaska native population."

Under the proposal submitted by Morton to the House and Senate, the Federal Government would contribute $25 million a year for 20 years to the corporation for a total of $500 million. In addition, the corporation would receive a two per cent royalty on mineral leases on both federal and state land in Alaska up to a total of $500 million, as well as all mineral rights to the 40 million acres apportioned to the natives.

Settlement of the long standing native claims would open the way for the State of Alaska to select 103 million acres of federal land.

The Federal Government owns about 95 per cent of the land and accompanying mineral rights in Alaska—some 348 million of the state's 365 million acres. When Alaska became a state in 1959 Congress gave it the right to select 103 million acres of the federal land, but the state's selection has been frozen for the past few years pending settlement of the native claim.

"We believe we have developed a plan that will honor our national trusteeship responsibilities to these more than 50,000 Americans whose claims predate the United States' acquisition of Alaska from Russia in 1867," Morton said.

The legislation proposed each of nearly 200 native villages receive surface rights to a minimum of 92,160 acres each. However, Tlinget-Hida villages would receive 23,040 acres each because they had received some under previous court proceedings.

Morton said in most cases each village would be entitled to the township of 23,040 acres in which it is situated plus three contigious townships selected by the village. In the case of villages located on lands tentatively approved for transfer to the State of Alaska, the surface rights for the natives would be land outside that area.

Inside the boundaries of wildlife refuges and naval petroleum reserve No. 4 in northern Alaska villages would receive rights to four townships but the mineral rights would not go to the development corporation. Instead, the corporation would be able to select mineral rights for four other townships outside the reserve areas.

Individual natives living outside the areas selected by the villages would be entitled to 160 acres each for their own use.

The corporation would be controlled by a 17 member board of directors, all of them natives, elected by the stockholders. Each Alaska native would receive 10 shares of stock.

Ferry Dispute To Span Board

A finding by the Golden Gate Bridge District's attorney that charges of bad management in collecting ferry fares involved a total of $12.45 in stolen tickets will be given district directors at 10 a.m. Friday in toll plaza offices.

The attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, refuted the charges by director Ben K. Lerer of San Francisco before the finance-auditing committee last Friday. Lerer had made the charges March 26, but was absent last Friday.

The finance-auditing committee will meet first at 9:30 a.m.

Not Per Capita

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting average earnings for Marin County residents were $13,861 per capita. The $13,861 was the average income tax return, whether filed jointly or individually.

Tax Rate Increase Before Hub Trustees

Whether the San Anselmo School District should go to the voters for a tax rate increase or slash existing education programs to avoid deficit spending will be thrashed out among district trustees tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the library of Red Hill School.

District Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry has recommended the district ask voters to approve a tax override of between 80 and 90 cents on fiscal 1970-71 tax rate of $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation.

He had proposed consolidating the tax election with the April 20 trustee election. However, disagreement on the board delayed a decision and ended the possibility of consolidating the two.

Should the board agree tomorrow to go to an election it could be held late in June.

The superintendent maintains the override is needed because the district has depleted its reserves at a rate of more than $100,000 per year. He has estimated the district will start the fiscal 1971-72 year with a reserve of only $50,000. Thus, either the revenues must be increased or the district's programs reduced.

The superintendent's "blue sky budget" also will be presented tomorrow and is based on the assumption both the board and voters will approve an 85 cent increase to the tax rate.

An 85 cent increase would raise about $265,000 — $100,000 of which would pay for expenses previously paid out of reserve funds.

Greenbrae Report On Agenda

The Larkspur City Council, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall, will hear a report that upgrading street lighting in Greenbrae would cost about $35,000.

The amount was estimated by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. after several residents requested the city provide more lighting in that section of the city.

The city's staff will recommend that a special assessment district be formed to pay for the work if the residents are still interested.

The council also is expected to consider an ordinance amendment limiting uses in C-2, general commercial zones. The amendment would allow without condition retail shops and stores, offices and public services but would require use permits for such uses as gas stations, and car lots.

The agenda list other items for consideration as final architectural approval for the SDC shopping center at Doherty Drive and Magnolia Avenue, tape recording procedures and policies and an ordinance amendment extending from 40 to 50 days time the planning commission must act on an architectural review application.

Land Use Before Trustees

The possibility of leasing or selling two unused Reed School Districtuschool sites for commercial use will be discussed tonight when the school board meets at 8 o'clock at Bel Aire School.

Acting Assistant Supt. Lester Dunn said the 12.86-acre north-central site near Hacienda Drive and the 10-acre Ring Point site on Paradise Drive near Taylor Road may be put to short-term commercial use.

Dunn said he will have no specific recommendation to the board but merely will list the options available. No board decision on leasing or selling is expected tonight.

The options include building commercial structures which later could be converted to classrooms and building a combination school-office. Such uses may be allowed under the state education code, Dunn said. Sale of the sites also is possible.

Also on tonight's agenda is a report by Dunn on a possible 1971-72 budget surplus. Dunn said preliminary estimates show a $212,000 reserve fund, all or part of which could be used for tax relief or program expansion.

Hearing Set On Check Charges

St. Nick Greeted By Big Bonfires

BATON ROUGE, Oa. (UPI)— Descendants of early French settlers on the banks of the Mississippi River in Louisiana celebrate Christmas Eve by lighting huge bonfires on the levees.

The custom is believed to have originated in the early 1800s by children who believed that St. Nick made his rounds down the Mississippi on a riverboat. The bonfires were to show St. Nick where to make his stops.

Muskie Press Aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Richard H. Stewart, 39, congressional correspondent for the Boston Globe, has been appointed press secretary and policy adviser to Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, current frontrunner for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

The Giant Cost Of Ending SST

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The government will spend just about as much money to terminate the supersonic transport program as it would cost to complete the project, SST Director William M. Magruder said Monday.

By the time the government pays off contracts and obtains rights to the SST, the money spent will nearly equal the $470 million estimated cost to build the plane, he told a news conference.

Magruder, here to woo private financial support to keep the project alive, said there is only a 100-to-1 chance of saving the project through private interests.

'New' Senators Pull Out Rarity By Winning Their Season Opener

Astros, Braves Also Win; Most Teams Debut Today

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Washington Senatores may not really miss "the whole left side of their infield" this year.

All winter long the skeptics said that owner Bob Short made a mistake when he gave up "the whole left side of his infield" along with two pitchers to get Denny McLain.

But rookie Toby Harrah and shopworn veteran Joe Foy, who have replaced that "whole left side" (Ed Brinkman and Aurelio Rodriguez), had a sparkling day Monday as the Washington Senators kicked off the 1971 baseball season by blanking the Oakland Athletics 8-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Dick Bosman. And another Short find named Curt Flood had a fine day, too.

In the other two openers, the Atlanta Braves clobbered the Cincinnati Reds 7-4 and in an opening "day" game at night, Houston beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Sixteen more teams will swing into action today and the final two —Baltimore (which meets Washington) and the Chicago White Sox (who play a doubleheader at Oakland) wait until Wednesday to open their season.

In today's games, New York is at Boston, Cleveland is at Detroit, Kansas City is at California and Milwaukee is at Minnesota in the American League. In the National League, Montreal is at New York, Los Angeles is at Houston, Philadelphia is at Pittsburgh, San Francisco is at San Diego and St. Louis is at Chicago.

The Senators, who hadn't won the Presidential opener since 1962, scored two runs in each of the first two innings to thrill Vietnam veteran, Sgt. Danile Pitzer, who filled in for President Nixon and threw out the first ball. The President, who missed the first ball duty for the second straight year, is in California.

Harrah, who's replaced Brinkman at short, banged out two singles and walked and scored twice. Foy, who's replaced Rodriguez at third, added a sacrifice fly to the attack and he fielded the position without making an error. Foy's glove is the big question mark.

Flood, who was signed by Short after sitting out a season to battle the reserve clause, had a poor spring training. But he seemed to be in the groove Monday as he collected two walks, added a single and scored twice.

"I knew it would be hard to come back after the layoff and I'm not out of the woods yet," Flood said. "I need to feel a little more comfortable at the plate and have to get acclimated in the outfield."

Now the Senators are eagerly awaiting McLain's debut on Friday to find out if he can continue to make Short's moves look like charms.

Cincinnati's "Big Red Machine" —which started to crumble in last year's World Series —still is misfiring. Last year on opening day, Jim Merritt threw a three-hitter. This year he's still in Florida nursing his ailing arm and the Braves jumped on starter Gary Nolan and three relievers for seven runs and 12 hits. Wayne Granger suffered the loss in relief.

The Los Angeles Dodgers thought they helped themselves by acquiring Richie Allen and Duke Sims. But Allen went 0-for-4, struck out twice and stranded three runners while Larry Dierker scattered 10 hits to give Houston the victory. Sims got two hits but he was thrown out trying to stretch a double into a triple leading off the ninth inning.

Houston's Cesar Cedeno, one of the hottest young prospects in the majors, won a pair of watches by scoring the first run and collecting the first hit for Houston this year. He went 2-for-3 in the game. Denis Menke drove in three runs with a triple and a ground out for the Astros as Bill Singer took the loss.

SENATOR VETOED — Mike Epstein of the Washington Senators was tagged out by Oakland catcher Dave Duncan on this first inning play yesterday in Washington. Epstein was trying to score on teammate Paul Casanova's single, but was thrown out by rightfielder Reggie Jackson. The Senators, however, made it safely across the plate several times later to post an 8-0 victory in the opening of the American League. (UPI Telephoto)

Marichal To Pitch Opener

I-J Special Report

SAN DIEGO — Juan Marichal faces San Diego Padres righthander Tom Phoebus tonight as the San Francisco Giants invade San Diego Stadium in the National League opener for the two clubs. The game will be televised back to the Bay Area by KTVU, Channel 2, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Phoebus, obtained from the Baltimore Orioles during the winter, makes his debut against a team that last year finished third in the National League Western Division, 16 games behind the Cincinnati Reds. The Padres had a dismal year in 1970, winning only 63 games while losing 99. They finished 39 games back in last place in the Western Division.

Padre Manager Preston Gomez said he feels his club will make improvements over last year's record.

Giants' rookie Chris Speier might not be able to start at shortstop tonight because of a muscle spasm in his back. He spent yesterday in a whirlpool bath and planned more whirlpool treatments today.

If Speier can't play, Hal Lanier will move over from second base and Tito Fuentes will start at second, the same combination that finished last season. Alan Gallagher will start at third base with Willie McCovey at first.

In the outfield will be Ken Henderson in leftfield, Willie Mays in center and Bobby Bonds in right. Dick Dietz will be the catcher.

Carr Signs Cavaliers Contract

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Austin Carr, the "No. 1 college player in the country," Monday signed what was billed by Cleveland Cavaliers officials to be a five-year, no-cut contract to be paid over a 20-year period. Carr had been reported seeking $1.4 million.

The 6-foot-3 all-American from Notre Dame, who averaged 37.9 points per game over the past season, was the first man to go in the National Basketball Association college draft.

With his parents and two brothers on hand, Carr signed the contract following ceremonies at a downtown restaurant here in his first session with Cavaliers owner Nick Mileti and Coach Bill Fitch.

Mileti said the contract was "fitting for the No. 1 college player in the country."

After he was notified of his choice by Cleveland in the draft, Carr had said he liked Cleveland and preferred playing in the NBA.

"I like the whole situation in Cleveland," he said.

PAIR OF VICTORIES

Marin Tar Nine Reaches Finals

That the College of Marin Tars won their first two games in the Diablo Valley Invitational baseball tournament is no surprise. But the way they won them is altogether incredible.

Chris Rowland, seeing his first action of the year, stopped American River J. C. of Sacramento on a scratch hit, for a 5-2 victory in the first game, and Stu Kneeland himself practically untried, beat Contra Costa of San Pablo, 6-4 in the nightcap to hoist the Tars into today's championship round.

At the end of the day,Marin was the only undefeated team left in the Easter vacation event in Concord. One team, American River, had been eliminated by losing twice, while Contra Costa and host Diablo Valley were both 1-1. Those teams were to play this morning for the right to meet the Tars at 1 p.m. for the title.

Rowland, out of San Rafael High School, didn't allow American River a hit until the seventh inning, by which time the Tars were leading for good. He had given the Beavers a pair of runs in the sixth through excessive wildness that resulted in four walks, but it wasn't until the next inning, when a ground ball took a bad hop on third baseman Mike Parnow, that he lost a spot in the record book.

The Tars were not overly productive themselves, collecting only six hits, but they made them count. The most important safety was a two rung single by first baseman Roger Offenback that knocked in two runs in the sixth. Rightfielder Larry Brazda contributed a pair of singles to the cause.

Rowland struck out 10 batters, but walked nine enroute to the victory. He was, in the words of Petreshene, "effectively wild."

Kneeland, unlike Rowland, was not toally inexperienced going into the tourney.He had a good two innings work in relief earlier in the year. But his effort too was remarkable, as he set the Comets down on just four hits; moreover, after giving up three runs in the first inning, he settled down to shut out Marin's Camino Norte Conference rivals in seven of the final eight innings.

The Tars came back to tie things with a three-run rally in the second keynoted by Rafael Gallardo's sixth home run of the year on the first pitch. Shortstop Steve Hendrickson and outfielder Frank Pomilia each smacked a single to aid the rally.

The Tars' position as the tourney's only unbeaten team is enviable, since they must lose twice this afternoon in order to be eliminated. On the other hand, all they need is a win in their 1 p.m. game to cinch the championship.

Foreman Signs For 15-Rounder

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California George Foreman, the World Boxing Association's No. 1 heavyweight contender, has signed for a 15-round fight May 3 against Greg Peralta of Argentina.

Lorine Cassena, president of K.O., Inc., of Las Vegas, said Monday the match will be held in Oakland and is one of three that will be shown on closed-circuit television in Canada and the United States.

Foreman, a native of Hayward, Calif. is a former Olympic heavyweight champion. He has gone undefeated in 27 fights and has 24 knockouts.

Peralta has a pro record of 79 wins, 7 losses and 6 draws.

The fight, which will be held at the Oakland Coliseum Arena, will be for the Pan American championship.

Ponies And Slide Rules Don't Mix

It was like "Old Home Day" at Golden Gate Fields in Albany Saturday. The Turf Club was jammed with Marin Countians — mainly groups from the Mt. Tamalpais Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, the Marin County Legal Secretaries Association and a tour from Wiltshire Towers in San Rafael.

Each of the groups had a race named in its honor and as a member of the Wiltshire Tour I was honored to be in the winner's circle with Shaun Wiltshire and his son, Tim, for the presentation of flowers to the winner of the second race, Breezy Banker. Did I say honored? I was downright delirious because I had a ticket on the Daily Double which Breezy Banker paid off. I kissed the horse, jockey Bryson Cooper and owner M. D. MacPherson and did cartwheels back up to the cashier's window. I even smooched the cashier. Boy, was HE embarrassed.

I did farily well the rest of the day, although I swear some of my horses were wearing training wheels or got lost somewhere in the backstretch.

Racing neophytes in our group used curious methods to pick horses. Some liked the color of the silks, some bet on only gray nags, others liked the name of the jockey. Then there was one gent, who shall remain anonymous. He used a slide rule with the Daily Racing Form, mixed it with some other mystic powers, and came home the biggest loser in our group of about 35 bettors.

Me? I bet the heavy favorites to "show" and came home loaded with dimes. Some of them "showed" after dark.

"Oh, no," groaned Bob Porter of San Rafael, "I think that's the one I bet on."

Although most of us had good seats high above the finish line, with a sumptuous buffet table at our disposal, others preferred the comfort of the lounge, there to sit and sip and view the races via the closed-circuit television.

Our day started at 10:45 a.m. aboard Wiltshire's famous red English double-decker bus for the jolly 30-minute drive to the horse emporium.

I grabbed an upper level seat to soak up the view on the beautiful spring day and was thankful that a majority favored the lower deck, there to provide ballast.

"Watch your glasses everyone," warned Laverne Robinson, "there's a big bump ahead." Mrs. Robinson, whose husband Clyde drives the jolly transit, is familiar with the road to the East Bay for she supervises the passengers on the top deck for all of Wiltshire's tours to the Oakland Raider games. Sort of a mobile den mother.

At the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge the rear door opens, Shaun Wiltshire emerges to present the collector with coins plus a six-pack of Fresca and a roaring rendition of "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow." The toll collectors love to see that bus.

In the huge parking lots of the stadia Wiltshire frequents it's difficult to get lost. I mean, all Greyhounds look alike, but you can hardly miss that big twin-decker which draws curious stares and laughs from passersby.

Masters Practice For Jack

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—The rest of the Masters field better buckle down to some serious practice today: Big Jack is back in town.

Jack Nicklaus, favored to win his fourth Masters golf title—thus completing half his "grand slam" try and move to within one of Bobby Jones record of 13 major crowns—returned from a couple days rest at his Florida home and announced his game is at the same point it was just before he won the PGA championship a little over a month ago.

"I've had a good week of golf," Nicklaus said of his practice on the Augusta National Course after he shot a 4-under-par 68 on Sunday. "I usually go home a day earlier, but I wanted to wait until I was sure my game was in shape."

Nicklaus first won here in 1963 while only 23 years of age, shot a Masters' 72-hole record 271 in 1965 and became the only man to win two Masters back-to-back when he beat Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer in a three-way playoff in 1966. Brewer won here the next year.

Nicklaus, now 31, won his second U. S. Open in 1967 and then didn't win another major title until last summer when he captured the British Open for the second time. When he won the PGA this past February, he became the first man ever to win all four major titles at least twice each and said he had set his mind to surpassing Jones.

Nicklaus blamed his three-year major tournament victory drought on "complaceny" and said he "readjusted my thinking because I was tired of losing in the big ones."

Nicklaus was displeased with his first two practice rounds here last week when he went 74-73, but then pulled it all together to go nine under his last three rounds with 67-72-69.

"If I can shoot that sort of golf here this week, I'll have no complaints," said Nicklaus. "No complaints at all."

It was just as well that Nicklaus hadn't planned to practice here Monday afternoon. Rain, which had threatened all morning, began falling around 1:30 p. m. EST and by mid-afternoon was quite steady. The weatherman warned that there is a 40 per cent chance that practice will be plagued by rain again today.

Nicklaus planned only nine holes today and said, weather permitting, he would try to get in 18 holes Wednesday morning before the Augusta National is closed for its final pre-tournament trimming.

Only a handful of the other 76 Masters entrants were here with Nicklaus last week. Most flew in Monday in a chartered plane from Greensboro, N. C., where they completed a tournament Sunday.

EASTER TOURNAMENTS

San Rafael Nine Blasts Foes, 12-0

San Rafael High School scored nine times in the fifth inning and went on to destroy Granada High of Livermore, 12-0 yesterday in the opening round of the John Swett Invitational baseball tournament in Crockett.

Meanwhile, two of three teams from the Marin County Athletic League were eliminated in the Santa Rosa Invitational, and other MCAL teams playing in Easter vacation tourneys had mixed luck.

San Marin of Novato, like San Rafael, won big with a 13-4 pasting of Analy of Sebastopol in the opening round of the Healdsburg Invitational, and Tamalpais of Mill Valley also hit the jackpot with a 5-2 win over Wilson of San Francisoc in the Terra Nova tourney. On the losing side, Redwood of Larkspur got clobbered by Roosevelt of Fresno, 11-1 in the opening round of the Fresno Invitational.

Mike Spezzi went all the way on the mound for San Rafael, allowing Granada only four hits while his teammates gave him ample backing. Dirk Gansloser, the Bulldogs' premier centerfielder, belted a three-run home run and two singles for five runs batted in to lead the assault; Dave Urquhart had four singles for San Rafael, and Rick Klarkowski had two singles and a double.

The Drake Pirates, who lost to Novato in the MCAL opener last week, came back to defeat the Hornets 6-2 behind the pitching of Lex Rzepelia and a two run homer in the fifth by catcher Mike Bauman. But the Pirates of San Anselmo lost their second game, 7-1 to Vallejo, and thus were eliminated.

Novato won its second game, 11-5, over Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, to stay alive in the tourney's losers' bracket.

Terra Linda lost twice, to Petaluma, 8-1 and to St. Mary's of Berkeley, 7-3. In the Petaluma game, the Trojans of the MCAL tied things at 1-1 in the top of the fourth, only to have the Trojans of the North Bay I League blow it open with five runs in the bottom of that inning. Petaluma went on to edge Santa Rosa, 2-1 and thereby gain today's championship bracket.

San Marin used three pitchers — Len Hoffman, Jim Learch and Ken Siler — to secure the win that moves them into the championship bracket at Healdsburg. The Mustangs scored four runs in both the first and last innings, getting a triple along the way by Dave Ilchert, and doubes by Jack Burnam and Greg Mazeres.

Mike Dawson and Alton Hardy combined to throw a two-hitter as Tam beat Wilson. The Indians led most of the way, scoring twice in the third to go ahead,

Government Proposes Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon Administration Tuesday proposed settling Alaskan native claims by the state's Indians, Eskimos and Aluets with 40 million acres of land and $1 billion.

Surface rights to the land would go to native villages and to outlying individuals, the money and mineral rights to the land would go to a new Alaska Native Development Corp. for use in benefitting the entire native population of the state.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said the proposed corporation would "invest its funds, make dividend payments, provide loans for home construction and other purposes that would promote native economic development, make other loans for education and health and welfare purposes, provide emergency or charitable grants or loans in time of distress and generally promote the economic interests of the Alaska native population."

Under the proposal submitted by Morton to the House and Senate, the Federal Government would contribute $25 million a year for 20 years to the corporation for a total of $500 million. In addition, the corporation would receive a two per cent royalty on mineral leases on both federal and state land in Alaska up to a total of $500 million, as well as all mineral rights to the 40 million acres apportioned to the natives.

Settlement of the long standing native claims would open the way for the State of Alaska to select 103 million acres of federal land.

The Federal Government owns about 95 per cent of the land and accompanying mineral rights in Alaska—some 348 million of the state's 365 million acres. When Alaska became a state in 1959 Congress gave it the right to select 103 million acres of the federal land, but the state's selection has been frozen for the past few years pending settlement of the native claim.

"We believe we have developed a plan that will honor our national trusteeship responsibilities to these more than 50,000 Americans whose claims predate the United States' acquisition of Alaska from Russia in 1867," Morton said.

The legislation proposed each of nearly 200 native villages receive surface rights to a minimum of 92,160 acres each. However, Tlinget-Hida villages would receive 23,040 acres each because they had received some under previous court proceedings.

Morton said in most cases each village would be entitled to the township of 23,040 acres in which it is situated plus three contigious townships selected by the village. In the case of villages located on lands tentatively approved for transfer to the State of Alaska, the surface rights for the natives would be land outside that area.

Inside the boundaries of wildlife refuges and naval petroleum reserve No. 4 in northern Alaska villages would receive rights to four townships but the mineral rights would not go to the development corporation. Instead, the corporation would be able to select mineral rights for four other townships outside the reserve areas.

Individual natives living outside the areas selected by the villages would be entitled to 160 acres each for their own use.

The corporation would be controlled by a 17 member board of directors, all of them natives, elected by the stockholders. Each Alaska native would receive 10 shares of stock.

Ferry Dispute To Span Board

A finding by the Golden Gate Bridge District's attorney that charges of bad management in collecting ferry fares involved a total of $12.45 in stolen tickets will be given district directors at 10 a.m. Friday in toll plaza offices.

The attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, refuted the charges by director Ben K. Lerer of San Francisco before the finance-auditing committee last Friday. Lerer had made the charges March 26, but was absent last Friday.

The finance-auditing committee will meet first at 9:30 a.m.

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting average earnings for Marin County residents were $13,861 per capita. The $13,861 was the average income tax return, whether filed jointly or individually.

FISH AND GAME

Angling Fee Policy For Water Districts

By AL GIDDINGS

The new fishing fee to be charged by the Marin Municipal Water District is subject to certain standards recently enacted by the Fish and Game Commission. The Department of Fish and Game, under regulations and standards set by the Commission, makes plants of catchable trout in many of the public owned waters of the state. In Marin County, waters planted are Phoenix, Lagunitas, Bon Tempe, Alpine and Kent lakes. The DFG, through the fishing license fees, receives monies from all fishermen to help defray these fish planting costs.

The MMWD has in the past charged a $5 fishing permit fee which helps defray the costs of patrol, cleanup, parking problems, rest rooms, maintenance, etc. around the lake areas used by the fishermen. To standardize these charges, the Fish and Game Commission has set a fee policy.

Mr. Frank Hubbard, the public information officer of the Fish and Game Commission has set a fee policy.

Mr. Frank Hubbard, the public information officer of the Fish and Game Department for Region 3, sent me the details of the charges. Here are the charges in accordance with the fishing policy:

The District can charge 25 cents per day per person to someone who does not drive his car onto district lands;

The District can issue an annual permit, but it cannot require anyone to purchase an annual permit;

The District can put a reasonable limit on the number of people entering in one vehicle (to prevent people from loading up a Volkswagen van or similar vehicle and coming in on the $1 per vehicle charge.)

The District cannot charge both a vehicle fee and a per person fee. (It cannot charge $1.50 for a vehicle with two people in it.)

A RECENT release on "Fin Fish" and "Bag and Possession Limits" by the Marine Enforcement Headquarters, Menlo Park, or Region 6 of the DFG has been made. It reads: In discussing the new regulations regarding bag and possession limits on fin fish, there seems to be some confusion as to what constitutes fin fish plus possession limits.

As to what is a fin fish: Generally any ocean fish with fins. A review of "Fish Bulletin No. 91. Common Ocean Fishes of the California Coast," with special reference to pages 174 through 179, should clarify this question.

Regards to bag and possession limits, the intent of the Commission in section 62, T. 14 was for an overall total of 15 fish with not more than 10 of any one species. (Rockfish the exception) with no limits on certain fish listed in this section.

AS AN EXAMPLE: A fisherman may take and possess 8 rockfish, 3 salmon and 4 lingcod for a total of 15 fish, or 10 rockfish, 2 halibut, 1 salmon, 2 lingcod for 15 fish, or 15 rockfish in any combination of their species.

Another example: A fisherman may take 10 red tailed perch and five silver perch for his 15 limit.

LAST WEDNESDAY I had the afternoon off. I called Ralph Chatoian, one of the sports writers at the I-J, to come out for a try at perch at Tomales. It was windy, so we didn't get out! (He edits my columns, so this is my way of telling him what happened the next morning!) I took Sam Knoles who has only landed about five fish in San Pablo Bay since last November! He needed a "pickup" in this fishing business! So did I!.

We started fishing at 11 a.m., it was a minus .4 tide. We fished from a boat from the Golden Hinde Boatel at Inverness, just off Millerton Point almost directly across from the yacht club. We were in about four feet of water. We had fish on from about 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. e boh used flyros with small shrimp for bait on a No. 2 hook with a half-ounce sliding sinker. We caught two stripers, eleven red tailed perch, seventeen yellow tailed perch and three leopard sharks. The stripers weighed 4 and 4½ lbs. Sam had a ball! The perch will stay another month or so and it's worth going! (Sorry, Ralph!)

Marin Prep Golfers Nab Top 3 Spots

Marin County Athletic League golfers grabbed the top three spots in individual scoring, but Ukiah High School edged Terra Linda by a single stroke for the team championship yesterday at the second annual Terra Linda High School Invitational golf tournament at San Geronimo National.

Art Cudworth of the host Trojans shot a 75 on the par 72 layout to come in first place, two strokes ahead of Rick Goldfien of Tamalpais and three in front of San Rafael's Mike Dorias. Another Terra Linda player, Gary LaRocca, finished fifth, but he and Cudworth weren't enough to keep Ukiah from winning the tourney, 415-416.

Third place in the team standings went to Lowell of San Francisco, whose top player, Gary Boatwright, came in sixth. The Indians had 423, followed by Montgomery of Santa Rosa with 427. Among MCAL teams, San Rafael took fifth, Tam seventh, Novato eighth and Redwood 13th.

San Rafael Boy Wins Lift Title

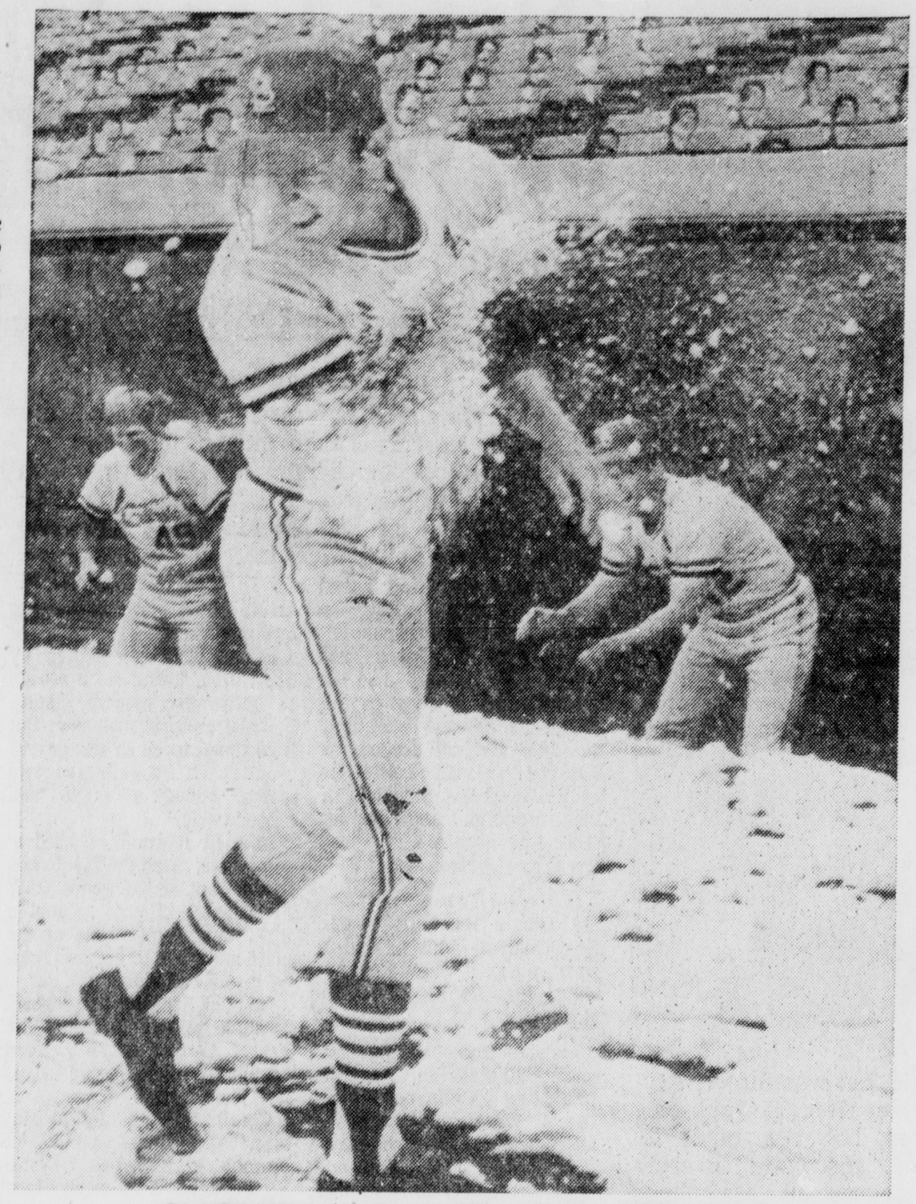
The 107-pounder pressed 100 pounds, snatched 90 and clean and jerked 125 for a total of 315 pounds.

Greg's brother, David Gottlieb Jr., 15-year-old student at San Rafael High School, placed second in his 131-pound weight division. He pressed 150, snatched 135 clean and jerked 185 for a 470 total.

Both boys represented the MarVel Athletic Club.

Petty Is Best

NEW YORK (UPI)—Richard Petty, winner of this year's 500-mile stock car races at Daytona Beach and Rockingham, N.C., was named top performer Monday in the first phase of the Martini and Rossi American Driver of the Year award balloting. Three more voting sessions will be conducted by a panel of automotive sports writers before the end of the season. The winner receives $7,500 and a trophy.



SNOWBALLS, BUT NO BASEBALLS

Snowballs instead of baseballs were in order at St. Louis yesterday where the Cardinals had to cancel their scheduled workout preparatory to today's opening National League game against the Cubs in Chicago. Here, Cardinal outfielder Bob Burda, formerly of the San Francisco Giants, is hit with a splattering snowball in a battle with pitcher Jerry Reuss (left) and first baseman Joe Hague (right). Two inches of snow covered the astroturf in the stadium.

Tam, Redwood Stars Lead Marin League

Gerald Robertson and his Tamalpais High School teammates continue this week to dominate the top performance chart in Marin County Athletic League track and field, while Paul Cane of Redwood High is staging a one-man show in MCAL swimming statistics.

Teamwise, Terra Linda, undefeated through seven meets, has a stranglehold on the individual swimming statistics, with two men, Thom Guthrie and Rick DeMont, holding two top marks apiece. But Cane, a junior for the second place Giants of Larkspur, has the best times in three events.He has been clocked in 2:09.1 in the 200-yard individual medley, 59.1 in the 100 butterfly and 1:06.0 in the 100 breaststroke.

Robertson once again has the best marks in three events — the 120 high and 180 low hurdles, and the high jump, where his MCAL record leap of 6-5¼ stands currently as third best in the Bay Area.

Three other performers hold best times in two events. Mike Arago, Robertson's teammate, is the best miler and two-miler in the league, while Chakra Chappell of San Marin has a corner on the 440 and 880. Paul Crovo of San Rafael has run the fastest 220 to date, and is tied with Al Schlette of Tam for the best mark in the 100.

Best Performances in 1971 MCAL Track and Field:

100-yard dash — Paul Crovo (San Rafael), Al Schlette (Tamalpais), 10.2; 120-yard high hurdles — Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 15.0; 180-yard low hurdles — Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 20.5; 220-yard dash — Paul Crovo (San Rafael), 23.0; 440-yard run — Chakra Chappell (San Marin), 51.9; 880-yard run — Chakra Chappell (San Marin), 1:57.5; Mile run — Mike Arago (Tamalpais), 4:30.6; 2 Mile run — Mike Arago (Tamalpais), 9:39.7; Shot put — Bill La Haye (Terra Linda), 51-1; Discus — Jim Puskar (San Rafael), 151-0; Pole vault — Mark Lewis (MC), 12-6; Long jump — Greg Biber (Tamalpais), 21-½; High jump — Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 6-5¼; Triple jump — Downing, (Tamalpais), 41-1; 440 relay — San Rafael, 44.5; Mile relay — San Marin, 3:34.1.

Top MCAL Swimming Times For 1971:
200 Medley Relay — Terra Linda (Ellington, Strange, Knowles, Guthrie), 1:45.7; 200 Free — Rick DeMont (TL), 1:51.6; 200 I.M. — Paul Cane (R), 2:09.1; 50 Free — Thom Guthrie (TL), 23.1; Diving — John Summerfield (N), 260.35; 100 Fly — Paul Cane (R), 59.1; 100 Free — Thom Guthrie (TL), 51.5; 400 Free — Rick DeMont (TL), 3:56.1; 100 Back — Roger Rechsteiner (N), 1:01.4; 100 Breast — Paul Cane (R), 1:06.0; 400 Free Relay — Redwood (Cane, Brockbank, Humber, Hennessy), 3:32.0.

7 Marin Swimmers In National Meet

Denise Ham of the Marin Aquatic Club leads Marin County qualifiers for the Short Course National Swimming Championships, getting underway tomorrow in Pullman, Wash.

Miss Ham will swim four individual events and three relays for the MAC.

According to Coach Don Swartz, the seven girls representing Marin County in the meet probably embody Marin's finest aquatic contingent ever to a meet of this caliber.

Miss Ham, the veteran among the girls in her third National championship, probably constitutes the best individual chance at a high placing for the MAC. Denise, off a first place finish in the Southern California Invitational two weeks ago, is rated a potential finalist in the 200-yard Breaststroke.

Another of the MAC's chances for a high placing comes in the 800 Free Relay, where Anne Engle, Kimi Fox, Jo Hislop, and Miss Ham, have, in the opinion of Swartz, a "good, solid chance" to finish among the top 16 teams. This same quartet also will swim the 400 Free Relay.

Swartz notes that Miss Hislop also has a good chance to place individually in one of her four events, particularly in her specialty, the 200 Freestyle.

Sue Secondo and Kim Hughes have also made the very fast qualifying times, in the 200 Breaststroke and 100 Backstroke, respectively. Sue and Kim, joined by Misses Hislop and Ham, comprise the MAC's 400 Medley Relay.

Also competing in the meet is Robin Bachrach of the Dolphins of Marin, Coached by Art Octavio.

According to Swartz, the Short Course Nationals is one of the two top meets of the year, and its prestige has increased in 1971, since the two top qualifiers in most events win a place on the United States' Pan American Games team. Swartz feels that Miss Ham would have to take about six seconds off her best time to win the breaststroke spot. He observes that last year in the Long Course National meet in the summer, she did take six seconds off her previous best in the 200 Butterfly, and that there is an outside chance that Denise an all-around swimmer, may do a similar thing this year.

Motor Sports Club Schedules Event April 18

Golden Gate Motor Sports Club of San Rafael today announced plans to participate in the sixth annual nationwide Rally Day USA — 1971, scheduled Sunday, April 18.

Profits from the $3 per car entry fee will be donated to Marin General Hospital to help the purchase of a linear accelerator, said R. D. Wissink, publicity director for the local club.

He added that the San Rafael road rally will be one of 250 similar events throughout the nation, with approximately 20,000 cars expected to participate. The local event will start from Lyons-Ryan Ford and will follow a course yet to be announced.

No special equipment or experience will be necessary to compete for trophies, Wissink added.

MASTERS

"There are too many intangibles," said Casper, only golfer besides Palmer and Nicklaus to win more than a million dollars playing golf. "Wait until Sunday evening to ask me about my chances."

Casper, who played in 13 Masters before winning for the first time last year by beating Gene Littler in a playoff, knows only too well what can happen here. He led through the first three rounds of the 1969 Masters only to lose by a stroke to George Archer.

"It's often a state of mind," mused the 39-year-old Casper, who is down 10 pounds to 195 after dieting again. "When I lost the Masters two years ago it was because I was playing too conservative when I was ahead. In this last PGA, I waited too long to make my bid."

Browns' Modell Raps NFL Probe

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Cleveland Browns president Art Modell, called a second time before a federal grand jury investigating the National Football League, says "the whole thing was started by a group of malcontents, publicity seekers, people with axes to grind and persons writing books."

"Somebody talked the federal government into holding these probes," Modell said on emerging from a session with the jury Monday as it resumed the hearings recessed since March 10.

"I'm sure this whole thing is a fishing expedition," he said, adding it was "wasting the taxpayers' money."

Tennis

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Stan Smith, of Pasadena, Calif., playing an almost flawless game, beat top-seeded Cliff Richey Monday to capture the men's single championship in the 19th Caribe Hilton international tennis tournament.

Smith, seeded second, had Richey off balance through two straight sets to win 6-3, 6-3.

Track And Field

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Philadelphia Eagles back John Carlos was told Monday to submit in writing his request for reinstatement as an amateur so he can compete in an upcoming track meet.

Carlos, world record holder in the 100 and 200-yard sprints, was denied the application form when he went to the office of the Amateur Athletic Union.

He says if he's denied amateur reinstatement, a court battle is in the offing as well as an appeal to the International Amateur Athletic Union.

Mill Valley Girls Softball Signups

The newly formed Mill Valley Bobby Sox Softball League for girls 9 to 15 will hold a registration session Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Mill Valley Recreation Center.

There will also be a signup Monday, 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the recreation center. Girls should be accompanied by a parent or guardian and must provide proof of birthdate.

ABA Champs Are Hungry To Repeat

By United Press International

The Indiana Pacers are hungry to repeat and the Memphis Pros are paying the price.

The Pacers, the American Basketball Association defending champions, stopped the Pros 91-90 Monday night to take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven playoff series.

Fred Lewis scored 23 points and Billy Keller hit two foul shots for the victory margin. Indiana led 89-88 when Keller dropped in his two foul shots. A last second basket by the Pros' Gerald Govan cut the margin to one point.

In tonight's action, Utah tries to wrap up its series against Texas. The winner of the Texas-Utah playoff plays the Indiana-Memphis winner for Western honors. Virginia is at New York to try to improve on its 2-0 advantage and Kentucky takes on the Floridians. The Colonels lead 2-0 in that series.

'New' Senators Pull Out Rarity By Winning Their Season Opener

SENATOR VETOED — Mike Epstein of the Washington Senators was tagged out by Oakland catcher Dave Duncan on this first inning play yesterday in Washington. Epstein was trying to score on teammate Paul Casanova's single, but was thrown out by rightfielder Reggie Jackson. The Senators, however, made it safely across the plate several times later to post an 8-0 victory in the opening of the American League. (UPI Telephoto)

Astros, Braves Also Win; Most Teams Debut Today

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Washington Senatores may not really miss "the whole left side of their infield" this year.

All winter long the skeptics said that owner Bob Short made a mistake when he gave up "the whole left side of his infield" along with two pitchers to get Denny McLain.

But rookie Toby Harrah and shopworn veteran Joe Foy, who have replaced that "whole left side" (Ed Brinkman and Aurelio Rodriguez), had a sparkling day Monday as the Washington Senators kicked off the 1971 baseball season by blanking the Oakland Athletics 8-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Dick Bosman. And another Short find named Curt Flood had a fine day, too.

In the other two openers, the Atlanta Braves clobbered the Cincinnati Reds 7-4 and in an opening "day" game at night, Houston beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Sixteen more teams will swing into action today and the final two —Baltimore (which meets Washington) and the Chicago White Sox (who play a doubleheader at Oakland) wait until Wednesday to open their season.

In today's games, New York is at Boston, Cleveland is at Detroit, Kansas City is at California and Milwaukee is at Minnesota in the American League. In the National League, Montreal is at New York, Los Angeles is at Houston, Philadelphia is at Pittsburgh, San Francisco is at San Diego and St. Louis is at Chicago.

The Senators, who hadn't won the Presidential opener since 1962, scored two runs in each of the first two innings to thrill Vietnam veteran, Sgt. Danile Pitzer, who filled in for President Nixon and threw out the first ball. The President, who missed the first ball duty for the second straight year, is in California.

Harrah, who's replaced Brinkman at short, banged out two singles and walked and scored twice. Foy, who's replaced Rodriguez at third, added a sacrifice fly to the attack and he fielded the position without making an error. Foy's glove is the big question mark.

Flood, who was signed by Short after sitting out a season to battle the reserve clause, had a poor spring training. But he seemed to be in the groove Monday as he collected two walks, added a single and scored twice.

"I knew it would be hard to come back after the layoff and I'm not out of the woods yet," Flood said. "I need to feel a little more comfortable at the plate and have to get acclimated in the outfield."

Now the Senators are eagerly awaiting McLain's debut on Friday to find out if he can continue to make Short's moves look like charms.

Cincinnati's "Big Red Machine" —which started to crumble in last year's World Series —still is misfiring. Last year on opening day, Jim Merritt threw a three-hitter. This year he's still in Florida nursing his ailing arm and the Braves jumped on starter Gary Nolan and three relievers for seven runs and 12 hits. Wayne Granger suffered the loss in relief.

The Los Angeles Dodgers thought they helped themselves by acquiring Richie Allen and Duke Sims. But Allen went 0-for-4, struck out twice and stranded three runners while Larry Dierker scattered 10 hits to give Houston the victory. Sims got two hits but he was thrown out trying to stretch a double into a triple leading off the ninth inning.

Houston's Cesar Cedeno, one of the hottest young prospects in the majors, won a pair of watches by scoring the first run and collecting the first hit for Houston this year. He went 2-for-3 in the game. Denis Menke drove in three runs with a triple and a ground out for the Astros as Bill Singer took the loss.

Marichal To Pitch Opener

I-J Special Report

SAN DIEGO — Juan Marichal faces San Diego Padres righthander Tom Phoebus tonight as the San Francisco Giants invade San Diego Stadium in the National League opener for the two clubs. The game will be televised back to the Bay Area by KTVU, Channel 2, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Phoebus, obtained from the Baltimore Orioles during the winter, makes his debut against a team that last year finished third in the National League Western Division, 16 games behind the Cincinnati Reds. The Padres had a dismal year in 1970, winning only 63 games while losing 99. They finished 39 games back in last place in the Western Division.

Padre Manager Preston Gomez said he feels his club will make improvements over last year's record.

Giants' rookie Chris Speier might not be able to start at shortstop tonight because of a muscle spasm in his back. He spent yesterday in a whirlpool bath and planned more whirlpool treatments today.

If Speier can't play, Hal Lanier will move over from second base and Tito Fuentes will start at second, the same combination that finished last season. Alan Gallagher will start at third base with Willie McCovey at first.

In the outfield will be Ken Henderson in leftfield, Willie Mays in center and Bobby Bonds in right. Dick Dietz will be the catcher.

Carr Signs Cavaliers Contract

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Austin Carr, the "No. 1 college player in the country," Monday signed what was billed by Cleveland Cavaliers officials to be a five-year, no-cut contract to be paid over a 20-year period. Carr had been reported seeking $1.4 million.

The 6-foot-3 all-American from Notre Dame, who averaged 37.9 points per game over the past season, was the first man to go in the National Basketball Association college draft.

With his parents and two brothers on hand, Carr signed the contract following ceremonies at a downtown restaurant here in his first session with Cavaliers owner Nick Mileti and Coach Bill Fitch.

Mileti said the contract was "fitting for the No. 1 college player in the country."

After he was notified of his choice by Cleveland in the draft, Carr had said he liked Cleveland and preferred playing in the NBA.

"I like the whole situation in Cleveland," he said.

PAIR OF VICTORIES

Marin Tar Nine Reaches Finals

That the College of Marin Tars won their first two games in the Diablo Valley Invitational baseball tournament is no surprise. But the way they won them is altogether incredible.

Chris Rowland, seeing his first action of the year, stopped American River J. C. of Sacramento on a scratch hit, for a 5-2 victory in the first game, and Stu Kneeland himself practically untried, beat Contra Costa of San Pablo, 6-4 in the nightcap to hoist the Tars into today's championship round.

At the end of the day,Marin was the only undefeated team left in the Easter vacation event in Concord. One team, American River, had been eliminated by losing twice, while Contra Costa and host Diablo Valley were both 1-1. Those teams were to play this morning for the right to meet the Tars at 1 p.m. for the title.

Rowland, out of San Rafael High School, didn't allow American River a hit until the seventh inning, by which time the Tars were leading for good. He had given the Beavers a pair of runs in the sixth through excessive wildness that resulted in four walks, but it wasn't until the next inning, when a ground ball took a bad hop on third baseman Mike Parnow, that he lost a spot in the record book.

The Tars were not overly productive themselves, collecting only six hits, but they made them count. The most important safety was a two rung single by first baseman Roger Offenback that knocked in two runs in the sixth. Rightfielder Larry Brazda contributed a pair of singles to the cause.

Rowland struck out 10 batters, but walked nine enroute to the victory. He was, in the words of Petreshene, "effectively wild."

Kneeland, unlike Rowland, was not toally inexperienced going into the tourney.He had a good two innings work in relief earlier in the year. But his effort too was remarkable, as he set the Comets down on just four hits; moreover, after giving up three runs in the first inning, he settled down to shut out Marin's Camino Norte Conference rivals in seven of the final eight innings.

The Tars came back to tie things with a three-run rally in the second keynoted by Rafael Gallardo's sixth home run of the year on the first pitch. Shortstop Steve Hendrickson and outfielder Frank Pomilia each smacked a single to aid the rally.

The Tars' position as the tourney's only unbeaten team is enviable, since they must lose twice this afternoon in order to be eliminated. On the other hand, all they need is a win in their 1 p.m. game to cinch the championship.

Foreman Signs For 15-Rounder

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California George Foreman, the World Boxing Association's No. 1 heavyweight contender, has signed for a 15-round fight May 3 against Greg Peralta of Argentina.

Lorine Cassena, president of K.O., Inc., of Las Vegas, said Monday the match will be held in Oakland and is one of three that will be shown on closed-circuit television in Canada and the United States.

Foreman, a native of Hayward, Calif. is a former Olympic heavyweight champion. He has gone undefeated in 27 fights and has 24 knockouts.

Peralta has a pro record of 79 wins, 7 losses and 6 draws.

The fight, which will be held at the Oakland Coliseum Arena, will be for the Pan American championship.

Ponies And Slide Rules Don't Mix

It was like "Old Home Day" at Golden Gate Fields in Albany Saturday. The Turf Club was jammed with Marin Countians — mainly groups from the Mt. Tamalpais Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, the Marin County Legal Secretaries Association and a tour from Wiltshire Towers in San Rafael.

Each of the groups had a race named in its honor and as a member of the Wiltshire Tour I was honored to be in the winner's circle with Shaun Wiltshire and his son, Tim, for the presentation of flowers to the winner of the second race, Breezy Banker. Did I say honored? I was downright delirious because I had a ticket on the Daily Double which Breezy Banker paid off. I kissed the horse, jockey Bryson Cooper and owner M. D. MacPherson and did cartwheels back up to the cashier's window. I even smooched the cashier. Boy, was HE embarrassed.

I did farily well the rest of the day, although I swear some of my horses were wearing training wheels or got lost somewhere in the backstretch.

Racing neophytes in our group used curious methods to pick horses. Some liked the color of the silks, some bet on only gray nags, others liked the name of the jockey. Then there was one gent, who shall remain anonymous. He used a slide rule with the Daily Racing Form, mixed it with some other mystic powers, and came home the biggest loser in our group of about 35 bettors.

Me? I bet the heavy favorites to "show" and came home loaded with dimes. Some of them "showed" after dark.

"Oh, no," groaned Bob Porter of San Rafael, "I think that's the one I bet on."

Although most of us had good seats high above the finish line, with a sumptuous buffet table at our disposal, others preferred the comfort of the lounge, there to sit and sip and view the races via the closed-circuit television.

Our day started at 10:45 a.m. aboard Wiltshire's famous red English double-decker bus for the jolly 30-minute drive to the horse emporium.

I grabbed an upper level seat to soak up the view on the beautiful spring day and was thankful that a majority favored the lower deck, there to provide ballast.

"Watch your glasses everyone," warned Laverne Robinson, "there's a big bump ahead." Mrs. Robinson, whose husband Clyde drives the jolly transit, is familiar with the road to the East Bay for she supervises the passengers on the top deck for all of Wiltshire's tours to the Oakland Raider games. Sort of a mobile den mother.

At the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge the rear door opens, Shaun Wiltshire emerges to present the collector with coins plus a six-pack of Fresca and a roaring rendition of "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow." The toll collectors love to see that bus.

In the huge parking lots of the stadia Wiltshire frequents it's difficult to get lost. I mean, all Greyhounds look alike, but you can hardly miss that big twin-decker which draws curious stares and laughs from passersby.

Masters Practice For Jack

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—The rest of the Masters field better buckle down to some serious practice today: Big Jack is back in town.

Jack Nicklaus, favored to win his fourth Masters golf title—thus completing half his "grand slam" try and move to within one of Bobby Jones record of 13 major crowns—returned from a couple days rest at his Florida home and announced his game is at the same point it was just before he won the PGA championship a little over a month ago.

"I've had a good week of golf," Nicklaus said of his practice on the Augusta National Course after he shot a 4-under-par 68 on Sunday. "I usually go home a day earlier, but I wanted to wait until I was sure my game was in shape."

Nicklaus first won here in 1963 while only 23 years of age, shot a Masters' 72-hole record 271 in 1965 and became the only man to win two Masters back-to-back when he beat Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer in a three-way playoff in 1966. Brewer won here the next year.

Nicklaus, now 31, won his second U. S. Open in 1967 and then didn't win another major title until last summer when he captured the British Open for the second time. When he won the PGA this past February, he became the first man ever to win all four major titles at least twice each and said he had set his mind to surpassing Jones.

Nicklaus blamed his three-year major tournament victory drought on "complaceny" and said he "readjusted my thinking because I was tired of losing in the big ones."

Nicklaus was displeased with his first two practice rounds here last week when he went 74-73, but then pulled it all together to go nine under his last three rounds with 67-72-69.

"If I can shoot that sort of golf here this week, I'll have no complaints," said Nicklaus. "No complaints at all."

It was just as well that Nicklaus hadn't planned to practice here Monday afternoon. Rain, which had threatened all morning, began falling around 1:30 p. m. EST and by mid-afternoon was quite steady. The weatherman warned that there is a 40 per cent chance that practice will be plagued by rain again today.

Nicklaus planned only nine holes today and said, weather permitting, he would try to get in 18 holes Wednesday morning before the Augusta National is closed for its final pre-tournament trimming.

Only a handful of the other 76 Masters entrants were here with Nicklaus last week. Most flew in Monday in a chartered plane from Greensboro, N. C., where they completed a tournament Sunday.

EASTER TOURNAMENTS

San Rafael Nine Blasts Foes, 12-0

San Rafael High School scored nine times in the fifth inning and went on to destroy Granada High of Livermore, 12-0 yesterday in the opening round of the John Swett Invitational baseball tournament in Crockett.

Meanwhile, two of three teams from the Marin County Athletic League were eliminated in the Santa Rosa Invitational, and other MCAL teams playing in Easter vacation tourneys had mixed luck.

San Marin of Novato, like San Rafael, won big with a 13-4 pasting of Analy of Sebastopol in the opening round of the Healdsburg Invitational, and Tamalpais of Mill Valley also hit the jackpot with a 5-2 win over Wilson of San Francisoc in the Terra Nova tourney. On the losing side, Redwood of Larkspur got clobbered by Roosevelt of Fresno, 11-1 in the opening round of the Fresno Invitational.

Mike Spezzi went all the way on the mound for San Rafael, allowing Granada only four hits while his teammates gave him ample backing. Dirk Gansloser, the Bulldogs' premier centerfielder, belted a three-run home run and two singles for five runs batted in to lead the assault; Dave Urquhart had four singles for San Rafael, and Rick Klarkowski had two singles and a double.

The Drake Pirates, who lost to Novato in the MCAL opener last week, came back to defeat the Hornets 6-2 behind the pitching of Lex Rzepelia and a two run homer in the fifth by catcher Mike Bauman. But the Pirates of San Anselmo lost their second game, 7-1 to Vallejo, and thus were eliminated.

Novato won its second game, 11-5, over Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, to stay alive in the tourney's losers' bracket.

Terra Linda lost twice, to Petaluma, 8-1 and to St. Mary's of Berkeley, 7-3. In the Petaluma game, the Trojans of the MCAL tied things at 1-1 in the top of the fourth, only to have the Trojans of the North Bay I League blow it open with five runs in the bottom of that inning. Petaluma went on to edge Santa Rosa, 2-1 and thereby gain today's championship bracket.

San Marin used three pitchers — Len Hoffman, Jim Learch and Ken Siler — to secure the win that moves them into the championship bracket at Healdsburg. The Mustangs scored four runs in both the first and last innings, getting a triple along the way by Dave Ilchert, and doubes by Jack Burnam and Greg Mazeres.

Mike Dawson and Alton Hardy combined to throw a two-hitter as Tam beat Wilson. The Indians led most of the way, scoring twice in the third to go ahead,

FISH AND GAME

Angling Fee Policy For Water Districts

By AL GIDDINGS

The new fishing fee to be charged by the Marin Municipal Water District is subject to certain standards recently enacted by the Fish and Game Commission. The Department of Fish and Game, under regulations and standards set by the Commission, makes plants of catchable trout in many of the public owned waters of the state. In Marin County, waters planted are Phoenix, Lagunitas, Bon Tempe, Alpine and Kent lakes. The DFG, through the fishing license fees, receives monies from all fishermen to help defray these fish planting costs.

The MMWD has in the past charged a $5 fishing permit fee which helps defray the costs of patrol, cleanup, parking problems, rest rooms, maintenance, etc. around the lake areas used by the fishermen. To standardize these charges, the Fish and Game Commission has set a fee policy.

Mr. Frank Hubbard, the public information officer of the Fish and Game Commission has set a fee policy.

Mr. Frank Hubbard, the public information officer of the Fish and Game Department for Region 3, sent me the details of the charges. Here are the charges in accordance with the fishing policy:

The District can charge 25 cents per day per person to someone who does not drive his car onto district lands;

The District can issue an annual permit, but it cannot require anyone to purchase an annual permit;

The District can put a reasonable limit on the number of people entering in one vehicle (to prevent people from loading up a Volkswagen van or similar vehicle and coming in on the $1 per vehicle charge.)

The District cannot charge both a vehicle fee and a per person fee. (It cannot charge $1.50 for a vehicle with two people in it.)

A RECENT release on "Fin Fish" and "Bag and Possession Limits" by the Marine Enforcement Headquarters, Menlo Park, or Region 6 of the DFG has been made. It reads: In discussing the new regulations regarding bag and possession limits on fin fish, there seems to be some confusion as to what constitutes fin fish plus possession limits.

As to what is a fin fish: Generally any ocean fish with fins. A review of "Fish Bulletin No. 91. Common Ocean Fishes of the California Coast," with special reference to pages 174 through 179, should clarify this question.

Regards to bag and possession limits, the intent of the Commission in section 62, T. 14 was for an overall total of 15 fish with not more than 10 of any one species. (Rockfish the exception) with no limits on certain fish listed in this section.

AS AN EXAMPLE: A fisherman may take and possess 8 rockfish, 3 salmon and 4 lingcod for a total of 15 fish, or 10 rockfish, 2 halibut, 1 salmon, 2 lingcod for 15 fish, or 15 rockfish in any combination of their species.

Another example: A fisherman may take 10 red tailed perch and five silver perch for his 15 limit.

LAST WEDNESDAY I had the afternoon off. I called Ralph Chatoian, one of the sports writers at the I-J, to come out for a try at perch at Tomales. It was windy, so we didn't get out! (He edits my columns, so this is my way of telling him what happened the next morning!) I took Sam Knoles who has only landed about five fish in San Pablo Bay since last November! He needed a "pickup" in this fishing business! So did I!.

We started fishing at 11 a.m., it was a minus .4 tide. We fished from a boat from the Golden Hinde Boatel at Inverness, just off Millerton Point almost directly across from the yacht club. We were in about four feet of water. We had fish on from about 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. e boh used flyros with small shrimp for bait on a No. 2 hook with a half-ounce sliding sinker. We caught two stripers, eleven red tailed perch, seventeen yellow tailed perch and three leopard sharks. The stripers weighed 4 and 4½ lbs. Sam had a ball! The perch will stay another month or so and it's worth going! (Sorry, Ralph!)

Marin Prep Golfers Nab Top 3 Spots

Marin County Athletic League golfers grabbed the top three spots in individual scoring, but Ukiah High School edged Terra Linda by a single stroke for the team championship yesterday at the second annual Terra Linda High School Invitational golf tournament at San Geronimo National.

Art Cudworth of the host Trojans shot a 75 on the par 72 layout to come in first place, two strokes ahead of Rick Goldfien of Tamalpais and three in front of San Rafael's Mike Dorias. Another Terra Linda player, Gary LaRocca, finished fifth, but he and Cudworth weren't enough to keep Ukiah from winning the tourney, 415-416.

Third place in the team standings went to Lowell of San Francisco, whose top player, Gary Boatwright, came in sixth. The Indians had 423, followed by Montgomery of Santa Rosa with 427. Among MCAL teams, San Rafael took fifth, Tam seventh, Novato eighth and Redwood 13th.

San Rafael Boy Wins Lift Title

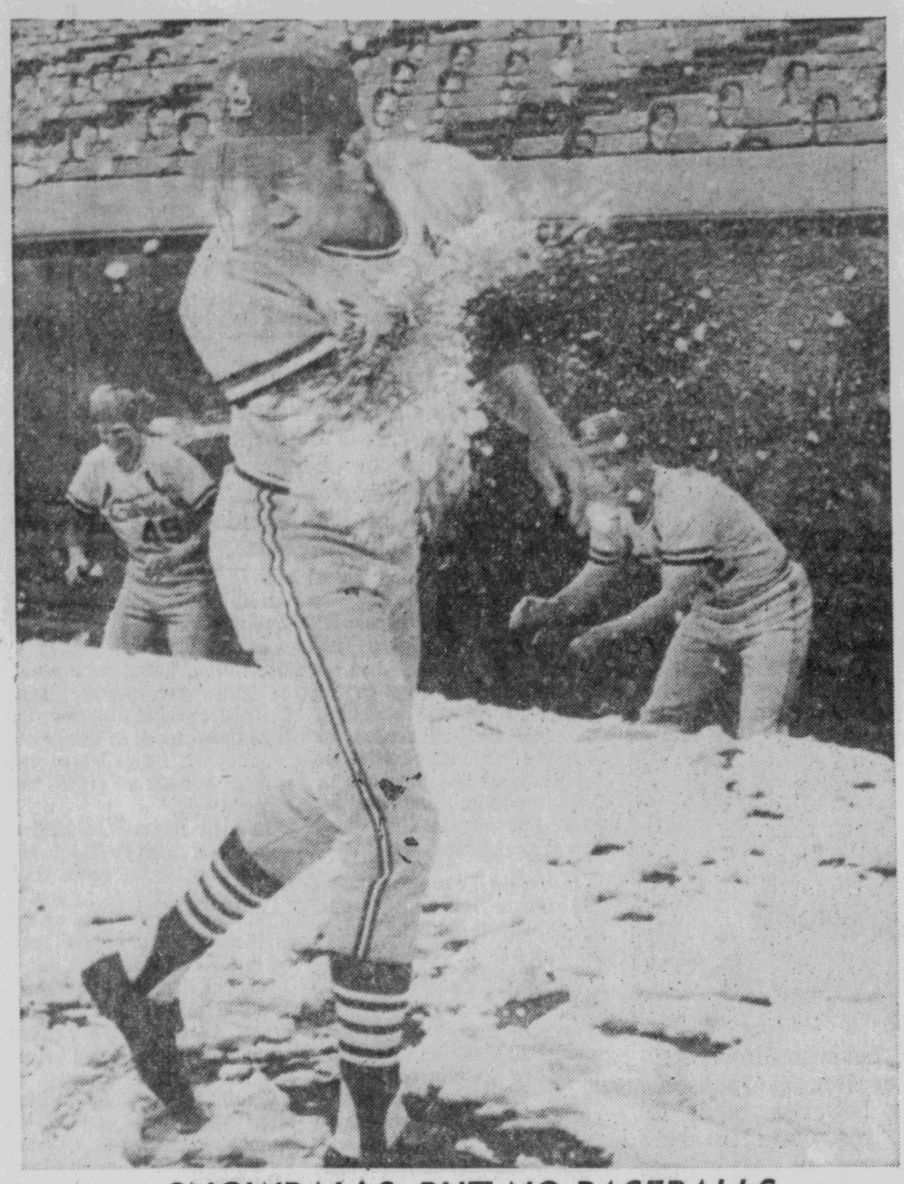
The 107-pounder pressed 100 pounds, snatched 90 and clean and jerked 125 for a total of 315 pounds.

Greg's brother, David Gottlieb Jr., 15-year-old student at San Rafael High School, placed second in his 131-pound weight division. He pressed 150, snatched 135 clean and jerked 185 for a 470 total.

Both boys represented the MarVel Athletic Club.

Petty Is Best

NEW YORK (UPI)—Richard Petty, winner of this year's 500-mile stock car races at Daytona Beach and Rockingham, N.C., was named top performer Monday in the first phase of the Martini and Rossi American Driver of the Year award balloting. Three more voting sessions will be conducted by a panel of automotive sports writers before the end of the season. The winner receives $7,500 and a trophy.



SNOWBALLS, BUT NO BASEBALLS

Snowballs instead of baseballs were in order at St. Louis yesterday where the Cardinals had to cancel their scheduled workout preparatory to today's opening National League game against the Cubs in Chicago. Here, Cardinal outfielder Bob Burda, formerly of the San Francisco Giants, is hit with a splattering snowball in a battle with pitcher Jerry Reuss (left) and first baseman Joe Hague (right). Two inches of snow covered the astroturf in the stadium.

Tam, Redwood Stars Lead Marin League

Gerald Robertson and his Tamalpais High School teammates continue this week to dominate the top performance chart in Marin County Athletic League track and field, while Paul Cane of Redwood High is staging a one-man show in MCAL swimming statistics.

Teamwise, Terra Linda, undefeated through seven meets, has a stranglehold on the individual swimming statistics, with two men, Thom Guthrie and Rick DeMont, holding two top marks apiece. But Cane, a junior for the second place Giants of Larkspur, has the best times in three events.He has been clocked in 2:09.1 in the 200-yard individual medley, 59.1 in the 100 butterfly and 1:06.0 in the 100 breaststroke.

Robertson once again has the best marks in three events — the 120 high and 180 low hurdles, and the high jump, where his MCAL record leap of 6-5¼ stands currently as third best in the Bay Area.

Three other performers hold best times in two events. Mike Arago, Robertson's teammate, is the best miler and two-miler in the league, while Chakra Chappell of San Marin has a corner on the 440 and 880. Paul Crovo of San Rafael has run the fastest 220 to date, and is tied with Al Schlette of Tam for the best mark in the 100.

Best Performances in 1971 MCAL Track and Field:

100-yard dash — Paul Crovo (San Rafael), Al Schlette (Tamalpais), 10.2; 120-yard high hurdles — Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 15.0; 180-yard low hurdles — Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 20.5; 220-yard dash — Paul Crovo (San Rafael), 23.0; 440-yard run — Chakra Chappell (San Marin), 51.9; 880-yard run — Chakra Chappell (San Marin), 1:57.5; Mile run — Mike Arago (Tamalpais), 4:30.6; 2 Mile run — Mike Arago (Tamalpais), 9:39.7; Shot put — Bill La Haye (Terra Linda), 51-1; Discus — Jim Puskar (San Rafael), 151-0; Pole vault — Mark Lewis (MC), 12-6; Long jump — Greg Biber (Tamalpais), 21-½; High jump — Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 6-5¼; Triple jump — Downing, (Tamalpais), 41-1; 440 relay — San Rafael, 44.5; Mile relay — San Marin, 3:34.1.

"There are too many intangibles," said Casper, only golfer besides Palmer and Nicklaus to win more than a million dollars playing golf. "Wait until Sunday evening to ask me about my chances."

Casper, who played in 13 Masters before winning for the first time last year by beating Gene Littler in a playoff, knows only too well what can happen here. He led through the first three rounds of the 1969 Masters only to lose by a stroke to George Archer.

"It's often a state of mind," mused the 39-year-old Casper, who is down 10 pounds to 195 after dieting again. "When I lost the Masters two years ago it was because I was playing too conservative when I was ahead. In this last PGA, I waited too long to make my bid."

7 Marin Swimmers In National Meet

Denise Ham of the Marin Aquatic Club leads Marin County qualifiers for the Short Course National Swimming Championships, getting underway tomorrow in Pullman, Wash.

Miss Ham will swim four individual events and three relays for the MAC.

According to Coach Don Swartz, the seven girls representing Marin County in the meet probably embody Marin's finest aquatic contingent ever to a meet of this caliber.

Miss Ham, the veteran among the girls in her third National championship, probably constitutes the best individual chance at a high placing for the MAC. Denise, off a first place finish in the Southern California Invitational two weeks ago, is rated a potential finalist in the 200-yard Breaststroke.

Another of the MAC's chances for a high placing comes in the 800 Free Relay, where Anne Engle, Kimi Fox, Jo Hislop, and Miss Ham, have, in the opinion of Swartz, a "good, solid chance" to finish among the top 16 teams. This same quartet also will swim the 400 Free Relay.

Swartz notes that Miss Hislop also has a good chance to place individually in one of her four events, particularly in her specialty, the 200 Freestyle.

Sue Secondo and Kim Hughes have also made the very fast qualifying times, in the 200 Breaststroke and 100 Backstroke, respectively. Sue and Kim, joined by Misses Hislop and Ham, comprise the MAC's 400 Medley Relay.

Also competing in the meet is Robin Bachrach of the Dolphins of Marin, Coached by Art Octavio.

According to Swartz, the Short Course Nationals is one of the two top meets of the year, and its prestige has increased in 1971, since the two top qualifiers in most events win a place on the United States' Pan American Games team. Swartz feels that Miss Ham would have to take about six seconds off her best time to win the breaststroke spot. He observes that last year in the Long Course National meet in the summer, she did take six seconds off her previous best in the 200 Butterfly, and that there is an outside chance that Denise an all-around swimmer, may do a similar thing this year.

Motor Sports Club Schedules Event April 18

Golden Gate Motor Sports Club of San Rafael today announced plans to participate in the sixth annual nationwide Rally Day USA — 1971, scheduled Sunday, April 18.

Profits from the $3 per car entry fee will be donated to Marin General Hospital to help the purchase of a linear accelerator, said R. D. Wissink, publicity director for the local club.

He added that the San Rafael road rally will be one of 250 similar events throughout the nation, with approximately 20,000 cars expected to participate. The local event will start from Lyons-Ryan Ford and will follow a course yet to be announced.

No special equipment or experience will be necessary to compete for trophies, Wissink added.

Browns' Modell Raps NFL Probe

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Cleveland Browns president Art Modell, called a second time before a federal grand jury investigating the National Football League, says "the whole thing was started by a group of malcontents, publicity seekers, people with axes to grind and persons writing books."

"Somebody talked the federal government into holding these probes," Modell said on emerging from a session with the jury Monday as it resumed the hearings recessed since March 10.

"I'm sure this whole thing is a fishing expedition," he said, adding it was "wasting the taxpayers' money."

Tennis

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Stan Smith, of Pasadena, Calif., playing an almost flawless game, beat top-seeded Cliff Richey Monday to capture the men's single championship in the 19th Caribe Hilton international tennis tournament.

Smith, seeded second, had Richey off balance through two straight sets to win 6-3, 6-3.

Track And Field

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Philadelphia Eagles back John Carlos was told Monday to submit in writing his request for reinstatement as an amateur so he can compete in an upcoming track meet.

Carlos, world record holder in the 100 and 200-yard sprints, was denied the application form when he went to the office of the Amateur Athletic Union.

He says if he's denied amateur reinstatement, a court battle is in the offing as well as an appeal to the International Amateur Athletic Union.

Mill Valley Girls Softball Signups

The newly formed Mill Valley Bobby Sox Softball League for girls 9 to 15 will hold a registration session Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Mill Valley Recreation Center.

There will also be a signup Monday, 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the recreation center. Girls should be accompanied by a parent or guardian and must provide proof of birthdate.

ABA Champs Are Hungry To Repeat

By United Press International

The Indiana Pacers are hungry to repeat and the Memphis Pros are paying the price.

The Pacers, the American Basketball Association defending champions, stopped the Pros 91-90 Monday night to take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven playoff series.

Fred Lewis scored 23 points and Billy Keller hit two foul shots for the victory margin. Indiana led 89-88 when Keller dropped in his two foul shots. A last second basket by the Pros' Gerald Govan cut the margin to one point.

In tonight's action, Utah tries to wrap up its series against Texas. The winner of the Texas-Utah playoff plays the Indiana-Memphis winner for Western honors. Virginia is at New York to try to improve on its 2-0 advantage and Kentucky takes on the Floridians. The Colonels lead 2-0 in that series.

Today is Tuesday, April 6, the 96th day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Vhnus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

American magician Harry Houdini was born April 6, 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1830 Joseph Smith organized the Church of the Latter Day Saints, better known as the Mormon Church, in Fayette, N.Y.

In 1909 Robert Peary became the first civilized man to reach the North Pole.

In 1968 federal troops and National Guardsmen were ordered out for riot duty in Chicago, Washington and Detroit. Negroes continued rioting and looting in several cities in protest to the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr.

A thought for today: The Greek poet Hesiod said, "A bad neighbor is as great misfortune as a good one is a great blessing."

South Finds Way To Go Down By Misplaying Of Two Suits

"Bridge is a difficult game," South sighed after failing to make his game contract on the hand shown today. "All I needed was one trick, and I have to listen to lectures on when to hold up. If anybody else had played the hand, he'd have gone down, just as I did. And then I'd have been giving the lectures instead of listening to them."

LOW SPADE

West opened the six of spades, East put up the jack, and South won with the ace. There was a chance to win all three spade tricks, South thought, and he saw no reason to give up this possibility.

Declarer led a diamond at the second trick and tried a finesse with dummy's jack, losing to the queen. Back came the eight of spades, and South put up the ten.

South let West hold the trick with the queen, but this delayed hold-up didn't help. West continued with a spade to dummy's king and regained the lead with a diamond in time to defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

DOUBLE ERROR

South found a way to go down by misplaying two suits. After taking the first trick with the ace of spades, South could have recovered by taking a really deep finesse with the eight of diamonds.

This would lose to the nine, and the defenders would set up their spades. Declarer could then get to his hand with the club and lead a diamond to finesse with dummy's jack. This would lose to the queen, of course, but East would be unable to lead a spade. The rest of the diamonds would be good when declarer eventually led the ace of diamonds.

NOT NECESSARY

Careful play of the diamonds would have been unnecessary if South had refused the first spade trick. East would lead another spade, and South would take the ace. When East then won the first diamond he would be unable to lead a spade.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

Since you have only six points in high cards, you know that the combined count is only 24 points at most. This is seldom enough to afford a sound play for game. There is no need to seek the safety of a trump suit since you have values in three suits. let partner play an easy hand.

For Construction

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—During World War II, some 60,000 German and Japanese prisoners of war were used in construction work in the Los Angeles area, and others were used throughout the state to supplement Mexican nationals brought into the country to harvest California crops.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Tax Question On Foreign Investor

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My grandmother, who is a citizen of the Netherlands, recently purchased shares of National Distillers and Transamerica. Will she have to file a U.S. income tax or pay other U.S. taxes? — R. V.

A. Foreign investors who are not "engaged in trade or business" in the U.S. — Class I investors — are generally taxed at a 30 per cent rate on income from investments. However, certain nations have negotiated tax treaties. The Netherlands being one enjoys a 15 per cent rate. No U.S. income tax need be filed by your grandmother since the tax is deducated at the source.

In order to qualify as a Class I investor she must not perform personal services or sell merchandise in the U.S. nor can she benefit from a trust which is considered to be "engaged in trade or business" in this country. Class I foreign investors are not taxed on capital gains unless more than 183 days are spent in the U.S. during a particular year.

Q. I have several Trans World Airlines 10s of 1985. The price dropped severely last summer but has now recovered to near 95. Do you think this company can continue to pay bond interest as due or should I sell now? — J. M.

A. Price recovery here is one reliable indication that the market doesn't anticipate any Penn Central-type disaster. It should be noted, however, that the market has stopped short of total confidence, since this 10 per cent bond is trading 10 to 12 points below other more secure BBB 10 per cent bonds.

While operations plunged steeply in 1970, with losses totaling $64 million, TWA's cash position from internally generated funds and from the balance of a $150 million revolving credit agreement, is adequate to carry it through this crisis.

In addition, substantial reductions in operating costs have been and are continuing to be made. Rate increases — just approved by the CAB — on international flights will add $22.3 million to annual revenue according to the company and will be instrumental in reversing the deficit.

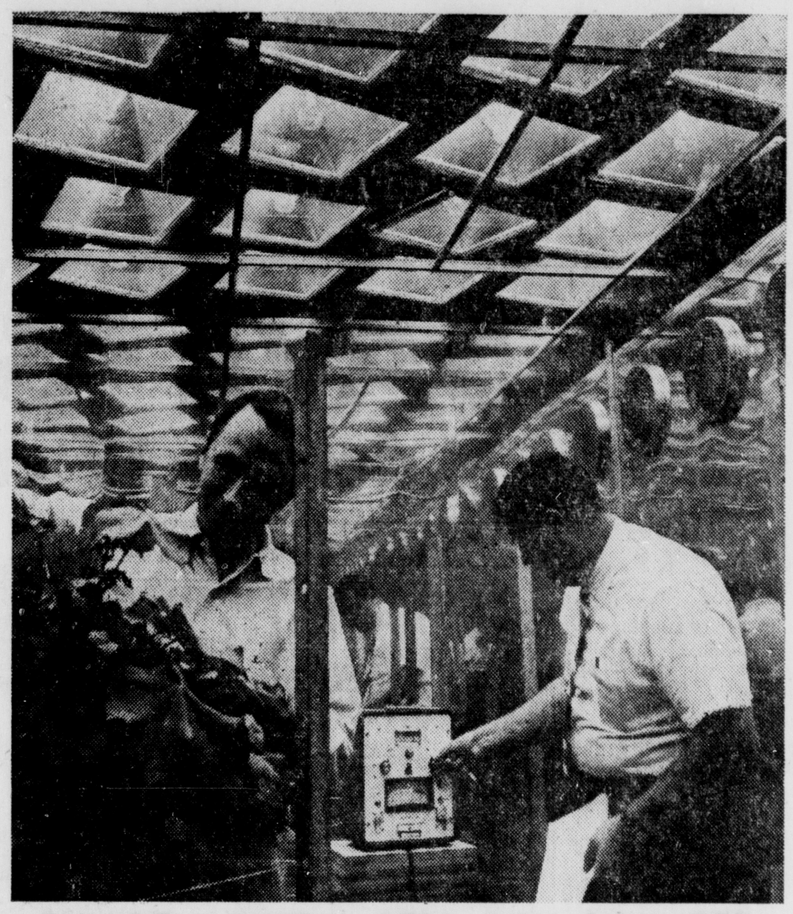
$1 Million Search

SHERMAN OAKS, Calif. — (BW) — Serendipity Inc. through its Alaska Geological Consultants subsidiary, has received a contract in excess of $1,000,000 to manage a soil and geological exploratory program for the proposed Trans-Alaska pipeline.



ENVIRONMENTAL RESEARCH CHAMBER

Housing Expert Sees Increase Short of Need

NEW YORK — (BW) — The fuse has been lit for the long awaited explosion in housing construction, an executive of one of the nation's largest home building and general construction firms said recently.

"The only problem is," said Frank M. Crossen, president of Dallas-headquartered Centex Corp., "We're not exactly sure yet about the length of the fuse. Although most factors indicate the explosion is imminent, the full force could be delayed for a year or more."

Crossen, making his remarks before a meeting of the New York Society of Security Analysts, predicted housing starts in 1971 would approximate 1.8 million, up some 300,000 over 1970 but still 200,000 short of national needs as indicated by census figures.

Hot Sales Period For Chrysler Corp.

DETROIT — (BW) — Chrysler Corp. reported its. U.S. new passenger car sales of 65,745 in the final selling period of the month were 14 per cent greater than the 57,625 of a year ago.

The company said this was the highest car sales for any period of the calendar year or model year, and was the best period in the last 18 months.

TWA Calls 747 'A Mixed Bag'

SAN FRANCISCO — (BW) — Marking the first full year of Boeing 747 operations here this week, Trans World Airlines termed the airplane "a mixed bag of success and bum raps."

According to Bonham M. Fox, San Francisco vice president for sales and services, the 747 has settled into a "routinely reliable airplane with high customer appeal" following the highly publicized mechanical difficulties in the first months of operation.

Market Is Higher In Big Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were higher in fairly heavy trading near noon Tuesday, with oils and motors leading the way.

Chrysler, among the day's most heavily traded issues, rose 1 3-4. It estimated it earned $10 million in the first quarter, or 20 cents a share against a loss in the year-ago period.

Other motors tacked on fractions as car makers generally reported higher late March car sales. Analysts said the step-up in automobile sales was a good indication the economy is recovering.

First National City Bank, in its April economic letter, said the economy definitely is showing strength and headed toward "vigorous expansion."

Prices also advanced in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

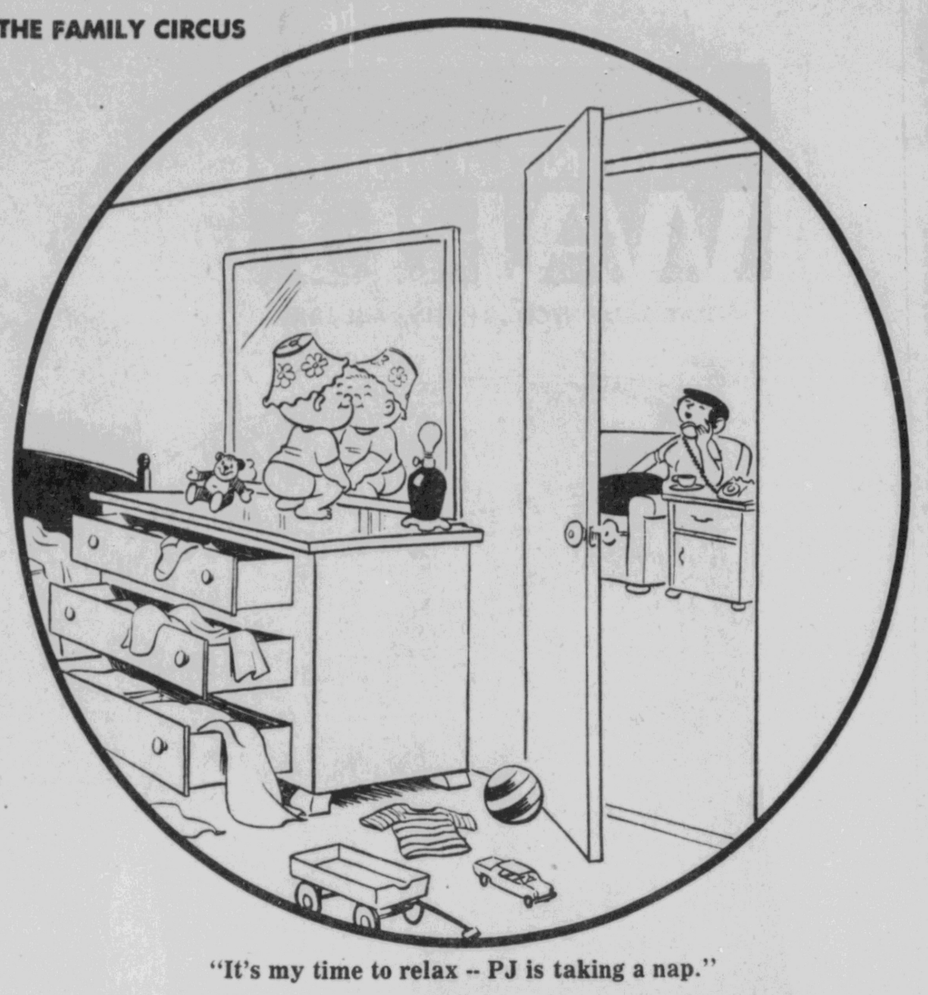
THERE OUGHT TO BE A LAW

THE FAMILY CIRCUS



"It's my time to relax -- PJ is taking a nap."

ALMANAC

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, April 6, the 96th day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Vhnus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

American magician Harry Houdini was born April 6, 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1909 Robert Peary became the first civilized man to reach the North Pole.

In 1968 federal troops and National Guardsmen were ordered out for riot duty in Chicago, Washington and Detroit. Negroes continued rioting and looting in several cities in protest to the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr.

A thought for today: The Greek poet Hesiod said, "A bad neighbor is as great misfortune as a good one is a great blessing."

40-Plus Center

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An organization here called 40 Plus of Southern California helps men over 40 find new jobs. Applicants must be executive caliber and have earned a minimum of $12,000 a year for five years before becoming unemployed.

WINNING BRIDGE

"Bridge is a difficult game," South sighed after failing to make his game contract on the hand shown today. "All I needed was one trick, and I have to listen to lectures on when to hold up. If anybody else had played the hand, he'd have gone down, just as I did. And then I'd have been giving the lectures instead of listening to them."

LOW SPADE

West opened the six of spades, East put up the jack, and South won with the ace. There was a chance to win all three spade tricks, South thought, and he saw no reason to give up this possibility.

Declarer led a diamond at the second trick and tried a finesse with dummy's jack, losing to the queen. Back came the eight of spades, and South put up the ten.

South let West hold the trick with the queen, but this delayed hold-up didn't help. West continued with a spade to dummy's king and regained the lead with a diamond in time to defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

DOUBLE ERROR

South found a way to go down by misplaying two suits. After taking the first trick with the ace of spades, South could have recovered by taking a really deep finesse with the eight of diamonds.

This would lose to the nine, and the defenders would set up their spades. Declarer could then get to his hand with the club and lead a diamond to finesse with dummy's jack. This would lose to the queen, of course, but East would be unable to lead a spade. The rest of the diamonds would be good when declarer eventually led the ace of diamonds.

NOT NECESSARY

Careful play of the diamonds would have been unnecessary if South had refused the first spade trick. East would lead another spade, and South would take the ace. When East then won the first diamond he would be unable to lead a spade.

South would have all the time he needed to develop an extra diamond trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - Q 9 7 6 2
♥ - J 7 4
♦ - K 10 5
♣ - 9 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

Since you have only six points in high cards, you know that the combined count is only 24 points at most. This is seldom enough to afford a sound play for game. There is no need to seek the safety of a trump suit since you have values in three suits. let partner play an easy hand.

For Construction

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—During World War II, some 60,000 German and Japanese prisoners of war were used in construction work in the Los Angeles area, and others were used throughout the state to supplement Mexican nationals brought into the country to harvest California crops.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Tax Question On Foreign Investor

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My grandmother, who is a citizen of the Netherlands, recently purchased shares of National Distillers and Transamerica. Will she have to file a U.S. income tax or pay other U.S. taxes? — R. V.

A. Foreign investors who are not "engaged in trade or business" in the U.S. — Class I investors — are generally taxed at a 30 per cent rate on income from investments. However, certain nations have negotiated tax treaties. The Netherlands being one enjoys a 15 per cent rate. No U.S. income tax need be filed by your grandmother since the tax is deducated at the source.

In order to qualify as a Class I investor she must not perform personal services or sell merchandise in the U.S. nor can she benefit from a trust which is considered to be "engaged in trade or business" in this country. Class I foreign investors are not taxed on capital gains unless more than 183 days are spent in the U.S. during a particular year.

Q. I have several Trans World Airlines 10s of 1985. The price dropped severely last summer but has now recovered to near 95. Do you think this company can continue to pay bond interest as due or should I sell now? — J. M.

A. Price recovery here is one reliable indication that the market doesn't anticipate any Penn Central-type disaster. It should be noted, however, that the market has stopped short of total confidence, since this 10 per cent bond is trading 10 to 12 points below other more secure BBB 10 per cent bonds.

While operations plunged steeply in 1970, with losses totaling $64 million, TWA's cash position from internally generated funds and from the balance of a $150 million revolving credit agreement, is adequate to carry it through this crisis.

In addition, substantial reductions in operating costs have been and are continuing to be made. Rate increases — just approved by the CAB — on international flights will add $22.3 million to annual revenue according to the company and will be instrumental in reversing the deficit.

SHERMAN OAKS, Calif. — (BW) — Serendipity Inc. through its Alaska Geological Consultants subsidiary, has received a contract in excess of $1,000,000 to manage a soil and geological exploratory program for the proposed Trans-Alaska pipeline.

ENVIRONMENTAL RESEARCH CHAMBER

Housing Expert Sees Increase Short of Need

NEW YORK — (BW) — The fuse has been lit for the long awaited explosion in housing construction, an executive of one of the nation's largest home building and general construction firms said recently.

"The only problem is," said Frank M. Crossen, president of Dallas-headquartered Centex Corp., "We're not exactly sure yet about the length of the fuse. Although most factors indicate the explosion is imminent, the full force could be delayed for a year or more."

Crossen, making his remarks before a meeting of the New York Society of Security Analysts, predicted housing starts in 1971 would approximate 1.8 million, up some 300,000 over 1970 but still 200,000 short of national needs as indicated by census figures.

Hot Sales Period For Chrysler Corp.

DETROIT — (BW) — Chrysler Corp. reported its. U.S. new passenger car sales of 65,745 in the final selling period of the month were 14 per cent greater than the 57,625 of a year ago.

The company said this was the highest car sales for any period of the calendar year or model year, and was the best period in the last 18 months.

TWA Calls 747 'A Mixed Bag'

SAN FRANCISCO — (BW) — Marking the first full year of Boeing 747 operations here this week, Trans World Airlines termed the airplane "a mixed bag of success and bum raps."

According to Bonham M. Fox, San Francisco vice president for sales and services, the 747 has settled into a "routinely reliable airplane with high customer appeal" following the highly publicized mechanical difficulties in the first months of operation.

Market Is Higher In Big Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were higher in fairly heavy trading near noon Tuesday, with oils and motors leading the way.

Chrysler, among the day's most heavily traded issues, rose 1 3-4. It estimated it earned $10 million in the first quarter, or 20 cents a share against a loss in the year-ago period.

Other motors tacked on fractions as car makers generally reported higher late March car sales. Analysts said the step-up in automobile sales was a good indication the economy is recovering.

First National City Bank, in its April economic letter, said the economy definitely is showing strength and headed toward "vigorous expansion."

Prices also advanced in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

New Deal For Russ Consumer

MOSCOW (UPI) —Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said today the Soviet economy would produce a new deal for the neglected consumer and still bury the West in economic competition.

He said the nation could have more butter, more guns and a bigger basket of nuts and bolts all at once because Soviet communism is a greater economic powerhouse than capitalism.

"We do not regard war as inevitable and therefore stand for economic competition between the two systems," he said, offering vague prospects of more trade with both the United States and Communist China.

The 67-year-old premier delivered a four-hour, 30,000 word report on the economic plan for 1971-75 to the 24th Party Congress, stepping into the spotlight vacated by party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

While Brezhnev's six-hour state-of-the-union speech last Tuesday was televised live, Kosygin spoke only to the 5,000 delegates and visitors in the Kremlin Palace of Congresses. Diplomats said they saw this as another hint of Brezhnev's slight gain in stature as "first among equals" at the Kremlin.

"The main task of the five-year plan is to ensure a considerable rise in the peoples material and cultural level," Kosygin said. "...Never in the history of agriculture and consumer goods production has so much been spent as will now be done."

That was only half of his message. The other half was:

"Heavy industry has been and remains the foundation of the country's economic might ... Our plans of economic development are subordinated to one great goal—the creation of a Communist Society."

The basic figures told the story. Out of 500 billion rubles ($555 billion) to be invested in production over the next five years, heavy industry will get 70 per cnet and consumer-foodstuffs industries 30 per cent.

Still, the promise of the sweet life was emphasized more than it ever has been before.

The plan calls for a slightly fatter rate of growth in consumer industries than in heavy industries, a first for the Soviets.

It promises a 30 per cent boost of income in the pocket by 1975, vast increases in one family apartments, 64 refrigerators per 100 families where there are only 32 now, and 72 television sets and washing machines per 100 families against 52 now in each category.

"When the U.S. imperialists ... are waging a disgraceful, dirty bandit war in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos and helping the aggressors in the Middle East, when tension and the threat of war still exist in the world, we have no right to forget about the need to strengthen our armed forces," Kosygin said.

He announced 80 billion rubles ($88.8 billion) were spent on tanks, guns, missiles and the like since 1966.

Housewives were promised an increase of 60 per cent of the market supply of meat, fish, vegetables, oil and eggs. The sale of garments will rise by 35 per cent and knitted goods 56 per cent.

The housing conditions of 60 million people are to be improved and the houses will be "based on new designs which will provide for a more convenient layout, better amenities and finish."

Kosygin reported targets for

Rep. Boggs Seeks Removal Of Hoover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic leader Hale Boggs charged today the FBI has had him under personal surveillance.

The FBI said the claim was "absolutely, utterly false." Attorney General John N. Mitchell said charges by Boggs against the FBI were "slanderous falsehoods."

Those were among repercussions of a demand by Boggs Monday that Mitchell ask FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to resign. Boggs accused Hoover of "gestapo" police tactics, including tapping of the telephones of some members of Congress.

Boggs was interviewed today on CBS radio.

The Louisiana Democrat said: "I charge categorically that the FBI has had me under surveillance, my personal life. I know it because of reports that have come back to me."

Boggs said today that in a day or two he would expand on his House speech attacking activities by FBI and Hoover.

Besides Mitchell, some congressmen came to Hoover's and the FBI's defense, and some others inserted further comments in today's Congressional Record.

Rep. John R. Rarick, D-La., said, "few around our nation will behold this overreaction from the leftwing without understanding that the latest move against J. Edgar Hoover is a well-organized and coordinated program. " ... If more Americans were as dedicated to the cause of individual liberty under God and a peaceful America as Mr. Hoover, who has dedicated his life to our country, such criticism of J. Edgar Hoover would be branded for what it is—a threat against constitutionally secured freedom."

Rep. John G. Schmitz, R-Calif., said "Mr. Hoover's record ... is unsurpassed. Before we go making unsupportable accusations which impugn the integrity of men whose long and dedicated service to our nation deserve only our admiration and gratitude, let us check the facts."

Boggs made his original charges in a brief, midday speech Monday.

"When the time comes, such as exists now, that the FBI taps the telephones of members of this body and of members of the Senate, when the FBI stations agents on college campuses to infiltrate college fraternities, when the FBI adopts the tactics of the Soviet Union and Hitler's Gestapo, then it is time ... that the present director thereof no longer be the director," Boggs said.

Mitchell issued a statement from Key Biscayne, Fla., where he was vacationing, saying Boggs' should "recant" and "apologize" for his "reckless speech." He denied that the FBI had tapped the telephones of congressmen at any time.

"Mr. Boggs' attack on J. Edgar Hoover consists of slanderous falsehoods and the most vicious kind of namecalling," Mitchell said.

"In comparing the FBI to Hitler's Gestapo, Mr. Boggs has reached a new low in political dialogue."

Boggs said he believed the FBI had been acting in violation of the Bill of Rights.

Ex-Army Boss Backs Calley Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Army's chief of staff at the time of the My Lai slayings suggested today that some critics of the murder conviction of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. seemed to forget that basic treatment of human beings was involved.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, who retired in mid-1968 after four years as chief of staff, said the Army had no alternative to trying Calley. It was clear "something happened" at My Lai and Calley's responsibility was at issue, he said.

Questioned about the possible illegality of any order that could lead to killing unresisting civilians, Johnson said "how to treat human beings" was basic to the issue.

He said each officer in Vietnam is provided a card for his wallet on the subject. "Instructions on how to treat human beings is very specific," he said. " ... This particular point is being ignored."

He was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show, along with a number of other persons in connection with the conviction and life sentence given Calley.

The Calley case —including President Nixon's decision to make a final judgment — continued to be a source of debate inside and outside Congress. These were among developments:

—Col. Oran K. Henderson, commander of the brigade of which Calley's platoon was a part, said "I cannot believe there were evil motives behind what he did." Henderson is accused of attempting to coverup My Lai and the first phase of court-martial proceedings against him resumed this morning at Ft. Meade, Md.

—Seymour M. Hersh, who won a Pulitzer Prize for disclosing the extent of My Lai, said a much deeper inquiry is needed of the incident. "I think Calley may be perfectly guilty of murder, but the premeditation may have been in the White House," Hersh said.

Viets Hit Red Base In Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Black Panther commandos raided a North Vietnamese supply area inside Laos today and a Saigon communique said the troops destroyed a Communist command post in sharp fighting. It was the second such foray since the big offensive into Laos in February.

Elsewhere in the Indochina theater, South Vietnamese defenders fought off an attack by 1,000 North Vietnamese at Tan Canh on the Central Highlands and field reports said 53 Communists were slain in a three-hour battle. Officers at the scene said three South Vietnamese were slain by enemy forces who broke through barbed wire barricades and charged within hand grenade range of the central command post.

Nearby on the highlands, Communist forces early today attacked Fire Base 6 near the Laos border in the 10th such raid in five days. Eleven Communists were reported slain.

The new South Vietnamese foray into Laos came as American and South Vietnamese forces abandoned Khe Sanh, the base in South Vietnam's northwest corner which had served as the forward support base for the big push into Laos which ended late last month.

Saigon reports claimed great success for the 45-day drive against the Communist military supply line known as the Ho Chi Minh Trail but commanders had warned that smaller scale forays would be made to keep the North Vietnamese off balance and prevent new stockpiles of war material from building.

U.S. Army helicopters carried the elite Hac Bao (Black Panther) commandos of South Vietnam's 1st Infantry Division into Laos today, landing them at a North Vietnamese supply base area known as "611." A communique said the South Vietnamese raiders killed 15 North Vietnamese as they raced from the helicopters to the command post in the middle of supply dumps. South Vietnamese casualties were described as "light."

U.S. headquarters in Saigon said there were no reports of any American helicopters lost in the operation. No U.S. casualties were announced.

The size of the Saigon raiding party was not disclosed but military sources said 24 helicopters were involved in flights from the U.S. base at Quang Tri in the northern part of South Vietnam. Normally, a helicopter carries about 10 men.

The operation into Laos today followed a 24-hour commando strike last Wednesday and Thursday which President Nguyen Van Thieu personally announced. It came a week after the last of the 24,000-man South Vietnamese task force which participated in the main campaign withdrew from Laos.

The communique on the raid today said the commandos destroyed nine tons of rice and foodstuffs, 21 assorted weapons and the regimental command post. It was not disclosed whether there were any North Vietnamese in the post at the time.

Base area 611 was the target of the commando strike last week but the South Vietnamese were prevented from landing by heavy Communist antiaircraft fire. It extends about 15 miles along the South Vietnamese Laos border astride the A Shau Valley and as deep as 15 miles inside Laos. The area is south of the operational zone for the major South Vietnamese offensive in February.

The Viet Cong radio said Communist units had been ordered to take the offensive in five coastal provinces of South Vietnam and "rush forward" to attack cities, towns and communications lines.

Two Communist battalions including a newly committed bomb squad attacked Tan Canh, the South Vietnamese headquarters for countering the North Vietnamese "limited" offensive against Fire Support Base No. 6.

In a six-hour battle which raged into the darkness Monday night, Communist units

Possible Prosecution Of Petitioners Seen

Reed Recall Opponents Probe Fraud Suspicion

Opponents of the recall in the Reed School District today said they may seek prosecution of recall petition circulators for perjury or fraud.

They said that the Committee for Quality Education to Retain Gordon C. Wright yesterday hired a handwriting expert to look into their suspicions that several signatures on the petitions were the work of a single person.

Committee cochairmen Robert D. Hayes and Mrs. Irving Halpren told the Independent-Journal that no decision had been made yet on whether to seek prosecution. Their next step will depend on the findings today of the handwriting expert, they said.

Prosecution sought by the committee also could involve its objections that some persons signing the petitions had failed to write their addresses, as required by the state election code. They also have objected that circulators of these petitions had invalidated all signatures on them by signing affidavits that each signator wrote his own address.

Their challenge on these two points, however, was rejected yesterday by Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino. He cited court decisions backing his conclusion that "all problems involving election laws are to be interpreted so as to give the widest opportunity for the expression of the public will."

His opinion said provision of addresses was "simply a mechanical aid" to the county to verify signatures.

However, a member of the committee backing Wright, Mrs. Chester C. Vargas Jr., told the I-J today that she would not be bound by Godino's opinion. "An infraction of the law is an infraction of the law, and there's too many liberal interpretations of it."

She said that "we have no idea in the world of stopping any recall action, because we feel that now that this thing is out, it should come before the public. However, if in the opinion of our attorney, there have been irregularities, we intend to see that the law is enforced."

Mrs. Vargas has discussed the matter with Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry Herman, but no formal action has been taken by the district attorney's office. Herman could not be reached to comment on the matter.

Mrs. Vargas said she had not discussed the complaints with any other officials "inside the county." Asked to confirm reports she had taken the complaints to the state attorney general's office, she said, "I wouldn't have any statement to make on that."

Mrs. Vargas suggested that the prosecution may be for perjury, but Mrs. Halpern said " 'fraud' may be a better legal term."

Hayes said that legal action was not "as important at this time as other priorities. Right now we've got to beat the recall. It's a matter of assigning priorities."

Prosecution of recall petition circulators, he said, "hasn't necessarily become a policy of the committee."

Proponents of recalling Wright filed 1,629 signatures verified by the county elections office, well over the 1,140 required to get the recall on the ballot.

Igor Stravinsky Dies At 88 In New York Home

NEW YORK (UPI)—Igor Fedorovich Stravinsky, the Russian-born composer who fathered modern classical music, died early today in his Manhattan apartment. He was 88.

Stravinsky had been ill with a heart ailment for about a year and was released from Lenox Hill Hospital only a week ago following 13 days of treatment.

Despite circulatory and digestive problems, Stravinsky was active into his mid-80s. At 80, he was still working four to five hours a day and it was not until he was 84 that it became necessary for him to sit down to conduct an orchestra.

Stravinsky suffered a stroke when he was 85. Last April, at the age of 87, he entered Lenox Hill for treatment of his heart ailment. He was released shortly thereafter but was readmitted this past March 18. He was released from the hospital March 30.

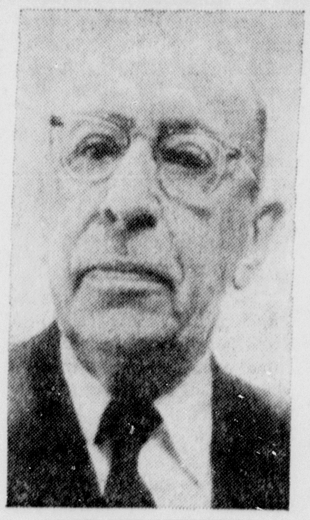
"The Firebird" and "Le Sacre du Printemps" (Rite of Spring) were among the best known of his 35 major works although both were written before the 1920s when he was credited with inventing the neo-classic style.

Stravinsky died at 5:20 a.m. of heart failure. His wife Vera, his longtime associate Robert Craft, his manager of many years, Lillian Libman, and a nurse were with him at the time of death.

Miss Libman said Stravinsky took a 2 1-2 month vacation to France last summer after being released from the hospital and returned very refreshed.

"Two and a half or three months ago he was playing (the piano) and composing very strongly," Miss Libman said.

She said he was in "very good condition" when he was released from the hospital the second time last Tuesday and moved to his new 10-room Fifth Avenue apartment, which was still being decorated at the time of his death. Although he had been feeling well, Stravinsky took a turn for the worse Monday, she said.



IGOR STRAVINSKY
Neo-classic composer

Russian Orthodox services were pending with burial to be at the Russian corner of the San Michael Cemetery in Venice, Italy.

Stravinsky's music was avante-garde but adhered to basic principles of structure. His style did not change radically during his career but it made its mark on younger composers whose work was more radical and less controlled. In a sense, the Stravinsky personality is reflected in the character of all modern classical music.

"Old age is a time of humiliations, the most disagreeable of which, for me, is that I cannot work long at sustained high pressure with no leaks in concentration," Stravinsky told an interviewer when he was 85. He had just completed a concert tour which included Miami, Beverly Hills, Seattle and Honolulu and garnered him rave reviews.

Stravinsky was born June 17, 1882, in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad. His father was the leading bass singer at the Imperial Opera but he wanted his son to study law.

Stravinsky was sent to the University of St. Petersburg with that end in mind but he continued to study music on the side and showed some of his early compositions to composer Nikolai Rimsky-Korsakov who encouraged him to continue.

When Stravinsky graduated, he decided to devote himself entirely to music and became Rimsky-Korsakov's pupil. After writing a sonata, a symphony and two more orchestral works, Stravinsky came to the attention of Sergei Diaghilev who commissioned him to do a ballet.

"The Firebird" was the result and it premiered in Paris in 1910 to be followed by "Petrouchka" in 1911 and "Rite of Spring" in 1913, the latter gaining fame as Stravinsky's most original work.

"Stravinsky in that work realizes in sound a world of feeling with which it is possible to identify oneself," a critic wrote in 1965.

Walt Disney chose "Le Sacre du Printemps" as the music to use to describe the reign and fall of the dinosaurs in the celebrated cartoon feature, "Fantasia," in the early 1940s.

In 1913, critics who attended the composition's premiere in Paris sounded a different note, however, one dubbing the piece the "Massacre of Spring."

The work opens with a bassoon note played in a high register. Composer Camille St. Saens was reported to have shouted: "There is no such instrument," and stormed from the concert hall. Boos and cat calls filled the hall and Stravinsky fled through a back door when police arrived to quell the disturbance.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

A-Ban Veto

GENEVA (UPI)—The Soviet Union today followed the United States in rejecting proposals for a preliminary ban on large, underground, nuclear tests.

Britain and Canada suggested such a ban when the Geneva Disarmament Conference began its 1971 session in February. They said it would be one way of helping resolve the deadlock between the United States and the Soviet Union over what underground tests can and cannot be detected at long range by seismological instruments.

The United States, which argues that such instruments are unable to detect low-yield explosions, insists on on-site inspections to police an underground test ban.

Soviet disarmament negotiator Alexei A. Roshchin rejected the idea today on the ground that, while large tests would be prohibited, the smaller explosions "would in fact be legalized."

Royalty Jailed

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—One of deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk's sons, Norodom Naradipho, 25, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment with hard labor by a military tribunal in Phnom Penh today after he was found guilty of high treason.

His ister, Botum Bopha, 20, standing trial on the same charge, was acquitted.
trial with the prince and princess, one was sentenced to life imprisonment, six to 10 years' imprisonment and two to five years' imprisonment—all with hard labor. Nine others were acquitted.

Regime's Timetable

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — President Alejandro Lanusse and his ruling military junta ordered the Interior Ministry Monday to begin preparations to return Argentina to constitutional civilian government by summer or autumn of 1973.

The military has been in power since June, 1966. Lanusse, himself, took over as president only two weeks ago.

Edgardo Sajon, Lanusse's press secretary, said the President intends to turn over control of the government to elected representatives no later than Oct. 12, 1973.

Lanusse's government had announced late last week that it was legalizing political parties, which had been banned for the past five years. Monday, Interior Minister Arturo Mor Roig met with representatives of Argentina's largest two political parties, Ricard Balbin, president of the Radical party, and Jorge Daniel Paladino, representative of former dictator Juan D. Peron.

London Traffic Jam

LONDON (UPI) —Thousands of commuters, skirting a railroad work-to-rule called in support of wage demands, abandoned train travel today and drove to London in a traffic swarm that threatened to swamp the British capital.

"At this rate there will be no space left in the central (London) area," a spokesman for the Royal Automobile Club (RAC) said as traffic piled up at road intersections leading to the city.

The southern region of British Railways which normally carries the bulk of London's commuter traffic canceled 19 morning rush hour trains.

But "things look more encouraging than yesterday," a railway spokesman said, adding that main line and suburban services were running about 10 minutes late.

Klein's Confidence

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —President Nixon will be a candidate for re-election in 1972 and he will win, White House Communications Director Herbert G. Klein says.

Klein, a long-time Nixon aide, told a news conference Monday all indications were the economy is strengthened and unemployment has stabilized. "We believe the economy is getting stronger," he said.

He said public opinion polls have shown President Nixon running ahead of the three leading possibilities for the Democratic nomination, Sens. Edmund Muskie, George McGovern and Ted Kennedy.

Here to address a meeting of the World Affairs Council, Klein said the American people have been receiving nebulous news reports of the Laos invasion. Klein said President Nixon will answer questions about the Laos operation Wednesday night in a nationally televised speech.

Southern Span Veto To State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A majority of the Board of Supervisors wrote state officials Monday that they favor a delay in construction of another bridge across San Francisco Bay.

A letter, signed by seven supervisors, also informed officials that a board majority disagreed with a suggestion that a vote be taken on whether to build the so-called Southern Crossing between San Francisco and Alameda County.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has vetoed a bill from the Legislature which would have delayed construction on the span.

THE POOR CHALLENGE WALL STREET

About 4,000 persons marching down Wall Street behind a mule train in a poor people's demonstration for guaranteed annual income yesterday heard George Wiley, head of the National Welfare Rights Organization, declare "We are here today to serve notice on the barons, the brokers and the bankers of Wall Street that poor people are on the march." David Dellinger, a radical member of the "Chicago Seven" group, said the march was a "preview" of a "spring offensive" against war and racism.

Police Seize Arsenal In Radical Den

RICHMOND (UPI) — Police have seized an arsenal of weapons in a raid on a "headquarters for revolutionary activity" in this San Francisco Bay Area suburb.

Police Chief Robert Murphy said Monday an electric typewriter believed to be stolen from the Washington office of Defense Secretary Melvin Laird was also recovered in the raid which resulted in 10 arrests.

In nearby Berkeley, where a bitterly contested election involving radical candidates is being held today, police were puzzled over the discovery of a cache of dynamite in a garage.

Berkeley police were directed to the 100 sticks of dynamite by a letter mailed to the Associated Press in San Francisco stating that the dynamite was to be used "to destroy the Berkeley pig station."

Richmond police raided the house where the weapons and Defense Department typewriter were found as a result of a tip that a quantity of dynamite had been sold to the residents.

Police raided the house last week but found no dynamite.

Pakistan's Warning On India Movements

NEW DELHI (UPI)—President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan of Pakistan today accused India of moving troops up to the frontier in what he termed a direct threat to Pakistan's security. Yahya warned he will not permit any foreign power to interfere in the revolt by the east wing of the divided nation.

The government-controlled Radio Pakistan, in a news broadcast monitored in neighboring India today, quoted Yahya as having said India sent the equivalent of six army divisions, or about 60,000 men, into West Bengal state on the border with East Pakistan.

The radio said the charges were contained in Yahya's reply to a message from Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny who had urged an end to the bloodshed in East Pakistan. There have been reports, unsubstantiated because the foreign press has been expelled, of thousands of casualties in East Pakistan in the civil war.

At latest report, Indian diplomatic sources said the East Pakistani rebel army was believed to be in control of most of the rural areas in the country's northern section, while federal troops still held most of the towns and cities.

Foreign governments have been evacuating their nationals from East Pakistan. The latest planeload, 157 evacuees including 110 Americans, arrived Monday in Karachi, West Pakistan. An American embassy spokesman said it was expected that about 650 of the remaining 750 Americans would be brought out of East Pakistan in the next few days.

Pakistan repeatedly has charged interference by India in the revolt by East Pakistan, which is separated from the western part of the nation by 1,000 miles of Indian territory. The Indian government has denied the charges.

Petition On High Rises Filed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Alvin Duskin, the crusading San Francisco dressmaker, yesterday filed 50,000 signatures on a petition calling for a special election in June to limit all new construction in the city to a maximum height of six stories.

"We want the special election as soon as possible," said Duskin on the City Hall steps, "as soon as possible after Memorial Day."

Duskin said opposition to his proposal would come from developers and realtors. "One fifth of San Francisco citizens want the high rise issue to go on a ballot," he said.

The number of signatures required to put an issue on the ballot for a special election is 10 per cent of the vote in the last mayoral election. Signatures on the petition filed by Duskin represent more than one-fifth of that vote, he said.

"It was easy and we can get more signatures," Duskin said. "We got all these signatures in five weekends and had fun doing it. We got 5,000 every Saturday. They are now being studied, but we can go out and get more at any time. The people want this vote."

Duskin spoke before newsmen and TV cameramen on steps of the City Hall following registration of his petition. Supporters carried placards carrying the legend, "Stop them from burying our city under a skyline of tombstones."

Trio Held In Fatal Shooting Of Young Star

VALLEJO (UPI) —Three Martinez youths are being held in Solano County Jail on murder charges in the fatal shooting of a 17-year-old Benicia High School star football linebacker.

Held in the shooting were Jimmy Edward Silva, 20; William Collen King, 18; and Peter Vega, 17.

Deputy District Attorney Charles Mayerherm said Martinez had argued earlier with the three, who returned in a car. The fatal shot at Martinez ensued. What caused the argument was not known.

Chile-GDR Ties

BERLIN (UPI) —Chile's Marxist President Salvador Allende has granted diplomatic recognition to Communist East Germany, the two nations announced today in a joint communique.

Angela's Escape Plan: Testimony

Robert Loman, a prosecution witness at the opening of Poindexter's trial for allegedly harboring Miss Davis, claimed the defendant had given him money to buy a Cadillac that would be used to drive the California fugitive from Chicago to Detroit, and then to Canada.

Loman testified Poindexter gave him money for the downpayment and the monthly payments on the luxury car, but said he later decided he didn't want to become entangled in the alleged scheme. "It was registered in my name," Loman said, "and I didn't want to become involved."

The witness, a carting company employe who lives in the same luxury apartment building in Chicago where Poindexter maintains a $310-a-month 20th floor apartment, said he was introduced to Miss Davis, a Communist, last Aug. 15.

The alleged meeting took place eight days after a courthouse shooting in San Rafael, in which Judge Harold J. Haley died. Miss Davis disappeared shortly after the shooting and has been charged with buying the guns used by convicts in an attempt to shoot their way out of the building.

Miss Davis and Poindexter were arrested together in New York City last October following a nationwide search for the California woman.

Californian Asks New Prison Reforms

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A California Congressman, citing a Death Row inmate at San Quentin who charges the state's prisons are "the most monstrous system ever designed," has called for new efforts in prison reform.

Rep. Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif., placed into the Congressional record Monday a letter he received from Robert Massie, condemned to death six years ago.

The Congressman said he talked to Massie recently during a visit to San Quentin and feels the condemned man wrote the letter "to make known what he feels are a few of the more glaring abuses of the sorely neglected and cruelly dehumanizing penal system."

"It is one more item of evidence to substantiate the conclusion of the President's Violence Commission that the present criminal justice system 'does not deter, does not detect, does not convict, does not correct'," Bell told the House of Representatives.

Massie, who has served 15 years in prisons, was convicted May 5, 1965, of the first degree murder of a woman during an armed robbery in San Gabriel.

In his letter to Bell, Massie said he had given up efforts to have his sentence reduced and hopes he will be "one of the first to be executed when the U.S. Supreme Court terminates the en masse delay of executions."

Because of this, Bell said he feels Massie's suggestions are "not self-serving but an earnest effort to serve any fellow men."

In his letter, Massie said "Contrary to the myth circulated by propaganda that California has the most advanced penal system, this is the most monstrous system ever devised.

"Systematized dehumanization is clearly manifested by the repugnant behavior of multitudes of ex-prisoners that are daily spewed back into free society."

Among the condemned man's suggestions for reform were:

—Acknowledgment that prisoners have "constitutional and human rights."

—Segregation of psychopaths and psychotics from other prisoners.

—Elimination of incompetent and sadistic prison guards.

Strokes Seen As The Major Problem

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dr. A.B. Baker, president mf the American Neurological Association, predicts strokes will become the world's biggest health problem unless new types of research and greatly expanded treatment programs are instituted.

According to Baker, about 200,000 persons die in the United States annually from strokes—more fatalities than from any other source except heart disease and cancer. Another 600,000 are disabled by strokes.

Mountain Search For Missing Man

Sheriff's deputies and park rangers were searching today for a 69-year-old man who disappeared Sunday afternoon after attending a wedding ceremony for his stepson on Mt. Tamalpais.

Authorities were trying to locate Eugene K. West of Salt Lake City. West was last seen at about 4 p.m. Sunday following an outdoor wedding at an amphitheater on the mountain.

West's wife, Mona, told authorities he had said he was going to a lavatory. Another relative reported West said he was going home to Utah when chatting minutes later in a nearby parking lot.

West had come to the ceremony with relatives and could not drive. According to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Keith West of Hayward, he had suffered several strokes which caused brain damage and he was often forgetful.

The sister-in-law was critical today of the Marin sheriff's investigation and said she and her husband, Dr. Keith West, will fly a family plane over the dense mountain region again today. Yesterday they flew over the area for three hours. "It was really hopeless," Mrs. West said. "The brush is so thick."

The missing man was described as about five feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, with white hair and glasses. When last seen he was wearing a tan and brown sports jacket, pale tan slacks, a blue shirt and brown shoes and socks.

His wife is staying with a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowman of Castro Valley while the search continues.

Nixon Asks New Education Funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon asked Congress today to consolidate more than 30 federal aid to education programs into a $3 billion revenue sharing package.

He said that would allow local authorities to "make the hard decisions about the best ways to educate their children."

The proposal, last of six special presidential revenue sharing measures forming what he calls a "new American federalism," would combine $2.8 billion worth of existing federal programs and $200 million in new money.

Nixon said more than half of the total $3 billion proposed for the first year would go to providing compensatory education for disadvantaged children.

States would have the authority to transfer up to 30 per cent of the funds from one of five broad categories to another except funds directed to the disadvantaged.

Nixon said his proposal would preserve all existing safeguards against racial discrimination. He proposed a specific requirement for states to certify that services provided in all schools within a single district be fully comparable.

Nixon renewed his proposal of last year for a national institute to develop research and experimentation in education similar to the federal government's efforts in agriculture and medicine.

He said the institute, coupled with the $1.5 billion emergency school aid act proposed last May to help meet special problems of desegregating schools, would "represent a bold new approach to fulfilling the federal role in education and in meeting the educational needs of the 1970s."

Nixon's message to the House and Senate said the new system, to take effect in July, 1972, would eliminate a maze of red tape that now requires a vast effort by local school boards. It would eliminate 97 applications required under the current system of federal education grants.

"The time, energy and imagination needed to bring educational reform is frequently drained off into what is an essentially nonproductive effort to qualify for government grants," the President said.

The new plan would provide greater accountability and more rigidly define the lines of responsibility in local educational programs, which now take more than 40 per cent of the revenues of state and local governments.

The federal funds would be distributed on the basis of a statutory formula taking into account the total school age population in each state, the number of students from low income families and the number of students whose parents work or live on federal property.

Under Nixon's proposal, only two states, California and Ohio, would receive more money in fiscal 1972 than they receive now. The proposal would assure that each state received at least the same amount of education funds it received this fiscal year.

California's apportionment would increase from $261,451,000 to $263,136,000 and Ohio's from $100,794,000 to $101,819,000.

Training Complaint Is Probed

Overzealous and harsh Army reserve training at Two Rock Ranch Army Station west of Petaluma is under investigation by Army commanders.

A company of 25 to 39 men from the 353rd Batallion complained to officers that they had been subjected to unusually harsh treatment Saturday night, including being dumped in stagnant water while chained to logs. They said they were also required to sit outdoors naked and were subjected to rope and electrical burns.

Col. Lawrence Doyle, information officer for the 351st Civil Affairs General Officers Command said he was not sure what the training was supposed to cover, but said an intensive investigation into the alleged mistreatment was being conducted and should be completed within a week.

He said unit personnel involved in the alleged misdeeds have been relieved of their assigned duties pending completion of the investigation. He said names of those involved were not being released.

Reservists complained that they had been divided into two forces — aggressors and defenders — and were told they were being trained on how to survive if they should fall into enemy hands.

Contract For Prison Teachers

The Marin County Board of Education last night accepted a $263,605 contract from the state department of corrections to provide teachers for San Quentin Prison.

The county schools office provides the prison with 13 full time instructors and about 20 part-time teachers for night classes according to Byron W. Mauzy, assistant superintendent.

The contract is about $11,000 less than that accepted last year for fiscal 1970-71, Mauzy said.

Pilot Plan On Waste Treatment

A pilot waste treatment program which ultimately could result in Marin's first tertiary sewage treatment plant will be installed during the next two weeks at the Tiburon Sanitary District's Paradise Drive plant.

Bertram J. Talbot, secretary of the sanitary district, said the experimental plant is being installed without cost by Zimpro, Inc., a Wisconsin-based designer and manufacturer of treatment plants.

The pilot model, which uses an activated carbon filter process, will treat only part of the district's flow of 750,000 gallons of effluent a day. If it proves successful, Talbot said, the district hopes to convert its entire plant to the process. Such conversion would cost in excess of $1 million.

Effluent treated by the process, it is hoped, will be free of impurities, said Talbot, and well able to meet new discharge requirements which may be imposed by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Plant Supt. John McFarlane said Zimpro has about six such plants across the country. Members of the regional board have been invited to inspect the plant when it is finished in about two weeks.

McFarlane also said a study just completed by Corollo Engineers of Oakland shows that virtually all of the district's effluent, which is discharged into Raccoon Strait, goes out the Golden Gate and not into Richardson Bay.

Dye tests proved that only minute quantities of the outfall find their way to the lower part of Richardson Bay and none penetrates to the Richardson Bay Bridge or to the Strawberry Peninsula, McFarlane said.

The test results confirm the district's contention that it should not be covered by the same strict discharge requirements applied to Mill Valley and the Richardson Bay and Sausalito-Marin City sanitary districts, all of which discharge into Richardson Bay.

A cease and desist order against Richardson Bay and Mill Valley is being contemplated by the regional board, and the Tiburon district hopes to use the dispersion test results to convince the regional board not to set the same requirements for Tiburon.

BOGGS

in this nation is the Bill of Rights," Boggs said. "We are a great country because we are a free country. The way Mr. Hoover is running the country today is no longer a free country."

Boggs said he was "astonished" to read Mitchell said Hoover should stay on because he is a law and order man.

"If law and order means the suppression of the Bill of Rights, infiltration of college campuses, the tapping of the telephones of members of Congress of the United States, then I say 'God, help us,'" Boggs said.

Hoover, 76, has served as FBI director during the 47 years of the agency's existence.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., also criticized Boggs' remarks, saying the Louisiana congressman's statement about Gestapo tactics was "not a fair allegation."

Madman Ends Threat To Kill His Children

CO USANCES-LESFORGES, France (UPI) — Denis Job, a mentally deranged father of 12, surrendered to authorities today four days after he killed his wife and then kept police at bay with threats to massacre his children.

Five of the 12 children were still with Job when he left the former railroad station that was his home and surrendered to authorities. Police said they were all safe.

Job was taken to a psychiatric institution for an examination and the children were taken to their grandmothers.

RUSSIA

the past five-year plan had been largely met, with a 50 per cent increase of the total industrial output.

There were substantial increases in the national and per capita incomes, in agricultural production and the manufacture of consumer articles. But the production of consumer goods fell short of the planned quotas and Kosygin said "we still have some difficulty meeting the demands of people for some lines of goods, meat and meat production."

He reported the construction of 11,350,000 apartments in five years" but said "the housing problem will remain a serious one in the years ahead."

There also were major shortcomings, he announced, in capital construction.

Among the listed unfulfilled targets were those of the building ministries, the extraction of coal, the nonferous metals, plastics, buses, tractors, cement, pulp and a number of projects in light and food industry.

Neighbors' Boundary Set In Fuss

A portion of the dispute between two Tiburon neighbors was settled yesterday when a Marin Superior Court judge established a boundary line between their properties.

Judge Thomas F. Keating ruled in favor of Nathaniel Marans of 2312 Spanish Trail Road, agreeing that the property line was one set by San Rafael Surveyor Eugene Lockton in 1961.

Keating ordered Lockton to stake out the line and enjoined Marans and his neighbor, James L. Green of 2300 Vista Del Mar Lane, from interfering with the line.

Still to be settled by Keating are damage suits filed against each other by Marans and Green. Keating yesterday ordered attorneys for both to submit briefs and took the matter under submission.

Marans is suing Green for $5,660 and Green is suing Marans for $5,100 — reduced Friday from $75,000.

The two men and their wives have carried on a feud for the last several years, which has been marked by ripped out fence posts, vines and a tree, lights shining at each other's homes and water fights.

The two couples do not agree on what started the feud or when it began.

The Greens maintain the dispute arose in 1965 when he wanted to put up a fence between the properties.

Marans says the disagreements started in 1967 after Mrs. Marans was a witness in a misdemeanor case against Green.

DEBATE

R-Ore., said Calley might be guilty "but he should not be made to suffer alone." His Republican Oregon colleague, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, said "a special commission should investigate these matters and assess the moral responsibility."

—Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama said "it's almost unbelievable" that Calley might be imprisoned for life. Wallace said Nixon's decision to make a final determination of the Calley case "reflects the attitude of the people ... (I) feel he will do the right thing before it's over with."

Johnson said Calley faced some "special circumatances" at My Lai, in hostile territory where some GIs had been lost previously, and "tensions under those circumstances are very, very high."

"At that point, some judgment factors tend to erode," the retired general said. At another point, he observed: "One cannot predict what another will do under pressure. The basic instinct in a man is to survive ... Many men are going to say, 'You before me.'"

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the Calley conviction showed to the world that the United States did not condone "treating orientals as subhumans."

Project's Delay Eyed By Council

With three of its members up for reelection, the San Rafael City Council made clear last night that delays in completion of a South San Pedro Road improvement project were no fault of San Rafael's.

At the council's request, Donald R. Frost, county public works director, was on hand to explain the timetable which will see completion of the fourth of five phases of the project in the summer of 1973 — four years behind schedule.

Frost presented a timetable for the fourth phase — between Lochinvar Road and Riviera Drive — which calls for right-of-way acquisition to begin this May 1 and bids awarded April 1, 1972.

But Councilman Fred E. Jensen, a candidate for reelection April 20, wanted to know "why has this been stalled."

Frost blamed the delay on "unexpected burdens" in his department, mainly disastrous winters two of the last three years and the fact that the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project began a year after the city and county agreed on the South San Pedro Road project.

In addition, Frost cited a need to study the road project "very carefully to keep costs down."

He later informed the council that the project will require $120,000 more than previously anticipated, bringing the total cost of the project to about $1.5 million. San Rafael and the county are sharing the cost equally.

Councilman John A. Miskimen, also a candidate for reelection, offered a translation of Frost's explanation, indicating to Frost that "full responsibility for the delay is because your department is behind schedule in denying the project."

Frost said that translation was not exactly correct but did agree with Miskimen that the "delay is because the design is not done."

Frost was a termed a "front man speaking for the board of supervisors," by Ronald A. MacMillan, president of the Glenwood Homeowners Association.

MacMillan said it didn't do much good to ask Frost questions because it had no "political whammy."

At MacMillan's request, the council passed a resolution urging the board of supervisors to expedite work on the project.

Revision Of Plans Asked

Larkspur's Architectural Review Committee last night asked the architect to revise plans for a one-unit addition to an apartment building at 27 Locust Street. The property is owned by Leo Cantayre, according to John W. Appleton, city building and planning superintendent.

The committee asked for changes in the planned roof line and other aesthetic considerations, Appleton reported.

Tentative plot plans for 11 townhouses in the Larkspur Plaza area also were given preliminary review, and suggestions were made for rearranging the units. The proposed project is near the Shareholders Capitol Programs development which last week was turned down by the planning commission and appealed to the city council.

Wagnerian Opera Star Is Buried

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)— Gertrude Kappel, 86 who sang Wagnerian roles in several world capitals between the two World Wars, was buried today in Munich.

A city official said Miss Kappel, who was married to an engineer, Simon Vukas, died Saturday.

Miss Kappel was born in Halle, now East Germany, and started her career in 1907 in Hannover as a contralto.

She was almost 40 years old when she began to build an international reputation as a Wagnerian soprano.

Youth Treated For Eye Injury

An 18-year-old San Rafael teen-ager was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital yesterday for a sliver of glass driven into her eye in an auto accident.

Janice M. Weber of 420 Hickory Lane was injured about 9:40 p.m. when a car driven by Kurt W. Farrington, 18, of Incline Village, Nev., collided with a parked car on Devon Drive near Malone Lane, according to San Rafael police.

Miss Weber was a passenger in Farrington's car, police said.

Fate Of Fire Zone One Studied By San Rafael

A proposal to reduce the size of San Rafael's most restrictive fire zone may lead to the elimination of the zone altogether.

The proposal to reduce the size of the zone was made to the San Rafael City Council last night by building inspector Jack Coates.

Coates said "fire zone 1" required higher construction standards than in the rest of San Rafael, and made almost economically impossible upgrading of older buildings in the zone — generally bordered by Lincoln Avenue and Second, E and Fourth streets.

Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan said it had been the policy of the council to encourage the maintenance and use of "some of these old buildings."

The council appeared near agreement on doing away with fire zone 1, when Councilman Fred E. Jensen wondered if the action might influence fire insurance rates throughout the city.

The council directed Coates to study what effect elimination of the zone would have on insurance rates, and continued discussion of the matter until April 19.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

APPEAL — Upheld half and overruled half of a planning commission denial of architectural approval for a proposed sign at 807 Francisco Boulevard for A-1 Equipment Rentals. The council agreed with the commission that the sign must be reduced from a proposed 56 square feet to 36 square feet, but overruled the commission in ruling that the sign may have changeable copy.

AWARD — Presented a civic award certificate to Eleanor G. Murray, retiring chairman of the San Rafael Library Board after 37 years service.

BIDS — Approved plans and specifications and called for bids to be opened April 19 on resurfacing tennis courts at Boyd and Gerstle parks and grading at Boyd Park, and called for bids to be opened May 3 on Freitas Park road improvements and construction of tennis courts near Montecillo Road, adjacent to Freitas Park.

SUBDIVISION — Set a public hearing for April 19 on an appeal of planning commission disapproval of plans for Toyon Terraces, a proposed five-lot subdivision off Makin Grade.

EMPLOYEES — Adopted a resolution establishing guidelines, timetables and procedures or n gotiating with city employees.

CODES — Adopted the 1970 state uniform building code, and passed to print ordinances adopting the 1970 uniform plumbing and mechanical codes, with public hearings on the ordinances set for May 3.

MERGER — Paased a resolution stating its belief that the Terra Linda Recreation-Park and Community Services districts are in the "natural boundaries" of San Rafael, but notifying the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission that the city takes no position regarding proposed merger of the two districts.

Another Bombing At Branch Of Bank Of America

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A small bomb blew out a window and damaged masonry early today at a Bank of America branch in the second attack in four days at the same location.

A spokesman for the bank said the latest incident caused "several hundred dollars" damage. The Pico Boulevard branch suffered $5,000 damage when it was hit by a Molotov cocktail Saturday.

The spokesman said the motive for the attack was not known. Today's bombing was the 11th at a branch of the world's largest bank since February 1970. During the same period there were 11 firebombings.

The series of attacks followed the burning of a branch in the student community of Isla Vista near UC Santa Barbara.

Policeman's Dismissal Is Overruled

The San Rafael City Council last night overruled Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori's dismissal of a policeman, and recommended a 30-day suspension instead.

The council's action followed a 45-minute closed session, to which Brusatori, the policeman, Leland J. Ahern, and his attorney, William O. Weissich, were called in the last 15 minutes.

In addition to the suspension, which was completed March 26, the council recommended a three-step pay reduction for 90 days; a two-step reduction for 9 months more, and one year's probation.

Ahern was fired Feb. 26 by Brusatori for undisclosed reasons. He appealed the firing to the city's board of review, and its basic recommendations were accepted by the council last night.

The art of knitting by engines, or still looms, was invented about 1589 by William Lee of Cambridge, England.

Help On Bike Path Assured

Belvedere City Council, with a host of reservations, last night assured Tiburon that Belvedere was "morally committed" to help meet the cost of the Peninsula's bicycle path on the old rail line.

But the council limited its action to naming Mayor pro tem Thomas S. Price and Jack Himmelwright to negotiate details with the Tiburon City Council.

Tiburon Mayor Denis T. Rice suggested unsuccessfully that the Belvedere Council indicate more positively how much help it had in mind and when it could be expected. He said that the longer it took for the two councils to agree on the joint project, the more likely it was that there will be no improvement of the path this summer.

Tiburon originally asked Belvedere to share 25 per cent of the $100,000 purchase cost and a like percentage of the development cost. Belvedere Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel, however, suggested raising his city's share of development costs to 31 per cent because Tiburon subsequently found out Belvedere legally could not share the purchase cost.

Drechsel figured that Belvedere's share of development cost would range from $14,400 to $23,080, depending on the width of the path and various alternative improvements.

Instructing its two-man negotiating committee, the council agreed that the entire length of the right-of-way should be improved at one time. Tiburon had suggested temporary use of Belvedere streets south of San Rafael Avenue, but Drechsel said residents would object.

Tiburon also plans an eight-foot-wide path, but the Belvedere council urged a six-foot path. Drechsel said that "some of us may feel that five feet would be even better."

The council also voiced fears that it would have too little voice in regulating use of the path.

But Councilman Alan Steinau assured Rice that "we're morally committed to help you." Price, however, said "we don't have our checkbook ready." Drechsel later explained that he suggested Belvedere pay 31 per cent of the development cost because 31 per cent of the path's length was contiguous to Belvedere.

Tiburon City Engineer Ray W. Foreaker Jr. cautioned that building a path now that may have to be widened later would make its total cost far greater.

Belvedere City Council Also:

LANES — Urged the Division of Highways to take "immediate" action to add stacking and turning lanes on Tiburon Boulevard at Avenida Miraflores, Rock Hill Road and San Rafael Avenue.

PLAN — Referred to the finance committee the planning commission's proposal for a $15,000 study to fix a long-range philosophy "to give direction to control of future development."

LANDSCAPE — Endorsed new plans by the San Francisco landscape architectural firm of Berridge, Becker and Julin to refurbish San Rafael Avenue, and asked for final plans. Neighbors had objected to initial plans for mounds over three and a half feet high that they said would block views, so the mounds were eliminated.

POLICE — Deferred to Tiburon's initiative further action on the proposed merger of the two cities' police forces. A joint citizens committee suggested that a consultant be hired to work out details of the possible merger.

TRAINING — Gave first reading to an ordinance authorizing police officers to participate in a state training program, with the state paying half the cost.

OFFICER — Referred to the finance committee a request from Police Chief John W. Jaeger that an additional officer be hired.

DEBRIS — Voted unanimously to abandon the city's weekly debris box service after next weekend, replacing it with quarterly curbside rubbish pick-up by Mill Valley Refuse Service at an annual cost to the city of $1,900. The debris box service costs $2,060, but has been unsuccessful because of use by commercial gardeners and persons residing outside the city, the council agreed.

DOGS — Tabled action to seek better enforcement of the animal control ordinance, despite a complaint that Samuel J. Mann that 11 dog bite cases had been reported in the city in January.

LITTLE LEAGUE — Rejected a plea for a $400 subsidy of the Tiburon Peninsula Little Laague, which they gave $100 last month. The council agreed instead to sponsor a team, which they said would cost $125, and added $25 to last month's payment.

PROJECTS — Postponed to May 3 discussion of a proposal by City Mgr. William L. Cavalli that a committee be formed to prepare a capital improvement program, possibly financed by general obligation bonds.

DEMOCRACY — Took no action on a plea by the People Speak, an Oakland foundation, that they help "revitalize" the democratic process by creating an "office of civic communications" to aid communication with citizens.

BID — Accepted a $3,600 bid from Ghilotti Brothers to install a reinforced concrete curb railing along the top of the retaining walls at Bay View Avenue and Bella Vista Road.

FOUNDATION — Appointed Dr. Robert P. Watkins, a former mayor, to replace Mrs. Benton Mathews on the Tiburon Peninsula Foundation. Mrs. Mathews resigned, citing other commitments and family obligations.

TV — Granted a revocable license to Cable TV of Marin for an antenna on city property on the tip of Corinthian Island. Cavalli said it would provide a message channel "for the benefit of Belvedere residents only." Installation will require digging up 130 feet of Belvedere Avenue.

Bomb Threat At Tulare County Courthouse

VISALIA (UPI) —The Tulare County courthouse was emptied twice Monday because of bomb threats and officials think the phony threats may have been called in from inside the courthouse.

The building was evacuated at 2 p. m. and again at 4 p. m. after a female caller warned of bombs going off.

The caller first placed a call through the courthouse switchboard about 10:30 a.m. saying the "entire place is going to go up at 2 p.m."

About the same time a woman called the Tulare County sheriff's office and warned a bomb would explode at the courthouse about 4 p. m.

Deputies and courthouse maintenance men searched the building at both times but no explosives were found.

Mine Disaster

LLANELLI, Wales (UPI)— Poison gas burst from the earth into a Welsh mine today suffocating six miners and overcoming 25 others.

Dayan Vows His Army Will Win

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has vowed his army "will not be defeated" in case new fighting with Egypt breaks out in the Middle East. Dayan also expressed hope the Soviets would counsel restraint in Cairo.

As Israeli officials talked of the possibility of new warfare, Palestinian guerrillas reported "ditch to ditch" fighting with King Hussein's forces in Jordan. The commandos called for Arab intervention to end the bloodshed.

"Egypt prepared intensively to renew the war," Dayan told nearly 4,000 persons at the Labor Party convention in Tel Aviv Monday night.

Both Dayan and Foreign Minister Abba S. Eban took the podium amid the red flags of Socialism and blue and white Star of David banners to implore the Egyptians to come to direct peace talks with Israel.

"We hope the threats from Moscow are not expressing the policy of the Soviet representatives in Egypt and that they will put their influence against the renewal of the war," Dayan said.

Dayan said the situation might eventually boil down to an Egyptian ultimatum—withdrawal completely from territory captured in the 1967 war or face another war.

"If we shall not have any escape, we shall not return to the June 4, 1967, lines even if it brings war," Dayan said.

"If the Egyptians decide to renew the war, Zahal (the Israeli army) will not be defeated. We all want that the ceasefire will turn into a permanent agreement but Zahal is ready, equipped and prepared for a possible war.

Belvedere Resident Charges Police With 'Racist Attitude'

Belvedere police last night were charged by a woman resident of the normally peaceful city with a "racist attitude."

Jean Born sat patiently during much of the meeting, then unloaded her charge as the council was about to adjourn at 10:45 p.m.

She said that a black colleague from the University of California had been on his way to visit her three weeks ago Saturday when he was stopped by Sgt. William Brust "on the pretext of speeding."

Her friend was released with a warning, but Brust then followed him as he drove to the home of her former husband, George Born, she said.

From there, her colleague, a cousin of his and her former husband drove off in her colleague's car — which had been stolen the week before, but recovered.

San Francisco police, however, had not cleared the theft report from their radio records, and Brust halted them moments later at gunpoint when he got word that the car still was listed as stolen.

The sergeant, according to Mrs. Born, ordered the men out of the car, "Bellied them up against the car, and kept them that way for a half hour until the Tiburon police came to help."

She said that her colleague tried to explain to Brust what had happened, and that he had the San Francisco Police Department's release for the recovered car in his pocket, but Brust "would not listen."

Mrs. Born, who said the incident occurred at 3:30 p.m., criticized "the outrageous way it was handled."

She said she and her former husband had met the following week with Police Chief John W. Jaeger, who at first was "very beligerent." Their talk, however, "ended in a very friendly manner," she said.

"I'm not making any accusation, and I don't want anyone fired," she said, "but I want to bring this to the attention of the council. If I can't have a black friend to my house without fear of being apprehended, then we ought to look at the attitudes of our police."

Councilman Merritt K. Ruddock, reddening as she related the incident, objected, "Just a moment, just a moment, just a moment. The implication that there is racism in our police force I take keen exception to."

But Mrs. Born insisted that the incident was racist.

Her former husband kept jumping to his feet to argue for some immediate action by the council, but she kept quieting him.

Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel assured the Borns that the "council will talk to the chief, and you'll hear from the chief through the city manager."

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli commented that "you don't approach a stolen car without being armed if you're alone."

Drechsel said that the council could not act on Mrs. Born's complaint until it had a chance to hear both sides.

Attorney Fined In Driving Case

Attorney Jasper Charles De Dobbeleer, 63, of San Anselmo, was fined $302 yesterday in Marin Municipal Court after he pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor charge of drunken driving.

Judge Peter Allen Smith also placed de Dobbeleer on probation for one year.

The San Rafael Attorney was arrested on suspicion of felony drunken driving March 27 after his auto slammed into a parked taxi cab on Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, injuring a passenger in the cab, according to police. Only the misdemeanor charge was filed against him.

Six Burglaries During Last Month

Belvedere police, whose reports to the press traditionally have suggested the city is virtually free of crime, last night informed the city council there were six burglaries last month.

Mayor Edwin J. Drechsel, going over the report distributed by Police Chief John W. Jaeger, noted that "Belvedere was somewhat noteworthy in the past for not having burglaries — as far as the reports in the Independent-Journal were concerned."

Jaeger, new to the job, responded that he did not know whether it had been the practice in the past to report burglaries to the press.

But he added that two of the six, which he termed "traditional burglaries," had been reported to the I-J. These involved burglaries of homes, while the others involved burglaries from cars and boats.

The chief said that several of the burglaries apparently were committed by persons working in the community such as carpenters or roofers. Neighbors noticed nothing suspicious in any of the cases, he said.

Jaeger also reported that 12 bicycles were stolen in March, half of them locked, and that almost $200 in potted plants had been carried away.

He said he planned to initiate a "light at night" program and to encourage citizens to report any suspicious actions in their neighborhoods.

Clausen To Head Bay Area Council

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Bay Area Council, a civic and business organization, today announced the election of A. W. Clausen as its chairman.

Clausen, president of the Bank of America, was named to succeed John E. Countryman, former chairman of the board of Del Monte Corp.

Convalescent Home Hit By 2-Alarm Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A two-alarm fire Monday caused the evacuation of elderly patients from one wing of a new convalescent home.

The blaze broke out in the fourth-floor television room of the five-story Pine Tower Hospital, which has been in operation about a year.

One male patient was hospitalized and treated for smoke inhalation and then returned to the convalescent home.

Three floors of the building's west wing were damaged by water and smoke and 28 patients were being transferred to another convalescent home in the city.

$2 Million Sewer Bond Date Is Set

The Petaluma City Council last night approved plans for a $2 million sewer bond election on June 8 despite continued warnings that voters would soundly defeat it.

In the 5-2 vote, Vice Mayor John W. Cavanagh Jr. and councilman Robert E. Daly dissented, saying the vote should be delayed until planning studies are complete and the general plan is updated.

Cavanagh said he thought the bonds to enlarge the sewer plant would have a better chance of passing in September or October when voters know exactly what the plant enlargement will mean in terms of city growth.

The majority of the council felt that construction must begin as soon as possible on the plant so that total building will not come to a complete halt because of a lack in sewer facilities.

City Engineer David A. Young said the plant capacity would be increased to seven million gallons per day and would accomodate a population estimated at 70,000. He said the present three-million gallon capacity should be exhausted within two years.

After questioning by Cavanagh, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said that preliminary figures received from questionnaires completed by 2,000 residents on March 31 showed an overwhelming portion want Petaluma to remain below 40,000 in population.

"If we're to give credence to those figures, then why plan for a city of 70,000?" Cavanagh asked rhetorically.

Councilman Fred V. Matte said citizens should have the opportunity to vote on the measure and said that even if it passed he believed construction would come to a standstill for a year until the plant is completed.

Several citizens urged the council to abandon plans for the election until planning studies are complete. Sue Langhans told the council, "We don't trust you right now to meet our needs."

"I know you don't," Mayor Helen Putnam replied.

The Mayor closed discussion and called for the vote over strong objections by citizens who had had no chance to speak on the issue.

The Petaluma City Council also:

ABAG — Rejected by a 4-3 vote a resolution supporting the withdrawal of Sonoma County from the Association of Bay Area Governments. Supporting the withdrawal were councilmen Robert A. Brunner, Daly and Cavanagh.

TWO ROCK — Approved a resolution supporting the plans of the Coast Guard to acquire the Two Rock Ranch Army Station for a training school. The Army will abandon the post on June 31 in a Department of Defense economy move.

OVERCROSSING — Approved an agreement with the state to share half the costs in construction of a pedestrian overcrossing of Highway 101 at East Washington Street. Young said the original estimated city cost of $88,000 had risen to $125,300 because of increased construction and engineering costs. He said federal funds would probably supply $117,907 with the city paying $7,393 from state gas tax funds.

COMMITTEE — Received a joint letter from the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association, Petaluma Gardens Homeowners Association and East Petaluma Civic Association asking that representation from East Petaluma be included on the citizens committee to update the 1962 general plan.

MEETING — Adjourned to Monday at 7:30 p.m. to hear a report from representatives of Third Way House on a drug program for teen-agers.

Pair Plead To Selling Grass

Randall Joachim Wells, 20, and Allen Michael Crivello, 19, both of San Rafael, have pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to charges of selling marijuana to a narcotics agent last July 1.

They previously had pleaded innocent.

They are to be sentenced May 14.

Another Clash On New Union

The encounter began when Mayor George E. Wickham and Victor C. Thuesen, representing the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, clashed over whether the Mill Valley Employees Association, a union affiliate, was the employer's official bargaining agent.

12 REQUESTS

It ended when Wickham told Thuesen to comply with a list of 12 requests by City Atty. Leland H. Jordan in order for the employees association to be recognized as the bargaining agent.

In between, Thuesen objected to the city applying a 1969 resolution to his employees organization. The resolution specifies how an employee organization is to be recognized. Thuesen said the cumbersome recognition procedure was not applied until his union was chosen to represent the city employees.

He also complained that City Mgr. William H. Cunningham refused to accept his telephone calls and to meet with him to begin contract negotiations, but Cunningham said he had returned Thuesen's calls only to find him out and that meetings were not appropriate until formal recognition took place.

AGENDA ITEM

The labor organizer also tangled with Wickham over whether a topic he wanted to discuss would be placed on the agenda. He then accused the city of refusing to act in good faith.

"I doubt that you're acting in good faith," Wickham replied. The council only learned that the employees organization had affiliated with the union when notified by special delivery letter three weeks ago, he said.

Thuesen countered by saying that internal affairs of the employees association — such as deciding whether to affiliate with a labor union — did not concern the council.

Thuesen later called the recognition resolution "a stupid law" but said the employee group would go along with it. Steps required by the resolution could be completed in three days, he said, and contract discussions with Cunningham could start immediately.

Thuesen, whose union represents 41 of the city's 83 employees (police and firemen are excepted), spent much of yesterday at the Marin County Civic Center attempting to organize the 750-member Marin County Employees Association.

Children's Pantomime Scheduled

Pantomime, songs and recitations by Korean children will be presented at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the San Rafael Improvement Club, Fifth Avenue and H Street.

The "Children of Compassion" choir will be accompanied by Miriam Swanson, wife of Compassion's founder.

The five children will present Bible readings, hymns in English and a prayer in Korean. Songs include "Jesus Loves Children," "My Jesus I Love Thee," "Jesus Loves Me," "Heaven Come Down," "Mansion over the Hilltop," and "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Rev. Everett F. Swanson founded Compassion Inc., a Christian Missionary organization which cares for more than 23,000 children in Korea, India, Indonesia and other areas of the world.

The audience will hear a report on the world mission fields and how "Compassion" works in its ministry.

Recycling Appeal To Mill Valley

Roger Bockrath, representing Survival, Inc., which operates recycling depots at Marin's seven high schools each weekend, said his group needs trucks and adult volunteers to continue the operation.

Survival Inc. spends $300 a week to rent trucks to haul materials to collection facilities in the Bay Area, said Bockrath, the Independent-Journal photographer whose photos of the Aug. 7 Civic Center shoot-out have won several prizes.

Volunteers older than 21 are needed at each depot to oversee high school workers, said Bockrath.

"When we started, one-fourth of one per cent of Marin's garbage was recycled," Bockrath said. "Now we handle between 3 and 4 per cent of the waste."

Garbage that isn't recycled ends up as Bay fill at the San Quentin dump site, he said.

"Even though only 4 per cent of the county's refuse is recycled, Bockrath said Survival Inc. collected enough newspaper last weekend to save 225 trees from the pulp mills.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

A Guilty Driver Pays For Damage

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)— Three bent garbage cans and a cardboard box caused a minor panic in a residential neighborhood at 7 p.m. until police took care of the situation.

The garbage cans were in the middle of the street with the box tied to them. Fearing a bomb booby-trap, residents called police, who cautiously approached the cans and opened the box. Inside was $6 and a note saying it was to pay for the damage a motorist had caused to the cans.

Park Plan Wins Corte Madera Nod

The Corte Madera Town Council voted last night to apply for about $37,000 in federal matching funds to create a small park near Granada School in east Corte Madera.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels told the council it had to apply to the Department of Housing and Urban Development before April 30 to be considered for funds in fiscal 1971-72.

The application, he said, does not bind the town to accept the money for the $75,000 park.

As envisioned by the town's park and recreation commission the park on Reed School District land would include tennis courts, picnic areas, a spray pool and parking.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

NOISE — Put over to March 19 a proposed ordinance regulating sound transmission in apartment units.

PARKING — Amended the parking standards for apartments to require two off-street spaces, for each new apartment of three or more bedrooms instead of one and a half spaces.

COUNTY FUNDS — Decided to apply for $1,000 matching funds from the Marin County Youth Commission and $2,000 matching funds from the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

HOME BUSINESS — Granted a request by Ursula Silversides of 126 Endeavor Drive to set up a part-time business making bookends, plaques and other decorations at her home.

RACKS — Referred to the chamber of commerce and business association a request by Mrs. Bruce P. Thompson of 545 Chapman Drive to install bicycle racks in the business sections of town.

ASSESSMENT DISTRICT — Accepted a petition from six residents of Hawthorne Lane Seeking to form a special assessment district and authorized staff to draw up a resolution of intention to form such a district for hearing at the April 19 meeting. Work estimated to cost the city $3,300 and the residents $13,000 would include paving, culverts and a fireline.

TAMALPAIS DRIVE — Introduced a resolution to form an underground utility district along Tamalpais Drive from the Highway 101 to the town center and set a public hearing for May 3.

TANKER TRUCK — Authorized the sale of a 1942 tanker truck used to water along Paradise Drive.

TRAFFIC SIGNAL — Approved improving the intersection of Tamalpais Drive and Madera Boulevard with $21,000 in new traffic signals that would include a left turn signal and pedestrian signals.

ECOLOGY WEEK — Proclaimed April 18-24 the Semi-annual Corte Madera Ecology and Cleanup Week, following, after a fashion, a request by the Encino (Los Angeles County) Jaycees to label it California Ecology Week.

BILLS — Supported an assembly bill to reform the California City Annexation Act and opposed an assembly bill that would end city representation on water quality control boards.

BUDGET — Approved, as the board of the Corte Madera Sanitary District, a capital outlay budget of $49,600.

SEWAGE — Decided to ask the Ross Valley Sanitary District to begin plans for expanding its sewage treatment facility which also handles the waste of the Corte Madera Sanitary District.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to April 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

Another Account Of JFK Rescue

A former PT-boat commander who helped rescue John F. Kennedy and his crew during World War II yesterday added his account to the saga of PT-109 and called for a return to the values he attributed to the assassinated president.

"He felt the word 'courage' and the word 'honor' are the two most important words in the English language," said Theodore M. Robinson of Sacramento.

Robinson, who manned the radar on a nearby vessel the night Kennedy's boat was rammed by a Japanese destroyer, participated in the rescue of Kennedy and later lived with him during three months of recuperation.

Speaking to the San Rafael Rotary Club, Robinson gave his version of the now-famous events of Aug. 1, 1943, in the Solomon Sea.

He said the book "PT-109" was inaccurate in two places. He said that the captains of the high-speed plywood boats were aware they were dealing with destroyers. The book said they thought barges were chugging towards them.

The book also said Kennedy did not get the message that the destroyers were near, but Robinson said word was sent out over Army walkie talkies to each boat.

Kennedy survived the sinking, wangled another command "and he went back up the line for four more months of heavy, heavy c o m b a t and he lived through this only to lose his life to some knucklehead in this country," Robinson said.

Combining the speaking styles of a salesman and standup comedian with what he called his republican views, he criticized "baby doctors" and those under 18 who think they are military experts and said leaders, like Kennedy, must have a sense of humor.

"Hitler didn't have one and you saw what happened to him. Some of those on the left are in that same category," he said.

Robinson served four and a half years in the Navy during the war and is now a lieutenant commander in the Navy Reserve.

While Kennedy rose through the political ranks, Robinson worked for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. At 51 he is a regional supervisor for public relations, director of the management speakers bureau and executive speech writer for the company.

He threw in a few plugs for his company, but said his purpose in speaking about Kennedy was to elevate the concept of honor in the American value system.

"I am very much concerned that this word has lost its place on the front page of our papers," he said.

Bicyclist, 10, Is Released

A 10-year-old San Anselmo boy was released today from Marin General Hospital where he was admitted yesterday with a mild concussion and multiple scrapes sustained in a bicycle accident.

San Anselmo police said today Thomas Mansell of 50 Holstein Road was rushed to the hospital after he was thrown from his bike at 2:30 p.m. near Memorial Park.

They said he was riding down Sunny Hills Drive when he hit a dirt embankment near the tennis courts.

Woman Treated For Crash Injury

A 43-year-old San Rafael woman was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for cuts and bruises sustained when the auto in which she was riding collided with a parked vehicle in Corte Madera.

Police said today Lillian Grant of 83 Woodland Avenue was riding with her husband, Auburn, along Casa Buena Drive near Conow Street when their auto struck the parked car.

The accident occurred at 10:54 p.m.

WHEELRIGHT RANCH

60 Choice Acres Offered To Tamalpais School District

Rancher-conservationist George W. Wheelright III, rancher-conservationist, has offered the Tamalpais High School District his Southern Marin ranch house and adjoining 60 acres for $250,000.

The offer is good until June 1, according to Trustee Frank L. Miller, who estimated the actual value of the property at about $1 million.

As with his gift of 535 Upland acres to the Nature Conservancy in February, Wheelright has placed strings on his offer to insure the property remains in its present state.

Miller said the rancher wants the district to develop an ecological laboratory on the property. Deed restrictions would limit the property to noncommercial use, would limit building size to under three stories and would limit lot coverage to 10 per cent.

Besides the ranch house, the property also has a smaller home, a pool, barn, livestock pens, underground reservoir and utilities.

The ranch was known as the Green Gulch Ranch until recently when when it was renamed the Hope Wheelright Preserve in memory of his late wife as a condition to giving it to the conservation group.

It stretches across brush-covered hills and canyons to the ocean near Muir Beach. That portion offered to the high school district is located on the floor of a lush, irrigated valley.

Miller said the proposal, now being studied by District Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, his staff and faculty, offers many possibilities as an outdoor laboratory.

"It's not available short of that ($1 million) price," Miller said, adding the district has several alternatives available for funding.

Miller, who sees the ranch as the first environmental high school in the nation, said if the project is deamed feasible by the faculty and administration then funding might come from private foundations and industry.

The facility itself could be an extension of the district's three schools, he said, or it could be a completely separate school for students to pursue science interests.

"It's worth investigating further," he concluded. "Young people don't have a place to go to do research on the environment. This could be a prototype."

More Violence In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) —Army and police "saturation patrols" fanned through the upper Springfield Road area of Belfast today when crowds stoning vehicles threatened to touch off more serious street violence.

Police said they had received 141 rifles, 16 pistols and 96 revolvers, 43, shotguns, 46 air guns in addition to bayonets and signal pistols.

The amnesty expires at midnight Thursday.

IRS Makes A Giant Mistake

NEENAH, Wis. (UPI)—Mrs. Jeanne Basler opened her income tax return expecting the $148 she had claimed on her Form 1040.

Inside was a check for $69,874.04.

A call to the Internal Revenue Service confirmed Mrs. Basler's suspicion that it was the IRS and not she who had made the mistake.

"I wouldn't have kept it anyway," she said. "It made me nervous."

Dog Kennel Proposal Wins Novato Permit

A private kennel for up to 15 sled dogs will be permitted at 1763 Indian Valley Road near Gate Lane in Southwest Novato.

Ralph D. Cairns, deputy county zoning administrator, granted the Kennel permit yesterday to Robert Levorsen, who now lives at 332 San Rafael Avenue in Belvedere. His present neighbors in Belvedere testified that Levorsen's sled dogs are the quietest dogs they have ever seen.

Levorsen said he plans to keep about a dozen dogs on the four-acre property on Indian Valley Road and will use the dogs strictly for sport racing.

Cairns approved the permit on condition that Levorsen keep the dogs in the house at night and under contral at all times so that they will not bother neighbors.

Charles P. Davies of 1709 Indian Valley Road said he does not know how noisy sled dogs are, but "I'm getting tired of not sleeping at night." He said Romar Kennels located to the rear of his property, and this kennel will be in front.

The zoning administrator warned Levorsen that the permit is renewable each year and can be revoked if the animals become a nuisance.

Cairns approved a use permit for an arts and crafts store for Joseph Albright at Olema. The store will occupy an old realty office at 9975 Shoreline Highway, at the intersection with Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Albright said he plans to sell candles, looms, carvings and other handicrafts.

Slight Traffic Tie-Ups During Bridge Repairs

Only minor traffic tie-ups were reported yesterday during the first day of repairs to Larkspur's Bon Air Bridge, damaged during the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Signs have been erected along Magnolia Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to advise motorists of travel conditions on the bridge.

Traffic schedules provided by the city show:

Today and tomorrow — One-way traffic allowed at times. Thursday through May 20 — Bridge will be closed to traffic between 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. Whenever possible, the bridge will be open for night and weekend travel.

May 21 to June 14 — No traffic will be allowed at any time.

June 15 to June 21 — Bridge will be closed to traffic between 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. but open nights and weekend.

The bridge was weakened during the Army Corps of Engineer's dredging of the creek which exposed bridge pilings.

The cost of repairs is expected to run about $140,000 of which the Army will pay half, the state about 30 per cent and the city and county about 10 per cent each.

Guilty Plea To Two Theft Charges

William Bradford Cleveland, 27, of no known address, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on a charge of stealing three guitars from a San Rafael man Dec. 9.

He is to enter a plea to the charge April 19.

Policies on Tap

Board policies and procedures will be discussed at a special workshop meeting of directors of the Marin City Services District at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Manzanita Center, Marin City. District Secretary Lillian Lee said the board will review all its policies, since many have remained unchanged since the district was formed.

Economy has been serving at the base as personnel sergeant major for the Western Air Force Reserve Region.

A 25-year veteran, he previously served at air force headquarters in Europe for three years and won a commendation medal for his planning and direction in connection with withdrawal of U.S. forces from France.

Jail Time For 1969 Burglary

Daniel John Johnston, 21, of San Rafael, was sentenced to 30 days in Marin County Jail and fined $250 yesterday for the burglary of the Citadel Nightclub in San Rafael Dec. 11, 1969.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court also placed Johnston on probation for two years.

Johnston was found guilty of the burglary by a jury last November. A codefendant who pleaded guilty was sentenced to 90 days in jail last year.

Fact-Finders Hear Novel Idea For Solving Fuss

Why not detach Marin's human rights commission and department from county government and form a nonprofit corporation, which would then provide human relations work under contract with the county?

This novel idea was proposed yesterday by Parnel Finn, member of the five-man fact-finding committee which is probing the troubles that have plagued the Human Rights Department.

One of the main complaints of the present structure is that the human rights director feels harrassed and oppressed by the county administrator. Mrs. Finn said the nonprofit corporation idea would eliminate that feeling of harrassment.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said the nonprofit corporation is legally possible but explained that the county administrator would still retain some budget control because he would make recommendations each year on the amount and type of contract to be drawn up between the county and the nonprofit corporation.

The fact-finding committee members, headed by Chairman Milen C. Dempster, said they like the private corporation idea because it would take the human rights agency from under the thumb of the county administrator and make it directly responsible to the county board of supervisors.

Before formally endorsing the idea, the fact-finders decided to ask the human rights commissioners for their reactions.

Three-fourths of 14,500 motorists when questioned as to their opinions as to whether their automobiles were considered safe reported "very safe." Yet inspection reports showed over half of the cars needed some repairs.

A Safe Landing Just Too Much

TOKYO (UPI)—Michiji Iso, 21, fell off the roof of a nine-story building Monday night, creashed through the roof of another structure and ended up in bed with two women.

Iso escaped with slight head and leg injuries but police said the women passed out from shock after officers arrived.

A Woman Welder Named Desire

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

HONOLULU (UPI)—Beneath the face shield, helmet, heavy denim shirt and pants is a blonde welder named Desire.

For the last 18 years, Desire Brooks has welded everything from the booster rockets in the initial Apollo space flights to torpedo tubes and luxury yachts.

The only female member of the Hawaii Chapter of the American Welding Society advises women planning to join the ranks that the occupation and femininity do mix but only with a lot of work at both.

"WELDING TAKES strength and fortitude," Mrs. Brooks said. "These qualities plus the heavy clothing make it easy to forget you're a woman." Strength is particularly important in states such as Hawaii which have no law regulating the maximum weights women may handle.

"I've found myself at one end of a 500-pound rail with a man at the other, both of us lifting it," Mrs. Brooks said.

Mrs. Brooks, married recently, said, "It takes a real effort not to become brazen and hard. You have to keep reminding yourself you're a woman and behave like one."

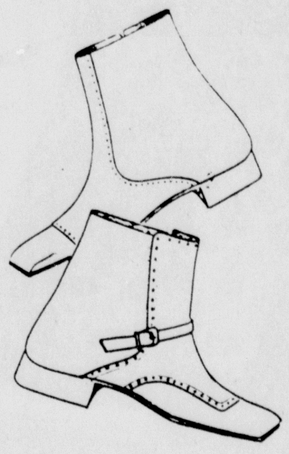
There's a trim figure under the leather jacket she often wears to keep the sparks off when welding. She pulled off her helmet, face mask and gloves and revealed flattering blonde hair, green eyes and nails manicured and polished.

"I have to shampoo about every three days or wear a wig," she said.

MRS. BROOKS, who now makes railings for Island Steel and Welding Ltd., came to Honolulu in 1965 after extensive experience in California, including the work on the booster rockets of Rocketdyne at Canoga Park where she worked in the research and development division.

"I've always been mechanically inclined," she said, "but I didn't plan on becoming a welder. When I couldn't find a clerical job 18 years ago, an employer asked me if I could learn to weld. I figured I could do anything anyone else could do, and I've been at it ever since."

To the girl who's looking to be a welder, Mrs. Brooks warned that male colleagues aren't always enthusiastic about a woman on the job.



"On a construction job one of the guys almost fell off his tractor into a quarry when he saw me," she said. "I know I have to work harder and do a better job. When I apply for a job, I stress my qualifications and experience, not the fact I'm female."

Married to a police officer, Mrs. Brooks finds her welding training frequently pays off around the house.

"I'm always catching on to things that break down," she said. But she added, "The trouble is I'm often too tired from work to fix them."

DESIRE BROOKS, the only female member of the Hawaii Chapter of the American Welding Society, is beneath the face shield, helmet, heavy denim shirt and pants. Eighteen years ago, when she could not find a clerical job, an employer asked her if she could learn to weld, and since then she has welded everything from booster rockets to torpedo tubes to luxury yachts. Marin Women

More Wives Work Now

As any working woman knows, in grandmother's day Heaven protected the working girl. All the working wife had going for her was the 19th Amendment — which gave women the right to vote. This is not too surprising, when you consider that during 1920, only one out of 10 married women were in the country's labor force.

In fact, in grandma's time, a woman who combined a job with keeping house, and maybe childcaring, was often looked upon with the interest usually reserved for a novelty act on the vaudeville circuit. What was surprising was not to see it done well, but that it was done at all.

Things have certainly picked up since then. In 1970 working women made up no less than 41 per cent of the married female population. The figure just 10 years earlier was 31 per cent.

THE MAIN reasons married women work, reports the Institute of Life Insurance, are the same as for their earlier day counterparts: to contribute toward rent or to help buy a home; to help pay for children's education; or to resume an interrupted career. Often all three.

For one thing, she is more apt to be a high school graduate and to have gone beyond that to college. She is also more likely to be a clerical worker. A half-century ago, she would probably have worked in a factory.

She has a great many more opportunities in choosing a career — from astronomy to space-selling — than the working wife of 50 years ago had. Also, if asked how she manages to combine marriage and a job, she is more apt to bristle, and wonder how come nobody ever asks a man that.

IF SHE sometimes feels that her job situation is still less than perfect she is frequently right. According to the government's own figures, women tend to make at least $3,500 on the average less than men — and sometimes at the same jobs.

One point most everyone agrees on: a working wife can be a decided financial asset to her family.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Can She Collect Unemployment Because Her Boss Harrassed Her?

DEAR HELEN:

I quit my job because my boss was a wolf. When I wouldn't play that way, he tried to "educate" me, so I turned in my notice.

Because I had quit, I found I couldn't collect unemployment benefits. You have to be laid off. I didn't go into details, figuring "refusal" would not count.

After four months I got another job.

Just recently I heard of a case where a girl collected unemployment pay when she proved she was harrassed into quitting because of an amorous employer.

Could I apply for back benefits, using this as an example? I need to settle old bills. — PURELY BROKE

DEAR PURE:

Could you prove the charge? I'm afraid experienced wolves cover their tracks well, and his word against yours might make you look pretty silly.

But don't take my word. Inquire at the unemployment agency.

DEAR HELEN:

I have a long beard and hair to match. Why not? It's a free country. But the lawmakers around here have ruled that we can't get aid unless we make ourselves "employable," which means shorter hair and a partial shave. I am enclosing a picture of me at the commune. Is this fair? — BIG ISRAEL

DEAR BIG IS:

It's their marbles. So they can call the rules. If you won't trim up the brush, maybe you can live off the land. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Mrs. J. B. sure had it right when she said "teen-ager" today seems to be a bad word.

I have two teen-age sisters and many teen friends. Recently one of our friends got into an accident and, although it was the other person's fault, he was blamed. He was "one of those wild kid drivers," they said.

When we go into stores, the sales clerks follow us around, watching to see if we lift something.

Recently a bunch of us went into a pizza place after a game. The manager said, "Get out, you're teen-agers, and we don't want trouble."

Sure, a few kids cause trouble, but why do so many adults see us all as one big glob of bad news? — PAT

DEAR PAT:

"So many" or so few? Think back, Pat. Out of perhaps 25 stores and restaurants you've visited in the last week, in how many can you honestly say you were "put down bad?" For no reason?

"Sure, a few adults cause trouble, but why do so many teens see us all as one big glob of bad news?"

It works both ways. — H.

A Chemist Warns On Enzymes

A chemist in Santa Barbara warns housewives against using laundry soaps containing bacterial enzymes, advises organic food buffs they might be risking malnutrition, and seeks to introduce our future diet—algae.

Dr. Bernard R. Baker, chemist at the University of California at Santa Barbara, explains at since ths soap additives are 'foreign' enzymes, the body sometimes reacts to them defensively, setting up an allergic reaction. He particularly warns housewives not to breathe such soap powder and to rinse clothes thoroughly after using it.

'The dirt spots are much safer than the enzymes,' says Dr. Baker, recipient of Denmark's Alfred Benzon Prize for 1970 in recognition of his research in enzyme inhibitors of DNA synthesis.

Excessive reliance on organic diets can lead to malnutrition, he says, because plants by themselves do not provide enough nutrients. Some of the amino acids we need to live must be manufactured or derived from animals.

Algae as a daily diet? Ultimately, says Dr. Baker. Its potential as a food source is almost unlimited. In several hundred years it will be our most efficient food source. First, however, peoples' attitudes will need to change.

Heart Motif Is Big In Spring Jewelry

It would seem so, for all women are young in the spring, and this year they're wearing their hearts not only on their sleeves but on dog collars, on belts, on long chains of leather, on wide plastic cuff bracelets.

It's all part of the heart motif in fashion jewelry, which finds colored hearts, golden hearts, silver hearts and pewter hearts taking the pulse of spring.

Butterflies as well as hearts are aflutter, leaving their imprint on belts, pendants, highup chokers.

Both butterflies and hearts hark back to the past, and so does the Victorian influence in jewelry, expressing another kind of nostalgia.

Victorian reminiscing lingers over bar pins, cameo lockets and earrings, rings of opal, ivory and agate, of enamel and gold wire, with velvet ribbon and colorful miniatures, dog collars of jet with matching earrings.

Not only designs but materials mark a fresh approach to spring's jewelry, from the elegance of jet and velvet, pearls and textured gold to beads, wood, rope, sea shells and braided, woven looks.

Metals mold many looks. Copper, silver (real or imagined, shined up or dull, darkened for pattern or depth), steel and brass are mined for all their fashion worth.

These same metals appear in symbolic jewelry for luck, peace, love, ecology, the Zodiac.

Jewelry for the hair curtsies to the past, in many materials. It's classically tailored or blazingly jeweled, in filigree and beaten gold, silver, copper.

A Solution If You Don't Like Anything About Your Own Hair

Few girls are ever satisfied with their hair. Those who have curly hair want it straight, girls with straight hair want wavy, those who have a coarser texture want silky, and so on.

Fashion also has a hand in who is contented with her hair each season, switching styles with regularity. The past few years young women have been wearing long, swingy, straight-as-sticks hair. About half of these girls have been battling with lotions, potions, straighteners and pressing irons to decurl and de-wave their natural tresses.

The result, unfortunately, often has been too many dried-out lifeless and falling heads of hair.

TO THE RESCUE: — the new and easily affordable synthetic wigs made of natural-looking and natural-feeling Dynel, in a great range of seductive shades. These wigs, which are pre-styled, permanently set and drip-dry get everyone off the bake, stretch and set merry-go-round, and allow lovely-looking hair to be an everyday occurrence. Wigs also are the smartest way to hide the sad results of too much tormenting of your own hair.

Angela P. of Hartford, Conn., for instance, had short blonde hair in natural ringlets. She let it grow and had it straightened. The straightening didn't take too well so she had it redone the very next week. Result of so much chemical on the scalp: stringy, straight blonde hair and a heartbreaking bald spot getting bigger on the top of her head.

A visit to a dermatologist confirmed the hair was not permanently damaged and would grow back. Nothing to do but wait out the long months.

BUT WITH THE help of two wigs her own colors, Angela didn't have to sit it out at home as she might have, tearfully, years ago. While her damaged hair rejuvenated itself, her social life went on normally.

The moral of this true tale is that it is not worth ruining delicate hair when a wig can be bought inexpensively and look so utterly real that it will fool even a wiseacre brother.

Start the spring by giving your own hair a new lease on life. If it is dry and splitting, heat some olive oil to a medium temperature and with a piece of absorbent cotton rub it generously all over the scalp and along the hair to the ends. Wrap your head in a towel and let the oil soak in for half an hour. Then shampoo with a mild soap at least three times or until all the oil is completely out. Repeat the next week if necessary. This should silken and gloss-up drab hair and make it fall more smoothly.

Then invest in a synthetic wig — maybe even two. They will free you from hours of fussing with your hair and allow you to keep your hair away from harsh preparations and in a pretty state of health.

Non-Prescription Drug Ads Attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Food and Drug Commissioner Charles C. Edwards today called for a crackdown on "atrocious" false advertising of non-prescription drugs instead of any government action to remove many of them from the market.

Edwards said he would meet soon with Chairman Miles W. Kirkpatrick of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), which enforces laws against false advertising, to coordinate action against drug advertising claims which lack scientific documentation.

But the FDA head said he had decided against requiring the same tough proof of effectiveness, or efficacy, for such over-the-counter remedies as FDA now requires for prescription drugs.

"The amount of scientific efficacy information on overthe-counter drugs is practically zero," Edwards said in an informal meeting with newsmen. "If we took a hard line on over-the-counter drugs, we'd have to take practically the whole bunch off the market.

"I don't know if we're a strong enough agency to do that, politically or scientifically," he said. "...The worst thing about over-the-counter drugs is their labeling and advertising. The advertising is the really atrocious thing."

In response to questions, Edwards said advertising claims for non-prescription remedies frequently are false and probably deceive consumers into spending money on medicine they don't need. He cited some familiar television commercials as example.

Tens of thousands of nonprescription drugs are sold in the United States, Edwards said, many of them virtually identical copies of one another. Accoding to published estimates, retail sales of nonprescription drugs total about $1.7 billion a year compared with $4 billion for prescription drugs.

Edwards said most nonprescription medicines have a long history of safety, and by their nature are less hazardous than the more potent presceiption drugs. Hence, he said, the FDA will let them remain on the market while figuring a way to eventually test their effectiveness.

Under a 1962 law, drugs must be both safe and effective to remain on the market. Edwards said he was publicizing FDA's relatively soft line on proof of effectiveness for nonprescription drugs in response to fears voiced by the industry that recent FDA policy statements promising strict enforcement of drug laws might lead to wholesale removal from the market of over-the-counter remedies.

Innocent Plea To Shotgun Charge

He is to return to court Monday for setting of a trial date.

Trial Date Set In Sausalito Case

Albert Daniel Torres, 20, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of robbery.

Trial was set for the week of June 7.

Torres is accused of taking $1.15 from a 17-year-old boy in Sausalito Feb. 11.

Innocent Plea To Check Charges

Daryl J. Moran, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to three felony charges of passing and three felony charges of possessing bad checks.

Trial was set for the week of June 1.

Moran was arrested Jan. 28 after an unsuccessful attempt to cash a forged check at a Purity market, according to San Rafael police.

Water District Plans Hearing On Financing

A special meeting of the Marin Municipal Water District has been called for 8 p.m. Thursday at the water district office to discuss future water supply needs and financing of planned system improvements like the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct.

The review comes on the heels of a decision by the board to seek legislation that would allow it to borrow the cost of the aqueduct from the Sonoma Water Agency instead of going to the voters for approval of bond issues.

Crash Kills Six Coast Guardsmen

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Six Coast Guardsmen were killed today when their auto traveling at high speed smashed through a guard rail on the Curtiss Creek Bridge and plunged into the Patapsco River.

None of the victims were identified but police said all of the men were believed Massachusetts residents except the driver of the car who was believed from Pennsylvania.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the men were assigned to the cutter, "Chase," which was docked here, but is based in Boston at the First Coast Guard District.

Police said it took about seven hours to recover the bodies. They said local authorities were joined by Coast Guardsmen in locating the bodies in the river.

A witness to the crash, which occurred about 2 a. m., told police the car was traveling at high speed when the driver apparently lost control and the auto slammed through the bridge guard rail.

The Coast Guard confirmed that six men had been unaccounted for at a morning formation. A spokesman said at the time the six sailors were reported missing.

Javits Defends Calley Sentence

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., says the conviction of Lt. William E. Calley Jr. shows the United States does not approve of "treating orientals as subhuman."

Defending the sentencing of Calley in a floor speech Monday, Javitz said he hoped the sentence might be reduced out of mercy. But he questioned the public outcry against the sentencing.

"If the nation really is encouraged to believe that he did nothing wrong—indeed he is a hero—then we have changed as a people during the course of this tragic war even more disastrously than I had imagined," Javits said.

Air Force Charged With Polluting Sea

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Florida congressman has charged the Air Force is violating presidential orders by continuing to dump huge quantities of deadly chemicals into the sea off Southern California.

The charges Monday by Rep. Paul L. Rogers, D-Fla, came as a surprise to President Nixon's top environmental adviser, Chairman Russell E. Train of the Council on Environmental Quality.

Rogers told Train and the House Merchant Marine Committee that chemicals he described as "most deadly" were being dumped by Norton Air Force Base in San Bernardino into a sewage system that led to sea.

The Florida Democrat, calling the action a "perversion" of the President's ban on such dumping by federal agencies, said the Air Force formerly hauled the chemicals out to sea in barges.

When this practice was halted, he said, the Air Force began putting them into an industrial sewage line serving San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties.

He said that two types of waste are produced by the Air Force's Aerospace Audiovisual Service, which serves the entire world —one that is highly toxic and another which is less toxic.

The spokesman, who declined to be identified, said the less toxic material is treated at the base and then discharged "chemically pure" into the sewage system.

The more toxic material, he said, was collected in 21,000 gallon tanks and taken to an industrial treating plant in nearby Fontana to be treated and discharged "chemically pure" into the sewage system.

The spokesman said the plant has treated 1.8 million gallons of the highly toxic waste in the past 10 months.

Another spokesman, Information Officer Bob Brooks, said later the arrangement with the treatment plant was approved by federal and state water pollution agencies.

He said no pollution in any significant amount has been detected from treatment of the less toxic waste.

Train, testifying before the committee on an administration bill to ban most ocean dumping, told Rogers he did not know of any release of chemicals from the hugh photographic laboratory at Norton. Rogers said it processes more film than the entire Hollywood motion picture industry.

"It's new information to me," Train said, "and I can assure you that I'll be taking it up with the Air Force right after this hearing."

Train said the Air Force action, as descriibed by Rogers, would be in his opinion contrary to the National Environmental Policy Act.

Bumper Stickers Tout Rep. Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Red, white and black bumper stickers reading "Mills for President" have appeared on cars in the nation's capital, although the man they promote, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says he will not be a candidate.

Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., said the stickers originated in his home state and said he believes Mills should be considered a candidate. Mills has said he would ask that his name be withdrawn if it is entered in the New Hampshire primary next March.

Tule Elk Plan By Cranston

Cranston also endorsed a plan by Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., to try to increase the size of the tule elk population from about 290 to 2,000.

"The Tule elk has waged a persistent and remarkable struggle for survival during the past century, having in 1855 been reduced to a minimum of 28 animals," Cranston told the Senate.

CENTRALIZED CONTROL

Cadet Nancy Thompson of the Corte Madera Police Department adjusts the department's new Unitrol device which centralizes control of a new patrol car's modern equipment. The $1,200 device controls a unit mounted on top of the vehicle and is the answer to what patrolmen say is the ideal cruise car. Featured on top are high intensity red lights, loud speaker system, variable-pitch siren and stationary "alley lights" which when turned on direct a strong beam of light down dark alleyways. Withdrawing From ABAG Is Supported

The Rohnert Park City Council voted last night to support the withdrawal of Sonoma County from the Association of Bay Area Governments when an alternative association of northern counties is formed.

In approving the resolution by a 4-1 vote, the council supported the withdrawal resolution that will be put to Sonoma County voters on April 20.

Mayor Vernon P. Smith cast the lone dissenting vote and submitted a written statement pointing out the many connections Sonoma County has with the Bay Area including joint work on air and water pollution.

Other councilmen said they believed that Sonoma County would have a stronger voice in a new association that would include less populous counties to the north.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

POOL RATES — Reluctantly approved increased pool rates in an attempt to reduce the annual deficit in operating costs. Family rates will be increased from $40 to $45 per year and general admission will increase by 10 cents except for children under five years, which will increase by five cents.

HOME CARE — Denied the use permit application of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hartley to care for six mentally retarded adults at their home at 7605 Bobbie Way. The council heard protests from the audience as well as receiving a petition signed by 70 persons in opposition and 10 letters.

RECEPTION — Agreed to join with the Rohnert Park chamber in holding a reception for Sonoma State College's new president Thomas H. McGrath. A date has not been set.

POLLUTION — Asked the city attorney to prepare an ordinance that would ban all outside burning in hopes of reducing air pollution.

MEETING — Set a meeting with the Petaluma Board of Education for April 22. A time and place has not been set.

WATER — Heard a report from City Engineer Milton Hudis that water pressure may be low at times during the summer months and that he doubts anything can be done to avoid it this year.

MOSQUITOS — Heard that complaints about mosquitos had been received and asked City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan to study joining the Marin Mosquito Abatement District.

ELECTION — Adjourned to today at 8 p.m. to elect a new mayor and vice mayor.

No Cause Found In Train Mishap

Mystery continued to surround the circumstances in which two Novato teenagers were critically injured yesterday when their car was struck by a freight train at a crossing in Novato.

Police remained unable today to shed any light on why their car was stopped on the tracks despite a flashing light and alarm bell and the bellowing horn of the approaching freight.

Paul A. Oatis III, 17, of 13 Sunnyhill Road, the driver, suffered severe head injuries and a crushed leg that had to be amputated two-thirds of the way up the thigh.

Debbie Pond, 17, of 1219 Ridgeview Heights, his passenger, suffered a brain concussion, a fractured jaw and internal kidney injuries.

Dr. Theodore D. Hiatt, who examined them, reported that Miss Pond "doesn't even know she was in an accident." Hiatt said neither she nor Oatis, "knows what happened or anything about it."

Miss Pond said her daughter and Oatis had been out with a few other couples "and were going out to get something to eat" when the accident occurred.

Train engineer Stanley Purdom of Sonoma told police he saw the Oatis car drive onto the main track and stop, and as he attempted to stop the train he saw the two teen-agers "lay their heads down in their hands."

The train knocked the car about 30 feet and the two occupants were thrown out into the area between the main and side tracks, near the Novato train station.

Preliminary Plans For School For Deaf Backed

Preliminary plans for a $295,000 school for deaf children — more than three years in the works — were approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

According to Byron W. Mauzy, assistant superintendent, the school could be operational by spring 1972 if planning proceeds on schedule.

To be located adjacent to the Adaline E. Kent School in Kentfield, the school will be designed for about 30 students. Since it is being built on Kentfield School District property, plans must also be approved by that school board as well as by the state, which will pay half the construction costs.

The school was initially proposed about three years ago but has been stalled because of differences between the state and county over plans and financing, Mauzy said.

The Marin County Board Of Education Also:

ENVIRONMENTAL — Tabled discussion on an environmental education study program for Marin which would eventually provide instructors and materials.

SALARY — Referred to the board's negotiating teams a salary proposal from teachers asking a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase and expansion of the salary schedule.

CENTER MEDICAL — Continued discussion to its May 3 meeting on a proposal to enter into a joint powers agreement with neighboring counties to hire an instructor for blind students who would receive training at Center Medical Hospital in Kentfield.

BUDGET — Discussed but took no action on its special education budget. The budget totals about $4 million, of which $1.3 million would be paid through county funds.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to April 19, when the board will consider its fiscal 1971-72 budget at 8 p.m. at the district office.

New Attack On Lights Atop Tam

The Air Force, which has been in residents' crossfire for a year over placement of security lights at its Mount Tamalpais radar station, is under attack again.

A Fairfax man waging a campaign to have the mercury vapor beacons doused says the lights are as annoying as ever, despite recent adjustments.

Robert E. Van Norman, whose home at 52 Crest Road overlooks the mountain, yesterday called adjustments, performed in late January, "a snow job" which accomplished nothing.

Col. Everett C. Brown, public information officer at Hamilton Air Force Base, said the military has "no money available to make any modifications. We feel we've gone as far as we can."

The Air Force last year spent about $3,000 to make five of the mercury vapor lights, which augment sentry patrols, less visible in Mill Valley. Van Norman said this work only made things worse on the other side of the mountain because the adjustment increased brightness on the Fairfax side.

In the latest work, Col. Brown said, a team was dispatched to adjust the lights' shielding and aim them away from Fairfax and San Anselmo.

Without any more money, Brown said, "This is all we can do." He said he has received no complaints about the lights since then.

Van Norman, an industrial engineer with experience in lighting, said sound planning could have avoided the problem in the first place. "No lighting engineer worth his salt would have allowed the light to go into the valley," he said.

If the Air Force continues to turn a deaf ear, he said he will seek relief through California's two senators.

Burglary Wave Hits Nine Stores

There was a rash of commercial burglaries in Novato last night covering nine stores at three shopping centers, Novato police reported today.

The losses were being compiled this morning as police reported the following list of stores that were burglarized:

Correct Sponsor

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that the camping program at Bothin Youth Center near Fairfax was sponsored by the Girl Scouts and the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council. The camp was sponsored solely by Girl Scout Troup 2130 of San Rafael, said Frances McGuire, troop leader.

1,300 Are Still In Their Cells

About half the inmates at San Quentin Prison remained in cells today under a security lockup in effect since Saturday when the latest outbreak of violence occurred.

Only a small number of men, between 100 and 200, were released for work detail in the hospital, laundry or food service, according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The entire prison was under tight security over the weekend because of two beatings at the Saturday afternoon movie. The west and north prison blocks were released Monday.

Park said today he had no idea when the 1,300 men in the east and south blocks would be released. During the month of March, the troublesome east and south blocks were the scene of 13 stabbings, two of them fatal, at the prison. At the time, officials said they believed the stabbings had been caused by racial problems in San Quentin.

Park said prisoners believed Saturday's violence resulted from racial tension but that officials could not prove it. There have been no arrests.

Lion's Share Wins In Review Of Permit

The threat of revocation of a use permit for the Lion's Share restaurant evaporated last night when the San Anselmo Planning Commission found that the restaurant did indeed have more enough parking spaces.

Lion's Share owner Michael Considine was granted the permit in 1969, conditioned on his providing 21 off-street parking spaces. Assist. City Engineer John T. O'Rourke raised the issue before last night's meeting because an ownership change of a neighboring gasoline service station apparently had deprived Considine of the use of at least five required spaces.

The commission learned that Considine had firm arrangements to provide at least 62 parking spaces nightly near his Miracle Mile establishment.

After asking Considine to post the parking areas with signs warning that the spaces are reserved, the commission decided to review the permit again in six months.

Commissioners also recommended that the city council approve planned development rezoning of Unit D of the Sunny Hills property for 70 apartments, with numerous conditions.

One of the conditions was a first for San Anselmo — that the developers contract with the Marin County Housing Authority to make at least 5 per cent of the units available for the authority's low-cost rental program.

Crash On Waldo Grade Ties Up 101 Traffic

Traffic backed up on the Waldo Grade yesterday when a southbound car driven by a San Rafael man spun out, hit the guardrail and overturned, spewing debris into the northbound lanes.

No one was injured in the 3:45 p.m. accident south of Rodeo Avenue, but traffic jams clogged both sides of the freeway for about 45 minutes. Southbound traffic backed up almost to Richardson Bay Bridge.

The California Highway Patrol said a car driven by John N. Lister, 19, of 106 San Marino Drive, San Rafael, changed lanes in front of a vehicle operated by Ramon L. Alferez, 38, of 570 San Jose Avenue, San Rafael.

Alferez swerved his auto, hit the center divider and overturned, officers said. Debris from his car hit northbound vehicles driven by Yok K. Liu, 43, of San Francisco, and Rosa R. Wittenberg, 44, of 329 Edgewood Avenue, Mill Valley.

Car Stolen In Service Area

A repaired 1966 Volkswagen was stolen from the service department of Leon C. Felton Volkswagen between Thursday and yesterday, according to San Rafael police.

Police said the two-door red sedan, license SPY-515, was parked at the service department, 60 Hoag Avenue, after it was repaired Thursday.

Owner of the vehicle is Jack Acetta of 7 Dusel Court,, Novato.

More Talks In Teacher Halt Slated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nine hours of negotiating on Monday failed to settle a teachers strike in San Francisco, despite a compromise proposal by Mayor Joseph L. Alioto.

Alioto, who called for more talks today, did not discuss details of his proposal but said it provided what he considered an "equitable settlement" of major issues.

The mayor identified the major areas of dispute as classroom size, teacher preparation periods, staff attrition, para-professional assistance and plans by Superintendent Thomas A. Shaheen for certain new programs.

As negotiations recessed, the mayor asked postponement by Shaheen of the superintendent's plan to make public his 1971-72 budget proposals. Shaheen took the request under study.

Teachers have asserted Shaheen, in an economic decision, plans to lessen advantages they have gained in earlier years.

Schools in the city are closed for Easter vacation and are scheduled to reopen April 12.

The 1,400-member American Federation of Teachers struck March 24 and was joined later by about 1,000 members of the Classroom Teachers Association. The CTA action all but ended classroom instruction.

Shakeup In Fourth Senatorial District?

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Drastic boundary changes in the Fourth Senatorial District, which includes Marin, Napa and Solano counties, appeared certain today in light of new figures released by the Senate Committee on Elections and Reapportionment.

The district's 1970 population, upon which reapportionment of districts for the next decade are being drawn for next year's elections, was 447,339, or under the ideal of 498,828 by 51,489, or by 10.32 per cent.

And rumors that Marin will land in a San Francisco district were strengthened by committee figures showing San Francisco's two senatorial districts needed 281,982 more population to meet the ideal.

Some deviation from the ideal size district has been allowed by courts under the one-man, one-vote edict, but the courts continually have narrowed the allowable deviation to almost nil.

The Fourth District is represented by Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. He was elected last November, but may have to run again next year to retain his seat if his Tiburon residence lands in another district — such as a district extended north from San Francisco.

San Francisco's two at-large districts were found to be the most under-populated in the state.

Recycling Service Backed

Directors of the Alto Sanitary District agreed last night to allow a Sausalito recycling firm to offer its services to district residents for a six-month trial period, director Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported.

He said Whole Systems Recycling Co. will dispose of residents' recyclable items, including bottles, newspapers and cans, for $1.50 a month. The items will be picked up by the Mill Valley Refuse Service, which collects garbage for the district, then turned over to the recycling firm, located at the Richardson Bay Heliport.

The optional service will begin later this month. Persons wishing to dispose of their reusable trash will be asked to place it in separate containers alongside their garbage, he said.

Drydocks Removal To County

Huge drydocks mired in Richardson Bay off Sausalito will have to be removed by the county because the Department of the Army refuses to take responsibility, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney reported today.

The county has been trying to get the Army to move the drydocks on grounds that they are a hazard to navigation.

Maloney told the Marin County Board of Supervisors this morning that the Army notified him that it has no responsibility. "The only remedy left to the county is to sue the Army," said Maloney. But he advised the supervisors that such a suit would take four or five years "so I don't think much will be gained by pursuing the Army."

Supervisors decided they may have to resort to a proposal advanced last December by a specialist, who said he could burn the docks at a cost of about $40,000. Conventional demolition would cost more than $75,000.

Questions Show Whether Candidates Do Homework

Now that school board campaigns are getting into full stride, some patterns begin to appear.

Incumbents seeking re-election start the campaign with considerable advantage. Even if they have not done much homework while on the board, they are able to speak with some familiarity of the complexities of school finance, organization, law, and personnel affairs.

The seekers, on the other hand, usually start with very vague ideas of such matters. Some may have gained some insight into school finance from serving on bond and tax committees. Some may have picked up a little educational jargon from being on citizen "goals committees." But beyond these, it is a rare aspirant for a first term on a school board who has more than a very foggy notion of the job for which he has filed.

BY THE TIME the campaign gets into its final weeks, however, those who are genuinely interested in doing the hard job of a school board member have done some homework. Now the pattern begins to emerge. These candidates begin to speak more specifically. Differences begin to show between those who are willing to do the digging necessary to become effective board members and those who are merely job-seekers or starry-eyed dreamers with simplistic notions of how the complicated educational system is operated.

Not to single out any candidate as "good" or "bad", but merely as an example, let's cite a few things at a San Rafael Board of Education candidates' night last week:

ONLY ONE CANDIDATE — Dr. Charles B. Peek, a first-term aspirant — even showed awareness of a state Department of Education-backed bill which would completely revamp California school financing. He admitted he didn't yet understand it.

Only incumbent Herman L. Childress and aspirants Donald R. Wellington, Marilyn E. Bolinger and Richard E. West showed some familiarity with AB 293 by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, which would remove the superior court hearing from teacher dismissal proceedings and make other significant changes in the tenure law. But all nine agreed that teacher tenure needs some revision.

All had their ideas about the sixth-seventh-eighth grade "middle school" concept, but only Childress and Wellington recognized the financial implications of converting Davidson School to such a form.

WE COULD GO ON. When specific issues were raised, it became evident which candidates had been doing their homework.

The same thing happens at any candidates' forum where such questions come up — as they generally do.

In many school districts, there are large numbers of voters who are dissatisfied with school operations in one way or another. They are inclined to gravitate to those candidates who voice a philosophy that agrees with their own.

But if some of those candidates are not willing to do their homework as candidates, can they be expected to do it as office-holders? And if they don't, can they be effective in bringing their philosophy to bear?

The answers appear obvious.

Aquarius Gunga Din

Occasionally, especially on warm spring days when there is a hint of flower fragrance in the air, the mind wanders down strange paths, following whim and fancy.

For example, we got to musing about the age of Aquarius. Astrology has never intrigued us, but we think we know that Aquarius is the zodiacal sign of the water-carrier. Perhaps the gulf between the generations could be narrowed a bit by pointing out that the older generation had its Aquarius, too. That defender of British imperialism, Rudyard Kipling, immortalized him in his poem, "Gunga Din." He was very big when today's middle-aged were kids. Whenever someone would perform a surprising feat, a witness would be bound to say, "You're a better man than I am, Gunga Din."

The kids might be fascinated to know that we were moved by a poem about a lowly, dusty, dusky water-bearer, who had only a piece of twisty rag and a goat-skin water bag — and lots of heart.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Jobless Benefits Become Ploy For Labor Law Lobbyists

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The annual battle to extend unemployment insurance to presently exempt categories California workers has been renewed in the state legislature, this year by Assemblyman Henry A. Waxman, D-Los Angeles.

The battle has been going on for 32 years, which is ever since the state started paying unemployment insurance benefits during the closing months of the great depression.

The new dealers apparently thought that farm workers, domestic workers, public employees and employees of non-profit organizations wouldn't be susceptible to sudden enemployment, as they neglected to include these groups in the "covered" groups, meaning they were not eligible to draw benefits when out of jobs.

EVER SINCE, labor legislators and labor lobbyists have been attempting, sometimes only in a half-hearted manner, to include the excluded groups in the benefits.

And during the more than three decades, the issue has been used for more wheeling and dealing among legislators, and lobbyists both for labor and industry, than any other item.

Generally, labor has sponsored the inclusion bills and used them for dealing with the lobbyists for industry to gain concessions on a different front.

Few of these groups are dues-paying members of the big labor organizations. Domestic workers are not organized, and farm workers are just starting to be organized.

SO WHY NOT, then, use the issue to promote bigger and better benefits for those industrial workers who are covered, and who do get insurance when they become unemployed?

These and many more items contribute to the fact that in 32 years of effort, no legislation has been enacted that would include farm workers, domestic workers, public employees, and employees of non-profit organization in unemployment insurance.

The result is not expected to change this year.

Resident Defends Petaluma Homes

As a homeowner in Avondale No. 4 subdivision of Young America Homes I find it necessary to write with reference to articles in the Independent-Journal the past week.

It should be made clear that the persons who have been picketing at the sales offices here are not representative of all homeowners here. Also they do not represent all persons who are not completely satisfied with the operation of their dishwashers.

Young America Homes have continued to work to resolve the dishwasher problem with homeowners and should not be expected to have it resolved without much investigation into the problems.

Some persons seem to feel that the only solution is replacement. There are many factors to be considered in unsatisfactory performance of a dishwasher.

Hunter College President Lauded

On behalf of the several hundred Hunter College alumni residing in Northern California, I wish to thank the Independent-Journal for the recent article concerning Jacqueline Wexler ("College President Reacts," March 23). Hunter College alumni are justly proud of a president who has brought a humanizing and openly personal approach to her role as head of a college situated in a city smothering under multi-faceted problems. In the short time that Mrs. Wexler has been president she has sought to bridge the gap between faculty and students and between the office of a president and alumni. She has attempted to listen, to understand, to communicate, and most important, to develop a plan of action. Her background has enriched her life in an immeasurable way, enabling her to deal positively with student confrontations and rioting.

How successful Mrs. Wexler is in the future only time will tell. Perhaps it would be worthwhile to reflect on these words (of hers): "...If we can talk or even shout across the gap (between youth and us), the process of orderly change will be served. It's when we start shouting into the crowd that we have failed."

Open Areas Needed For Motorcycles

Just recently I read an article in your column submitted by Ronald Davies entitled, "Different View on Motorcycles," and . . . I must side with Mr. Davies.

For Christmas I received a Honda 70. Now down the street from me is an appropriate place to ride motorcycles and many kids and adults besides me use it. For the last three weeks nobody has been up there because about March 5, the Novato Police Department started making up ID cards on people picked up there because the homeowners below the hill complained of too much noise, forcing the landowner to close the hill for riding . . . Now I don't have any place to ride. . .

So I agree with Mr. Davies, why can't spare acreage in Marin be used for riding, with strict rules of course. Besides motorcycling is fun and it keeps kids off the streets and from breaking windows and going to pot parties. My father and I agree on this and I know many other people do.

Accidents Down In Marin County

Your excellent editorial of March 27 concerning traffic safety was, naturally, of great interest to us of the California Highway Patrol, and hopefully, to all of your readers.

The report highlighted many pertinent items dealing with various phases of accident causes; however, the last paragraph of your editorial summed it all up very concisely and personally. To a great extent, an individual's safety on the highway depends upon the individual himself.

In order to assist and protect the individual from the "other" driver, we have a hard-hitting enforcement program aimed at the primary accident causing violations. We know this to be an effective weapon. For example, in Marin County during the past two years we have increased drunk driving arrests from 471 in 1968 to 1,327 in 1970. During the same period reportable accidents have been reduced each year. Further, 131 fewer persons were killed or injured last year than in 1968. This is in the face of a 13 per cent increase in traffic. To us this is a very real and tangible aspect of traffic safety.

The year 1971 promises to be even safer for Marin's motorists. As of this date, accidents are down 15 per cent from 1970. Coincidentally, drunk driver arrests are up nearly 27 per cent over last year.

Your statement, "accident statistics will continue to climb," has not been true in Marin County for the past two years. We have reversed the trend. Hopefully, it will continue downward.

Satellite's Music Turns Into Chirps

Red China's once-musical satellite launched on March 3 has now turned into a space "cricket."

The first set of batteries was showing signs of weakness on the morning of March 16. On the morning of March 18, entirely different sounding musical notes lasting for about five seconds were heard when the second set of batteries was put into use. This continued for about a week, until the morning of March 23 when a few musical notes were being skipped over. On the next morning there was silence except for a few "beeps" now and then. A weak carrier signal could still be detected on my short wave receiver on each pass over the U.S. when turned to 20.02 megahertz.

This continued for three more days until Saturday morning, March 27, when at the predetermined time I tuned in to the 15-meter band and heard a peculiar sound on a slightly lower krequency of 19.98 megahertz. This was the second of two transmitters, and I finally found it after 11 days of searching for it. (It had been announced by the Pentagon on the morning of March 16 that the satellite was transmitting on two different unmentioned frequencies.)

The sound of a madly chirping cricket can best describe what is now being heard each time the satellite passes over the U.S. during the early morning hours between 2 and 7 a.m. PST.

I will continue to listen to this "creature" each morning. It now remains to be seen how long the source of power will last.

Nixon Finds Moves Stymied By Wide Credibility Gap

SAN CLEMENTE— In the decade that began so promisingly with the inauguration of a young, bouyant president, and that saw such a long succession of horrors, one of the chief casualties has been an almost-total erosion of confidence and trust. This is the balnk wall which President Nixon's principal advisers confront as they put together the facts and figures — the raw material — that will go into the President's speech tomorrow.

Rarely has there been such a thorough, exacting analysis as went into the appraisal of the Laos operation. Under the direction of that demanding taskmaster, Henry A. Kissinger, the President's adviser on national security affairs, hundreds of hours went into winnowing every scrap of information.

A TEAM WAS SENT to Vietnam for a private inquiry independent of the American military related to the operation. Each intelligence agency was called on for a separate judgment. Then the intelligence chiefs were assembled collectively to confront their respective differences. During a good bit of the past week at the western White House, Kissinger pored our six fat volumes containing estimates, figures, projections related to Laos.

Out of all this has come the following conclusion: The objectives of the Laos operation were 75 to 80 per cent achieved. It means that for 1971 and into 1972 the Communists will be held to the level of warfare of the past year; that is, to the tactics of hit-and-run terror. They will be unable to mount a battalion attack. Both in losses in battlehardened manpower and in disruption of the supply trails, they simply will not have the capacity in the foreseeable future to wage anything like conventional warfare.

If this is true, why should the President not announce a fixed date for the withdrawal of all American forces? This question inevitably arises in discussion of the Indochina balance sheet. Since the situation is so well in hand — 'The War in Vietnam is all but at an end' — there would seem to be no possible harm resulting from announcement of a terminal date. It should take the heat off the rapidly escalating pressures both in Congress and the country to set, as in the resolution adopted by the Democractic caucus of the House, a time certain.

THE ANSWER of the President's closest advisers is that this would shut the door on any possibility of negotiation at Paris. That door, as seen from White House perspective, is still open a crack. Moreover, since the Communists have failed to respond to any of the overtures, such as the promise of phased withdrawal in the Nixon speech of last October, there is no reason to believe advance notice of departure would produce results.

Yet, so the reasoning goes, if they come face to face with the hard facts of their post Cambodia-Laotian dilemma, they may decided to move to the conference table. They surely know that with a peace settlement, or even serious overtures in that direction from hanoi, the homeward bound movement would be irresistible.

But how to convince the public that Laos was a success — a qualified success but nevertheless a success — and that with a little more patience Vietnamization will be carried to a conclusion? The President's advisers have no illusions about the wall of skepticism, doubt, fear, hostility in the path.

RICHARD NIXON, who has reduced the number of ground troops in Vietnam by nearly half, is not credible, whereas Lyndon Johnson, when he was expanding the force to a total of 549,000, seems to have had, if not acceptance, at least a tolerance that was in part ignorance. This is what the Nixon men find so baffling and frustrating.

Stopping short of the luxury of despair, they know the country is being torn apart not only by the war but by all the dire events of the decade of the 60's. Three assassinations, the burning of the cities, the rioting and disorders—This is the heritage of an administration that pleads for belief and yet by both word and act falls short of the rising tide of expectations.

The spring will see more demonstrations, angrier voices raised. The more sensitive and aware men around the President know that this arises only in the smallest degree from ideologies bent on tearing the system down. It comes mainly from men and women, and above all the young, who can endure no more war, no more killing, no more mass bombing. They are as remote from the President's words as though they lived on another planet, as in a sense they do.

Russian Consumer Gets Skeptical Of Promises

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The Russian consumer has had so many promises of better days ahead that a certain amount of skepticism is to be expected concerning current promises by party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and others at the 24th Communist Party Congress.

Such was the case in an interview published by the weekly newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta, put out by the writers union, just after publication of the 1971-75 five-year plan, which takes a sharp turn in favor of the consumer.

Subject of the interview was Nikolai N. Mirotvortsev, deputy chairman of the state planning committee.

"HOW CLOSE are we to satisfying demand?", asked the interviewer.

The reply was that the government expected to satisfy the demand for television sets, washing machines, radios, refrigerators, tape recorders, vacuum cleaners and other normally hard-to-get items.

Further questioning disclosed that automobiles will continue to be hard to get even though Mirotvortsev predicted an offering of 800,000 cars on the market in 1975 as opposed to 124,000 in 1970.

An oddity of the Russian economy has been that while such luxury items as fur coats or television sets may be hard to get, such essentials as tableware and dishes frequently are impossible.

These are among the items promised in the reformation.

INDIRECTLY, BREZHNEV himself indicated some difficulties ahead.

These might come from officials will to "co-exist peacefully" with shortages or shoddy goods as in the past. Such thinking no longer will be acceptable, Brezhnev warned, and management either will deliver or get out.

As he painted a picture of the Russian consumer's future, Brezhnev also felt called upon to explain the fact that 7 per cent of government spending still will go to heavy industry.

Some, he said, was needed to build machinery for manufacture of consumer goods.

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS have been promised salary increases bringing their monthly income up to about $135. But many already are complaining that increases are no help when there is nothing to buy. The combination is a direct threat to the new five-year plan which depends heavily upon an increase in worker productivity.

As in the capitalistic world, inflationary pressures are increasing. The Russian worker may pay less for his razor blades but more for his rent as the government seeks to make both ends meet.

Is Sonoma Part Of Bay Area? Voters To Decide April 20

Sonoma County — with its suburban Petaluma commuters in the south and solid agricultural land to the north — is like an animal moving in two directions.

When voters go to the polls April 20, they will decide whether the county is actually part of the San Francisco Bay Area or belongs with its northern cousins and away from the city slickers.

The point in question is the continued membership of Sonoma County in the Association of Bay Area Governments. While there has been little discussion or apparent interest from residents, the balloting may show that Sonoma County is split on the issue.

PETALUMANS NO DOUBT have the closest ties with the Bay Area, since many of them have moved from large cities and still commute daily to their jobs there. Rapid transit plans and discussions by the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District are followed carefully in Petaluma, while the prune rancher in Healdsburg couldn't care less.

Santa Rosa, with an area population of nearly 60,000, is classed as a metropolitan area on its own, but still feels close ties with the Bay Area and hopes to become part of the bridge district's long-range transit plans. The city has also used ABAG as a means of getting large amounts of federal aid.

The county supervisors would not immediately withdraw from ABAG without first establishing a new association that could also process applications for federal and state grants. Supervisor Robert Theiller of Sebastopol, a longtime ABAG foe, has been joined by fellow board member Henry Spomer of Healdsburg in traveling to Mendocino, Del Norte, Napa and Lake Counties drumming up support. Marin County is also on the list to be contacted, but support there is not considered likely.

CRITICS FORESEE the now voluntary ABAG turning into a complete regional government with full taxing powers. With the one-man, one-vote concept, Theiller complains that Sonoma County would end up with only one vote out of 22 and a half.

Although Theiller complains that Sonoma County may not get its fair share of representation, it must be remembered that Sonoma Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella is now president of the association.

Naturally, Vella is a strong ABAG supporter, but he has always said that if another association can be formed that would bring better benefits for Sonoma County, he would vote for withdrawal.

Theiller and his fellow critics have not yet shown that an alternative to ABAG is possible.

Write Your Own Story Of Laos; You Just Fill In The Blanks

WASHINGTON — Everyone seems to have his own opinion as to how successful the Laos operation was. The administration has indicated that it's quite pleased with the incursions and that everything went according to plan. Press reports are less optimistic and some reporters went so far as to describe it as a "rout."

Once again the poor American public doesn't know whom to believe. To make it easier I have decided to let everybody write his own news story and "tell it as it is" according to his own feelings on the war. Just fill in the blanks.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Pentagon spokesmen have announced that the recent incursion into Laos by the South Vietnamese was the greatest . . . . of the Indochinese war. While expressing disappointment that the ARVN did not remain in Laos until . . . . . , the consensus was that the incursion had proved that the ARVN could . . . . . when put to the test.

Pointing out that the operation had gained . . . (A) months, (B) weeks, (C) days, for the South Vietnamese, officials said that the operation would permit President Nixon to step up his withdrawal plans to . . . . . troops a month.

The spokesmen said that not only had the ARVN . . . . . in their objective of taking the key town of . . . . . as well as cutting off route . . . . . ,but they had destroyed . . . . . boxes of ammunition, ... bags of rice, ... chickens, ... feet of oil pipe, and . . . . . tea bags.

They also killed . . . . . crack North Vietnamese soldiers. This now brings the total body count of North Vietnamese soldiers killed in action up to . . . . . million.

THE OPERATION'S . . . . could be attributed to . . . . . planning, ... intelligence and . . . . . ARVN officers who had fought without American advisers.

Asked about American air losses, the Pentagon spokesman said that the United States had lost . . . . . helicopters at a cost of $. . . . . million, ... fighter planes at a cost of $. . . . . million, and . . . . . bombers at approximately the same cost.

But he said it was worth it because the American planes had dropped . . . . . tons of bombs on Laos, which was more tonnage than was dropped by the allies during all of World War . . . . . .

The Defense Department official said, "We will continue our . . . . . air strikes along the Ho Chi Minh Trail."

ASKED HOW MANY Laotians had been killed or wounded by the incursion, the spokesman denied any more than . . . . . thousand had been involved. He also said that critics of the incursion had exaggerated the number of refugees. "To our knowledge there are no more than . . . . thousand Laotians in refugee camps," he said.

"The important thing to keep in mind," he continued is that the . . . . . season is coming up, and this will make it much . . . . . for Hanoi to . . . . . ."

General . . . . . and Ambassador . . . . . in Saigon have reported to President Nixon that they are . . . . . with the results, the spokesman said. President Nixon told them he was very . . . . . also.

Asked why his briefing did not necessarily jell with those press stories coming out of Saigon, the Defense Department official replied, "In regard to press coverage of the war, I would like to refer you to Vice President Agnew's recent fund raising speech in . . . . . when he said the press and television media were . . . . . and so on and so forth."

Hearing Set For Novato Man On Burglary Counts

Ronald F. Watkins, 26, of Novato, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on charges he burglarized Major Cleaners in San Rafael Jan. 20 and Feb. 15.

He is to plead to the charges tomorrow.

Watkins earlier had pleaded guilty to the Feb. 15 burglary and the January burglary charge was dismissed.

But when it appeared that Judge Samuel W. Gardiner was going to sentence him to state prison, he asked and was allowed to withdraw his guilty plea.

Both charges were then refiled against him.

Electric Car Seen By 1975

ESSEN, Germany (UPI)— West Germany's largest power company has promised to produce a prototype electric car by 1975, and provide a network of service stations to provide fresh batteries.

The Rheinisch Westfaelische Elektrizitaetswerke (RWE) Monday announced the formation of two subsidiaries to handle the development of electrically-powered vehicles and a supporting network of service stations respectively.

Initially, the first subsidiary will develop prototype buses and city delivery trucks, but it intends to produce a prototype passenger car by 1975, a spokesman said.

Question On Flag Saluting Disrupts Round In Lagunitas

The candidates night turned into a shouting match at one point and it was several minutes before the moderator could restore calm to the meeting.

The outburst came when William McNew of Woodacre asked candidate Richard C. Sloan, 35,a carpenter from Lagunitas, how he felt about saluting the flag.

More than half the crowd of approximately 100 people got on their feet, shouting at McNew and at each other, and some long haired young men shook their fists.

After calm was restored, Sloan answered that nationalism in the world is a tremendous problem and flag waving has gotten more nations into more trouble than anything else.

McNew then asked Sloan what flag he waved.

Sloan did not answer.

Before and after that outburst the four candidates in the April 20 election for two four-year seats on the board were able to give their views uninterrupted.

In addition to Sloan the candidates are incumbent Glen E Twitchell, 40, of 50 Mountain View Avenue, Lagunitas; Wilma M. McVey, 44, a housewife and former nurse of 50 Forest Drive, Forest Knolls, and Ted Van Midde, 42, plant manager of 107 Madrone Avenue, Woodacre.

It was apparent from the applause on questions that the crowd was about evenly divided between two camps, those favoring Twitchell and McVey and those favoring Sloan and Midde. The crowd did not show any favoritism but applauded each candidate after he spoke before and after the questions.

The candidates all were against unification, with Twitchell calling for a moratorium on compulsory unification elections with the Tamalpais High School District.

Twitchell said he believed in making changes in the schools, but doing it gradually.

"I am not ready to embrace the 'do your own thing' program," he said.

Sloan advocated entire community involvement in the school classrooms. He said if a child thought he could learn better under a tree with an adult for supervision, he should do it.

"The country should find ways to stop war and spend the money on education. Something is wrong with a nation that spends 80 per cent on war and 1 per cent of its income on education," Sloan said.

Van Midde said it was time that the adults listened to the young people "tell it like it is". He advocated a summer recreation program and constructive field trips. He said he wanted better relations between San Geronimo and Lagunitas schools.

Mrs. McVey said she believed in giving the children a good foundation in reading, mathematics, language and history. Then if the district could afford it, she would like to see music and art programs added to the curriculum.

She said that she did not approve strict classroom teaching, but felt that a child should be free to enter into discussion with adults or other children. She said she favored new programs when the district could afford them.

When questioned, Sloan said he would put youngsters of all ages in one classroom. Parents who favored this system could have it and those who favored the grade system could have that. Both systems could be worked in the school, he said.

The candidates were asked their opinion on legalizing of marijuana and the drug abuse education program.

Twitchell said he was against legalizing marijuana and favored the drug abuse program.

Mrs. McVey also supported the drug education program, but said she would have to study more before deciding on legalizing marijuana.

Van Midde was against the legalization of marijuana and compared the drug education program to putting a warning on a package of cigarettes and then subsidizing the tobacco growers.

Sloan said that legislatior against marijuana is not going to help in our drug oriented society. He considered the drug abuse program ineffective.

All candidates agreed that students could be helpful if they were given part in the discussions at board meetings, but did not have a vote.

Former trustee Winifred Frederick asked about proposals of state aid in helping relieve property taxes. All candidates agreed that taxes were too high and they would have to wait to see what the state legislature did to aid school districts.

The San Geronimo Valley Association sponsored the candidates night. The parent teacher association furnished the refreshments. Richard D. Poppe, association president, was moderator.

Half Moon Bay Hit On Waste Discharges

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An order prohibiting Half Moon Bay from connecting additional waste discharges to its sewer system has been affirmed by the state Water Resources Control Board.

The state agency rejected a protest by the city in acting Monday to uphold an order by the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board which prohibits new sewer connections.

The regional board ruled— and the state agency concurred —that Half Moon Bay had violated a long list of waste discharge requirements for at least a full year ending last Janury.

Included were violation of requirements for disinfection, "settleable" solids and the discovery at least twice on an ocean beach of "solids of sewage origin."

The city, represented by special attorney Saul M. Weingarten, asked the state board to review and overturn the cease and desist order of the regional board.

If the cease and desist order is ignored, the state can bring a lawsuit against the city which could result in a fine of $6,000 upon conviction.

Weingarten charged that the city was prohibited at hearings from fully presenting its side of the case. He insisted the order was "punitive."

"There really had been no hearing at all," Weingarten told the state agency. "We've had no opportunity to controvert these particular matters. If you're going to make your conclusion based solely on one side, there's no reason to have a hearing at all."

E. F. Dibble, a board member, said the Half Moon Bay case was "an example of where a city has not done anything about enlarging its (treatment) plant in 12 years."

Four Teens Injured In Auto Crash

Four Marin teen-agers were injured, two seriously, in a one-car accident on White's Hill in Fairfax last night when the car they were riding in struck a power pole.

According to Fairfax police, Aurora Morin, 16, of 10 Brentwood Drive, San Rafael, was driving the vehicle, a 1964 Plymouth, at 11:30 p.m. when the brakes failed.

She is reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a concussion, cuts and bruises.

Miss Morin was taken to the hospital by United Ambulance along with Steve Robert, 16, of 300 Sunnyhill, San Anselmo. His condition was reported as fair today by hospital officials. Robert was admitted with a fractured right leg.

Two other passengers received outpatient treatment at the hospital where they were taken by their families. They were Debbie Gee, 16, of 305 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael, treated for facial cuts, and Diance Tannenbaum, 15, of 125 Ross Street, San Rafael, treated for a fractured nose.

Woman Found Dead At Home

Nora DuBose, 54, was discovered by firemen who were alerted when a neighbor reported smoke in the rear of the DuBose apartment.

Police said they found a can of paint thinner and several burnt matches next to the woman's body.

Instructor Suspended In Incident

A Sonoma State College anthropology instructor has been suspended because of a class demonstration of "cultural shock", during which he and seven students partially disrobed.

In the class on cultural change last Wednesday, it was reported that five men and two women partially disrobed, applied paint to their buttocks and then made designs on butcher paper. Cameras filmed the episode including the reactions of students who did not participate.

Under state college procedures, Allison is entitled to a hearing within 30 days if he wishes.

Vandals Smash Two Store Windows

A witness in a neighboring store said three boys pushed a shopping cart through the windows. Damage was set at $700.

Dorm Life Upheld By Highest Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court ruled Monday that there is nothing unconstitutional about state colleges requiring all unmarried undergraduates to live in dormitories.

In a brief order the court affirmed a 2-1 decision to this effect by a special three-judge federal court in Monroe, La., on Sept. 21, 1970. The case was brought to the high court by three students at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston.

Each state educational institution made its own decision as to whether to abide by the practice, based on resolutions of the state board of education.

The students argued the restriction was unreasonable and violated their basic right to live as they see fit.

But the lower court said Louisiana has state-owned facilities where there are no dormitory accommodations and a student who doesn't want to live at college can select one of those.

The policy at Louisiana Tech was announced in a letter of the dean of students on May 23, 1969. Before that, only unmarried freshmen under 21 and all unmarried women under 21 had been required to live at the school.

Romney Sees Inflation As Major Housing Woe

OAKLAND (UPI)—Inflation curbs housing production more than any other single factor in the economy, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney said today.

The secretary said that when the present administration took office in 1969 there were 188,000 low-cost housing units under way across the nation. "Last year that figure was 550,000, and the next fiscal year has money for 695,000 units already budgeted," Romney said.

He said that money spent on housing projects was $205 million in 1960 and will be $2 billion in 1971.

But he said the cost of land has risen 500 per cent since 1950 and the cost of housing itself is up 250 per cent for the same period.

Praise To Leaders Of Mormonism

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Representatives of Mormon congregations from around the world today heard testimonies in support of the presiding authorities and church teachings.

By the raised right hand, some 8,000 members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints reaffirmed support for their 94-year-old prophet, President Joseph Fielding Smith, and his two counselors.

"Thank God for the presidency," said Elder Boyd K. Packer, lead-off speaker on the final day of the annual world conference.

"They need our sustaining vote," he said in remarks prepared for those assembled in the silver-domed tabernacle. "It is sometimes lonely in those lofty callings of leadership—for their calling is not to please man, but to please the Lord."

Elder Packer was first installed as a member of the Council of the Twelve a year ago, and told the conference of his call to the office. All general officers of the church are sustained by the conference each year on April 6, anniversary of Mormonism's formal beginning.

The conference which concludes today began with twice-daily meetings Saturday and continued Sunday. President Smith was keynote speaker at the opening session on Temple Square and will present a final message with which to close the meeting.

Elder Packer told the capacity congregation in the tabernacle, and others observing the proceedings by radio and television, that a witness to the truthfulness of Mormonism's message can come to all who will seek for it through prayer and fasting.

"There is a process by which pure intelligence can flow," he said, "By which we can come to know of a surety, nothing doubting."

The steady growth of membership worldwide was reported to the 141st annual gathering in a brief report preceding the sustaining of full-time general officers.

Membership reached 2,807,456 last Dec. 31, and projected growth patterns led church officials to suggest that it has probably now passed the three-million mark.

The church also reported the organization of five new missions, bringing the total to 93.

Elder Alvin R. Dyer, assistant to the Twelve, remined today's congregation that Joseph Smith had organized the church 141 years ago to prepare a righteous people for the second coming of Christ.

Wars, famine, pestilence, earthquakes, and the preaching of the gospel to the gentiles will procede that long-awaited event," he said.

Elder Dyer said no man would know in advance of the precise day and hour. "There are signs, however, which indicate the nearness of this great event," he added.

Anne Smith Salary Report Held In Error

Anne Smith, who resigned as secretary in the Marin Human Rights Department to take another job at Broadway Hospital in Vallejo, said her new salary is not $675 as reported last week.

She said the figure is in error, and her starting pay is much lower. How much lower she did not say.

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Donald W. Kathriner, 21, of Petaluma, pleaded innocent to a charge of possession of marijuana yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon said a trial date would be set on April 19 at 1:30 p.m. Kathriner was arrested March 28 when Petaluma police said they found two marijuana cigarettes in his possession.

Second Big Air Crash Suit Filed

A $2.5 million damage suit was filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court on behalf of the widow and three children of an Air Force colonel killed last year in the crash of a plane shortly after take-off from Hamilton Air Force Base.

It was the second large suit to be filed within a week in connection with the crash in which 13 men died.

The suit filed yesterday by San Rafael attorney Frederick T. Graham charges General Dynamics Corp. of Delaware, manufacturer of the plane, with negligence and asks damages for the survivors of Col. Eldridge G. Shelton Jr.

Shelton died May 4, 1970, when the T-29 transport plane crashed near Lakeville, Sonoma County, minutes after leaving Hamilton. One passenger on the plane, Capt. George A. Burk, escaped death but is still hospitalized for burns.

An Air Force investigation of the crash blamed the accident on a weak casting in the cockpit's windshield and rivet holes in a metal frame. The window collapsed and the canopy blew off.

A suit filed last week in San Francisco Superior Court asks $1 million damages for the survivors of Air Force Sgt. Enrique Ferrer, who also died in the crash.

'Cover-Up' Colonel Asks Dismissal

FT. MEADE, MD. (UPI) — Defense counsel for Col. Oran K. Henderson said today court-martial proceedings against him should be dismissed because he was not advised he was a suspect in an alleged My Lai cover-up until 10 months after he was first questioned.

Henderson is facing trial on charges of dereliction of duty for allegedly covering up the My Lai slayings and of making two false statements to a high-level Pentagon panel which interviewed him on Dec. 2, 1969.

Henderson is the highest ranking officer still facing charges and possible trial growing out of the My Lai killings. He was commander of the Americal Division's 11th Brigade, of which Lt. William L. Calley Jr.'s platoon —which raided My Lai —was a part.

Lt. Col. Frank J. Dorsey, chief military counsel for Henderson argued that Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, head of Pentagon's investigating panel, never advised the colonel at the time he was interviewed that he was under suspicion.

Dorsey said it was not until October, 1970, that Peers said Henderson was a "prime suspect."

Henry B. Rothblatt, chief civilian counsel for Henderson, said the delay was like "the fruit of a poisonous tree."

Rothblatt said if the government erred on that point, the entire evidence against Henderson is tainted.

"We are going to test them on every move on that fact," he commented.

"This isn't supposed to be a game where you play the cards close to the chest and don't show the other side what you have."

Dorsey also said in court just before a midday recess that he had been getting a runa round from the government in his attempts to obtain information pertinent to the trial.

"I've been on so many merry-go-round trips I am beginning to get a leper syndrome," Dordey said on the second day of the pre-trial hearing expected to last possibly two months at this army base halfway between Washington and Baltimore.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Eight Cancer Victims In 1 Block But No Proof It Is Contagious

R. N. writes: "Eight people on our block had cancer. Do you think one of them spread the cancer germ?" No. The cause of cancer is not known, and there is no scientific evidence that it is contagious. Physicians are exposed almost daily to patients with cancer, yet the incidence of the disease among the medical profession is no higher than among the general population. We say this despite the fact that some malignant diseases are triggered by viruses.

SEVERAL YEARS ago an epidemic of acute leukemia developed in Niles, Ill. Eight cases occurred within a short period of time and all were from one residential area. This could be interpreted as evidence that some forms of cancer might be passed from one person to another. Another example of possible viral transmission is carcinoma of the cervix. Studies have shown that cancer might be preceded by a herpes vaginal infection or trichomoniasis. In such instances, the individual develops the herpes initially.

In searching for causes of cancer it is important to differentiate between contagiousness and environmental factors. People in a certain community may be exposed to the same air or water pollutants, soil, or climate recognized as possible instigators of tumor growths.

IN NORTHERN IRAN on the shores of the Caspian Sea, three districts differ greatly in climate, geology and life style. One is a desert-like region and its inhabitants have 10 times as much cancer of the esophagus (gullet) as those living in the well-watered, wooded region. Between these two areas lies a community where there is less rain than the latter. Cotton is grown and fishing and tourism abound. The incidence of esophageal cancer is double that seen in the lush area, but only one-third that of the desert region. Saline content of the soil and the low rainfall are blamed.

Personal habits in certain areas also play a role. Betel nut chewing, for example, is a known cause of oral cancer. From 1941 to 1960 Tata Memorial Hospital (India) admitted 48,000 cancer patients. Of these, 48.7 per cent had malignancies of the mouth and throat.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

HIGH RISK

A reader writes: A man of 41 has smoked 2 packs of cigarettes a day since he was 16. How long do you think he'll live?

REPLY

I'm not God nor do I have a crystal ball. The answer depends upon his ancestry, health habits and whether he develops a heart attack or lung cancer. Now and then an octogenarian brags that most of his life, he has smoked like a chimney and drank like a fish. He is an exception.

CIGARETTES HARD ON BRONCHI

S. I. writes: Doesn't smoking make chronic bronchitis worse? Our son is not convinced that cigarettes are hard on the bronchial tubes.

REPLY

Neither is mine and neither was I at his age. That's life, I guess. Hopefully both our sons will stop before irreversible changes occur in the lungs.

BABY'S HEAD AT BIRTH

R. C. writes: Does the doctor shape the baby's head at birth?

REPLY

No. The normal shape comes naturally.

Modern Age Calls To Tiny Kingdom

By PETER HESS
Toronto Telegram News Service

The tiny Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan, situated between India and China and still largely cut off from the outside world, has instituted important modernization measures in recent years.

Constitutional reforms promoted by the king himself are to transform the absolutist government into a constitutional monarchy. Foreign aid is helping to restructure the country's agriculture, and a number of small industries are being planned.

The country hopes to become a full member of the United Nations this year. It has no desire to remain little more than a folklore museum or an interesting relic from ancient times, but is looking for a way to open itself to modern influences without the loss of traditional values.

The road which leads from the north of West Bengal in India, over 10,000-foot mountains to Bhutan's capital of Thimpu, has been made into an all-weather highway by India's Office for the Construction of Frontier Roads. There now is also regular air service to this country, which previously was accessible only by a journey of several days along narrow pony tracks. Financing for Bhutan's central economic planning comes primarily from India, which has approved the sum of 350 million rupees for the third five-year plan beginning in 1971.

Some additional support is provided by the Colombo Pact nations, Japan and Switzerland. In Gogona, a large facility for milk and cheese production was established with the aid of a Swiss cheesemaker by the name of Schulthess; he and his wife have been friends of the Bhutanese king for many years and this past autumn they visited the project along with the monarch.

Prior to 1961, only 2,600 of the estimated 800,000 inhabitants of Bhutan had attended primary school. Today, about 15,000 young Bhutanese are attending primary and secondary schools, where instruction is given both in English and in the national language, Dzongkha. The country's first bank, the Bank of Bhutan, was founded in 1968. While agriculture is still almost the country's only source of revenue, it is planned to establish several small industries in the coming years, particularly in the southern part of the country around Phuntsholling, near the Indian frontier.

In contrast to Nepal, which despite its close ties with India manages to play a kind of buffer role between India and China, Bhutan's emancipation policy is emphatically linked to India. In accordance with a treaty of 1949, its foreign policy is largely handled by Delhi and it maintains no direct official contacts with Peking. A group of young officials and military officers occasionally expresses impatience at the slow pace of emancipation from Indian patronage, but aside from some minor incidents this has not yet negatively affected relations between Bhutan and its huge neighbor to the southwest.

When Indian president Giri paid a state visit to Bhutan last spring, King Wangchuk emphasized the "very close religious, cultural and geographic ties" between the two countries, thanked his guest for India's "generous assistance" and declared that Bhutan would always look to India for leadership and inspiration, stating that "our fate is closely tied to that of India."

Bhutan is already a member of the Colombo Pact and the World Postal Union, issues its own stamps and, despite its monetary union with India, mints its own 50-paise coins. Efforts have been going on for some time to make Bhutan a UN member. On the one hand this is in keeping with the country's heightened national self-awareness, and at the same time the Bhutanese hope that membership in the world organization will provide at least a moral guarantee of their country's sovereignty. Bhutan's official request for membership in the UN was handed in on December 21 by India's UN ambassador Samar Sen in New York.

Previously, the foreign ministry in Delhi had declared its willingness to promote at any time Bhutan's application for membership and to provide financial and personnel support for a Bhutanese U.N. delegation. Bhutanese representatives have already participated as observers in sessions at the glass palace on the East River. In addition to its mission in New York, Bhutan is also planning to establish its first embassy in Delhi.

In 1968, the country's 43-year-old ruler, King Jigme Dorji Wangchuk, proposed to the Tsongdu, the indirectly elected legislature, constitutional reforms which would provide a kind of interim solution until the introduction of a genuine constitutional monarchy. The desire for democratization appears still rather slight among the people and legislators, and the newly-decreed measures will hardly change the actual power structure.

But King Wangchuk's intelligent move anticipates developments which may be expected at any rate in the course of modernization, thus laying the groundwork on the governmental level for an orderly transition into the modern age.

The changes, some of them decided upon last year, were set down in a document in the spring of 1970 which was duly signed by the king and all representatives to the parliament. In future, the Tsongdu is to vote by secret ballot every three years on whether the king may remain in office.

A group of at least one-third of the legislators may call for such a vote at any other time as well. A two-thirds majority of the 150 parliamentary members is required to depose the king — a revolutionary right for tradition-minded Bhutanese.

In such a case, the successor to the throne would be the next male or female heir in the Wangchuk royal family. If the new ruler is under 21 in the case of a man or under 23 in that of a woman, parliament is to designate a regency council consisting of one representative from each of the following groups: the royal dynasty, the monks, government officials and the general public.

The desire to strengthen Bhutan is also demonstrated by the present creation of a small domestic army, the training of which is partly the responsibility of an Indian military mission. Lately, Buddhist Bhutan is even training its bureaucrats in the use of firearms.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

House Check Fairly Easy

Inspectors used to go from door to door checking buildings for health, fire, or other violations. Until recently, they could enter buildings without a warrant.

But now, if the occupant refuses entry, our courts require them to get a warrant to look around inside. But to get a warrant is fairly simple. An inspector merely files an affidavit stating why he wants it. He need not show why he believes there are violations inside.

Unless the owner consents, even after a fire, say, in one part of the house, the inspector, who might find evidence of arson, must get a warrant to inspect the place.

Officers inspect some businesses such as pawn shops every day. Their owners keep records open and "consent" to inspection as a condition for staying in business.

An emergency always allows inspection without a warrant. For example, where there is not time for a warrant, an inspector may seize unwholesome food or make a health quarantine where health and safety demand action at once.

Public interest may justify regular inspections for fire, health, and safety, but not entry into one's home to "inspect." Our Constitution forbids "unreasonable" searches and seizures.

The law permits random inspection of cars at roadside to detect safety violations. But the officer may not search the car without a warrant. He cannot look into the glove compartment, under the seat, or elsewhere without permission.

Should he do so and find illegal items like narcotics or a gun, no court could admit such evidence. But an officer can see what is in plain sight or can follow up on suspicious behavior by people in the car and look for illegal items. Thus, suppose the driver stopped at a safety check, and moved furtively to hide something.

The police may ask about the action, and, if in order, can check to find what was hidden. But the police cannot stop cars at random to search them.

For example the police may not legally stop a car to check its registration if its license plates are fine. But if a car has broken lamps, is speeding, or there is other "good cause," the police may stop the car and investigate for these reasons.

Agency Acts To Uphold Sewer Order

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Water Resources Control Board has sustained an order directing the Fairfield-Suisun Sewer District to quit filling the atmosphere with foul odors from its sewage treatment plant.

The state agency acted Monday to uphold a cease and desist directive issued against the district by the San Francisco Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The board said "atmospheric odors" wafting from the plant near Suisun City exceeded tolerably limits and had been the target of complaints from adjacent citizens.

But at the same time, the board refused to sustain a provision of the regional board order which prohibited making any additional connections to the district's sewer system.

The effect of the agency's decision finds the district in violation of Water Quality Control Law but allows the district to make new connections on grounds that additional connections bore no relationship to the escaping of odors.

Driver's Condition Reported Good

A Marine injured in a two-car collision on Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley was reported in good condition today at Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco with a concussion.

Clifford I. Schench, 22, of Daly City, was injured at 5:45 p.m. Saturday when his car collided head-on with an auto driven by Joseph G. Stewart, 42, of Castro Valley, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Two 21-year-old passengers in Schench's car, David A. Ovellett and Jewel C. Brown Jr., both stationed at the Marine base at Treasure Island, also were treated at the hospital. Ovellett suffered scalp cuts and Brown suffered cuts of the forehead.

Tax Rate Increase Before Hub Trustees

Whether the San Anselmo School District should go to the voters for a tax rate increase or slash existing education programs to avoid deficit spending will be thrashed out among district trustees tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the library of Red Hill School.

District Supt. W. Kenneth Lowry has recommended the district ask voters to approve a tax override of between 80 and 90 cents on fiscal 1970-71 tax rate of $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation.

He had proposed consolidating the tax election with the April 20 trustee election. However, disagreement on the board delayed a decision and ended the possibility of consolidating the two.

Should the board agree tomorrow to go to an election it could be held late in June.

The superintendent maintains the override is needed because the district has depleted its reserves at a rate of more than $100,000 per year. He has estimated the district will start the fiscal 1971-72 year with a reserve of only $50,000. Thus, either the revenues must be increased or the district's programs reduced.

The superintendent's "blue sky budget" also will be presented tomorrow and is based on the assumption both the board and voters will approve an 85 cent increase to the tax rate.

An 85 cent increase would raise about $265,000 — $100,000 of which would pay for expenses previously paid out of reserve funds.

Greenbrae Report On Agenda

The Larkspur City Council, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall, will hear a report that upgrading street lighting in Greenbrae would cost about $35,000.

The amount was estimated by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. after several residents requested the city provide more lighting in that section of the city.

The city's staff will recommend that a special assessment district be formed to pay for the work if the residents are still interested.

The council also is expected to consider an ordinance amendment limiting uses in C-2, general commercial zones. The amendment would allow without condition retail shops and stores, offices and public services but would require use permits for such uses as gas stations, and car lots.

The agenda list other items for consideration as final architectural approval for the SDC shopping center at Doherty Drive and Magnolia Avenue, tape recording procedures and policies and an ordinance amendment extending from 40 to 50 days time the planning commission must act on an architectural review application.

Land Use Before Trustees

The possibility of leasing or selling two unused Reed School Districtuschool sites for commercial use will be discussed tonight when the school board meets at 8 o'clock at Bel Aire School.

Acting Assistant Supt. Lester Dunn said the 12.86-acre north-central site near Hacienda Drive and the 10-acre Ring Point site on Paradise Drive near Taylor Road may be put to short-term commercial use.

Dunn said he will have no specific recommendation to the board but merely will list the options available. No board decision on leasing or selling is expected tonight.

The options include building commercial structures which later could be converted to classrooms and building a combination school-office. Such uses may be allowed under the state education code, Dunn said. Sale of the sites also is possible.

Also on tonight's agenda is a report by Dunn on a possible 1971-72 budget surplus. Dunn said preliminary estimates show a $212,000 reserve fund, all or part of which could be used for tax relief or program expansion.

St. Nick Greeted By Big Bonfires

BATON ROUGE, Oa. (UPI)—Descendants of early French settlers on the banks of the Mississippi River in Louisiana celebrate Christmas Eve by lighting huge bonfires on the levees.

The custom is believed to have originated in the early 1800s by children who believed that St. Nick made his rounds down the Mississippi on a riverboat. The bonfires were to show St. Nick where to make his stops.

The Giant Cost Of Ending SST

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The government will spend just about as much money to terminate the supersonic transport program as it would cost to complete the project, SST Director William M. Magruder said Monday.

By the time the government pays off contracts and obtains rights to the SST, the money spent will nearly equal the $470 million estimated cost to build the plane, he told a news conference.

Magruder, here to woo private financial support to keep the project alive, said there is only a 100-to-1 chance of saving the project through private interests.

Government Proposes Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon Administration Tuesday proposed settling Alaskan native claims by the state's Indians, Eskimos and Aluets with 40 million acres of land and $1 billion.

Surface rights to the land would go to native villages and to outlying individuals, the money and mineral rights to the land would go to a new Alaska Native Development Corp. for use in benefitting the entire native population of the state.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said the proposed corporation would "invest its funds, make dividend payments, provide loans for home construction and other purposes that would promote native economic development, make other loans for education and health and welfare purposes, provide emergency or charitable grants or loans in time of distress and generally promote the economic interests of the Alaska native population."

Under the proposal submitted by Morton to the House and Senate, the Federal Government would contribute $25 million a year for 20 years to the corporation for a total of $500 million. In addition, the corporation would receive a two per cent royalty on mineral leases on both federal and state land in Alaska up to a total of $500 million, as well as all mineral rights to the 40 million acres apportioned to the natives.

Settlement of the long standing native claims would open the way for the State of Alaska to select 103 million acres of federal land.

The Federal Government owns about 95 per cent of the land and accompanying mineral rights in Alaska—some 348 million of the state's 365 million acres. When Alaska became a state in 1959 Congress gave it the right to select 103 million acres of the federal land, but the state's selection has been frozen for the past few years pending settlement of the native claim.

"We believe we have developed a plan that will honor our national trusteeship responsibilities to these more than 50,000 Americans whose claims predate the United States' acquisition of Alaska from Russia in 1867," Morton said.

The legislation proposed each of nearly 200 native villages receive surface rights to a minimum of 92,160 acres each. However, Tlinget-Hida villages would receive 23,040 acres each because they had received some under previous court proceedings.

Morton said in most cases each village would be entitled to the township of 23,040 acres in which it is situated plus three contigious townships selected by the village. In the case of villages located on lands tentatively approved for transfer to the State of Alaska, the surface rights for the natives would be land outside that area.

Inside the boundaries of wildlife refuges and naval petroleum reserve No. 4 in northern Alaska villages would receive rights to four townships but the mineral rights would not go to the development corporation. Instead, the corporation would be able to select mineral rights for four other townships outside the reserve areas.

Individual natives living outside the areas selected by the villages would be entitled to 160 acres each for their own use.

The corporation would be controlled by a 17 member board of directors, all of them natives, elected by the stockholders. Each Alaska native would receive 10 shares of stock.

Ferry Dispute To Span Board

A finding by the Golden Gate Bridge District's attorney that charges of bad management in collecting ferry fares involved a total of $12.45 in stolen tickets will be given district directors at 10 a.m. Friday in toll plaza offices.

The attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, refuted the charges by director Ben K. Lerer of San Francisco before the finance-auditing committee last Friday. Lerer had made the charges March 26, but was absent last Friday.

The finance-auditing committee will meet first at 9:30 a.m.

Not Per Capita

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting average earnings for Marin County residents were $13,861 per capita. The $13,861 was the average income tax return, whether filed jointly or individually.

'New' Senators Pull Out Rarity By Winning Their Season Opener

SENATOR VETOED — Mike Epstein of the Washington Senators was tagged out by Oakland catcher Dave Duncan on this first inning play yesterday in Washington. Epstein was trying to score on teammate Paul Casanova's single, but was thrown out by rightfielder Reggie Jackson. The Senators, however, made it safely across the plate several times later to post an 8-0 victory in the opening of the American League. (UPI Telephoto)

Astros, Braves Also Win; Most Teams Debut Today

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Washington Senatores may not really miss "the whole left side of their infield" this year.

All winter long the skeptics said that owner Bob Short made a mistake when he gave up "the whole left side of his infield" along with two pitchers to get Denny McLain.

But rookie Toby Harrah and shopworn veteran Joe Foy, who have replaced that "whole left side" (Ed Brinkman and Aurelio Rodriguez), had a sparkling day Monday as the Washington Senators kicked off the 1971 baseball season by blanking the Oakland Athletics 8-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Dick Bosman. And another Short find named Curt Flood had a fine day, too.

In the other two openers, the Atlanta Braves clobbered the Cincinnati Reds 7-4 and in an opening "day" game at night, Houston beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Sixteen more teams will swing into action today and the final two —Baltimore (which meets Washington) and the Chicago White Sox (who play a doubleheader at Oakland) wait until Wednesday to open their season.

In today's games, New York is at Boston, Cleveland is at Detroit, Kansas City is at California and Milwaukee is at Minnesota in the American League. In the National League, Montreal is at New York, Los Angeles is at Houston, Philadelphia is at Pittsburgh, San Francisco is at San Diego and St. Louis is at Chicago.

The Senators, who hadn't won the Presidential opener since 1962, scored two runs in each of the first two innings to thrill Vietnam veteran, Sgt. Danile Pitzer, who filled in for President Nixon and threw out the first ball. The President, who missed the first ball duty for the second straight year, is in California.

Harrah, who's replaced Brinkman at short, banged out two singles and walked and scored twice. Foy, who's replaced Rodriguez at third, added a sacrifice fly to the attack and he fielded the position without making an error. Foy's glove is the big question mark.

Flood, who was signed by Short after sitting out a season to battle the reserve clause, had a poor spring training. But he seemed to be in the groove Monday as he collected two walks, added a single and scored twice.

"I knew it would be hard to come back after the layoff and I'm not out of the woods yet," Flood said. "I need to feel a little more comfortable at the plate and have to get acclimated in the outfield."

Now the Senators are eagerly awaiting McLain's debut on Friday to find out if he can continue to make Short's moves look like charms.

Cincinnati's "Big Red Machine" —which started to crumble in last year's World Series —still is misfiring. Last year on opening day, Jim Merritt threw a three-hitter. This year he's still in Florida nursing his ailing arm and the Braves jumped on starter Gary Nolan and three relievers for seven runs and 12 hits. Wayne Granger suffered the loss in relief.

The Los Angeles Dodgers thought they helped themselves by acquiring Richie Allen and Duke Sims. But Allen went 0-for-4, struck out twice and stranded three runners while Larry Dierker scattered 10 hits to give Houston the victory. Sims got two hits but he was thrown out trying to stretch a double into a triple leading off the ninth inning.

Houston's Cesar Cedeno, one of the hottest young prospects in the majors, won a pair of watches by scoring the first run and collecting the first hit for Houston this year. He went 2-for-3 in the game. Denis Menke drove in three runs with a triple and a ground out for the Astros as Bill Singer took the loss.

Marichal To Pitch Opener

I-J Special Report

SAN DIEGO — Juan Marichal faces San Diego Padres righthander Tom Phoebus tonight as the San Francisco Giants invade San Diego Stadium in the National League opener for the two clubs. The game will be televised back to the Bay Area by KTVU, Channel 2, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Phoebus, obtained from the Baltimore Orioles during the winter, makes his debut against a team that last year finished third in the National League Western Division, 16 games behind the Cincinnati Reds. The Padres had a dismal year in 1970, winning only 63 games while losing 99. They finished 39 games back in last place in the Western Division.

Padre Manager Preston Gomez said he feels his club will make improvements over last year's record.

Giants' rookie Chris Speier might not be able to start at shortstop tonight because of a muscle spasm in his back. He spent yesterday in a whirlpool bath and planned more whirlpool treatments today.

If Speier can't play, Hal Lanier will move over from second base and Tito Fuentes will start at second, the same combination that finished last season. Alan Gallagher will start at third base with Willie McCovey at first.

In the outfield will be Ken Henderson in leftfield, Willie Mays in center and Bobby Bonds in right. Dick Dietz will be the catcher.

Carr Signs Cavaliers Contract

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Austin Carr, the "No. 1 college player in the country," Monday signed what was billed by Cleveland Cavaliers officials to be a five-year, no-cut contract to be paid over a 20-year period. Carr had been reported seeking $1.4 million.

The 6-foot-3 all-American from Notre Dame, who averaged 37.9 points per game over the past season, was the first man to go in the National Basketball Association college draft.

With his parents and two brothers on hand, Carr signed the contract following ceremonies at a downtown restaurant here in his first session with Cavaliers owner Nick Mileti and Coach Bill Fitch.

Mileti said the contract was "fitting for the No. 1 college player in the country."

After he was notified of his choice by Cleveland in the draft, Carr had said he liked Cleveland and preferred playing in the NBA.

"I like the whole situation in Cleveland," he said.

Both Mileti and Fitch had spent the weekend in Los Angeles meeting with their No. 2 draft choice, Steve Patterson.

PAIR OF VICTORIES

Marin Tar Nine Reaches Finals

That the College of Marin Tars won their first two games in the Diablo Valley Invitational baseball tournament is no surprise. But the way they won them is altogether incredible.

Chris Rowland, seeing his first action of the year, stopped American River J. C. of Sacramento on a scratch hit, for a 5-2 victory in the first game, and Stu Kneeland himself practically untried, beat Contra Costa of San Pablo, 6-4 in the nightcap to hoist the Tars into today's championship round.

At the end of the day,Marin was the only undefeated team left in the Easter vacation event in Concord. One team, American River, had been eliminated by losing twice, while Contra Costa and host Diablo Valley were both 1-1. Those teams were to play this morning for the right to meet the Tars at 1 p.m. for the title.

Rowland, out of San Rafael High School, didn't allow American River a hit until the seventh inning, by which time the Tars were leading for good. He had given the Beavers a pair of runs in the sixth through excessive wildness that resulted in four walks, but it wasn't until the next inning, when a ground ball took a bad hop on third baseman Mike Parnow, that he lost a spot in the record book.

The Tars were not overly productive themselves, collecting only six hits, but they made them count. The most important safety was a two rung single by first baseman Roger Offenback that knocked in two runs in the sixth. Rightfielder Larry Brazda contributed a pair of singles to the cause.

Rowland struck out 10 batters, but walked nine enroute to the victory. He was, in the words of Petreshene, "effectively wild."

Kneeland, unlike Rowland, was not toally inexperienced going into the tourney.He had a good two innings work in relief earlier in the year. But his effort too was remarkable, as he set the Comets down on just four hits; moreover, after giving up three runs in the first inning, he settled down to shut out Marin's Camino Norte Conference rivals in seven of the final eight innings.

The Tars came back to tie things with a three-run rally in the second keynoted by Rafael Gallardo's sixth home run of the year on the first pitch. Shortstop Steve Hendrickson and outfielder Frank Pomilia each smacked a single to aid the rally.

The Tars' position as the tourney's only unbeaten team is enviable, since they must lose twice this afternoon in order to be eliminated. On the other hand, all they need is a win in their 1 p.m. game to cinch the championship.

Foreman Signs For 15-Rounder

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California George Foreman, the World Boxing Association's No. 1 heavyweight contender, has signed for a 15-round fight May 3 against Greg Peralta of Argentina.

Lorine Cassena, president of K.O., Inc., of Las Vegas, said Monday the match will be held in Oakland and is one of three that will be shown on closed-circuit television in Canada and the United States.

Foreman, a native of Hayward, Calif. is a former Olympic heavyweight champion. He has gone undefeated in 27 fights and has 24 knockouts.

Peralta has a pro record of 79 wins, 7 losses and 6 draws.

The fight, which will be held at the Oakland Coliseum Arena, will be for the Pan American championship.

Ponies And Slide Rules Don't Mix

It was like "Old Home Day" at Golden Gate Fields in Albany Saturday. The Turf Club was jammed with Marin Countians — mainly groups from the Mt. Tamalpais Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, the Marin County Legal Secretaries Association and a tour from Wiltshire Towers in San Rafael.

Each of the groups had a race named in its honor and as a member of the Wiltshire Tour I was honored to be in the winner's circle with Shaun Wiltshire and his son, Tim, for the presentation of flowers to the winner of the second race, Breezy Banker. Did I say honored? I was downright delirious because I had a ticket on the Daily Double which Breezy Banker paid off. I kissed the horse, jockey Bryson Cooper and owner M. D. MacPherson and did cartwheels back up to the cashier's window. I even smooched the cashier. Boy, was HE embarrassed.

I did farily well the rest of the day, although I swear some of my horses were wearing training wheels or got lost somewhere in the backstretch.

Racing neophytes in our group used curious methods to pick horses. Some liked the color of the silks, some bet on only gray nags, others liked the name of the jockey. Then there was one gent, who shall remain anonymous. He used a slide rule with the Daily Racing Form, mixed it with some other mystic powers, and came home the biggest loser in our group of about 35 bettors.

Me? I bet the heavy favorites to "show" and came home loaded with dimes. Some of them "showed" after dark.

"Oh, no," groaned Bob Porter of San Rafael, "I think that's the one I bet on."

Although most of us had good seats high above the finish line, with a sumptuous buffet table at our disposal, others preferred the comfort of the lounge, there to sit and sip and view the races via the closed-circuit television.

Our day started at 10:45 a.m. aboard Wiltshire's famous red English double-decker bus for the jolly 30-minute drive to the horse emporium.

I grabbed an upper level seat to soak up the view on the beautiful spring day and was thankful that a majority favored the lower deck, there to provide ballast.

"Watch your glasses everyone," warned Laverne Robinson, "there's a big bump ahead." Mrs. Robinson, whose husband Clyde drives the jolly transit, is familiar with the road to the East Bay for she supervises the passengers on the top deck for all of Wiltshire's tours to the Oakland Raider games. Sort of a mobile den mother.

The sign at the front of the bus warns: "No Spitting On The Floor — Offenders Will Be Prosecuted." Right sanitary, those Britons, eh what?

At the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge the rear door opens, Shaun Wiltshire emerges to present the collector with coins plus a six-pack of Fresca and a roaring rendition of "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow." The toll collectors love to see that bus.

In the huge parking lots of the stadia Wiltshire frequents it's difficult to get lost. I mean, all Greyhounds look alike, but you can hardly miss that big twin-decker which draws curious stares and laughs from passersby.

For it's a jolly good transit, for it's a jolly good transit. . .

Masters Practice For Jack

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—The rest of the Masters field better buckle down to some serious practice today: Big Jack is back in town.

Jack Nicklaus, favored to win his fourth Masters golf title—thus completing half his "grand slam" try and move to within one of Bobby Jones record of 13 major crowns—returned from a couple days rest at his Florida home and announced his game is at the same point it was just before he won the PGA championship a little over a month ago.

"I've had a good week of golf," Nicklaus said of his practice on the Augusta National Course after he shot a 4-under-par 68 on Sunday. "I usually go home a day earlier, but I wanted to wait until I was sure my game was in shape."

Nicklaus first won here in 1963 while only 23 years of age, shot a Masters' 72-hole record 271 in 1965 and became the only man to win two Masters back-to-back when he beat Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer in a three-way playoff in 1966. Brewer won here the next year.

Nicklaus, now 31, won his second U. S. Open in 1967 and then didn't win another major title until last summer when he captured the British Open for the second time. When he won the PGA this past February, he became the first man ever to win all four major titles at least twice each and said he had set his mind to surpassing Jones.

Nicklaus blamed his three-year major tournament victory drought on "complaceny" and said he "readjusted my thinking because I was tired of losing in the big ones."

Nicklaus was displeased with his first two practice rounds here last week when he went 74-73, but then pulled it all together to go nine under his last three rounds with 67-72-69.

"If I can shoot that sort of golf here this week, I'll have no complaints," said Nicklaus. "No complaints at all."

It was just as well that Nicklaus hadn't planned to practice here Monday afternoon. Rain, which had threatened all morning, began falling around 1:30 p. m. EST and by mid-afternoon was quite steady. The weatherman warned that there is a 40 per cent chance that practice will be plagued by rain again today.

Nicklaus planned only nine holes today and said, weather permitting, he would try to get in 18 holes Wednesday morning before the Augusta National is closed for its final pre-tournament trimming.

Only a handful of the other 76 Masters entrants were here with Nicklaus last week. Most flew in Monday in a chartered plane from Greensboro, N. C., where they completed a tournament Sunday.

EASTER TOURNAMENTS

San Rafael Nine Blasts Foes, 12-0

San Rafael High School scored nine times in the fifth inning and went on to destroy Granada High of Livermore, 12-0 yesterday in the opening round of the John Swett Invitational baseball tournament in Crockett.

Meanwhile, two of three teams from the Marin County Athletic League were eliminated in the Santa Rosa Invitational, and other MCAL teams playing in Easter vacation tourneys had mixed luck.

San Marin of Novato, like San Rafael, won big with a 13-4 pasting of Analy of Sebastopol in the opening round of the Healdsburg Invitational, and Tamalpais of Mill Valley also hit the jackpot with a 5-2 win over Wilson of San Francisoc in the Terra Nova tourney. On the losing side, Redwood of Larkspur got clobbered by Roosevelt of Fresno, 11-1 in the opening round of the Fresno Invitational.

Mike Spezzi went all the way on the mound for San Rafael, allowing Granada only four hits while his teammates gave him ample backing. Dirk Gansloser, the Bulldogs' premier centerfielder, belted a three-run home run and two singles for five runs batted in to lead the assault; Dave Urquhart had four singles for San Rafael, and Rick Klarkowski had two singles and a double.

The Drake Pirates, who lost to Novato in the MCAL opener last week, came back to defeat the Hornets 6-2 behind the pitching of Lex Rzepelia and a two run homer in the fifth by catcher Mike Bauman. But the Pirates of San Anselmo lost their second game, 7-1 to Vallejo, and thus were eliminated.

Novato won its second game, 11-5, over Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, to stay alive in the tourney's losers' bracket.

Terra Linda lost twice, to Petaluma, 8-1 and to St. Mary's of Berkeley, 7-3. In the Petaluma game, the Trojans of the MCAL tied things at 1-1 in the top of the fourth, only to have the Trojans of the North Bay I League blow it open with five runs in the bottom of that inning. Petaluma went on to edge Santa Rosa, 2-1 and thereby gain today's championship bracket.

San Marin used three pitchers — Len Hoffman, Jim Learch and Ken Siler — to secure the win that moves them into the championship bracket at Healdsburg. The Mustangs scored four runs in both the first and last innings, getting a triple along the way by Dave Ilchert, and doubes by Jack Burnam and Greg Mazeres.

Mike Dawson and Alton Hardy combined to throw a two-hitter as Tam beat Wilson. The Indians led most of the way, scoring twice in the third to go ahead,

FISH AND GAME

Angling Fee Policy For Water Districts

By AL GIDDINGS

The new fishing fee to be charged by the Marin Municipal Water District is subject to certain standards recently enacted by the Fish and Game Commission. The Department of Fish and Game, under regulations and standards set by the Commission, makes plants of catchable trout in many of the public owned waters of the state. In Marin County, waters planted are Phoenix, Lagunitas, Bon Tempe, Alpine and Kent lakes. The DFG, through the fishing license fees, receives monies from all fishermen to help defray these fish planting costs.

The MMWD has in the past charged a $5 fishing permit fee which helps defray the costs of patrol, cleanup, parking problems, rest rooms, maintenance, etc. around the lake areas used by the fishermen. To standardize these charges, the Fish and Game Commission has set a fee policy.

Mr. Frank Hubbard, the public information officer of the Fish and Game Commission has set a fee policy.

Mr. Frank Hubbard, the public information officer of the Fish and Game Department for Region 3, sent me the details of the charges. Here are the charges in accordance with the fishing policy:

The District can charge 25 cents per day per person to someone who does not drive his car onto district lands;

The District can issue an annual permit, but it cannot require anyone to purchase an annual permit;

The District can put a reasonable limit on the number of people entering in one vehicle (to prevent people from loading up a Volkswagen van or similar vehicle and coming in on the $1 per vehicle charge.)

The District cannot charge both a vehicle fee and a per person fee. (It cannot charge $1.50 for a vehicle with two people in it.)

A RECENT release on "Fin Fish" and "Bag and Possession Limits" by the Marine Enforcement Headquarters, Menlo Park, or Region 6 of the DFG has been made. It reads: In discussing the new regulations regarding bag and possession limits on fin fish, there seems to be some confusion as to what constitutes fin fish plus possession limits.

As to what is a fin fish: Generally any ocean fish with fins. A review of "Fish Bulletin No. 91. Common Ocean Fishes of the California Coast," with special reference to pages 174 through 179, should clarify this question.

Regards to bag and possession limits, the intent of the Commission in section 62, T. 14 was for an overall total of 15 fish with not more than 10 of any one species. (Rockfish the exception) with no limits on certain fish listed in this section.

AS AN EXAMPLE: A fisherman may take and possess 8 rockfish, 3 salmon and 4 lingcod for a total of 15 fish, or 10 rockfish, 2 halibut, 1 salmon, 2 lingcod for 15 fish, or 15 rockfish in any combination of their species.

Another example: A fisherman may take 10 red tailed perch and five silver perch for his 15 limit.

LAST WEDNESDAY I had the afternoon off. I called Ralph Chatoian, one of the sports writers at the I-J, to come out for a try at perch at Tomales. It was windy, so we didn't get out! (He edits my columns, so this is my way of telling him what happened the next morning!) I took Sam Knoles who has only landed about five fish in San Pablo Bay since last November! He needed a "pickup" in this fishing business! So did I! .

We started fishing at 11 a.m., it was a minus .4 tide. We fished from a boat from the Golden Hinde Boatel at Inverness, just off Millerton Point almost directly across from the yacht club. We were in about four feet of water. We had fish on from about 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. e boh used flyros with small shrimp for bait on a No. 2 hook with a half-ounce sliding sinker. We caught two stripers, eleven red tailed perch, seventeen yellow tailed perch and three leopard sharks. The stripers weighed 4 and 4½ lbs. Sam had a ball! The perch will stay another month or so and it's worth going! (Sorry, Ralph!)

Marin Prep Golfers Nab Top 3 Spots

Marin County Athletic League golfers grabbed the top three spots in individual scoring, but Ukiah High School edged Terra Linda by a single stroke for the team championship yesterday at the second annual Terra Linda High School Invitational golf tournament at San Geronimo National.

Art Cudworth of the host Trojans shot a 75 on the par 72 layout to come in first place, two strokes ahead of Rick Goldfien of Tamalpais and three in front of San Rafael's Mike Dorias. Another Terra Linda player, Gary LaRocca, finished fifth, but he and Cudworth weren't enough to keep Ukiah from winning the tourney, 415-416.

Third place in the team standings went to Lowell of San Francisco, whose top player, Gary Boatwright, came in sixth. The Indians had 423, followed by Montgomery of Santa Rosa with 427. Among MCAL teams, San Rafael took fifth, Tam seventh, Novato eighth and Redwood 13th.

San Rafael Boy Wins Lift Title

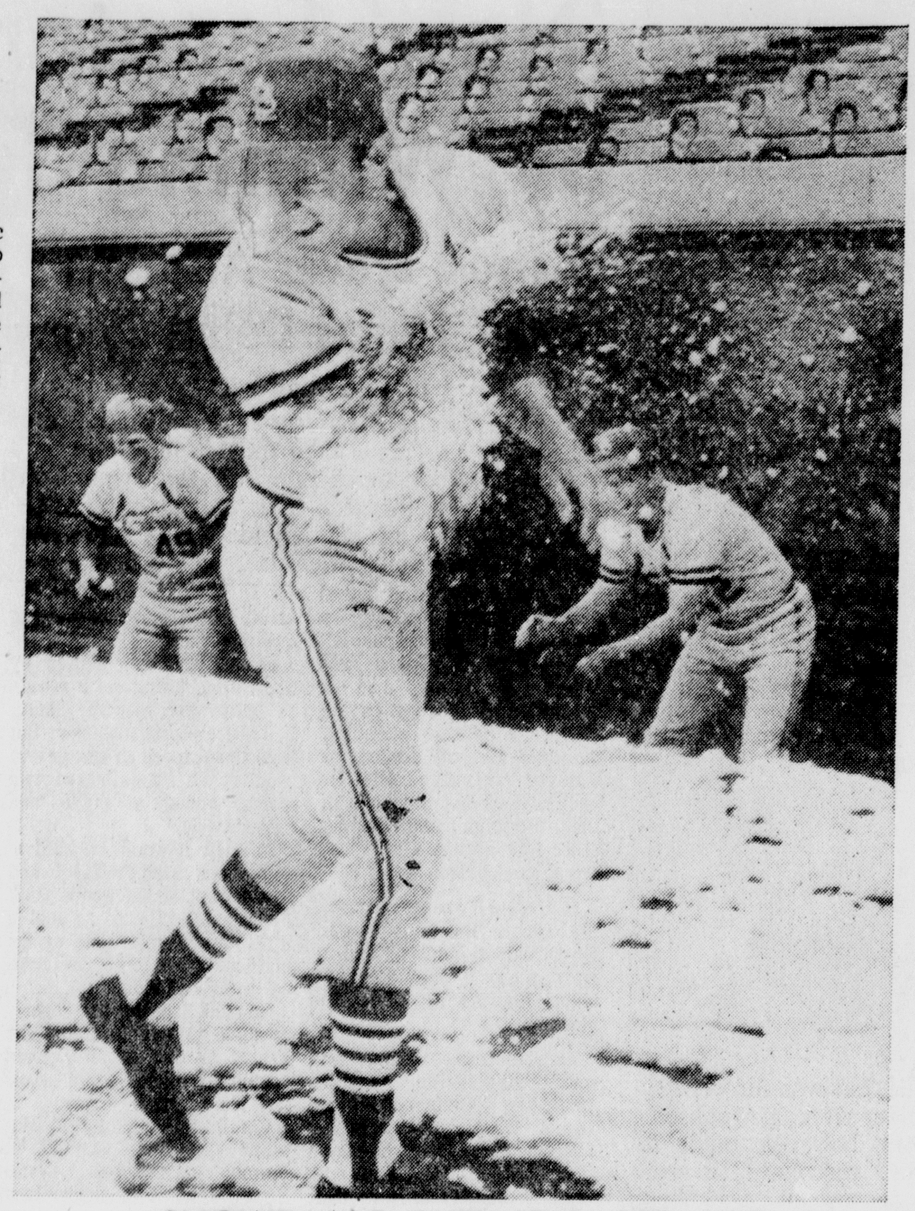
The 107-pounder pressed 100 pounds, snatched 90 and clean and jerked 125 for a total of 315 pounds.

Greg's brother, David Gottlieb Jr., 15-year-old student at San Rafael High School, placed second in his 131-pound weight division. He pressed 150, snatched 135 clean and jerked 185 for a 470 total.

Both boys represented the MarVel Athletic Club.

Petty Is Best

NEW YORK (UPI)—Richard Petty, winner of this year's 500-mile stock car races at Daytona Beach and Rockingham, N.C., was named top performer Monday in the first phase of the Martini and Rossi American Driver of the Year award balloting. Three more voting sessions will be conducted by a panel of automotive sports writers before the end of the season. The winner receives $7,500 and a trophy.



SNOWBALLS, BUT NO BASEBALLS

Snowballs instead of baseballs were in order at St. Louis yesterday where the Cardinals had to cancel their scheduled workout preparatory to today's opening National League game against the Cubs in Chicago. Here, Cardinal outfielder Bob Burda, formerly of the San Francisco Giants, is hit with a splattering snowball in a battle with pitcher Jerry Reuss (left) and first baseman Joe Hague (right). Two inches of snow covered the astroturf in the stadium.

Tam, Redwood Stars Lead Marin League

Gerald Robertson and his Tamalpais High School teammates continue this week to dominate the top performance chart in Marin County Athletic League track and field, while Paul Cane of Redwood High is staging a one-man show in MCAL swimming statistics.

Teamwise, Terra Linda, undefeated through seven meets, has a stranglehold on the individual swimming statistics, with two men, Thom Guthrie and Rick DeMont, holding two top marks apiece. But Cane, a junior for the second place Giants of Larkspur, has the best times in three events.He has been clocked in 2:09.1 in the 200-yard individual medley, 59.1 in the 100 butterfly and 1:06.0 in the 100 breaststroke.

Robertson once again has the best marks in three events — the 120 high and 180 low hurdles, and the high jump, where his MCAL record leap of 6-5¼ stands currently as third best in the Bay Area.

Three other performers hold best times in two events. Mike Arago, Robertson's teammate, is the best miler and two-miler in the league, while Chakra Chappell of San Marin has a corner on the 440 and 880. Paul Crovo of San Rafael has run the fastest 220 to date, and is tied with Al Schlette of Tam for the best mark in the 100.

Best Performances in 1971 MCAL Track and Field:

100-yard dash — Paul Crovo (San Rafael), Al Schlette (Tamalpais), 10.2; 120-yard high hurdles — Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 15.0; 180-yard low hurdles — Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 20.5; 220-yard dash — Paul Crovo (San Rafael), 23.0; 440-yard run — Chakra Chappell (San Marin), 51.9; 880-yard run — Chakra Chappell (San Marin), 1:57.5; Mile run — Mike Arago (Tamalpais), 4:30.6; 2 Mile run — Mike Arago (Tamalpais), 9:39.7; Shot put — Bill La Haye (Terra Linda), 51-1; Discus — Jim Puskar (San Rafael), 151-0; Pole vault — Mark Lewis (MC), 12-6; Long jump — Greg Biber (Tamalpais), 21-½; High jump — Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 6-5¼; Triple jump — Downing, (Tamalpais), 41-1; 440 relay — San Rafael, 44.5; Mile relay — San Marin, 3:34.1.

Top MCAL Swimming Times For 1971:
200 Medley Relay — Terra Linda (Ellington, Strange, Knowles, Guthrie), 1:45.7; 200 Free — Rick DeMont (TL), 1:51.6; 200 I.M. — Paul Cane (R), 2:09.1; 50 Free — Thom Guthrie (TL), 23.1; Diving — John Summerfield (N), 260.35; 100 Fly — Paul Cane (R), 59.1; 100 Free — Thom Guthrie (TL), 51.5; 400 Free — Rick DeMont (TL), 3:56.1; 100 Back — Roger Rechsteiner (N), 1:01.4; 100 Breast — Paul Cane (R), 1:06.0; 400 Free Relay — Redwood (Cane, Brockbank, Humber, Hennessy), 3:32.0.

7 Marin Swimmers In National Meet

Denise Ham of the Marin Aquatic Club leads Marin County qualifiers for the Short Course National Swimming Championships, getting underway tomorrow in Pullman, Wash.

Miss Ham will swim four individual events and three relays for the MAC.

According to Coach Don Swartz, the seven girls representing Marin County in the meet probably embody Marin's finest aquatic contingent ever to a meet of this caliber.

Miss Ham, the veteran among the girls in her third National championship, probably constitutes the best individual chance at a high placing for the MAC. Denise, off a first place finish in the Southern California Invitational two weeks ago, is rated a potential finalist in the 200-yard Breaststroke.

Another of the MAC's chances for a high placing comes in the 800 Free Relay, where Anne Engle, Kimi Fox, Jo Hislop, and Miss Ham, have, in the opinion of Swartz, a "good, solid chance" to finish among the top 16 teams. This same quartet also will swim the 400 Free Relay.

Swartz notes that Miss Hislop also has a good chance to place individually in one of her four events, particularly in her specialty, the 200 Freestyle.

Sue Secondo and Kim Hughes have also made the very fast qualifying times, in the 200 Breaststroke and 100 Backstroke, respectively. Sue and Kim, joined by Misses Hislop and Ham, comprise the MAC's 400 Medley Relay.

Also competing in the meet is Robin Bachrach of the Dolphins of Marin, Coached by Art Octavio.

According to Swartz, the Short Course Nationals is one of the two top meets of the year, and its prestige has increased in 1971, since the two top qualifiers in most events win a place on the United States' Pan American Games team. Swartz feels that Miss Ham would have to take about six seconds off her best time to win the breaststroke spot. He observes that last year in the Long Course National meet in the summer, she did take six seconds off her previous best in the 200 Butterfly, and that there is an outside chance that Denise an all-around swimmer, may do a similar thing this year.

Motor Sports Club Schedules Event April 18

Golden Gate Motor Sports Club of San Rafael today announced plans to participate in the sixth annual nationwide Rally Day USA — 1971, scheduled Sunday, April 18.

Profits from the $3 per car entry fee will be donated to Marin General Hospital to help the purchase of a linear accelerator, said R. D. Wissink, publicity director for the local club.

He added that the San Rafael road rally will be one of 250 similar events throughout the nation, with approximately 20,000 cars expected to participate. The local event will start from Lyons-Ryan Ford and will follow a course yet to be announced.

No special equipment or experience will be necessary to compete for trophies, Wissink added.

the leading money winner on this year's pro golf tour with earnings of nearly $100,000, skipped the Greater Greensboro Open but did his practicing last week at his Orlando, Fla., golf course. Playing here alone Monday, Palmer got in nine holes in the rain.

"There are too many intangibles," said Casper, only golfer besides Palmer and Nicklaus to win more than a million dollars playing golf. "Wait until Sunday evening to ask me about my chances."

Casper, who played in 13 Masters before winning for the first time last year by beating Gene Littler in a playoff, knows only too well what can happen here. He led through the first three rounds of the 1969 Masters only to lose by a stroke to George Archer.

"It's often a state of mind," mused the 39-year-old Casper, who is down 10 pounds to 195 after dieting again. "When I lost the Masters two years ago it was because I was playing too conservative when I was ahead. In this last PGA, I waited too long to make my bid."

Browns' Modell Raps NFL Probe

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Cleveland Browns president Art Modell, called a second time before a federal grand jury investigating the National Football League, says "the whole thing was started by a group of malcontents, publicity seekers, people with axes to grind and persons writing books."

"Somebody talked the federal government into holding these probes," Modell said on emerging from a session with the jury Monday as it resumed the hearings recessed since March 10.

"I'm sure this whole thing is a fishing expedition," he said, adding it was "wasting the taxpayers' money."

Tennis

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Stan Smith, of Pasadena, Calif., playing an almost flawless game, beat top-seeded Cliff Richey Monday to capture the men's single championship in the 19th Caribe Hilton international tennis tournament.

Smith, seeded second, had Richey off balance through two straight sets to win 6-3, 6-3.

Track And Field

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Philadelphia Eagles back John Carlos was told Monday to submit in writing his request for reinstatement as an amateur so he can compete in an upcoming track meet.

Carlos, world record holder in the 100 and 200-yard sprints, was denied the application form when he went to the office of the Amateur Athletic Union.

He says if he's denied amateur reinstatement, a court battle is in the offing as well as an appeal to the International Amateur Athletic Union.

Mill Valley Girls Softball Signups

The newly formed Mill Valley Bobby Sox Softball League for girls 9 to 15 will hold a registration session Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Mill Valley Recreation Center.

There will also be a signup Monday, 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the recreation center. Girls should be accompanied by a parent or guardian and must provide proof of birthdate.

ABA Champs Are Hungry To Repeat

By United Press International

The Indiana Pacers are hungry to repeat and the Memphis Pros are paying the price.

The Pacers, the American Basketball Association defending champions, stopped the Pros 91-90 Monday night to take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven playoff series.

Fred Lewis scored 23 points and Billy Keller hit two foul shots for the victory margin. Indiana led 89-88 when Keller dropped in his two foul shots. A last second basket by the Pros' Gerald Govan cut the margin to one point.

Roger Brown and Mel Daniels each added 18 points for Indiana while Steve Jones led Memphis with 31.

In tonight's action, Utah tries to wrap up its series against Texas. The winner of the Texas-Utah playoff plays the Indiana-Memphis winner for Western honors. Virginia is at New York to try to improve on its 2-0 advantage and Kentucky takes on the Floridians. The Colonels lead 2-0 in that series.

MOON MULLINS

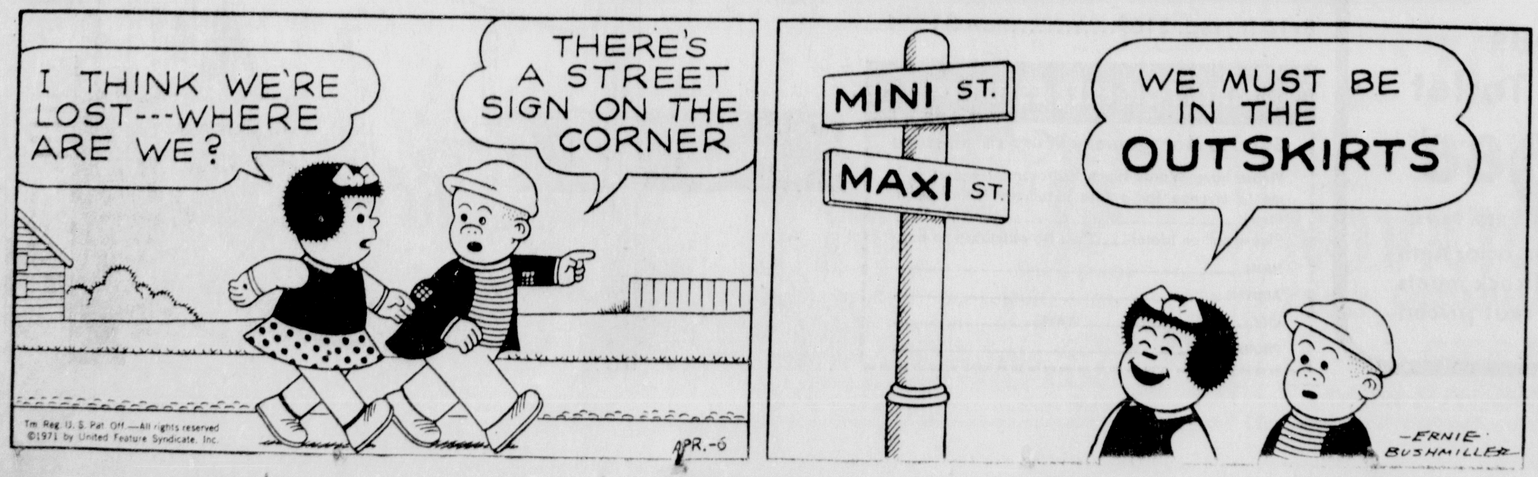
NANCY



ALMANAC

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, April 6, the 96th day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Vhnus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

American magician Harry Houdini was born April 6, 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1830 Joseph Smith organized the Church of the Latter Day Saints, better known as the Mormon Church, in Fayette, N.Y.

In 1909 Robert Peary became the first civilized man to reach the North Pole.

In 1968 federal troops and National Guardsmen were ordered out for riot duty in Chicago, Washington and Detroit. Negroes continued rioting and looting in several cities in protest to the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr.

A thought for today: The Greek poet Hesiod said, "A bad neighbor is as great misfortune as a good one is a great blessing."

40-Plus Center

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An organization here called 40 Plus of Southern California helps men over 40 find new jobs. Applicants must be executive caliber and have earned a minimum of $12,000 a year for five years before becoming unemployed.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

South Finds Way To Go Down By Misplaying Of Two Suits

"Bridge is a difficult game," South sighed after failing to make his game contract on the hand shown today. "All I needed was one trick, and I have to listen to lectures on when to hold up. If anybody else had played the hand, he'd have gone down, just as I did. And then I'd have been giving the lectures instead of listening to them."

LOW SPADE

West opened the six of spades, East put up the jack, and South won with the ace. There was a chance to win all three spade tricks, South thought, and he saw no reason to give up this possibility.

Declarer led a diamond at the second trick and tried a finesse with dummy's jack, losing to the queen. Back came the eight of spades, and South put up the ten.

South let West hold the trick with the queen, but this delayed hold-up didn't help. West continued with a spade to dummy's king and regained the lead with a diamond in time to defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

DOUBLE ERROR

South found a way to go down by misplaying two suits. After taking the first trick with the ace of spades, South could have recovered by taking a really deep finesse with the eight of diamonds.

This would lose to the nine, and the defenders would set up their spades. Declarer could then get to his hand with the club and lead a diamond to finesse with dummy's jack. This would lose to the queen, of course, but East would be unable to lead a spade. The rest of the diamonds would be good when declarer eventually led the ace of diamonds.

NOT NECESSARY

Careful play of the diamonds would have been unnecessary if South had refused the first spade trick. East would lead another spade, and South would take the ace. When East then won the first diamond he would be unable to lead a spade.

South would have all the time he needed to develop an extra diamond trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - Q 9 7 6 2
♥ - J 7 4
♦ - K 10 5
♣ - 9 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

Since you have only six points in high cards, you know that the combined count is only 24 points at most. This is seldom enough to afford a sound play for game. There is no need to seek the safety of a trump suit since you have values in three suits. let partner play an easy hand.

For Construction

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—During World War II, some 60,000 German and Japanese prisoners of war were used in construction work in the Los Angeles area, and others were used throughout the state to supplement Mexican nationals brought into the country to harvest California crops.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Tax Question On Foreign Investor

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My grandmother, who is a citizen of the Netherlands, recently purchased shares of National Distillers and Transamerica. Will she have to file a U.S. income tax or pay other U.S. taxes? — R. V.

A. Foreign investors who are not "engaged in trade or business" in the U.S. — Class I investors — are generally taxed at a 30 per cent rate on income from investments. However, certain nations have negotiated tax treaties. The Netherlands being one enjoys a 15 per cent rate. No U.S. income tax need be filed by your grandmother since the tax is deducated at the source.

In order to qualify as a Class I investor she must not perform personal services or sell merchandise in the U.S. nor can she benefit from a trust which is considered to be "engaged in trade or business" in this country. Class I foreign investors are not taxed on capital gains unless more than 183 days are spent in the U.S. during a particular year.

Q. I have several Trans World Airlines 10s of 1985. The price dropped severely last summer but has now recovered to near 95. Do you think this company can continue to pay bond interest as due or should I sell now? — J. M.

A. Price recovery here is one reliable indication that the market doesn't anticipate any Penn Central-type disaster. It should be noted, however, that the market has stopped short of total confidence, since this 10 per cent bond is trading 10 to 12 points below other more secure BBB 10 per cent bonds.

While operations plunged steeply in 1970, with losses totaling $64 million, TWA's cash position from internally generated funds and from the balance of a $150 million revolving credit agreement, is adequate to carry it through this crisis.

In addition, substantial reductions in operating costs have been and are continuing to be made. Rate increases — just approved by the CAB — on international flights will add $22.3 million to annual revenue according to the company and will be instrumental in reversing the deficit.

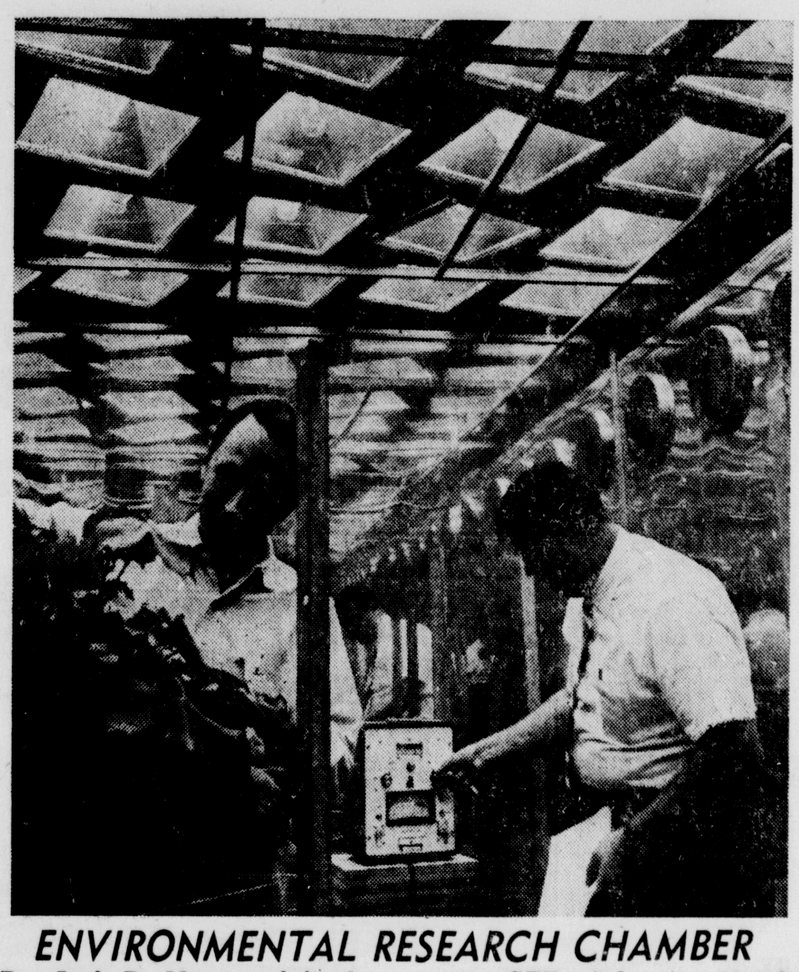
$1 Million Search

SHERMAN OAKS, Calif. — (BW) — Serendipity Inc. through its Alaska Geological Consultants subsidiary, has received a contract in excess of $1,000,000 to manage a soil and geological exploratory program for the proposed Trans-Alaska pipeline.



ENVIRONMENTAL RESEARCH CHAMBER

Housing Expert Sees Increase Short of Need

NEW YORK — (BW) — The fuse has been lit for the long awaited explosion in housing construction, an executive of one of the nation's largest home building and general construction firms said recently.

"The only problem is," said Frank M. Crossen, president of Dallas-headquartered Centex Corp., "We're not exactly sure yet about the length of the fuse. Although most factors indicate the explosion is imminent, the full force could be delayed for a year or more."

Crossen, making his remarks before a meeting of the New York Society of Security Analysts, predicted housing starts in 1971 would approximate 1.8 million, up some 300,000 over 1970 but still 200,000 short of national needs as indicated by census figures.

Hot Sales Period For Chrysler Corp.

DETROIT — (BW) — Chrysler Corp. reported its. U.S. new passenger car sales of 65,745 in the final selling period of the month were 14 per cent greater than the 57,625 of a year ago.

The company said this was the highest car sales for any period of the calendar year or model year, and was the best period in the last 18 months.

TWA Calls 747 'A Mixed Bag'

SAN FRANCISCO — (BW) — Marking the first full year of Boeing 747 operations here this week, Trans World Airlines termed the airplane "a mixed bag of success and bum raps."

According to Bonham M. Fox, San Francisco vice president for sales and services, the 747 has settled into a "routinely reliable airplane with high customer appeal" following the highly publicized mechanical difficulties in the first months of operation.
